The return of the full skirt is acknowledged everywhere—and with it, the emphasis on crisp or heavy fabrics that look as if they could stand by themselves; that whisper and rustle as the models glide swiftly down the room. The slim waistlines, the curved bodice treatments, the revealing low necklines all indicate the Paris designers' intention of making women look their most beautiful, their most feminine this coming winter.

Skirt lengths remain about the same, except in the case of late afternoon dresses which are somewhat longer than the lengths prescribed for less dressy types.

The Paris couture has been inspired by the Directoire and 1880 periods when women's fashions reached new heights of elegance. Especially in millinery do we see this influence, with scoop bonnets and saucy toques in modernized versions — and ostrich plumes waving everywhere. In fact, 1951 will probably go down in fashion history as the year of the ostrich!

Fitted Coat

The fittted coat has made a triumphant return in the new collections, endorsed by Dior, Desses, Balenciaga and others. And almost invariably the hemlines flare out gracefully. Again, the coat and dress ensemble expresses the costume idea which has prevailed in the Paris collections for several seasons now.

Although the short evening dress continues, it is the long ball gowns that leave the audiences gasping at the openings. Done in the most lavish of fabrics and with a wealth of jeweled and embroidered embellishment. they presage a holiday season of regal elegance. Velvets, satins, lames and brocades with the beauty of tapestries are the favored fabrics. Again the stole enhances many of the baretop gowns.

Added Jewel Tones

Jewel tones make the big color impression, especially in the after-five fashions where sapphire blues, ruby reds, emerald greens rival a Rue de la Paix jeweler's window. Black—ever the favorite of the Paris couture—is done with great elegance throughout the collections.

In coats, the heavily napped poodle type fabrics give new depth to black, and invite the contrast of rich "surprise" linings. Rhinestones and colored stones blaze everywhere.

The mannequins at the famous couture houses wear rhinestone jewels lavishly—and the big brooch is the most versatile of all jewel pieces, appearing on everything from coats to ball gowns.

The coiffures, worn by the mannequins at the top houses, are always significant of trends that will have widespread repercussions. Many of the models have adopted the American "horse tail" coiffure, drawn back tightly. A fall of short ringlets down the back of the head, starting at the top and covering the nape, reflects the hairdo's of the 1880 period. Centre parts and brushed back sides are the favorites, showing off elaborate earrings to good advantage.

And, throughout Canada, women will soon be reaping the benefits of this fanatical devotion to what, here in Paris, at least—is certainly one of the liveliest of the arts.

Yes, Paris celebrates her 2,000th birthday with fashions worthy of her great reputation, and gives to the women of the world the gifts of Beauty and Elegance for the fall and winter of 1951 and 1952.

Sheared Racoon Remains Newest In Fur Coats

Imaginations are working overtime on next winter's fur coats.

The go-everywhere coat, suitable for day or evening seems to be the favorite. Most are three-quarter length, with casual pyramid lines, the shoulders natural but not sloping.

Newest in furs is still the sheared raccoon, said to have the practical wearing qualities of the old coon coat, with a new softness and elegance. Of the two shown, one was in brownish nutria tones and one in honey color. A collegiate group showed that the full striped raccoon is still in favor there.

Other coats with a young air were the kidkins, one lined in a bright small plaid, and another in shocking pink. A three-quarter length natural flank muskrat was made in a casual style to suit the college or business girl.

Collars seen were all small, softly rolled or stand-up. A midnight blue Persian lamb had a mandarin neckline with almost no collar, but big silver-blue mink cuffs. It was worn with a black velvet coolie hat giving the newest Chinese-Parisian effect.

Sleeves were most easy with big deep cuffs that can be rolled up to bracelet length. One rolled up to show a sequin-embroidered lining. The newer chicken-leg sleeves, fairly full to the elbow and tapered to the wrist, turned up in a black Persian and a mink-trimmed Alaska seal.

Glamor in the medium price class was achieved in a soft brown otter and a black electric seal with otter trim.

Two very young models wore a white bunny outfit, complete with muff, and a brown coney on princess lines.

PIONEER SETTLEMENT

Portland Point at the mouth of the St. John River in New Brunswick was the first English settlement in that area.

GREY FLANNEL looked good last fall. It looks even better this fall, particularly when it's teamed with accessories in felt. The felt might be grey, like the flannel, or it might be mauve, gold, French pink, camel tan or Oxford tweed. Whatever, shoes and hats in felt make a teenager's dish. The Louis heel, that small and gracefully-shaped heel, is good for every age this year. It has the grace of a high heel and the comfort of a walking heel. It's shown in shoes for teenagers, too. Chamois-colored merrimac felt in beret and pumps is worn (left) with a dark blue suit that's piped in the chamois. Pumps are simple and low cut. Other pumps in fur felt (right) are dusty gold, tied in kid. They're worn with a veiled felt baby bonnet in the same color, ideal accessories for the full velveteen skirt, the jersey blouse.

Blouses Sparkle With Color Elegant Trims

For every time of day, for every occasion, blouse fashions are inspired to become the better part of your costume.

Brilliant colors are again and again emphasized to sparkle with the smoked shades of new fall suits and skirts. Citron, cranberry, nickel grey, antique gold—are the colors shown in fine tissue failles, crepes and even sheers.

Always—favored black and white with varied neckline and sleeve treatments, lead the blouse show with new and beautiful elegance.

Classic plaid cottons, lingerie type blouses, strapless soiree blouses, lavishly beaded or embroided blouses, all have their important places for fall.

Nylons, pure silks and crisp tissue taffetas enter into the blouse—and themes with a distinguished, elegant air.

IT LOOKS LIKE FUR and feels like fur but it's really a clever imitation in viscose rayon. The matched set consists of bonnet, scarf and mitts.

Fall Fashions -- As Canadians Interpret Them

Skirts will be longer this fall, with the hemline midway between calf and ankle, and milady's costume will hark back to long ago with as full skirts over stiff crinoline petticoats.

A Canadian Press survey of the autumn fashion prospects found designers excited over new fabrics —curled, looped, furry, hairy or brushed—with warmth built in and weight left out. These materials find their way into coats of the "pared pyramid" cut, featuring controlled folds that swing from side to side instead of jutting out.

Montreal will see plenty of thick, fleecy coats, many of long-haired wool. And smart women in Canada's metropolis have been wearing small velvet hats most of the summer, on occasions, and this type is being seen more and more with autumn in the air.

Winnipeg reports poodlecloth and rough shag as the foundation of Western coats. Ottawa merchants say fitted coats are coming back and see popularity growing for fur-lined and fur-trimmed ones.

More full-skirted suits will be worn. New features include a trend toward natural shoulders, nipped-in waist and turned-back cuffs.

Aprons Not For Kitchen

In general, clothes designs reveal skirts widened, outlines narrowed, jackets shortened, sleeves expanded, neckline boundaries extended in new directions, aprons appearing on garments other than those intended for the kitchen.

Frocks show a swing to velvet-trimmed creations with extra large buttons and big pockets. Velvet also will be featured in sme of this year's evening dresses, with picture-frame necklines.

Rich red velour seems to be coming into its own in hats. In most cities, experts predict that the most popular colors in fall garments will be grays and browns. A new hue, charcoal—a slate-gray—may top the list. Cinnamon brown and black afford a new combination.

Hats Worn At Rakish Angle More Lavish And Exciting

Hats will be the climax of your fall costume and you'll look more elegant than you have in years, judging from the millinery shown in all new collections.

The tip on fall millinery, is that the "level-headed look" is waning and new hats are to be worn at a more rakish angle, well back of the hairline and down on the right side.

The currently popular "forward line" is pushed into the fashion background by these tilted silhouettes, but is none the less present, in versions of toques and berets that have more rounded contours.

Because of the Victorian elegance in fall costumes, hats are more elaborate than they have been in the past few seasons. The rounded contours of fall coats and suits are matched by plump and curvaceous hats.

Elaborate embroideries and beadings echo the Victorian mood. Ostrich and ostrich tips appear again and again in both designers' creations and popular priced hats.

The millinery fashion scene will blaze with jewels, sequins, gold and silver embroideries, gleaming satin and metallic fabrics. In every price range, this return to elegance comes as a welcome change of pace from the plain little berets and calots of the past seasons.

Two-toned velours and gleaming satin-surfaced felts have a rich look for daytime costmues.

A special group of hats in metallic tones lend their brilliance to a scene devoted to the importance of antique gold, copper, silver, green bronze, steel and brass.

Other colors favored include peacock blue, vivid reds, the orange and russet shades, violet, the greys and beiges, paling to off-white and pure white.

The always-good black hat is newly exciting, with black velvet facings, satin bindings and pipings, braid and passamenterie. Coq and ostrich feathers, veilings, and nets are used to enrich the basic black hat.

The hats of the season are adaptable and can be worn straight on the head, at the back of the head to expose the hairline, and in a smart, profile manner.

'Bread And Butter Hat' Is Replacing the Beret

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS, Sept. 20—(Reuters)—The millinery picture in Paris is complete, now that the major houses have presented their collections. Never has there been such a wide choice of style, combined with dazzling new millinery fabrics.

Individual houses show a great variety, including styles for every woman, rather than restricting their line to one or two extreme shapes. The small "bread and butter hat" is definitey the order of the day, replacing the classic beret. This type often still follows beret lines, but with soft new rippled brims or broken treatments around the face. Other models are more like toques or cloches, but cannot be defined in either group.

Styles are shown for both bobbed hair and chignons. Many mannequins are wearing a medium-length cut which offers the greatest versatility. Hats are cut away at the back for a false chignon or braid.

Other houses cling to short hair and show models which hug the nape of the neck.

Many hats give the illusion of height—good news for the woman who is five-foot-three or less. High-crowned effects are seen in flower pots, astrologers' bonnets out of ancient Persia, homburgs and silk opera hats. Other types are pleated or crushed, lending a rakish boluevardier aspect to them.

Many brims are manipulated out of the crown without showing any definite beginning or ending, often worked in visors from caps or casquettes. Silhouette hats feature one-sided brims which swoop down over the cheek. Coquettish peek-a-boo treatments are handled this way with feathers or lacquered veiling.

New and flattering effects for women with high foreheads are seen in feathered bangs extending down irregularly from small toques or calots.

Silk velvets are seen for afternoon while velours and plush appear for day wear. Pin-striped jersey also makes its bow in draped toques and turbans. Suede is plentiful, besides quantities of fur, used in trimming or for all-fur hats. Pony skin appears for sport wear. Metallic fabrics complete the evening picture. Many houses make extensive use of feathers.

THIS SPORTS jacket in a hounds-tooth check is looked upon with favor for men. It is of a fine all-wool tweed, 3-button model with patch pockets.

Poodle Cloth Newest Pet

It doesn't have to be pedigreed, but if it's a "poodle", it's fashion's pet coating of the year!

From the very swank and expensive, imported "poodle" cloths to medium-to-low-priced brushed wools . . . the new look for fall-into-winter coats is fuzzy, furry, bulky and nappy-textured.

Today's collections of coats, point up the tremendous "poodle" influence in all fabrics. This trend has revived the all-alpaca coat . . . has created long, loopy and curly tweeds . . . doormat types, shag-haired fabrics, and long-haired zibelines.

In the "poodle" show, you'll find grey leading the parade. Other blue-ribbon winners are black, warm browns and plum-purples.

Toppers in "poodle" cloths offer wondrous wearability over slim, worsted suits and sleek tailored dresses.

Fashion-conscious women of all ages and budget-brackets, will adopt this pet, as part of their own smart, new season wardrobes.

BEDTIME FASHIONS that glow with color have been given added glamor this fall. Frequently, these gowns are pretty enough to go to a party. Colors are soft blue, deep coral, shell pink, sand, foam wine and aqua. Most gowns have matching robes or brief boudoir jackets. A pegnoir, for instance, in sand nylon tricot (left), is worn over a matching gown. Chantilly lace is used for yoke, cuff and pocket details in this ensemble by Colura. Tiny rhinestone studs glitter as a finishing touch to the luxury of this robe. A gown that's practically a party dress (right) is a sheath of pink nylon tricot topped by a gown of pale blue nylon net. Over this goes a little fur. The Empire-influenced jacket has a deep U neckline, elbow length sleeves and is fastened front-wise by a trio of rhinestone stick-pins. Imagine how pretty you'd look if the house burned down!

Velvet Dramatizes Elegance Of The Fall Fashion Scene

Being "In Velvet" this Autumn —is being very much in the fashion picture. For the rich, lustrous look of velvet in dresses, suits, and even coats—in trimmings and accents—in hats and shoes and accessories gives dramatic emphasis to the season's trend toward elegance.

From the luxurious silk and rayon velvets in cocktail dresses and suits to the casually styled velveteens—it's a velvet fall.

The velvet or velveteen "occasion" coat is a 1951 news-maker—that is wearable for both daytime and evening. Velveteen on one side, wool on the other is a new formula for reversible coats with a desk-to-date, campus-to-cocktail appeal for the career and college girl.

Velvet and tweed combinations are noteworthy in both coats and suits—such as tweed jackets, collared in velveteen and worn with velveteen skirts.

Because velvet is so widely accepted as an accent on every type of fabric, there's every reason to predict a bigger-than-ever season for velvet accessories and millinery.

Velvet is sure to be the favored fabric for dressy cocktail and evening bags such as little drawstring pouches, dainty box bags, and envelopes—and many of these look new and exciting with rhinestone clasps and trims.

And, velvet is on hand, in gloves combining fabrics with velvet. Double-woven gloves with velvet cuffs and bows are often seen. Other gloves have velvet backs and fabric palms.

From the top of your head, to the tips of your toes—you'll be in velvet, too! Be sure to have at least one velvet hat in your wardrobe, and a pair of velvet shoes may well be your choice for Autumn's dress-up occasions.

GAY, GLITTER BELTS

No matter what fabric . . . no matter what color . . . if it's a belt, you'll find it splashed with glitter accents. They may be braid-trimmed, jet or bead splashed . . . they may be studded with bright rhinestones . . . but they'll wear the sparkling accents of glitter to set off sweaters, blouses, skirts or classic one-piece tailleur frocks.

Dunn's Tailors wish to announce the appointment of Mr. Bernie Wanamaker to their sales staff. Mr. Wanamaker, a resident of Lakefield, invites his many friends and acquaintances to preview the newest fall suitings.

ANCIENT KINGDOM

Ethiopia in northeastern Africa has an area of 350,000 square miles with an estimated population of nearly 12,000,000.

BANKER GOVERNOR

Sir Alexander Bannerman was a Scottish banker before serving as lieutenant-governor of Prince Edward Island in 1851-54.

Ribs 'Prime' In Fabrics

Fashion serves up an exciting bill of fare in fabric "ribs" for fall ensembles.

The "prime ribs of fashion" are well done in failles and ottomans . . in suiting worsteds . in ribbed tweeds . . in ribbed rayon crepes and a wide assortment of corduroys.

Never before has there been such fashion excitement in corduroy! Wide wales . for coats, jackets . skirts and dresses . tweedy patterns and even printed corduroys . are the new sensations.

A novel treatment of wide wale corduroy, is shown in smart twosomes introduced by many leading designers—they employ ribbing on the horizontal for the jacket and ribbing, used vertically, on the skirt.

Ribbed worsteds are smart, new expressions of texture novelty. In sleek suits and suit-dresses, they are the aristocrats of the ribbed trend. Piece dyed or yarn dyed for a two-color contrast, the news in quality suitings is—ribs!

Fashion wise shoppers will be in 'on what's cooking,' when they put ribs high on their wardrobe menu!

IMPORTED LANGUAGE

Owing to Moorish invaders, the Arabic language was spoken in Spain, the Balearic Islands and Sicily in past centuries.

Comfort, Color In Men's Clothing

A survey of men's fashions for fall indicates that the men's garment industry has primarily dedicated itself to making men look brighter . . . . feel more comfortable.

Yes, the big news in men's wear is that comfort and color are just about synonymous in correct male attire.

In fall and winter clothing, the trend is away from weight. New fabrics in their wonderful blends, are created to give warmth without weight, yet sacrifice no part of smooth-fitting, good looks.

Most men are by choice "the worsted types" . . choosing either the clear-finish worsted with a smooth hard finish and plainly-visible close weave—of the mill-finished worsteds with a slight nap.

Primary advantages to the worsteds, is that they tailor well and hold a crease well.

Hints For Men In Care of Hats

Here are some hints on hat care:

Keep your hats dust-free. If there's dust on your hat a drop of water will make a mud spot that will be hard to remove.

Use a soft bristle hat brush rather than a whisk broom or clothes brush to keep your hat clean, and always brush with the nap—not against it.

If you get caught in the rain, push out the creases and dents in your hat, turn the brim up and the leather band out to let it dry. Stand the hat upright on the leather band for drying. And don't use any artificial heat.

If you tend to perspire, turn the leather band out when you remove your hat. That way perspiration and hair oil will evaporate without transferring a stain to the hat itself.

Skirt Bells Out, Bolstered By Myriads of Petticoats

"The Shape"—the year of the shape—looms ahead in ready-to-wear as newest of all in silhouette. This means a skirt that bells out, bolstered by myriads of petticoats, not only with dresses, but under suit skirts as well. This shaped treatment is important in bodices, too, where shoulders melt into sleeves into curved line, or sleeves are set into the shoulder in a point. Then at the hipline and waist, "The Shape" leaves its mark, emphasizing tiny waistlines and gently rounded hips, with a definite trend away from the arched, stiffened treatment of the past several seasons. This is the fashion picture for the coming fall and winter season.

There is a host of new fitted coats that emphasize "The Shape" and there are new narrower loose coats that round over the hips when short, or taper at the hemline when long; these last called "parenthesis silhouette."

Sleeves show their "Shape" in the "chicken leg" of Dior. They are oval in their inset seaming and filler top, tapering narrowly on the arm. This shaping expresses itself in frequent fantasy by way of bloused fulness, dolman cuts, batwing depth and push-up types —and many, many coat sleeves with adjustable cuffs being offered to as "cocktail sleeves."

Fabrics have their "Shape" too —bulky and with great variety in textures. These range from the very conversational poodle cloths to hairy, silky surfaces, and nubby tweeds and ribbed stripes of two tones.

Contrast Offered

"Shapes" at the neckline offer a contrast of the revised cardigan, collarless look—or big capey collars that crush over the shoulders or drape back for a new decollete look.

Even in accessories there is "Shape." Big is the word for jewelery—bigger pins set with bigger stones—bigger earrings in huge button shapes—big contour types that cover the ear or curve up the ear—big heraldic pins, large and widespread to cover the shoulder like a big pad. And there's a new place to wear jeweled pins—not just at the lapel, but on cuffs, on the hipline, at the back of the waistline.

Neckwear takes "Shape" in bigger effects—scarfs that tuck in at the neckline and pouf out under the chin. Stoles are shaped for better fit over the shoulders.

Rough Textures for Coats

The rough - textured fabrics (poodle cloth, zibeline, hairy-surface woollens, boucle tweeds and curved-pile fleece) are making the biggest news in fall coats. Of this assortment Women's Wear Daily finds that most is done with the poodle cloth.

Coat silhouettes go from the modified pyramid to arched and fitted coats. Important detail in the fitted coat this fall is that the easy sleeve cuts and sloping shoulder permit wearing the coat over a suit. Coat-suits; brief jackets, fitted or not, in bulky woollens, teamed with skirts in lightweights are top favorites for fall.

Other coat highlights: The tweed coat is important, especially in reversible versions. New this year are turn-about coats of wool fleece-rayon twill. The adjustable cuffline comes through in many ways — not so many short-sleeved coats as last year, but more adjustable cufflines. Shoulder lines are mostly unmounted, cut in one with the shoulder.

Suits Are Full-Skirted

Newest suit for fall is the full-skired version, done with gores tapering out towards the hemlines. The modified suit skirt, gored, but not widening at the hemline will get a great deal of attention because it is liked for its walking ease.

Flannel is the number-one suit fabric, Women's Wear Daily fashion experts point out. Gray is the best color, but brown is up and coming. Two and three-tone gray flannel suits are much in evidence, as are suits combining a checked flannel jacket with a plain flannel skirt. Ribbed worsted, fine-striped gray flannels and dark tweeds are important. You will find softer tweed suits, often in diagonal color-and-white combinations.

Dresses Feature Sculptured Look

In silhouette, the slim dress as one-piece or in jacket schemes is the leading shape, with news in exaggeration of curves through design. Full skirts stage a definite increase and include the bell or lampshade type—gathered, pleated, gores and godet variations. Whether slim-curved or full-skirted, the dominating plot is a clear-cut sharp silhouette of almost sculptured conciseness.

In type, it is clear that costumes consisting of dress plus jacket, which have been popular the past couple of seasons, are extended into more dressy types than ever before. Coat-dresses, newest when given a diagonal design treatment extend from simplest day wools to after-dark dresses, long and short.

Fabric points in order of their importance: Ribbed stiff weaves as faille, repp and cord-suiting are most popular day fabric fashion. Satin is newsiest dressy fabric. Velvet repeats with more color featured, in addition to black. Jersey is treated more formally, declare Women's Wear Daily editors, for good day dresses rather than just casuals.

Color facets: Big revival of the black dress. Basic spotlight is on dark neutrals, specifically yarn-dye oxford grey and banker's brown. There are great quantities of the mauve-amethyst-purple range in wools and dressy dresses. Garnet-ruby reds look like the sure-fire success as bright novelty in date dresses.

Full Skirts and Crinolines

Biggest fall trends in sportswear involve a revival of full skirts with crinolines and petticoats, even under flannels; a big influx of poodle type fabrics; a "landslide" for brown; and increased emphasis on convertible, flexible clothes in casual dresses as well as separates.

Casual suits are much more shaped and detailed, still in beautiful tweeds and yarn-dye flannels. In casual dresses, semi-bare dresses with bodice jackets in casual fabrics enliven the entire picture. In separates all the fashion types are there in flexible co-ordinations which can go together or part freely.

Separates feature short-thick-fitted jackets, or boxy short-jackets, two big all-round types of the year, to go with both slim and full skirts; striped cotton and silk shirts to supplement wool jersey; many more pedal pushers and slacks — always lean and tapered.

Jumper dresses with brief jackets, plus decollete dresses with fitted jackets are the two big types of the year. The "sweater-look" is seen in everything, from dresses with sections of ribbing to sweater-styling in blouses.

Three Shapes Popular Fall Hats

Three important silhouette points register in fall hats. Leading is the profile type, in cap or upturned brim shape, extending well down over one ear, but showing more of the front hairline than in past seasons, and often lifted at front. The cap or turban is frequently cut away at the front centre to show about two inches of hairline. Sometimes this sits well back on the head. The pillbox registers this season, with more hat—more width to the top sides, a little deeper than in past seasons.

Color, texture and trimming are more important; ostrich, simulated aigrettes, rhinestone, pearl and sequin ornaments big. Strong interest in the all-ostrich feather pad or wing hat, this season slicked down and shiny. The all-jeweled hat, or felt hat with elaborate jewel side or front centre trimming is a big factor in dressy types.

New Furs Have Softened Look

The softened look is dominant in fall furs, in natural shoulders, a smooth back with fulness across the shoulder blades and under the armholes, a continuous all-in-one line from shoulders into sleeves, and a flat or rippling back rather than set flares, with fulness emphasized at sides.

Sleeves vary to include the straight cocktail type, the push-up or the dolman, but newest and most significant is the tapered sleeve, with soft roundness at the upper arm to the elbow, graduating in at the wrist.

Small furs—stoles, capes, boleros, cape-jackets are more important than ever. Their position is advantageous in terms of price; and for style, as a versatile, becoming fashion, wearable practically throughout the year.

A TIP TO MEN!

Authorities point out that a wise man will budget his suit-buying so that he will have the greatest number of suits his income and needs will allow.

WEAR FORMAL LOOK

In keeping with the greater formality of the weddings that are scheduled for fall the gowns to be worn by this season's brides will follow the more traditional trends in both fabric and styling.

ARTIFICIAL BREEDING

The practical application of artificial insemination in cattle in Canada originated in Manitoba in 1932.

Why?

More people than ever before are coming to HOWARD'S when they need clothes. Why? BRITAIN'S QUEEN MARY arrives at Liverpool Street Station, London, following a short visit at Sandringham.

Fall Fashions Arrive Amid Excitement

Something exciting and exhilirating happens . . . with the first glimpse of the newest fashions for fall

There's a wondrous, almost-magic mood that prevails everywhere in viewing the elegancies of new apparel and accessories for the coming season.

Picture the new season with black highlights . . . misty, polished and seductive . . . or jet-bright, studded with the sparkle of star-bright rhinestone glitter.

And, from your palette, excite this picture with gleaming strokes of gold, amber, silver, or topaz.

Make your centre of interest ruby red . . . emerald . . . cerulean blue . . . amethyst or purple amethyst . . . and lo! you have a precious collection of gem-colors in your wardrobe.

Splash overtones of gentle greys onto your fashion canvas and include the wonderful new browns, rust and spice tones, the exciting beige tints and sprinkle the whole with the brilliance of jet trims in beading, embroidery, braiding and passementerie, and you have the color portrait of fall fashions.

Courturier, shoemaker, leather-maker, and furrier, all have joined to make this season wonderfully elegant, excitingly feminine and definitely dramatic!

If you have more fashion sense than dollars . . . splurge your wardrobe-budget on color . . . quality . . . and simple lines!

If you're buying a coat: look for softer, rounder shoulders, tinier collars, exciting sleeve treatments and cuffs, and in one of the newest pile fabrics . . . poodle cloth!

If you're buying a suit: look for softer lines, arched hips, button-importance and full, full skirts . . . with their own sewn-in petticoats. Your best fabrics are the wonderful new tweeds and distinguished ribs.

If you're buying a hat: remember, the brim is curved and softly-rounded, its crown is head-hugging, and its trim is lavish.

If you're buying shoes: kid and polished calf are the high-light leathers of the season. A high-riding, rounded-throat pump dressed-up or dressed down, is your basic shoe style for fall.

If you're buying a handbag: suit-wise or dress-wise, your best buy is of soft leather, in soft shapes and most often with pannier handles.

If you're buying gloves: soft, manipulated fabrics or leathers, in any length that suits your fancy . . . is the right glove this season.

FASHION ADDENDA for your fashion dollar: a large rhinestone pin or clip to give glitter to dresses, suits and coats . . . a frivolous belt in sparkle-splashed velvet to encircle your frocks . . . a large filmy square to tuck into your waistline and float down your skirt . . . a real mink choker . . . to sparkle with jewelry and give that delightful fur feel to dreamy frocks.

A duster coat: one that is weather wise and belting-up to become a coat-dress.

Dress-up separates: a wide skirt over a stand-away petticoat and a sleeveless or strapless bodice top!

And beneath it all, your supporting cast is made of bosom-rounding bras, hip-rounding girdles and crinolined petticoats.

Italian Designer Claims Florentines Fashion Leaders

By NADEANE WALKER

VENICE (AP)—French-Italian competition in the fashion field is developing into a battle of the sexes.

While nearly all famous Parisian designers are men, 90 per cent of Italy's top-bracket stylists are women.

One of them is tiny, dark-eyed, Signora Yella Bellenghi of Florence, who numbers princesses and duchesses by the score among her clients.

"Florence," said Signora Bellenghi, "is the smartest city in Italy, and if you are style conscious, you can pick out a Florence women in a crowd in London or Paris or anywhere. Her trade mark is chic simplicity."

Bellenghi's version of the "Italian look" is "classic cut and for the trimming: nothing."

She believes the developing Italian fashion industry should and will specialize in smartly tailored suits and coats. The International Festival of High Fashion under way here shows too many decorated cocktail frocks and elaborate evening gowns, she thinks, because "we don't wear things like that ourselves." Extremes, she implies, should be left to Paris.

Those who do not like the new longer skirt lengths introduced in Paris have a staunch supporter in Bellenghi as well as other Italian designers. Day skirts are about 15 inches from the floor.

"The longer skirts are ugly because they cut the calf at the wrong place," according to Signora Bellenghi.

Besides the former Queen of Romania, the Princess of Montenegro, Princess Margherita and other Italian noblewomen, Bellenghi dresses Mrs. Myron Taylor, wife of the former U.S. representative to the Vatican.

Many United States buyers who visited the Florence showing in July, came to Signora Bellenghi's private collection.

The only American mannequin in the Fashion Festival, Jane Spriggs of Los Angeles (former Schiaparelli model) shows Bellenghi's creations.

Of 11 Italian designers selected for the Festival, only two—Schubert of Rome and Ferrario of Milan—are men.

THESE FIFTEEN SICK ESKIMOS, one a stretcher case, arrived at Montreal Airport recently after a 1,200-mile flight from the Baffin Bay area aboard an RCAF Dakota aircraft. They were taken to hospital at nearby Caughnawaga for medical treatment for tuberculosis and other ailments.

PRINCE BERNHARD of the Netherlands, second from the left in uniform, unveils a monument at Wageningen, Holland, commemorating the German capitulation in the Netherlands to the Canadian Army. When the final collapse came, Nazi troops in Holland numbered 110,000. Disbandment under British and Canadian supervision began on May 9, 1945, when many Germans were obliged to walk all the way to the Fatherland, so heavy were priority demands on transport, so badly disrupted were communications.

Plainville News

Ladies of the Plainville WMS with members of several other societies were guests for an afternoon meeting of the WA of St. George's Church, Gore's Landing. Miss Moss, a missionary of the Anglican Church in Japan for many years, and now working among the Canadian Japanese in Toronto, was a very interesting speaker. Attending from Plainville were Mesdames L. Carruthers, F. Westington, J. Linton, E. Poice, C. Manley, S. Herriott, M. Herriott, G. Cole, W. Cole, E. West and L. Buttars.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dixon, Toronto, are guests this week with Mrs. Herb Fallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Beer and their children, Marguerite and Ernest have gone to High River, Alta., where they will visit for three weeks with Mrs. Beer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Talbot.

The Sunday evening service in the United Church was in charge of the Women's Missionary Society, with Mrs. F. K. Harris of Petrborough as the guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Pomeroy of Peterborough spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cavano. Mrs. James McKinnon is in Toronto this week visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Ahren.

Be Bold And Daring In Your Jewelry For It Adds Real Glitter And Color

The theme for jewelry is real glitter, and glitter everywhere! Jewelry is bold, daring, and oh so colorful.

You can be as imaginative and gay with jewelry as you wish! Pin your glitter at your waistline . . . at the neckline . . . at the cuffline.

Pin your sparkle onto the sleeve of your fur coat . . . and catch the neckline with more brilliance!

Wrap yards and yards of pearls or bright-colored beads 'round your throat—dog collar style.

Do it a la Tibetan monk and wear row after row of beads around your throat with two ends dangling down. This style is copied from the Tibetan prayer beads.

There are so many tricks with jewelry . . . such as pins in graduated sizes — one at the bodice, one below the bustline and the third to sparkle at your waist. Or, use smart sparkle to punctuate the decolletage of your thin strapped or strapless bodice!

Wear saucer-size pearl earrings . . . and pin a platter-size twosome on your suit pocket.

Remember, the way with jewelry is boldness . . . baroque . . . glitter . . . dash and daring . . . and lots and lots of smart jewelry pieces at your ears . . . 'round your throat . . . at your waist . . . on your sleeves and 'just anywhere.'

You'll find much pleasure in choosing from the Shiffer - Hillman fashions and woollens for Fall, just arrived. This fine make represents the best clothing investment . . . in good appearance and in downright worth

Active Fall For Grace WA

A pot luck supper at Grace United Church Tuesday evening opened the activities of the Women's Association for this year. Mrs. W. Turner was the pianist for a sing-song during and after the meal. The regular meeting was opened with the WA theme song and Mrs. M. Beasley conducted a devotional period on the theme "Good Samaritan." Mrs. K. Mills was appointed to act as secretary for the balance of the year. The Rev. E. W. Rowland spoke to the members about their work, suggesting what might be done. He was thanked by Mrs. J. Bailey. It was arranged that the ladies will clean the church the last three days of this week. Mrs. J. A. McNutt was appointed convener of the Christmas card sale. Plans were made for a rummage sale in October, Mrs. Bailey to secure a place to hold it. A dramatic committee was appointed, with Mrs. Bailey as chairman, to get together a group to produce a play. Mrs. E. McKinstry was asked to re-organize the CGIT group which was last year organized and led by Mrs. B. Sherry who is now in hospital. The girls raised nearly $100 in a few months time under Mrs. Sherry's leadership. Final plans for the fall tea being held next Wednesday, September 26, were made by convener Mrs. Jackson.

Canvassers Seek 6,000 Members For Hospital Aux.

A campaign aimed to bring in 6,000 members of the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary commenced Wednesday with a delightful social hour and tea in the nurses' residence. Captains and their canvassers were on hand to hear the instructions of membership convener Mrs. E. Chambers who is asking for an increase of 1,300 members this year. (Last year the increase was 600, bringing the total to 4,700).

Two board members who are prominent in the work of the Auxiliary were honored at this tea.

Mrs. L. R. Marshall, who has been frequently mentioned for the numbers of bootees she has knitted and donated for giving to the new babies at the hospital, has now given the Auxiliary 1,000 pairs. She was presented with an initialled, gold-plated crochet hook as the announcement was made by president Mrs. Charles Huffman.

Convener of the travelling tuck cart, which is such a boon to the patients, has been, since its institution, Miss Margaret English. As she was celebrating a birthday on Wednesday, a decorated birthday cake was made for her.

The Auxiliary's annual penny sale, from which is raised most of the money for the work, was featured in the reading of a script used on a popular women's program at the time of this year's sale. Mrs. W. E. Fanning, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Mrs. C. Murkar and Mrs. G. Coleman Jr., took the parts of the radio actors.

Very delicious refreshments served by the social committee were made for this occasion at the hospital. The tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. J. Hornal and Mrs. J. R. Marshall who presided at a flower-centred table in the lecture room. This room was made available for the tea by switching the nurses' classes to the lecture room of the hospital.

Mrs. Huffman and Mrs. Chambers received the ladies as they arrived for the tea.

YWCA. The meeting opened with a devotional period under leadership of the religious convener, Mrs. J. McLeod.

Mrs. C. G. Collins was in the chair and welcomed the ladies. Treasurer's report, read by Mrs. S. Malsch, was followed by the conveners' reports.

Mrs. B. Boucher gave a splendid reading on polio. Mrs. A. H. Nelson for radio announced resumption of Home and School broadcasts at 10.15 every Tuesday morning. Mrs. J. McLeod announced the annual church service this year at St. Andrew's Church. Mrs. L. Raper, parent education, in her report mentioned an educational play at George St. Church Oct. 17, called "Scattered Showers." Mrs. V. Reynolds reported on leadership and asked the presidents to contact her for advice with their problems. Mrs. D. Rostocky started a new program on citizenship.

Mrs. L. Raper and Mrs. A. Stevenson, the representatives at Camp Couchiching in June, gave their interesting and informative reports.

Mrs. A. Nelson, chairman of the regional conference, Oct. 27, told some of the highlights for that special day.

A question and answer period was followed by refreshments served by the hostesses for the evening, Omemee association.

Tells CAC: Curb Inflation "Slash Gov't Spending"

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 (CP). — Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., president of the 13,000-member Canadian Association of Consumers, said today that if the government is going to curb inflation, it must first slash some of its own unjustified spending.

Dependence of the government on "still more burdensome taxation on essentials" alone will not provide the cure, Mrs. Walton, Jr., said in her presidential speech prepared for delivery before the association's board of directors.

Her speech initiated a two-day discussion of consumer problems, particularly the cost of living.

Resolutions were expected to follow from provincial delegations calling for a new campaign to hold the price line and to get the government to control margins of profit on consumer goods.

Affiliated with the association is a group of national women's associations, representing more than 100,000 Canadians, and including such groups as the YWCA the IODE, the Salvation Army of Canada, business and professional women's clubs and the National Council of Women.

"The sharp, mounting cost of living," said Mrs. Walton, "has made inroads into the standard of living of many Canadians. . ."

Swamped by requests for protection against high prices, the association had been asked to support a roll-back in prices, subsidies, prohibition of some imports, bans on some exports and for selective and over-all price controls.

Mrs. Walton said that because Canada is an exporting country, it could not by itself control the scale of prices which prevail around the world. The pricing of its goods was influenced more by external forces than those within her boundaries.

But some steps could be taken within a country to slow up or even deflate high costs. A few of these steps had been initiated by the government. But these were not enough.

The government had adopted a policy of high taxation to help fight inflation, but had weakened its position by making insufficient effort to curb its own normal expenditures.

"It seems absurd," said Mrs. Walton, "to control the low-powered credit of instalment buying and the medium-powered credit of bank loans, if the government itself fails to exercise more adequate restraint on the credit and spending policies of its own ordinary expenditures.

But Canadians could not leave the matter of fighting inflation entirely in the hands of government.

"The time has come" said Mrs. Walton, "when Canadians need to roll up their sleeves and produce more, and at the same time decrease their purchases of goods and increase their savings.

"We cannot leave this cost-of-living business just to government. We can do something about it ourselves and each individual who is able to must do everything he or she can."

Madill-McCrea

At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon the wedding was quietly solemnized by the Rev. C. G. Boyd of Elizabeth Helen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCrea, of Essonville, and Galvin John Madill, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Madill, Buckhorn.

The bride wore white bridal satin trimmed with Chantilly lace and pearls. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones and she wore her grandmother three-strand pearl necklace. Her bouquet was a cascade of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by the groom's sister, Mrs. Dave McCloud and her own sister, Miss Marilyn McCrea. The matron of honor was frocked in lavender organdy and the bridesmaid in yellow taffeta, each with matching headdress and carrying a muff of matching gladioli.

Mr. Vernon McCrea, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Wedding music was played by church organist, Mr. Christopher Gledhill.

A wedding supper was served at Hooper's Palm Room. For the occasion the bride's mother wore navy with grey accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother was also in navy and wore pink roses.

For travelling the bride chose a suit of gre gabardine with navy accessories and her corsage was pink roses. The couple left by motor for Ottawa and Quebec City and on return will live in Lindsay.

Lions' Ladies Begin Meetings

Lions' Ladies' Club of Peterborough held the first monthly dinner and meeting of the fall season Tuesday evening at the Colonial Room. President Mrs. Vert Reynolds welcomed several new members present on this occasion. During and after the dinner a lively sing-song was led by Mrs. Bus Mitchell.

New officers were introduced by the president at the opening of the business period and each member introduced herself. It was decided that a rummage sale be held at the Orange Hall on October 20th. Since no entertainment had been planned for the children of the Children's Home or St. Vincent's Orphanage at Thanksgiving time, it was decided to send turkeys for their dinner.

Presentation of a cup and saucer was made to Mrs. Jack Buchanan who is moving to Sarnia shortly, by Mrs. Ron MacGee. Mrs. Buchanan was asked to present a similar gift to Mrs. J. Marshall who has already moved to Sarnia.

Two very enjoyable readings were given by Mrs. Ross McIntyre who was introduced by Mrs. J. Dutton. Mrs. Vic Frederics entertained with two songs.

At next month's meeting the Kingston Lions' Ladies' Club will be entertained and a pleasant evening is looked forward to.

Fete Bride-To-Be

CAVAN, Sept. 20 (ENS). — Miss Margaret Elson entertained at a miscellaneous shower Saturday evening for her friend, Miss Betty Adams, Cobourg, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Stevenson, Omemee, is to take place on September 29 at Cobourg.

The guests included 18 former friends and schoolmates from Millbrook and Cavan. The bride-to-be was informally presented with the gifts for which she thanked everyone.

The hostess, assisted by her sisters Edith and Francis Elson, served lunch.

HASTINGS SCHOOL

The Hastings Home and School Association commenced its fifth year with a meeting held on Monday. The new president, Mrs. S. Whitred, was in the chair. Mrs. J. G. Thompson read the Home and School creed. Mrs. Whitred welcomed the members, also newcomers. Mrs. C. Baker was named publications convener. The Home and School will again sponsor the picture shows commencing Friday October 5. The High School students are to be given student cards. A minstrel show from Peterborough may be sponsored by the association at a later date.

Grade 5 Room won the roll call for last term.

Col. Allan from the Order of St. John Ambulance was introduced by program convener Mrs. F. Crate, and gave a very interesting talk on first-aid.

Suffered Stomach Trouble 10 Years, Says This Man

Tried Many Different Things, Gas, Indigestion, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Headaches, Nervous. "Nothing ever Helped Me Like Snytona," He Says.

"For 10 years I suffered from very bad stomach disorders and I would be glad to have other people know of the good results I got by taking Syntona Herbal Compound, says Mr. Elmer Pearson, 300 Barton street east, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

You, too, can rely on Syntona for common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. It aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

"I was troubled with gas, indigestion and cramps so bad I felt sick and nauseated. Even the lightest food did not digest properly, but fermented in my stomach, giving me a full, heavy, bloated feeling. I was subject to sick headaches and dizzy spells. Rheumatic pains set in my arms and legs and I finally became very nervous and run-down and couldn't get my proper sleep at night.

"I tried everything I heard of, but nothing helped me and I kept getting worse and worse. Then, one day I read about Syntona and decided to get some and this medicine cleared up the gas, indigestion and sick feeling in my stomach better than anything I ever took before. In a little while the pains in my arms and legs went away, my nerves calmed down, I found I could go to bed and get sound, restful sleep all through the night.

"That experience was quite some time ago, but ever since then I have always kept Syntona in the house and find there is nothing like it to keep me free of these troubles from which I suffered so long."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Housekeepers Aid Family Welfare

REGINA—(CP)—A new group of workers made its appearance this year in the Regina Welfare Bureau. They are "visiting housekeepers" and their job is to restore disorganized households to normal.

These "visiting housekeepers" are mature women who have at one time managed their own homes and brought up families.

They sleep out and board in at homes where they work. If finances are limited, assistance is given to the family for their board. Their salary is $70 per month and each family helped gives as much as possible to their salary.

"They are working out very well," said Marjory A. Bernard, executive director of the welfare bureau.

"Usually they go into homes where the mother is away—either ill in the hospital or a deserted home—and take over the work of the woman in the house," she said.

Assisting those who ha[ve] become disorganized to achieve a normal way of living," has always been the motive of the welfare bureau, Miss Bernard said.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"We should have known better than to play a team from the wide open spaces!"

Fashion Shows Going On Tour

MONTREAL (CP)—Packaged fashion shows for women's organizations are planned by two of this city's leading experts in this field.

Creators of this enterprise, Mrs. Clary (Dorothy) Booth and Miss Iona Monahan say the idea was forced on them by the number of requests they received from women's clubs for help in arranging fashion shows.

Entitled "Fashion Etcetera" the business will make available clothes, accessories, the musical accompaniment, script and the models. If desired the commentator and the backstage work will also be part of the backstage.

The shows will be kept up-to-date with new clothes to fit every season. A complete performance will run from 45 minutes to an hour, but several smaller shows to run for a shorter time are also planned for women's groups with fewer members.

Manufacturers and designers are pleased with the scheme for they believe their clothes and accessories will be shown to advantage under the professional guidance of the experts.

Mrs. Booth and Miss Monahan are well-known in fashion work as outstanding co-ordinators.

DOROTHY DIX

Gain Much, Lose Nothing By Eliminating Suspicion

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 23, married, and very much in love with my husband. He is very good to me but in spite of everything I fear I am losing my faith in him. I am expecting a child in three months and my husband has been going out on pay nights with other men from the office, drinking. The other night he left the house to cash his check and have a few drinks. I waited for a while, then decided to go for a ride, picking him up on the way. When I got to the tavern, I looked in and saw him with his arm around a girl. I returned home, and when he arrived, I asked about the girl and he said it was someone he had known long ago, and she didn't mean a thing to him. I haven't had a moment's peace since. He assures me it won't happen again, but I am torn with jealousy. Should I believe in his good intentions and let the incident pass, acting as though it had never occurred?

CELESTE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: For the sake of any happiness you expect to get from your marriage, you'd better get the whole affair off your mind and follow your own suggestions for future conduct. Look at it this way: You've nothing to lose by believing your husband and relying on his assurance that this girl meant nothing to him. On the other hand, the sure way to get him out of the house every night is to keep nagging.

Don't Brood About It

Brooding isn't going to do either you or your baby any good. Stop it! Of course in your physical condition you are bound to magnify all troubles, but you must adopt a more sensible mental attitude or spoil completely what should be for both you and your husband a very happy period.

If you are jealous or suspic-

HAVE DAILY REGULARITY IN 3 DAYS—Or Double Your Money Back!*

As you grow older, haven't you noticed—the more pills you take the worse you get? Haven't you suspected there must be something wrong? Decide today to break that vicious habit of dosing yourself with harmful drugs.

Now there is a better, more effective way to daily regularity, designed especially for people over 35.

It is Serutan—based on nature's fresh fruit and vegetable principle—the corrective method for constipation that today stands medically approved above all others.

Serutan contains no chemical drugs—no salts—no irritating roughage. Its gentle "push" differs completely from violent action methods.

Serutan is a more lasting way to help you be regular the way you want to be.

Try Serutan today—if in 3 days daily regularity has not returned—send the empty package to SERUTAN, Dept. SC-11, 2299 Dundas Street West, Toronto, Ontario—and get double your money back.

"AT LAST—a radio-phonograph that adds a new note of charm to any home setting . . ." says

Henri Beaulac

famous Canadian interior designer

HENRI BEAULAC, Montreal

Mr. Beaulac comments on the adaptability of the RCA Victor Mayfair to Canadian home settings as shown in this living room of a model home recently completed by Lakeshore Homes Ltd. in Dorval, Quebec. Says Mr. Beaulac:

"The Mayfair is excellently proportioned . . . its lines are in good taste. The full length doors add to its attractiveness as a compact unit. It should fit well into any modern setting, but I think it is equally suitable for 18th Century decorating schemes."

Only RCA VICTOR

PLAYS ALL RECORDS SO PERFECTLY, SO EASILY!

The quality is RCA Victor — your assurance of superb radio and record performance. The Mayfair plays your own choice of music on any and every speed of record — perfectly, automatically, with an ease of play that can't be matched anywhere. Play it yourself just to prove how much easier it is to play RCA Victor's 2-turntable design! Listen to it for tone! And look at it for its exciting new decorative possibilities! Whether your favourite room is modern or traditional, simple or sumptuous, you'll see an inexpensive but highly rewarding "new deal" just ahead. Your RCA Victor dealer will be glad to demonstrate the Mayfair.

6—In Memoriam

JONES—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. David Jones, who passed away two years ago today, Sept. 20.
The rolling stream of life goes on,
But still the empty chair
Reminds us of the face, the smile,
Of one who once sat there.
—Ever remembered by her son Wilbert, daugher-in-law Lou and family.

JONES—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mary Jones, who passed away two years ago today, Sept. 20, 1949.
Oh happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed by her family.

New Trial Granted Jurors Phoned Home

VICTORIA, BC, Sept. 20 (CP)—Convicted of murder, Harold Ryan yesterday was granted a new trial on the grounds that the jury was at times "in a position" to be influenced by the public.

Ryan was scheduled to be hanged Dec. 2 for the slaying of his common-law wife, Lorraine Rait, at Port Simpson, BC, last December. The Crown said she had been beaten and thrown overboard from Ryan's fishing boat.

Ryan's counsel based his appeal on the point of law governing the restrictions placed on a jury during a trial. He produced affidavits from nine members of the jury which said that at times they had telephoned their families and had attended a movie.

In granting the re-trial, Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, of the British Columbia Appeal Court, said he felt "conduct of the jury had been such as to place them in a position, or to give them the opportunity to be influenced in their judgment."

Lindsay Fair Opens Again With Big Crowd

"Lindsay Fair is tops of its kind in Ontario," stated His Worship Hiram McCallum of Toronto in his speech which officially opened the Fair on Wednesday.

Speaking to a large rural audience, Mr. McCallum launched into the workings of the Milk Control Board of which he is a consumer representative.

Since milk was such an essential product, he said, and marketing and distribution were presenting serious problems these days, consumers might have to turn to the use of powdered and evaporated milk as a substitute for whole milk.

Mr. McCallum did not think that the establishment of central dairies was the answer to reduction in distribution costs. It would not only kill competition but lower milk to the minimum of butterfat standards.

Nor did he think that setting up of dairy zones in certain sections of municipalities was the answer. Mr. McCallum thinks three-day a week deliveries would reduce milk delivery labor which in turn would have to be absorbed in plant labor. Disputes would follow this suggestion, too.

Expected To Find Husband Dead

WELLAND, Sept. 20. (CP) — Former police chief Gilbert Robertson testified Wednesday he expected to find the husband not the wife slain when he visited the Bassett cottage at nearby Crystal Beach June 16.

Edward Anthony Bassett, 45, of Buwwalo, is on trial charged with the shotgun murder of his common-law wife, Mrs. Leon Peterson, 47.

Witnesses earlier told of a wild argument which preceded the slaying. A statement Bassett gave police the day after the shooting and in which he is said to have told police the shooting climaxed a day-long quarrel with Mrs. Peterson was admitted in court.

Robertson testified Mrs. Bassett had asked him to accompany her home earlier in the day of June 16 saying:

"I'm very bad-tempered and I might murder my husband if I went home by myself."

The former police chief said he followed her home but the cottage was locked and he advised her to leave and returned to the police station.

10-Inch Knife Found In River After Murder

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 20, (CP)—The Crown has presented evidence at the murder trial of Wasyl Krawiec, 24, that Jonas Corkus, 29, could have been fatally stabbed shortly before his body was found July 22 on the porch of a lonely railway section house in the bush 130 miles north of here. The trial, which started Tuesday, is continuing.

Dr. E. S. Pentland, police pathologist, testified Wednesday that a 10-inch kitchen knife found in the Akawa River near the section house was of a size and shape "quite consistent" with a wound in Norkus' chest. He said the man, a railway worker, died after a knife pierced his heart.

Dr. Noble Sharpe, provincial pathologist, said stains on the kitchen knife were human blood. He said he also found bloodstains on the pockets of trousers Krawiec wore at the time of his arrest, as well as on several articles of clothing scattered through the Algoma district bush around the section house.

House Shambles

Provincial Constable Orville Waito of Wawa described the scene at the Agawa section house the morning after Norkus' death.

"I found Norkus dead, lying in a big pool of blood on the back porch of the section house," Constable Waito said. "I found Krawiec listening to a radio in the house, which was a shambles. Also there was Mrs. Adele Vinslovas and her two young children and three railway workers. One of the workers was lifting Mrs. Vinslovas to a chesterfield. She had apparently fainted and the men were bathing her forehead with a rag and cold water."

Constable Waito said that later, when he asked what had happened, both Mrs. Vinslovas and Krawiec jumped up at the same time, telling almost identical stories.

Struck In Face

"Krawcic told me that Norkus had been drinking heavily at a party in the house which was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Vinslovas (Mr. Vinslovas was away at the time of the party) and Krawiec. Norkus was a visitor at the house and a friend of the Vinslovas family.

"Krawiec said that Norkus had struck him in the face following an argument and that Norkus attempted to take Mrs. Vinslovas out of the house but she refused. He said Norkus then went out of the house by himself and returned holding his chest and running out through the back door."

Constable Waito then told of talking to Mrs. Vinslovas.

"She told me that Norkus tried to make love to her and that he had a wild look in his eyes. She said she refused to go."

New Pensions Bill Easier On Estates

TORONTO, Sept. 20. (CP)—A Toronto paper says today that the new Old Age Pensions Bill to be put before the Ontario Legislature next week will probably do away with recoveries from estates of deceased pensioners.

In a newspage story the paper says the Provincial Welfare Department has long been against the practice of claiming against a pensioner's estate for what had been paid him.

Riding In Jet Airliner Like Armchair—Howe

LONDON, Sept. 20. (CP) — Trade Minister C. D. Howe of Canada says that riding in the Comet jet airliner is as comfortable as in an armchair.

Howe, back in London after attending an international trade meeting in Geneva, went on his first flight in the Comet last night. The plane travelled nearly 600 miles an hour but the Canadian minister said it "seemed no speed at all."

The minister will lead Canada's delegation at a Commonwealth conference on raw materials opening here Monday.

Millbrook MC Meets

MILLBROOK, Sept. 20 (ENS)—Mrs. Clarence Ball, of the Fallis line, was hostess Tuesday evening to the Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church. The president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, welcomed the members to the first meeting of the fall season.

Mrs. Henry Gray was in charge of introducing the new study book, "The Home Missions Digest." The introduction took the form of a dialogue with Mrs. Eric Fallis assisting. From the new book, Mrs. Robert Larmer read a story entitled, "My Most Unforgettable Character."

The worship service, which had as its theme "Let Every Heart Praise Him," was conducted by Mrs. Bruce Ingham. Mrs. Ernest Powell gave the scripture reading.

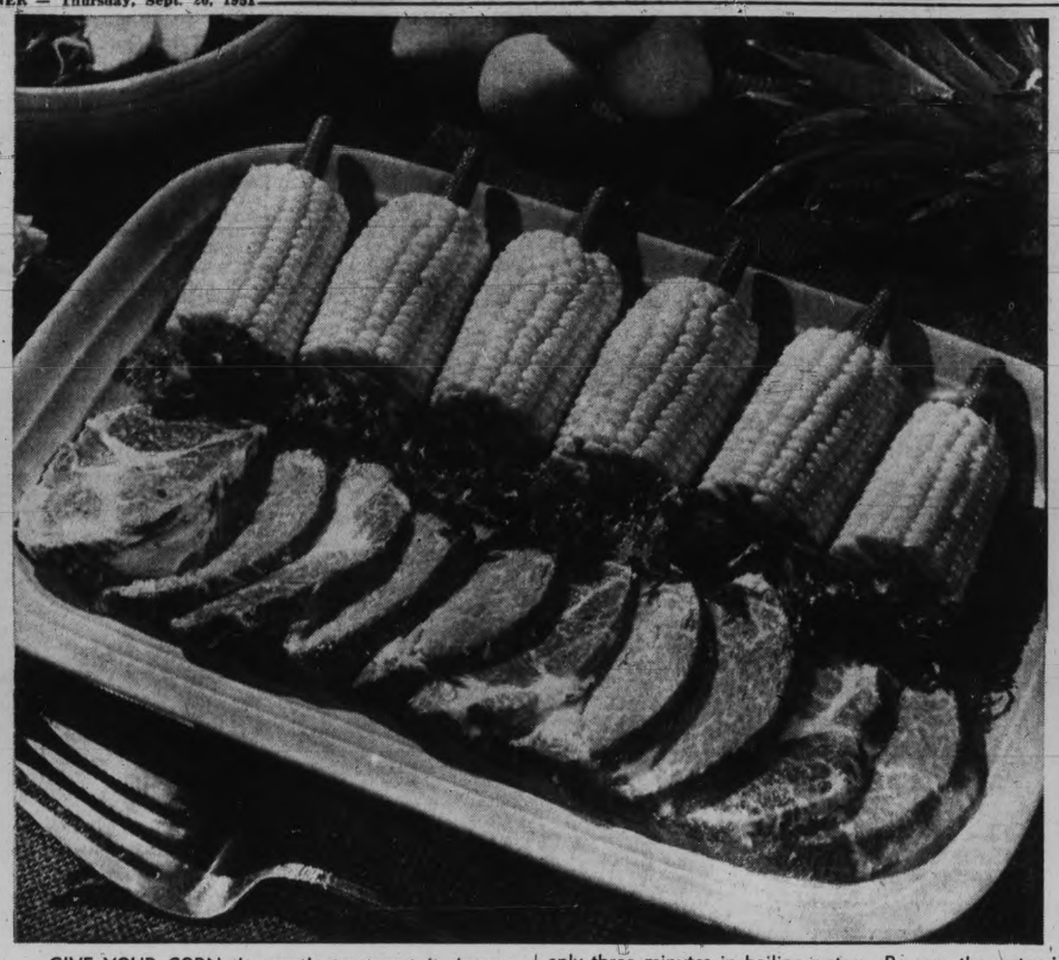
The treasurer, Miss Edith Thorn, reported that $65 had been sent in to the presbyterial treasurer in June, that there was a balance of $5.66 in the treasury, leaving $55 yet to be raised to reach the allocation of $125.

Mrs. Norman Ouellette gave the temperance report. Mrs. Hobbs told that the last word received from Jean Stewart, the circle's special missionary in China, was that she had not yet been released to leave the country but that she was packed ready to come home as soon as permission came through. It was known that a number of missionaries had been permitted to reach Hong Kong and it was hoped that Miss Stewart was among them.

The corresponding secretary was asked to send cards to two members who were absent through illness.

The members of the circle are to provide 20 pies for the presbyterial rally of circles taking place in Peterborough some Wednesday in October, the exact date to be set later.

Supper hostesses included Miss Mary Widdis, Miss Edith Sheppard and Mrs. Robert Ridge.



GIVE YOUR CORN the gentle treatment it deserves when preparing it for dinner. It is already tender so it takes only three minutes in boiling water. Be sure the water is boiling before the corn is put in and do not place too many cobs in the water at once.

Avoid Your Meat Dilemma By Using Fresh Vegetables

By MARY MOORE

This warmed the cockles of my heart: "Mary, there's one thing I like about your recipes most—you don't blithely take it for granted that we all get $10,000 a year salaries.

"We get a pretty fair salary compared to the neighbours on our stret, but we want to save some of it for travelling. So I love your columns on the days that you have economical ideas plus assurance that the basic nutrition of my family will not suffer."

That letter, that any writer on cookery subjects would cherish is propped up in front of me. I should frame it to be a constant reminder against extravagance. This does not mean I'll abandon excellence, for where expensive ingredients are required for a high quality product we will still list them.

But, as of now, you are aware that I am aware that you and I do not "pick money off trees."

So let us avoid the meat dilemma by cooking current vegetables to perfection.

Breaded Tomatoes With Cheese (plus meatless menu)

Cut 3 very large underripe but pink tomatoes into thick slices. Dip into fine sifted cracker crumbs, then into a mixture of 1 or 2 beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons cream or milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper; dip again in crumbs. Pan fry in margarine or bacon fat until heated through and crust is golden, but not until so soft they threaten to break when turned. When both sides are a little crusty, sprinkle each slice with cheese, cover pan and let stand in warm place to melt cheese before serving. Serve with home- or canned-baked beans, crisp sweet pickles, and a large fruit salad containing pears, halved grapes, peaches and grapefruit. Fresh gingerbread is a good accompaniment to a dessert containing pears.

Boiled Corn On The Cob

The part of a cob of corn that you want to cook is the outside ½-inch layer. To cook a kernel of corn you have to heat it through enough to "set" the milk. You are not trying to cook the outer skin of the kernel to make it tender. It is already tender. Now to do this it takes three minutes in boiling water. If you put too many ears in the boiling water at once that they stop the water boiling, take your time after the water starts boiling again. Then remove all of the cobs from the water and keep hot in preheated covered dish.

Fresh Corn Scramble

Cut young corn from the cob until you have 2 cups well-packed. (Leftover cooked corn is good for this too, IF the corn has been boiled only 3 minutes as described above.) To the corn add 1 finely chopped green pepper. Fry these gently in ¼ cup butter or margarine, until they are transparents but not at all brown. Add 1 tablespoon flour, mix in well, then add 1 cup milk and salt and pepper to taste, stirring all of the time. About 2 minutes before serving time, stir in 2 well-beaten eggs, until they are barely set. Serve on hot toast for lunch. If desired tomatoes may be used in place of peppers. If you do this add a couple of slices of chopped up bacon.

Grilled Eggplant and Tomatoes

Dip slices of firm tomatoes in fine crumbs and season with salt and pepper and a little sugar. Peel eggplant and cut in medium thick slices, salt them, pile them one on top of the other, cover with plate and weight them down under your iron for one hour to extract the brown liquid in the slices. Tip this off. Dry the slices. Dip each slice in beaten egg and salted crumbs. Broil both the eggplant and tomato slices, but start the tomato slices when one side of eggplant is golden brown, and ready to be turned over. When both are golden and tender serve the tomato slices on top of the eggplant. A combination that any vegetable lover will take kindly to. Excellent item for a vegetable plate too.

ious by nature, these faults must—and can be—overcome. You may be left alone many evenings with a new baby. Don't turn each occasion into a session of worry and doubt over hubby's whereabouts or activities. Suspicion is a growth that spreads and multiplies like a weed. Kill the first faint outcroppings, and the scourge is conquered. Foster it with further doubts and it kills every bit of carefully nurtured love.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have two daughters, one single and one married. Recently I remarked to the single one that I had only been in the other daughter's home three times in a year for dinner. She answered that was all I could expect. I guess I'm a little hurt, as I always did so much for the girls. Now all they want is for me to sew for them and never visit for a meal. I guess we older mothers just must take a back seat, give and do, expect nothing and we won't be disappointed.

I. F.

ANSWER: A mother should be a welcome guest in a married daughter's home at all times—provided, of course, she isn't a troublemaker. She should be doubly welcome when she does the family sewing, as you do, and helps with the baby tending. A girl who would have any other thought is callous. Your daughters don't realize what an asset they have in a mother who can and will do the odd jobs that accumulate in a family. Theirs is a rare privilege, and one that should certainly be recognized by giving you a warmer welcome to their homes.

DEAR MISS DIX: We are three girls who work in the same office. We are constantly being threatened by a jealous co-worker for talking with her ex-boy friend who also works with us. There is no romance between them now, and to us he is just a friend. Should we stop talking to him or ignore her threats?

ANSWER: Your jealous friend sounds like a complete idiot and certainly should be ignored. If her threats become too annoying, take the matter up with one of your superiors.

Reporter Tells Of Uranium Find

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(CP)—Morgan Beatty, Washington news commentator for NBC, said in his news broadcast Tuesday night that vast new deposits of atom-bomb ore have been discovered in Alberta's Athabaskan district.

He said that the Eldorado mining group headed by the Canadian government is prepared to mine 500 tons of ore rich in uranium. The ultimate goal is 2,000 tons a day.

At Ottawa, officials said they knew of no large discoveries of uranium ore in the Athabaskan district of Alberta.

However, there have been extensive discoveries in Saskatchewan's Athabaska district which the government's Eldorado Mining and Smelting Company has acquired.

Author Describes Flying Saucer, Passes Scientific Test

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)—A "flying saucer" that passed a scientific test is described in "200 Miles up," a book on conquest of the upper air.

The author is J. Gordon Vaeth, United States Navy aeronautical engineer. He does not claim the thing was a saucer, but he does not know what it was.

He describes the flying saucers which fooled thousands—namely the new skyhook balloons. The skyhooks even fooled aviators.

On April 24 Vaeth was one of the officers in charge of a skyhook balloon flight from White Sands, NM. Skyhooks are instrument-carrying balloons for observation at about 18 miles altitude.

Some distance from White Sands Charles B. Moore, Jr., set up a station to observe weather as an aid to the skyhook flight.

Moore sent up a balloon, watching it with a 25-power telescope. When he took a naked-eye look, he saw a white object which was not his balloon. He turned the telescope on it and saw an ellipsoid about 2½ times as long as it was wide. It was gleaming white. It did not have a metallic shine. Toward the underside, near the tail, the gleaming white became a lighter yellow.

The sky was cloudless. There was no vapor trail or exhaust from the thing, nor any noise of any kind.

Yet it was travelling too fast to get a hard, clear focus in the telescope to see details.

"It represents," Vaeth writes, "one of the best-substantiated and authentic unidentified objects sightings on record."

Jail Inmates Take School Courses

SASKATOON, Sept. 20 (CP)—Some 2,000 inmates in Canada's seven penitentiaries are taking correspondence courses on various educational subjects, Joseph McCully, Deputy Commissioner of Penitentiaries, said Wednesday.

Mr. McCully said in an interview that the penitentiaries' new policy of placing greater emphasis on rehabilitation of prisoners is meeting excellent results.

A recent survey taken among prisoners discharged from Collins Bay penitentiary of Kingston, showed that close to 80 per cent of those taking vocational education courses did not revert to crime.

Korean Surrender Turns Out To Be Hoax, Allies Not Caught Napping

EAST-CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Sept. 12. (AP)—Two hundred Korean Communists offered to surrender to the Allies today and a warm welcome was prepared. When the surrender offer turned out to be a hoax, the welcome got really hot. Allied artillery opened fire and planes strafed and bombed the Reds. At least 50 Reds were killed by artillery alone. The fake offer was delivered by one North Korean soldier who walked into UN lines north of Yanggu at 5 a.m. Friday. He said his battalion wanted to surrender. He was sent back to tell the others they could come over to Allied lines unharmed if they followed a certain route. They were to leave their weapons behind.

At 10 a.m., 150 Red infantrymen began moving south. Another 50 started a little later. From the air, all appeared unarmed.

UN troops watched warily. Allied artillery tracked them without firing. Observers watched from a hill and planes circled overhead.

When the Reds reached a point near the allied lines, they turned off the road and started up a trail leading toward a mountain ridge—a clear violation of their orders.

Guns Cut Loose

As the Reds hit the trail all the guns of one allied division cut loose.

The Reds who were not killed or wounded tried to escape in the mountain foliage. Planes took up the attack with strafing dives.

The Reds opened fire on an allied patrol. UN officers said this was a clear indication that they intended treachery, since they had been told to leave their arms behind.

Armored Attack

Allied armored columns jabbed into the north corner of the old Communist iron triangle in central Korea Friday, shot up everything in sight and then withdrew for the night.

It was perhaps the heaviest armored thrust of the Korean war. Infantrymen followed the tanks into action.

Elements of three allied divisions smashed northward within a short distance of Pyonggang, apex of the triangular area used last spring as a massive build-up area by the Chinese and Korean Reds.

On the hitherto-flaming eastern front, the five-week-old "battle of the hills" ebbed to sporadic clashes.

Taking No Chance Of Frostbite Casualties Troops Get Winter Clothing Month Ahead

WITH COMMONWEALTH FORCES IN KOREA, Sept. 21 (Reuters). — British troops should meet Korea's fierce winter more comfortably this year. Top-priority supplies of new winter clothing were being distributed today—a month ahead of schedule.

Last year, British troops suffered frostbite casualties through inferior winter clothing. Troops were without vital sleeping bags until January, an officer disclosed today.

Fifteen thousand heavy blankets were being distributed by army quartermasters. Assembled at Commonwealth distribution points were sleeping bags, newly - developed frostproof boots, fleecy underclothing and other protective clothing.

Protective outerclothing consists of fleecy woollen vests and elastic-bottomed, pajama-type trousers over long woollen under-pants.

Over this the soldier will have a parka then a new windproof jacket with hood and windproof trousers.

Canada's 25th Brigade, which is fighting with the Commonwealth forces, will have its own issue of winter clothing, developed in the Canadian northland and tested over a number of years. An army spokesman at Ottawa said the Canadian winter issue is recognized among the best in the world and that the PPCLI, who wore it in Korea last winter had no clothing problems.

Enthusiastic Welcome Given Destroyer Huron Back From Korean Duty

HALIFAX, Sept. 21. (CP)—Eastern Canada welcomed home her second Korean sea fighter today when the destroyer Huron sailed into Halifax harbor to a clamorous greeting. Cmdr. E. T. G. Madgwick of Halifax sailed the warship from her home port here Jan. 22 for a six-month tour of duty in Korean waters.

Also arriving was the cruiser Ontario, which accompanied Huron from the west coast, the destroyer's first stop on the way home. Both ships will remain here a few days before leaving to a rendezvous in mid-Atlantic with the Empress of France, carrying Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Canada.

Helicopters from the naval air base at nearby Shearwater met the warships outside the harbor and hung about the masts until they tied up at naval dockyard.

There, a navy band banged out "Hearts of Oak" amid whistles and horns, and the cries of wives and sweethearts.

The destroyer Nootka was welcomed home from Korea exactly one month ago.

Cmdr. Madgwick spoke proudly of his crew, most of whom have "well-deserved" short leaves coming. "First class under all conditions," he said.

One trophy the Huron brought back from Korea is a turtle, beautifully mounted on a shield, and presented by the Cayugs when Huron relieved her early this year. The Cayugans thought the east coast warship was a little slow getting there so inscribed on the plaque is "to our relief the Huron from patient Cayugans. 'The Order of the Turtle.'"

US Can Produce 50,000 Planes Year If War

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21 — (AP)— The United States defence-production chief said today the US has the capacity to pour out 30,000 tanks and 50,000 planes a year—plus strategic stockpiles "to carry us through a year of total war."

Manly Fleischmann, defence production administrator, said in an address prepared for delivery at the American Federation of Labor convention (2. p.m., EDT):

Stockpiles of strategic materials needed to carry through a year of all-out conflict would be available even though the US is cut off temporarily from foreign sources.

Steel Capacity

For example, steel capacity will be up 18,000,000 tons over the output before the Korean war. There is a 90-per-cent increase in primary aluminum capacity, with proportionate increases in electric power "and the other things we need."

Fleischmann said the country is threatened by a "shrewd, veteran back-alley fighter" who would use "every dirty trick in the book—military, political and economic.

"Since the Soviet threat may be with us for a considerable period, and since one of its goals is to break down our economy," he asserted, "we must go about achieving rearmament in a way that will assure us the arms and the productive capacity we need and at the same time strengthen, rather than weaken, our over - all economy."

Fire Destroys Block

BOWIE, Tex., Sept. 21 (AP)—Fire destroyed a city block in this north Texas town early today.

The blaze—still out of control—started in the Garrett Furniture Company at about 4 a.m. EDT. Already destroyed were the Bowie Weekly News; Bowie wholesale grocery concern; Ira Cafe; Bowie Bakery, and a steam laundry.

Bowie, with a population of 5,000, is 65 miles northwest of Fort Worth.

No injury was reported.

Airliner Guides Lost RCAF Plane

TRENTON, Set. 21—(CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines passenger plane guided an RCAF Harvard trainer back onto its course Thursday night after the light plane lost its way in darkness over Drumbo on a flight from London, Ont., to the air station here.

The Harvard took off from London, Ont., at 9.15 p.m. Forty-five minutes later the pilot radioed that he was off course and lost.

The control tower at Malton, 18 miles northwest of Toronto, diverted a Toronto-bound airliner flying from Chicago to the area where the air force plane was thought to be.

The airliner established radio contact with the Harvard and a few minutes later the crew sighted the trainer.

The Harvard followed the passenger plane until it passed over the Toronto area. Then it got back on course and came on to Trenton.

The anmes of the pilots involved were not released.

Peterborough Boys Return With RCAF Squadron 421

By WYNNE THOMAS
Examiner Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Canadian joint staff announced here this week that the Royal Canadian Air Force squadron that has been serving in Britain with the Royal Air Force since the beginning of this year is to return to Canada before Christmas. The squadron is No. 421, the famous "Red Indian" Squadron, which has been operating British-built Vampire jet fighters from Odiham airfield, 25 miles south of London, which during the last war was a "Battle of Britain" station. No. 421 is comprised largely of Ontario personnel.

The squadron's return home had been rumored for some time, but the first definite news here was given by Flight Lieutenant Allan Marshall, who is serving with the RCAF division of the Canadian joint staff. Flight Lieutenant Marshall, whose home is in Peterborough, said today "421 is going home for Christmas—and this time it's true!"

He also disclosed that No. 421 Squadron is to be relieved in England by No. 410 Fighter Squadron, RCAF, which is scheduled to arrive at North Luffenham airfield, near Leicester, on October 15. This squadron will be equipped with Canadian-built Sabre jet fighters, which are claimed to be the fastest aircraft in squadron service in the world.

Two more Canadian jet squadrons are scheduled to arrive in Britain next year, bringing Canadian fighter strength over here to one wing. The wing will be commanded by Group Captain E. B. Hale, DFC, of Hamilton, who will arrive next month. The present commanding officer of No. 421 Squadron, Wing Commander Bob Davidson, will remain as chief operations officer of the Canadian Fighter Wing.

The definite date of No. 421 Squadron's return home has not been disclosed, but the move is likely to take place some time in November.

Woman's World Statistics Show

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (AP) —Think this a man's world? Then take a look at this.

It comes from Lillian L. Joseph, New York agent for Home Life Insurance Co., who spoke Thursday before the National Association of Life Underwriters' convention.

"Women," said she, "constitute about 43 per cent of the stockholders who own the corporations of America.

"They own 65 per cent of the accounts held in mutual savings banks.

"They hold title to 40 per cent of the 30,000,000 homes in the United States.

"Women pay 80 per cent of all inheritance taxes and 40 per cent of all property taxes.

"They directly control the spending of 80 per cent of the national income." That leaves, Miss Joseph pointed out, 20 per cent for the men to spend for themselves.

Iran Drops Plan To Send Ultimatum

Election In Britain Gives Mossadegh Chance To Save Face

TEHRAN, Sept. 21. (AP) — Informed sources said today Premier Mohammed Mossadegh is dropping plans to send Britain an ultimatum on the stalled oil talks until after the British election next month.

A note demanding the re-opening of negotiations— broken off last month—will go to London soon. But it will be minus the threat to expel within 15 days the last British oil technicians left in Iran, it was reliably reported.

The switch in tactics is said to be based on Mossadegh's belief that Prime Minister Attlee could not make any further compromises with Iran while fighting the election aagainst the Conservatives. The main Opposition Party led by Winston Churchill, has advocated a tougher policy with Iran.

Cabinet Meeting

The Iranian Cabinet has scheduled a meeting for Saturday to decide what to do with the ultimatum. Mossadegh had tried to relay it to Britain via W. Averell Harriman in Washington. Harriman refused a few days ago to send it on.

The announcement of British elections in October appears to have given Mossadegh a face-saving means of avoiding a showdown with Britain at a time when his own drastic policies are leading to increased opopsition in Iran.

The Shah, who for the last five months has been holding aloof from the bitter oil-nationalization dispute, is now reported to be playing a leading role in getting Mosadegh to withdraw the ultimatum. The Shah's minister of court has been holding hush-hush meetings with Iranian political figures and British and American diplomats.

If the oil dispute simmers for another month without a threatened break with Britain, it will give Mossadegh time to consolidate his forces against opposition in the Majlis (Lower House). Parliamentary elections in Iran are scheduled for November and December.

A note to Britain urging reopening of the oil talks probably will be sent to London on Saturday or Sunday.

Frenchmen Get Terrible Shock

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 21 — (AP).—It's going to be harder than ever to convince some Frenchmen that America isn't all the "wild west."

Three Frenchmen were standing in a hotel lobby Thursday while one of them told a reporter they had come to get acquainted with America.

"They sent us to Hartford," he said, "because it is the—how do you say—typical American city"

He was about to go on when his voice broke. He stared. So did the other Frenchmen.

Three men in full Sioux Indian regalia were stalking across the lobby.

The "Indians" were here for a cigar festival.

Gromyko Charges Attempted Break-In

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 21 (AP)—Andrei Gromyko touched off an early-morning alarm on the liner Ile de France today by reporting that someone tried to enter his $1,100 luxury suite.

The Soviety deputy foreign minister, enroute home from the Japanese peace-treaty conference at San Francisco, called a steward and said he had found one of the doors to the suite unlocked.

"Someone has entered or tried to enter my room," Gromyko told him.

The steward called night watchmen who searched the area thoroughly but found nothing amiss.

Gromyko finally dismissed them, locked his door and gave orders he was not to be disturbed during the liner's stop here.

Take Law Into Hands

MONTBARD, France, Sept. 21. (Reuters)—Cattle breeders took the law into their own hands Thursday night and rustled six state-owned bulls from an artificial insemination centre here. Later they told police they had merely transferred the bulls to Norges-La-Ville, about 30 miles away because that was more convenient for breeders. They said the bulls had already been "pressed into service." They want the government to transfer the entire centre to Norges-La-Ville. But Montbard breeders oppose the demand. They have organized themselves as vigilantes to defend the remaining bulls—"with pitch forks, if necessary."

Pearson Heads NATO Council For Next Year

OTTAWA, Sept. 21 (CP)—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, with a blast at Russia's "empty" peace offers and with plans for bringing Greece and Turkey into the anti-Communist coalition, Thursday concluded a five-day secret meeting here.

The 12-member organization today enters a new phase in its two-year career with many problems ahead and with Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson at the helm. He took over from Foreign Minister Van Zeeland of Belgium as president at the end of the council meetings and will hold the post for a year.

The decision to recommend admission of Greece and Turkey to NATO was described by State Secretary Acheson of the United States as the "big, concrete, immediate achievement" in Ottawa.

He told a press conference it was not easy for some members to support a US proposal that NATO be extended to the Near East. But in the end the decision was unanimous. Earlier, Norway and particularly Denmark had pressed for a Mediterranean pact that would include Greece and Turkey.

Must Mark Time

The two countries cannot be invited to join NATO until most parliaments have ratified the council's recommendation. However, it is understood that the United States, Britain and France have already substantially agreed on a separate NATO command for the Near East.

Greece would be under Gen. Eisenhower's European command, but a new command would be built around Turkey. This command would possibly work out close military arrangements with other eastern countries.

The reference to the Russian peace offers was contained in a statement, declaring the council's decision to expand its co-operation in such non-military fields as economics, finance, foreign policy and even culture.

The statement recalled that the Atlantic Pact Organization was formed to preserve peace. Then, without mentioning Russia by name, the statement said:

"A series of so-called peace offers as vague in language as they are obscure in content are made from time to time. The peoples of the North Atlantic community will test these offers by the deeds that follow them. They will never reject any genuine move for peace, but will not be deflected from building up their defensive strength by mere empty words about peace."

King's Doctors Make 4th Visit In 48 Hours

LONDON (CP). — A Buckingham Palace spokesman said today there has been no indication that the King's treatment for the lung ailment requires an operation.

LONDON, Sept. 21 —(AP)— The King, who is suffering from a lung ailment of an undisclosed nature, was visited by his doctors today for the fourth time in 48 hours.

A crowd of several hundred persons outside Buckingham Palace saw Sir John Weir, the King's chief physician, and three associates enter the gate shortly before noon.

It was reported in court circles that the treatment prescribed so far for the ailing monarch consists mainly of rest.

Except to say that the ailment has led to "structural changes" in one lung, doctors have given no hint of what it is.

Dosco Cuts Production By One Third

Shuts Down 1 Furnace In Retaliation Against Strikers

SYDNEY, NS, Sept. 21. (CP) —Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation announced today it it shutting down one of its two blast furnaces here because of wildcat walkouts and a sitdown strike among its 4,700 employees.

The decision was announced in a letter from C. M. Anson, Dosco chief of steel operations, to Ed. Corbett, president of the Sydney local of United Steel Workers (CIO-CCL).

An informed source said the action would reduce production by at least one-third.

Waging Battle

The closure was the latest in a series of moves and counter-moves that began last July when the workers started a series of wildcat walkouts—termed spontaneous by the union — while Dosco and the union conducted wage negotiations.

Dosco already has suspended 1,190 men as a result of the work stoppages.

The union is seeking wage parity with Central Canada steel workers and twice turned down an offer of a 10-cent hourly increase along with a cost-of-living bonus of 3½ cents an hour. However, last week the company announced it was inaugurating the boost — a move termed by Mr. Corbett an attempt to break the union. The old contract provided an hour wage of $1.17 as compared to Stelco's $1.29.

Dosco president Lionel A. Forsyth, commenting in Montreal, denied the company made any attempt to wreck the union and accused the men of failing to live up to their contract.

BC Forest Fires Take New Toll

VANCOUVER, Sept. 21 — (CP) —Mountain-climbing forest fires today took a new toll in the British Columbia woods.

No communities were in danger but the flames swept a new path of destruction across the woodlands.

A new fire exploded as tree-topping flames spread across 2,000 acres of timberlands in the Lund ranger district, 75 miles north of Vancouver.

After whipping across logging operations of the Northern Timber Company, destroying camp installations and large quantities of felled timber, the flames swept up a nearby mountain. They raged out of control early today.

At Nanaimo on Vancouver Island and Squamish, 30 miles north of here on the mainland, the situation was improved.

Hog Marketing Agency

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP) — Delegates to the Ontario Hog Producers Association meeting here today expressed their desire to establish a marketing agency for hogs. At the same time, W. G. Johnson, secretary of the association, said it appears that powerful groups are controlling market prices by having 90 per cent of the hogs delivered directly to the buyer. He said that only 10 per cent of the hogs sold are actually purchased on the Ontario Livestock Market.

5 Coaches Smashed In Plunge, Search Wreckage

WEEDON, Northampton, England, Sept. 21. (AP) — A speeding express train jumped the tracks here today, smashing five coaches and killing at least 11 persons. Another 45 passengers on the 15-coach train, bound from Liverpool to London, were injured. Hours after the crash, police and British Army rescue workers were still combing the wreckage for possible further casualties. Earlier police had said 20 persons were killed. (Reuters News Agency quoted Canadian Pacific Steamship officials as saying that so far as it is known, there were no passengers from the liner Empress of France aboard the wrecked train. The ship docked at Liverpool early today with Canadians aboard.)

Goes Down Bank

The accident occurred as the train was leaving Stowe Hill tunnel, half a mile south of here on the main London-Liverpool line.

The locomotive plunged down a step embankment. Five of the leading coaches piled up, badly smashing the first two.

It sheared off telephone and telegraph lines, cutting communications with the scene of the accident until emergency repairs were made.

Rescuers pried through the wreckage, fearful that other bodies were hidden underneath.

The same tunnel was the scene of a rail disaster in 1916, when the Irish mail was wrecked.

Ambulances were rushed to the scene today from Northampton, Rugby and Daventry, and injured pulled from smoldering ruins described as looking "like the after-effects of an air raid" were rushed to nearby hospitals.

The engineer, buried under tons of coal which slid from the tender was dug out badly injured.

An early estimate by the Northamptonshire county police had given the number of dead as 20. The later figure was based on an actual count of bodies recovered.

This was the fourth serious accident on Britain's nationalized railways this year. In the earlier accidents a total of 27 persons died and 103 were injured.

The train involved in today's crash was carrying about 700 persons nearly half of whom arrived in Liverpool by ship from Belfast, Northern Ireland, this morning.

Ridgway Delays Answer On Red Proposal

TOKYO, Sept. 21 (AP).—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway withheld his answer today to a Communist proposal to resume the Korean truce talks at Kaesong.

But while the move to resume armistice talks hung fire, allied armor roared out loudly across the Korean battlefront.

Even Red China's Peiping radio —the Communist sounding board —was notably silent.

There was only a dribble of hashed-over complaints of Kaesong neutrality violations where torrents used to flow.

Meanwhile, hope rode high in Tokyo and at the advance UN command camp near Munsan that the truce talks would be re-opened despite Ridgway's silence and the rising crescendo of action along the battlefront.

No Hints Given

There still was no definite indication when the supreme allied commander would answer for the message of Thursday from the Red leaders, North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

The Communist strategists suggested "immediate" resumption of the peace discussions they broke off 29 days ago on charges of allied air and ground violations of the restricted zone around Kaesong.

The Reds want liaison officers of both sides to meet and fix a tune for reopening the conferences. They hope to discuss at this first session a plan for guaranteeing the neutrality of Kaesong and settling differences over previously-charged violations.

A spokesman in Ridgway's public information office said he was still awaiting word that the commander-in-chief has begun drafting his answer. The answer was expected in 24 to 48 hours.

Kennedy Appointed Forestry Consultant

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP). — Appointment of Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy as consultant to the Ontario government in forestry matters was announced today by Premier Frost and Forest Minister Scott.

It is part of the government's policy to put Ontario forest resources on a "sustained yield" basis as an angual crop and Gen Kennedy's appointment is believed in line with that poliey.

Gen. Kennedy, as Royal commissioner inquired into forestry practices in Ontario and is the author of the Kennedy report. He will relinquish his private practice which related to forestry operations in Ontario. He will, however, continue his work as a member of the advisory committee on forestry which was appointed by the government some time ago.

A suggestion that the Ontario government was not following out the recommendations of the Kennedy report was denied by the Premier.

Railway Unions To Ask Increase

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 (CP). — Frank H. Hall, chairman of the general conference committee representing 18 international railway unions, today announced the unions have approached Canadian railways for consideration of wage increases because of the increasing cost-of-living.

"In view of the fact that last year's arbitration settlement has another year to go," he said, "no formal request for a specific amount of increase has been represented. It was anticipated the railways would give sympathetic coisideration to the matter as being a common problem, and that there would be discussions between them and the unions on the subject in the near future."

He said the last increase for the majority of railway workers was effective Sept. 1, 1950, under the arbitration award of Mr. Justics R. L. Kellock. It amounted to seven cents an hour.

Deny Restaurants Raiding Pocketbooks

Labor, Food Costs Soar, But Eating Places Not Making Killing

KINGSTON, Sept. 21— (CP)— Clarence L. Sorensen, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, today denied that restaurants are "raiding" their patrons' pocketbooks.

The charge was made in Ottawa Tuesday by L. F. Burrows, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council, who said in a statement that restaurants were charging "fantastic" prices for home-grown fruits and vegetables.

Mr. Burrows said the high prices were restricting the sale of Canadian products and "damaging the entire fruit and vegetable industry."

Mr. Sorensen, now on a good-will tour in connection with his association duties, said the charges made by Mr. Burrows were "exaggerated and misleading." Answering his accusations point by point, Mr. Sorensen said that there was little seasonal variation in prices because of the labor costs involved. "In winter you serve canned fruit dishes: in summer you have to pay someone to peel and clean the fruit. It all evens up."

Referring to the charge that ingredients of an apple pie selling for $1.20 amounted to only 10 cents, Mr. Sorensen said the actual costs were 14 cents for the apples and 15 cents for the crust. "But many restaurants buy that same pie from bakeries and it costs them $1.05."

Not Making Killing

As for Mr. Burrows' statement that restaurants were charging 15 cents for servings of onions and potatoes which cost less than two cents a pound, Mr. Sorensen said that the cost was actually four cents a pound in each case, to which must be added costs of wastage, overhead and labor.

"Wholesale food prices are up two to five times over their pre-war levels and labor costs have doubled or tripled. Restaurant prices at top are no more than twice what they were before the war. And yet some people think we are making a killing."

CCL Starts Wage Boost Drive

Tries To Heal Breach Opened By TLC At Halifax Parley

VANCOUVER, Sept. 21. — (CP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor has pulled the trigger on a wage drive among its 350,000 members to meet rising living costs.

The CCL, taking this action at its annual convention Thursday, lined up with the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in giving affiliated unions the lead towards seeking living-cost wage hoists.

The TLC step was taken at Halifax last week. It closely paralleled that of the Congress here, which promised support to its unions in looking for "substantial" pay boosts.

The CCL went further than the rival Congress in deciding to set up regional committees to work with the unions and with a national wage co-ordinating committee of the Congress itself in laying down wage policy.

Try To Heal Breach

Besides going along with the other Congress on the wage question, the CCL made an attempt Thursday to heal a breach opened up between the congresses at the Halifax session of the older and bigger TLC.

It came out solidly for organic —absolute—unity of all branches of Canadian labor, a step directly opposite to that of the TLC, which adopted a policy declaration moving it away from the degree of partial co-operation now existing between the central labor bodies in Canada.

The Canadian Congress of Labor leadership has had such unification in mind for several years, but Thursday's resolution was the first time a CCL convention has gone on record in such definite terms.

It called for "one unified central labor body," saying that it is the only way for organized labor to be fully effective in advancing the ordered the CCL executive to initiate plans to bring about organic unity with the other groups.

Elect Winnipeg Chief Association Head

HALIFAX, Sept. 21 (CP) — Police Chief Charles MacIver of Winipeg today was elected president of the Chief Constables Association as the organization headed into final sessions of its annual convention here. He succeeds Chief John Chisholm of Toronto.

New vice-presidents are: Joseph Griffith, Outremont, Que.; Walter H. Mulligan, Vancouver; Robert Alexander, York Township, Ont.

Korean Surrender

The armored thrusts on the central front were the first heavy allied attacks in that sector since the Communist offensive last May was rolled back.

The assault force rolled deep into the valley massing area before it ran into firm resistance.

Front-line reports said one spearhead was locked in savage combat with Red troops swarming on all sides.

Overhead, allied planes darkened the skies.

Called Raid

The thrust was dubbed "operation cleaver." But it was not officially labelled an offensive—it was an armored raid.

Pyonggang, apex of the triangle which also is bounded by the key cities of Chorwon on the southwest and Kumhwa on the southeast, is 29 miles north of the 38th parallel.

Bitter fighting flared across 80 miles of the Korean front, all the way from the triangle area eastward to the sea of Japan.

On the east-central front the Reds hurled fresh troops into the bloody "battle of the hills." They stopped the month-old allied advance in its tracks.

Only local patrol clashes were reported from the western front.

Eleven times UN infantry stormed the spiny ridges. Eleven times they were thrown back. It was the strongest Communist stand in months.

Witness Tells Story of Party

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 21 (CP)—The story of a party which ended in a slaying was told here Thursday at the trial of Wasyl Krawiec, 24, accused of murdering 29-year-old Jonas Norkus.

Speaking through an interpreter, Milevojo Bozic, once a German lawyer and now an immigrant laborer, told the court how he had attended a party last July 21 at a railway section house at remote Agawa, 120 miles north of here.

He said that the party had been attended by Norkus, Krawiec, himself, his wife and Mrs. Adele Vinslovas, 25-year-old wife of a railway section foreman. The five danced and drank home-made wine, he said.

The witness said that Krawiec and Norkus began to argue and then to push each other around. Norkus grabbed Krawiec and pushed him out the front door of the section house, hitting him in the face 10 times or more.

Bozic said he left at this point but returned in time to see Norkus come from the living room of the house, holding his hands over his chest.

"He pushed past me," continued Bozic, "reached the back porch and fell on his back."

Personnel Meets At Buckhorn Lodge

Peterborough Personnel Association held their second annual ladies' night Thursday at Buckborn Lodge. Members from most city industries were present.

Chairman was Len Woodman, who reported on the group's fall program on industrial training. A special study group will be set up on supervisory development, he said.

Emcee of the variety program was A. H. Heideman.

Stanley Payne YM Chairman

Peterborough YMCA membership campaign this year will be headed by Stanley G. Payne, with C. S. Cummer, Paul Irwin and J. E. Girven as principal adjutants. The campaign will open Monday, October 1 and close October 15. These decisions were taken at a campaign executive meeting held in the board room of the YM Thursday night, and attended by 20 with Alex L. Elliott, KC, chairman of the board representing the YMCA directors.

"This vigorous response at the planning stage of the campaign speaks well for its success," Mr. Payne said. "We have a senior membership now of 650. When these are all renewed and new members gathered in, the Y will be in an exceptionally robust condition." Campaign objectives have not yet been set.

The membership drive was organized into three divisions and each division was subdivided under team captains. They are: Division A (C. S. Cummer, major): Grant Morrow, Ted Cranfield, Alex Sinclair, Jack Franks, William Pinn; Division B (Paul Irwin, major): George Batley, William Watson, Newton Hamilton, Ford Warren, Eldon Purvis; Division C (J. E. Girven, major): R. N. Reed, John Brackenridge, Richard Burrows and two others to be named. Also on the campaign executive are: Howard David, G. H. Roper, T. J. Allen, and Charles Forsyth, general secretary.

The membership campaign for juniors is already under way. Last year 390 young boys were members and the rate of renewal and new memberships in this department already indicates an even larger roll, Mr. Forsyth reported. The net for the senior membership is spread wide to encompass collegiate students, young working men, factories, business and the professions.

PCVS Player Chips Bone In Scrimmage

For the second straight season Reginald Fowler, 17, a plunging half for the PCVS seniors, has been sidelined due to injuries.

Star of the 1949 junior football season when he lead the team to the COSSA championship with his effective plunging. Fowler was taken to the Civic hospital from football practice Thursday night. A bone at the base of his spine was chipped in scrimmage. His condition is not considered serious.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fowler, R.R. 4, Peterborough, Fowler was forced out of junior play last season with a leg injury, making only several appearances with the championship team.

Record Outlay

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP) —American busines is making a record outlay for new plants and equipment in the last half of 1951. A joint survey by the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission indicates capital expenditures of $13,400,000 in the last half of this year. This would push the total for 1951 to $24,800,000,000, compared with $18,600,000,000 last year.

The list brought to 248 Canada's total casualties in Korea to date. These included 62 dead, 167 wounded, 18 injured in action and one missing. Gnr. Smith is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Smith.

Bevan Rallying Forces For Fight

LONDON, Sept. 21 (Reuters). —Aneurin Bevan, firebrand of the Labor Party, today was the centre of the first storm blowing out of the campaign for Britain's October 25 general election.

Bevan's pamphlet published today, assailed the Labor Party's national executive, including its trade union leaders, and claimed that world events have proved the Bevanites' contention that the government was wrong in its defence budgetting. Bevan says the rearmament program will wreck British economy.

The pamphlet was scheduled publication before the election date was announced, but it threw into sharp focus the potential split in labor lines.

Today, the voice of the powerful trade unions—whose confidence Bevan has been trying to win—sounded a rallying call to the Party.

Sir William Lawther, president of the 600,000-strong National Union of Mineworkers, one of the most influential bodies in the 8,000,000-member Trades Union Congress, told a reporter:

"Nothing said by any section of opinion, however important it may regard itself, will deter any single miner, and his wife and family, from massing themselves solidly behind the Labor Government."

Some labor supporters predict the timing of Bevan's publication may antagonize party members who were sympathetic to him. There will be a strong effort to unite the party during the next month.

Catching Diseases Total 298 In Summer

Poliomyelitis is not the only communicable disease that has circulated in Peterborough during the summer months.

Five other "catching" diseases have also presented themselves in the city during this period as reported at the board of health meeting Thursday by Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH.

Chickenpox heads the list with a total of 109 cases in June, July and August. German measles are next with 104 and the remainder are: measles, 34; mumps, 40; scarlet fever, 7; whooping cough, 4.

During the three month period, seven residents were diagnosed as suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis. These were classified as one quiescent and six active. Five of the active cases were admitted to institutions for treatment and one left the municipality.

Dr. Kelly also reported that 17 child health centres were held in June with a total attendance of 340 infants and pre-school children. In July there were 354 at 14 clinics.

Baseball's Popularity Said Safe In Canada

LIVERPOOL, England, Sept. 21 (Reuters)— Baseball's popularity in Canada is safe, at least from cricket, said R. W. V. Robins who arrived here today after captaining the MCC cricket team on a 9,000-mile tour through the Dominion.

"Although cricket will never be the national sport of Canada an increasing interest is being taken in the game, sponsored to a large degree by the emigration of cricketers from England and the West Indies," Robins said in an interview after arriving aboard the liner Empress of France.

The MCC captain found the Canadian game greatly improved since his club last visited the Dominion in 1937.

Canadian fielding, he said, was "superb." Bowling was "accurate and hostile," but batting was "weak."

Fire Destroys Part Of Town

FORKS, Wash., Sept. 21 (AP)— A "man-caused" forest fire which swept 18 miles from the western-most edge of the Olympic National Forest to this little logging town in 12 hours let up with a fortunate shift in the wind Thursday night.

"We have hope now," said M. R. Hull, head of the Forks Telephone Company. "We hope to be able to save the majority of the town."

Hull said two sawmills, two big logging truck garages and 15 houses were razed by the fire.

Forks was like a ghost town. Some 85 per cent of the population of 1,120 residents were evacuated. Expectant mothers were flown out by coast guard seaplanes.

The Forest Service notified its Washington, DC, headquarters that the fire was "man-caused" and had burned over more than 20,000 acres.

Variety Show Opening Success

Successful in its first night, Thursday night, Going Places, the musical variety show sponsored by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association will be running again tonight.

Leading roles in the show, taken by James V. Weyer and Mrs. Rita Mitchell, were well done, and the Cinderella scene was one of the best parts of the revue. Cinderella was Barbara Parker, Maureen Carter the fairy godmother and Gary Calberry was Prince Charming.

At tonight's show, winners in the baby contest will be announced.

At the first night, the multi-colored evening gowns worn by the chorus provided a colorful background for a fashion show sponsored by the YWCA.

Specialty numbers were done by Judy Bell, Joyce LeFave, Earl Gillespie and Jean Weyer. A cake was drawn for and a number of other prizes distributed.

Two Dock Strikes Ended In Britain

LONDON, Sept. 21 (Reuters)— Two of Britain's three dock disputes ended today when 7,000 dock workers and tugmen resumed normal working in London and Manchester.

The remaining dispute continued when about 2,000 dock workers at Tilbury, within the Port of London, decided today to continue their five-day strike against new labor recruitment plans.

About 4,500 London tugmen, who have been on a go-slow strike since Monday, resumed normal work today on union orders as the Labor Ministry refused to appoint a committee to investigate wage claims under pressure.

In Manchester, 2,500 dock workers ended their two-day token strike against the suspension of 29 colleagues for refusing to work overtime.

Baby of Squadron

Among those going home will be the 'baby' of the squadron, 22-year-old Flying Officer John E. Greatrix of Park St., Peterborough, whose father is a well-known Peterborough druggist. Flying Officer Greatrix, who joined the RCAF three years ago, has accumulated a very large number of flying hours on Vampire aircraft during his stay over here and is now a fully qualified fighter pilot.

Also going home are Corporal Alvin M. Casey of Emily Township, who is a radar technician with the squadron; Corporal John Fisher of Norwood, a metal worker, and Corporal A. L. Ferguson of Belleville.

Since its arrival in this country, No. 421 Squadron has acquired a reputation for serviceability and flying that has made it the envy of every fighter squadron in the RAF—and this year it has flown more hours than any jet squadron in the RAF. Indicative of the enthusiasm in the squadron is the fact that every member of the ground crew has flown in a two-seat Meteor jet aircraft, of which there are two on the squadron.

This Saturday is a big day for No. 421. Several members of the squadron are playing for a representative Canadian team which meets a team selected from the American Air Force in Britain in a baseball game at London's White City Stadium. The proceeds of the game go to the British Soldiers', Sailors' and Airmen's Families' Association. Similar baseball games over here have received much publicity and a recent match was televised by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Close Deal

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21 — (AP)— The city of San Francisco closed a tentative deal Thursday night to buy the antiquated California Street Cable Railroad Company for $138,032. The ancient hill-climbing cars of the bankrupt railroad have been in the barn since Aug. 1.

Coach Forages For His Team Provide Boys' Banquet

Rube Brady scrounged the makings of a "banquet" last night in Ashburnham town hall for the Anthony entry from Ashburnham in the Peewee division of the city's minor baseball league.

There are 18 or 20 youngsters in Brady's champs, and if the series wasn't the toughest in small boy ball around here it wasn't the fault of the Ashburnham kids. They take the best of three from Dalton's North-Enders, but a south end outfit—surely not Trojans—folded up. So, the title is already resting in Ashburnham. And, of course that called for a "banquet", and the coach has been panhandling for donations.

From his own accounting he fared pretty satisfactorily. For instance he drew a case of milk from Campbell's dairy, and apparently when he was over in that section of the town he invited Bill Ovens to be a speaker at the "banquet". Joe Anthony kicked in with two dozen bananas.

Hamilton's grocery on Simcoe St. was touched for a tin of cocoa, but Rube didn't go into the details of how the cocoa sifted down into the menu. Coca Cola management promises two cases of "Coke" and Gordon's two cases of their soft drinks.

The commissary up to that stage appeared to be heavily diluted and liquefied, but Mr. Brady gave the assurance that the mothers of champinos were providing sandwiches, cakes and pies.

Mr. Brady had invited Mayor Swanston and Ray Pammett, convener of the Minor Baseball League. Whether the three speakers made the grade was not reported this morning, but presumably one or others put in an appearance among the Peewee title holders. Baseball and hockey teams for the little gaffers are the limit of the Ashburnham athletes, but that is a whole lot.

At any rate the coach foraged plenty of liquid refreshments for his team, and he says he gets some support from the odd merchant, and wound up the ball season in the prescribed style. Probably next year, if there is another team of Ashburnham Peewees, they may run into more league opposition. From all accounts Rube imparts considerable know-how both in hockey and baseball, and after all there are not many coaches for neighborhood kids.

"I fully intended to go to the Ashburnham Peewee banquet last night, but I couldn't make it" Mayor Swanston said today. "Ald. Waddell had to go to Kitchener, and as I think the council should be represented at the meetings of the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital, I went in his place instead of going to the town hall with Rube Brady's kids.

"Rube has been doing a fine job with the youngsters over there. He told me one day he was pretty proud of the fact that Cece Perdue played shortstop on one of his kid teams years ago, and learned his baseball in Ashburnham."

Mr. Brady telephone the affair went over fine, although his three main speakers didn't show up.

"However, I gave the boys a talk, and also Alex Sinclair of the Recreation Commission, and several others. And through the kindness of our librarian, Mr. Graff, we had a nice nature picture. Several of the mothers were on hand to look after the kitchen and the boys had a good time, and just thank everybody for helping and especially Mr. Graff."

Canadian War Effort Praised By Acheson

OTTAWA, Sept. 21 (CP). — US State Secretary Acheson said Thursday that Canada's contribution in Korea is "really an extraordinary one."

He made the statement at a press conference when he was asked if he was satisfied that Canada is doing her share in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mr. Acheson said he believes Canada has done a fine job. Everyone knew that Canada would do her full share in any undertaking.

Czechs Demand Train Fugitives

LONDON, Sept. 21 (Reuters)— Czechoslovakia Thursday protested to the US Embassy in Prague against the "unlawful detention" of 27 Czechs who escaped across the Czech border in a train September 11 to seek political asylum in West Germany.

The protest was reported by Prague radio, heard in London.

Seizure of the train was organized by the engineer and his fireman. Instead of taking their passengers along the scheduled route, they threw a track switch near the border and roared into the US zone of Germany at 60 miles an hour.

Only their families and friends were in on the secret and 86 Czechs taken across the border against their will were returned by the US authorities.

Demanding the return of the "terrorist" refugees, today's note said they committed crimes which came under criminal codes operating in the US as well as Czechoslovakia.

"They captured several dozen peaceful citizens, including women and children, under threat to their lives and security," the note said.

"It has been established that the plan was prepared well in advance and financed by a foreign agency."

Quebec Priest Given High French Award

QUEBEC, Sept. 21 (CP).—The French Academy has awarded Le Prix de la Langue Francaise (French language prize) to Abbe Arthur Maheux, professor and author who writes and lectures about Canadian unity and the value of French culture to Canada.

Abbe Maheux, archivist of Quebec Seminary and Laval University as well as of the Royal Society of Canada, has been informed of the award by Robert d'Harcourt, secretary of the Institut de France.

The prize, awarded for services to the French language "rendered outside France," was given the 66-year-old Quebec priest for "most generous and most enlightened devotion to French language, thought and spirit."

Abbe Maheux who has spent recent months working on a history of Laval University, observing its centenary next year, has lectured in Canada from coast to coast and has written extensively on Canadian history and problems of Canadian unity.

Prize For Writings

The French Academy's prize is in recognition of his writings between 1917 and 1950 which have been the subject of theses at different periods by four Laval University students taking librarians' courses.

They include such works of the last decade as "Nos Debuts Sous le Regime Anglais," "French Canada and Britain—a New Interpretation," "Canadian Unity" — What Keeps Us Apart," "Problems of Canadian Unity," "Pourquoi Sommes Nous Divises," and "Propos Sur l'Education."

Among contributions to newspapers and magazines, Abbe Maheux for six years has written a weekly article on Canadian subjects for The Montreal Star which prints the column in French and English.

Industrials Weaken On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP). — Industrials weakened steadily today in early afternoon Stock Market dealings. Prices dipped slightly at the opening, hesitated, and then turned steadily lower.

Activity continued strong with selected base metal and western oil issues figuring largely in the turnover. Volume for the first three hours was 2,481,000 shares. Industrials, especially market leaders, also were active.

Only banks found enough support to go against the trend for fractional advances. Constructions held firm while utilities, agricultures, foods, liquors, textiles and miscellaneous industrials showed little trend.

Western oils weakened. Mid-continent traded more than 300,000 shares for penny gains. Calnorth, Kroy, and Pacific Petroleum also bucked the trend.

Base metals were mixed and senior golds turned downward.

The Exchange's 1 pm indices showed industrials down 2.58 at 356.50, golds down .47 at 84.12, base metals down .13 at 195.43, and western oils down .97 at 119.06.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 — (CP) —The American dollar today opened at 5 23/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Thursday's close. That is, it took $1.05 23/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.96, also unchanged.

DESTROYED but not lost

Find Irrigation Brings Riches To S. Alberta

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Recommended reading: "More Green Acres," a new 40-page illustrated booklet put out by the Lethbridge, Alta., Chamber of Commerce.

The booklet is a successor to one called "Green Acres"; and the "More" is tacked in front because of the coming into operation this year of the St. Mary River dam.

The dam is part of the St. Mary-Milk Rivers development which will bring water to a further 400,000 acres of farmland in Southern Alberta, a country already enriched by irrigation.

For farmers and ranchers it is a land of sugar beets and cattle, and most everything that grows on Canadian farmlands. For instance, the quick-freeze plant in Lethbridge now produces more than 20 per cent of all quick-frozen vegetables marketed in Canada. And 4,000 irrigated farms will be available for settlement over the next few years.

For industry there is coal, natural gas and electricity, and a growing market. In general, there is a good way of life. In the words of the booklet:

Answer To Quest

"You folks who love the soil and are looking for opportunities on the land — you industrialists who seek new fields of endeavour —will realize that with the new era in Southern Alberta comes the answer to your quest. Examine this booklet and see if it is not so."

Canadian Exporters' Association will sponsor a 16-week course in foreign trade in co-operation with the Institute of Business Administration of the University of Toronto. Lecturers will be drawn from Canadian universities and government officials.

Paul D. Mercia, of New York, executive vice-president of International Nickel Co. of Canada, Ltd., has been awarded the gold medal of the American Society for Metals. The medal recognizes exceptional ability in the diagnosis and solution of metallurgical problems. The presentation will be made in Detroit Oct. 18.

Wets Organize For Liquor Vote

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 21 — (ENS)—The Affirmative Citizens Committee, a group of citizens campaigning for the establishment of a government liquor store and beer warehouse in Campbellford, held a meeting at their Front St. committee rooms on Thursday evening.

An advertising campaign was drawn up, and chairmen of the four wards in the town gave reports on their progress to date.

Both affirmative and negative citizens' committees have been formed, and both sides are going all out in their efforts.

The plebiscite will be decided at the polls on October 31.

Will Defy Order

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 21 (CP) —Some retail grocers said Thursday they will defy an Ontario Control Board order to sell milk in their stores for a cent a quart less than the delivered price of 22 cents. A newspaper survey showed most retailers would refuse to abide by the board order, effective today, when the delivered price jumps to 22 cents from 20. They said they, too, would charge 22 cents.

Associate Professor

MONTREAL, Sept. 21—(CP)—Appointment of Hugh MacClennan, one of Canada's leading novelists, as Associate Professor of English, part time, at McGill University was announced Thursday. Author of "Each Man's Son," "Two Solitudes," and "The Precipice," Mr. MacClennan is a graduate of Dalhousie University and a former Rhodes scholar.

Breaks Arm

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 21 (CP)—Minutes after 13-year-old Shirley Thomas and her pony Bobby Sox took riding and driving honors at the Shedden Fair Thursday, she fell backwards over a rope and the pony stepped on her arm, breaking it. She is a daughter of F. S. Thomas. Progressive Conservative member of the Provincial Legislature for Elgin.

Killed In Collision

BRANTFORD, Sept. 21 (CP)—Collision of a gasoline truck and a light panel truck on the brow of a curving hill today resulted in the death of Ralph Cayuga, 21, of Six Nations Reserve. A companion, Virginia Hill, 18, was taken to hospital with severe injuries.

Operation Bee's Nest

COBOURG, Sept. 21 (ENS) —Riled by stings from a nearby nest of bees, a local citizen yesterday set fire to a ball of rags on the end of a pole and shoved it up beneath the nest. Somebody unknown saw the smoke rising and from where he was it looked as if it were coming out of the roof of the Taunton apartment house. He rang in the fire alarm. Cobourg fire department responded and after viewing the situation decided not to interfere with the operation on the bees nest.

TORONTO DANSEUR—Don Gillies, 22, of Toronto, is one of three Canadians who will be with the Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet when it tours Canada this season. Don spent four years with Boris Volkoff in Toronto, later going to London to dance in musicals such as "Tough at the Top," "High Button Shoes" and "Pastorale."

WITH SADLER'S WELLS — Arnott Mader, 22, of Kitchener, Ont., is newest member of the Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet, which will tour Canada this season. He already has appeared in the London production of Robert Helpmann's modern ballet "Golden City" and as principal dancer in the Ivor Novello musical "King's Rhapsody."

VICTORIOUS HOMECOMING—Among dancers of the Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet Company touring Canada this season will be 18-year-old Carlu Carter, of Winnipeg. Miss Carter was with Winnipeg Ballet for more than four years before auditioning for the "Wells." The company is the junior group to the famous Sadler's Wells Ballet. It will tour Eastern Canada for about six months.

Foundry Worker Acquitted In Murder Case

WELLAND, Sept. 21 —(CP)— By a verdict which a judge said may increase the hazards of married life, Edward Anthony Bassett, 49-year-old foundry worker from Buffalo, NY, Thursday night was acquitted of murder in the shotgun-slaying last June 16 of his common-law wife.

Bassett said he did not intend to kill Mrs. Leone Peterson when he wielded the pump gun that literally blew the top of the woman's head off at the cottage they shared at nearby Crystal Beach.

He said he had taken out the gun to end his own life, after a day of quarrelling that started when he found the woman in bed with another man.

Th jury deliberated only 22 minutes at the end of the three-day trial. When its verdict was announced, some of the spectators cheered and the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Malton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court, ordered seven women removed from the courtroom.

Increase Hazards

After thanking the jury for its services, Mr. Justice Wells commented:

"It may be that, in common with other juries in Ontario, you are considerably increasing the hazards of married life. But that is your responsibility and I have to leave it with you."

A free man, Bassett shook hands with his lawyer, Allan L. Brooks, as he stepped from the prisoners' dock. Then he was embraced by relatives, who quickly ushered him outside and whisked him off to Buffalo by car.

Earlier, in the witness box, Bassett wept frequently as he described the turbulent events of the day of the shooting. He said Mrs. Peterson tossed beer bottles at him and threatened to cut his head off with a piece of shattered glass.

Just before the shooting, she threw an ornament through a window and hit him on the shoulder. He picked up the gun.

"I told her to drop the glass and leave. She wouldn't. I was holding the gun. It went off."

Bassett said he then turned the gun on himself, inflicting arm, chest and neck wounds.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21—(CP)— An international symposium on fundamental chemistry of cellulose and lignin will be held at McGill University, Sept. 24-26, it was announced here Thursday.

Some 250 scientists, chemists and engineers, and others interested in forest products and wood chemistry will attend the symposium sponsored by the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada, Dr. L. R. Thiesmeyer said.

Cheque Artist Along Front

COBOURG, Sept. 21 (ENS) — A trail of bogus cheques from Newcastle to Grafton is becoming visible and as more reports come in to the police, it may be extended. A Grafton merchant cashed a bad cheque recently drawn on a Kingston bank, giving the customer around $25 change in connection with the purchase.

At Cobourg a local store clerk sold some merchandise to a man answering the same description as the one in Grafton and gave him about $30 change. Up in Newtonville a stranger bought a used car for around $300 and tendered a bogus cheque. Police have not established whether the Newcastle job was done by the same cheque artist as visited the Cobourg and Grafton stores. Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine is investigating.

Chief Engineer

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 (CP)— R. A. Emerson of Montreal has been appointed chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, succeeding John E. Armstrong of Montreal who retires on pension at the end of the month, it was announced Thursday.

Driver Injured As Brakes Grab Car Somersaults

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 21 — (ENS)—A freak automobile accident resulted in painful injuries for a Havelock man on Thursday evening, when his car left the highway, somersaulted end over end in the air and landed right side up at the bottom of a 12 foot ditch.

Harry E. Jamieson, 46, of Havelock, was travelling north on No. 30 Highway six miles north of Campbellford near the Woodland Cheese Factory when the brakes of his car grabbed in the loose gravel. The car struck a mound of earth at the edge of the roadway, and turned end for end in mid air and came to rest in the deep ditch.

Jamieson is employed as timekeeper for the McFarland Construction Company, which is constructing a new section of highway between Campbellford and Havelock.

Stuart Rusaw of Norwood, an employee of the same firm, was standing near the spot where the car came to grief. He was directing trucks working on the roadway, and saw the car do its leapfrog act. He assisted Mr. Jamieson from the auto and summoned police.

Provincial Constable George Rose of Campbellford took the injured man to the office of Dr. W. W. Baker of Campbellford, where he was treated for concussion and a deep gash on the back of his head requiring several stitches to close.

The car was badly damaged, its underearriage wiped out. "Like coming in for a wheels-up landing," remarked Constable Rose.

Parent, Vice-Rector, Laval University, Quebec City; T. Boulanger, General Director of Studies, Catholic School Commission, Montreal;

Dr. J. G. Althouse, Chief Director of Education, Ontario; Dr. C. E. Phillips, Professor of Education, Ontario College of Education, Toronto; C. F. Cannon, Deputy Minister, Ontario; George Fitton, Brandon, Man., president of the Canadian School Trustees' Association; Mrs. W. K. Colin Campbell, president of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation, Toronto; Dr. Roby Kidd, Toronto, Director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education; J. R. Kidd, Ottawa, Director of the Canadian Citizenship Council.

Lucky Jump

STAR CITY, Ark., Sept. 21 (AP) — A crop-dusting pilot Thursday leaped to safety — without a parachute—just before his plane crashed into an unoccupied school building and burst into flames. William Hembree, 23, escaped with only minor bruises when the plane hit a tree and he jumped as it winged over.

Slightly Singed

SPOKANE, Sept. 21 — (AP) — Astonished workers said Thursday a month-old kitten apparently spent 48 hours in the 276-degree heat of a brick kiln and came out only singed. A fireman at the plant put on an asbestos suit broke open the kiln, reached in and got the cat out.

Bomber Burned

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Sept. 21 — (AP) — A B-47 jet bomber mysteriously burst into flames and was destroyed while standing on the runway at Eielson Air Force base Thursday. An air force spokesman said there were no casualties.

Beer Planted In Car Case Dismissed

A case of beer, slipped into the back seat of a car after midnight September 16 unknown to the driver, saved him from a fine on a charge of having liquor in an illegal place.

Albert Blodgett, 568 Lundy's Lane, was the man charged and he insisted he knew nothing about the beer. Berniece Judge, of the same address, where the party was, said she wanted to break up the party and so put the beer in Blodgett's car.

Later that evening Blodgett was arrested by Constables Jack Wilson and Eldon MacDonald on a charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. The officers testified Blodgett's car was weaving from side to side as it was driven west on Lansdowne St.

The Blodgett car almost hit the police cruiser, Constable Wilson said. Blodgett told the court he was blinded by the lights of the cruiser. The more serious charge was dismissed. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, said Blodgett's story was a reasonable explanation, and that the crown could offer no further evidence than the officers' previous statement that Blodgett had had something to drink.

"am I the forgotten woman?..."

"I'm 5 feet 4, weigh 125 pounds—apparently that's about average. Yet I can't find a suit or coat that fits me. If it fits up here, it's wrong down there. Or vice versa. Have the fashion experts forgotten about me—or do I need redesigning?"

"NO!" says Lou Larry,
one of Canada's foremost fashion authorities.

"You are actually the 'PERFECT CANADIAN TYPE.' Research shows that the average Canadian woman is between 5 feet, and 5 feet 4 inches tall. But she has been trying to get into clothes designed for tall fashion models. That's why we developed our famous PERFECT CANADIAN TYPE—for five feet four and under, without alterations. It provides high fashion for the average Canadian woman, as she is built, and gives her that taller, slimmer look. The PCT label is available at the leading fashion shops shown below. Come in and prove it to yourself. You'll see that you're by no means 'forgotten'."

Spending On Ontario Highways

Yesterday the Ontario Minister of Highways made public the information that contracts totalling $23,200,000 had been let since a year ago last April for work on this province's parts of the Trans-Canada Highway. It was in April 1950 that the federal-provincial agreement on the Trans-Canada was signed. We are glad to hear that "considerable progress" has been made in the work and it will be big local news indeed when any progress can be reported on bringing the Trans-Canada into and around Peterborough. Highway 7 is being repaired and rebuilt in this spot and that, but so far it has no sign of being the Trans-Canada planned for it.

* * *

As we noted several weeks ago, a great amount of road work is being done in this district and throughout the province; both on maintenance and on new stretches of road (Bobcaygeon and Bethany, for instance). This work is costing big money. Here is a tabulation of all the expenses of the Ontario Department of Highways since 1946. (The figures for 1951 are preliminary, and those for 1952 are from the budget estimate.) Most of the money is going into road building and maintenance.

	Ordinary	Capital	Total
1946 ...	$19,566,000	$ 3,358,000	$22,924,000
1947 ...	25,944,000	19,765,000	45,759,000
1948 ...	35,805,000	26,705,000	62,510,000
1949 ...	40,158,000	28,184,000	68,342,000
1950 ...	40,468,000	32,855,000	73,323,000
1951 ...	45,923,000	41,050,000	86,973,000
1952 ...	46,000,000	47,210,000	93,210,000

* * *

As a result of such spending Ontario is getting one of the finest road systems in the world. Some people may object that the people of this province cannot afford such vast sums for highways. This must be remembered: although the per capita spending may be greater than for most countries, Canadians are heavier users of their roads than other people. Roads are their life-line and, because of the distances between towns and major cities, they are longer. Ontario people on the average travel more miles by car than Americans. This seems unbelievable considering the number of American tourists who come to Ontario from far-off American cities, and the greater number of cars per capita in the U.S.A. But the fact is that most Americans do not have to travel a hundred miles to get to a major shopping and commercial city; they have them at every turn in the road.

* * *

What should concern Ontario people about the large sums they are paying for highways is this: is the money being spent carefully? Is the best value being received for it? Are highway maintenance and building costs in Ontario in line with similar costs in other provinces and other countries? The rate of spending on highways in Ontario is now nearing a hundred million dollars a year. With so large a budget there needs to be constant departmental and expert parliamentary scrutiny of the bills. We do not want our highway program to be a political pork barrel.

The Lateness Of Messrs. Emspak and Matles OF U.E.

The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, the unaffiliated union whose District 5 is Canada, has been holding its sixteenth annual convention this week in New York city. Some Peterborough workers may be interested in this, since U.E. is the bargaining agent for the city's chief industry, and indeed, Peterborough's Local 524 is the second largest unit of U.E. in Canada. However, Peterborough union men who belong to U.E. had no direct voice in the general convention because they did not send delegates. Not even Mr. C. S. Jackson, Canadian head of U.E., was present, because Mr. Jackson is not a person acceptable to the United States Government. Two years ago when he tried to attend the U.E. convention he was turned back at the border. American officials believe his politics are so flaming that his presence in the States is undesirable.

On the opening day (Monday) Mr. Julius Emspak, national secretary-treasurer of U.E. told the five hundred delegates at the New Yorker Hotel of a plan to raise a million dollar "fighting fund" to strengthen the union, resist wage controls and fight for the repeal of the Taft-Hartley act. The delegates approved this by vote and each of the union's reported 300,000 members will be asked to contribute five dollars toward the fund. We do not know whether this fee will be asked of Canadian members, because certainly Peterborough members were not represented in the vote. Anyway, Canada fortunately has no Taft-Hartley law.

Mr. Emspak was late in giving his message to the convention. In fact, two of the three top men in U.E. were late for the opening meeting—Mr. Emspak, secretary-treasurer, and Mr. James J. Matles, director of organization. Both men were in Federal court, on court summons, to testify before a grand jury investigating subversive activities. The grand jury is giving special attention to the validity of non-Communist affidavits which U.E. leaders have filed, so the New York Times explains in its account:

"If the affidavits are held to be fraudulent by the courts, the officers face criminal penalties and the unions face revocation of their rights to act as legal bargaining representatives for workers in their industries."

The delegates attending the U.E. convention in New York understood why Mr. Matles and Mr. Emspak were late in arriving, and as they entered the convention hall, were given a "rising ovation."

New York Times Centenary

On Tuesday one of the world's truly great newspapers the New York Times observed the hundredth anniversary of its founding. Its leading editorial of September 18th, 1851, expressed the aim of its founder Henry J. Raymond and George Jones, of "presenting all the news of the day from all parts of the world," to "speak for itself" and only for itself, independent of party or faction, and to seek "in all its discussions and inculcations, to promote the best interests of the society in which we live."

Adherence to these aims, the extension of them by its vigorous publisher, Adolph Ochs, who assumed control in 1896, and the continuation of them by the present publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger, have given The Times unrivalled authority and prestige. It is as great in size and financial structure as it is in influence. It reports important speeches verbatim even if they take three pages; it spends as much as half a million dollars on a single issue, it has used 32 tons of ink on a single Sunday edition, and has world-wide correspondents and news agencies which send it a million words of news every day.

The Times anniversary issue has now reached us. It contained no hundred-page centenary supplement of self-flattery. Maintaining its poise, the issue was neither obese nor pompous. Its front page had a special box containing a letter of congratulation from President Truman. The first page of the second section was a reproduction of the first page of the first 1851 issue. On two other pages were messages from other newspapers and prominent readers in the United States and abroad. And, as befits a virile newspaper, its leading editorial was headed "The Second Century"; two backward glances were reserved for following editorials.

To the greetings which newspapers the world over are showering on the New York Times, the Peterborough Examiner respectfully adds its congratulations. It is a magnificent newspaper splendidly maintaining the highest standards of journalism.

No Muckle Of Coins In Canada

A Baltimore gaming operator paid a $762 fine with 6,000 pennies, 1,100 nickels, 200 dimes, 680 quarters, 482 half-dollars and $216 in bills. The Windsor Star, noting this, says that "it shows how many a mickle makes a muckle in that racket." But not in Canada; here the fellow couldn't have dished out his ill-gotten gains in that mickle-muckle fashion. Officially all coins from a silver dollar down to a one-cent piece are subsidiary and not holus-bolus legal tender. Sudsidiary silver coin is legal tender only to the amount of ten dollars. The five-cent piece is legal tender up to five dollars, and the one-cent bronze coin up to 25 cents. In Canada the gambler would have had to come across with a fist full of honest green-backs to pay his dues to society.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: As a stranger to Peterborough I was titillated by your mention last week, in connection with your account of a family of Burnhams who seem to be local worthies, of two related names—Belcher and Boucher. What an odd combination to find in a community of Irish-Saxon settlement! Wherefore?

ANSWER: The Belchers and Bouchers are both notable Peterborough names, and both families are of Huguenot (Protestant) French extraction; the Belchers from Ireland, the Bouchers from England. The direct connection came when Miss Belcher married Mr Boucher—the late George Boucher, former Hudson's Bay company agent.

George Boucher was a son of Dr. Robert P. Boucher who, with Dr. Halliday, father of Mrs. de la Fosse, was chief doctor in town before 1900. Dr. Boucher was a grandson of Judge Boucher, second judge of Peterborough county. The French Huguenot, long-Anglicized family names are echoed in such given names as Beauchamp (pronounced Beechum), borne by Dr. Robert Beauchamp Boucher, a doctor in Vancouver, brother of Mr. George; and also by Mr. George's son Beauchamp, a banker now in Peterborough.

The first Belcher in Peterborough (father of Mrs. Boucher) was John E. Belcher, architect and builder, who was born in Cork and was a son of Samuel Belcher, of the same trade and profession who went to practise in England in the Liverpool area. Young John E. Belcher came out to Canada and was befriended by the first Mossom Boyd. He had a brother Alfred Belcher who married one of Mossom Boyd's daughters, who was a sister of the wife of the Rev. Dr. Herbert Symonds, a notable Montreal cleric who for a time was rector of St. Luke's church, Peterborough.

John E. Belcher, father of Miss Belcher and Mrs. Boucher who now live in the Belcher home (269 Edinburgh Street) was Peterborough's chief architect at the turn of the century. He designed the Library, the Collegiate (old wing), half the business blocks on George Street, including the Grey and Bruce building which this year has had its mansard roof changed to a brick-faced fourth storey. The Anglican church at Bobcaygeon was his first Canadian work—designed at the time he was staying with the Boyds in Bobcaygeon.

THE BELCHER-BOUCHER HOME off Edinburgh street at the top of the hill, one of the most dignified in the city, and with spacious grounds reminiscent of 19th century glory, was originally built for one of the Chemong Road Edmisons in 1846. Its stone walls are two feet thick. The first Mossom Boyd took it over in the last quarter of the 19th century, and lived for a while there, operating his large lumbering concerns from the town. When John E. Belcher decided to settle in Peterborough, Mossom Boyd offered the house to him. (He had come out in the 1870's.) Mr. Belcher added the half-timbered, very English-looking second storey facing the street.

Mr. Belcher became both town and county engineer. He supervised the renovations to St. John's church and St. Peter's, and was architect for Sacred Heart Church.

Mr. Belcher's wife was a daughter of General John Macdonald of the Indian Army. General Macdonald and his wife came out to Canada several years after the Belchers and lived with them in the Belcher home. General Macdonald live only six months after his arrival. He died at the dinner table while carving and was buried in Little Lake Cemetery.

The dining-room of the Belcher-Boucher home is still preserved in its deliberately antique and late 19th century handsomeness—stuffed peacock and all. It is indeed a remarkable and pleasant room.

NOTE ON WORK-WEEK: One of the first five-day a week operations to be recorded in this district was at the Deloro Mining Company. Here in 1802 the men on the night shift who had been working five nights a week with a 12 hour stretch each night went on strike when the management ordered them to work six nights a week of 10 hours each.

DEAR ALPHA: Last week I had the great thrill of viewing the Vienna Art Collection and was especially intrigued with the pictures of "Judith and the head of Holofernes". None of my friends who were there or the girl at the desk had any knowledge of the lady or where to find out about her.

ANSWER: As I mentioned last Friday, there were no fewer than four canvases on the subject: by Vouet (French 1590-1649); by Veronese (Italian 1528-1588); by Solimina (Italian 1657-1747) and by Saraceni (Italian 1585-1620). There were also two other decapitation scenes in the exhibit.

The story of Judith and Holofernes is told in the apocryphal Old Testament Book of Judith. Holofernes was the chief general of Nebuchadrezzar, a king of Assyria whose capital was in Nineveh. King Nebuchadrezzar waged a five-year war against the king of Media and finally overcame him. Thereupon he sent Holofernes to teach a lesson to reluctant nations farther west who had not helped him in the righteous war. The children of Israel, newly returned from captivity, feared for the sanctity of their temple and decided to resist General Holofernes. The inhabitants of Bethulia prepare their defences and put their trust in God. Holofernes lays siege.

AFTER forty days the hungry and besieged inhabitants urge the governor to surrender. He says he will unless Bethulia is relieved in five days. Then on the scene appears the heroine. She is Judith, a widow, and of course beautiful.

Judith becomes a wooden horse or a Mata Hari in the enemy camp. Decked out in the latest and richest fashion, with a boudoir maid trotting along beside her, Judith makes her way to Holofernes' camp, pitches some tall tales with an alluring voice and a drop of the eyelashes, and like other presentable dames after her in history, disarms suspicion and the General. By the fourth night Holofernes is completely smitten with her charms. Remember that she and the Bethulians put their trust in God. After dinner that night, desire having got Judith an invitation to Holofernes' tent but wine having quenched his alertness, Judith seizes the sleeping General's sword and smites his head from his shoulders. She presents the head to her maid. (Note that the maid seems always to be hovering in the background but I suspect that she was as little use as a chaperon guarding chastity as were eunuchs at the entrance to harems. Anyway, a female with enough muscle, sword-skill and determination to sever a neck needs no protection from mere males....Did you ever try slicing a person's head off? It's no slight task.) The maid with the bloody head and Judith with her honour leave the camp (as they had been accustomed to do each evening, ostensibly for prayer) and return to Bethulia. The besieged town has a jamboree with the head of Holofernes as the centre-piece and somehow or other the siege is raised; was it because Holofernes was such a poor general that he had no one trained to take his place or to seek revenge?)

Why sixteenth and seventeenth century painters were fond of this apocryphal subject I cannot say, except that it was a dramatic theme—the gore, the heroine in the enemy camp, and the rich costuming of Judith and Holofernes. The Hapsburg dukes who collected the paintings seemed intrigued by Judith—they secured enough canvases on the subject.

This question came from an Omemee reader. It leads me to wonde how many Peterborough and district people took the opportunity to see the magnificent exhibition.

FOR THE RECORD: Colleges and universities are getting ready to open their doors. Some of them are pretty wealthy doors. McGill University, for instance, is reported to have an endowment of $27,200,000; Toronto of $13,800,000; and Victoria College within that university, of $3,128,000. The World Almanac lists only seven Canadian colleges with endowments of two million dollars or more; but there are no fewer than 207 colleges and universities in the States with $2,000,000 or more backing them in endowment funds. Harvard is the wealthiest — it has $191,279,000. The University of Rochester across the lake from us has sixty millions. The Canadian universities listed, other than the ones already mentioned above, are: Dalhousie at Halifax $4,330,000; Laval at Quebec $2,500,000; Queen's at Kingston $4,185,000, and McMaster at Hamilton, $2,000,000.

P.E.I. Paper Shows The Way

(AN EDITORIAL IN THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN)

WHEN the Post Office increased The Guardian postage rate by 166.6 per cent. (a newspaper over 10,000 circulation) and the newsprint companies increased their price to $124 per ton—an all-time high—it meant that our rural readers would have to pay $12 per annum. This we felt was an unfair imposition and we immediately set in motion an agitation for relief. This met with sympathy and support in all responsible directions, but got us nowhere nevertheless.

We then undertook to organize our own delivery service by means of trucks, and had the assurance of the Postmaster General and his Deputy that if we provided an efficient service, The Guardian would receive a contract to carry the mails in addition to The Guardian. Our delivery service was organized to cover the whole Island, and our contract for His Majesty's mails was to become effective on September 1st. For reasons of internal concern, the Post Office was not in a position to start operation on that date, and it was decided to make a beginning with the mail contract on October 1st.

Meantime, the Railway which hitherto had stood in the way of a morning service to eastern and southern King's, decided that such a service was not only desirable but necessary. It was a reflection on the Railway administration that a private firm could cover the Island daily for the convenience of its patrons whereas a national organization had failed to do so. In consequence the C.N.R. decided to enter the truck field and approached The Guardian to take over the Post Office contract and to carry The Guardian at no greater cost than would its own truck service. This appealed to The Guardian, as it would be infinitely easier for a transportation organization to run an efficient truck service; and so negotiations have been concluded between the two organizations for the Railway to take over The Guardian's contract with the Post Office. This arrangement will go into effect on October 1st, or as soon as the Railway and Post Office can arrange to start the service. The Guardian will continue to fill the breach until the Railway service becomes practicable.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said....Hath the rain a father? or who hath begotten the drops of dew? ....Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion. Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season; or cast thou guide Arcturus with his sons? (Job 38: 1, 28, 31, 32.)

❖ ❖ ❖

And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.... And straightway Jesus constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away....

And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear.

But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid ....And when they were gone over, they came into the land of Gennesaret.

And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were diseased; and besought him that they might only touch the hem of his garment: and as many as touched were made perfectly whole. (Matt. 14: 14, 22, 25-27, 34-36.)

Nurses Where Nurses Aren't Needed

(Ottawa Journal)

Ottawa's Mayor Whitton, speaking in Brockville at the graduation exercises of the training school for nurses at Ontario Hospital, declared it was "a complete wastage" of a trained nurse to make her a stewardess in an airplane.

We think most people who have travelled by modern aircraft will agree with her. They see these charming young women, trained, fully qualified and "registered" as nurses, looking after the passengers' coats, serving meals, sometimes serving drinks, amusing any children aboard — but very seldom are they seen in any duty for which a nurse's training is necessary. Air sickness is uncommon nowadays, but it doesn't require treatment by a trained nurse. Babies have been born in airplanes, but also babies have been born in taxicabs—and nobody so far has proposed that each taxicab should carry a nurse.

Cheaper Milk

(The Lethbridge Herald)

A report from Chicago says that milk has been cheapened to the producer by "the little brown jug" route. What has happened in Chicago is that the dairies have established bulk milk stations under proper refrigeration, and customers do a cash-and-carry business with these stations, taking home their milk in gallon jugs or sealers. With refrigeration at home, they save a lot of delivery charges and get their milk cheaper. The report we read on the Chicago experiment is that now more than 75 per cent. of the milk consumed in homes is handled in this way.

Time was in Lethbridge, and it is not much more than 30 years ago, when milk was delivered in bulk, the milkman filling the housewives' bottles and jugs from a can of milk which he carried on his delivery rig. That, of course, was primitive but in those days living was more primitive. Refrigeration as we now have it in dairies and in homes was unknown.

We might borrow something from the bulk delivery plan then followed, refining it as it seems to have been done successfully in Chicago.

Why Britain Suffered So

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

North Americans who criticize Britain for the long time she is taking to make a comeback after World War II are perhaps inclined to overlook one very important factor in the British economy. Though the war cost North America dearly in lives and money spent on armament, neither the United States nor Canada lost one dollar in damage done to property on this continent itself by enemy attack. Britain's position, however, in this regard is vastly different.

Since April of 1941 the British Government has had to pay out $2,800,000,000 to owners of property damaged in the war. And further the British War Damage Commission reports that enemy action in Britain and Northern Ireland destroyed 3,420,000 buildings. We in North America know nothing of that kind of difficulty nor of its vast expense.

Is This Trip Necessary?

(New York Herald Tribune)

The most reasonable defence we have yet heard of Mayor Impellitteri's forthcoming "good-will" mission to Italy is that the city gets along equally well without him.

But even while acknowledging the truth of this sentiment, we still think the mayor is going a bit too far in demonstrating his dispensability. We already know we can get along without him, to vary Jimmy Durante's song, but we are hurt to find that he feels he can get along without us. Nothing was said about trips to Italy when we were asked to elect him mayor last Fall. But if it comes to that, nothing much was said about anything else, either, so maybe it's all included in the bargain.

Find Task Of Hospital Administration To Be One Of Many Responsibilities

Hospitals today are faced with many contingencies and problems unknown, very often, to the world outside. The people who run these institutions usually do not do much about publicizing what goes on within the hospital's walls. They feel their business is to take care of the sick.

The hospital administrator, however, has more on his mind than a few doctors, a few nurses, a few supplies and a handful of patients! Whether large or small, every hospital is providing a health service which can become very complicated.

Take the different kinds of personnel required in the hospital. When you enter the hospital as a visitor the first contact you usually make is with the receptionist. She gives you your friend's room number and directs you to the correct corridor or elevator, as you leave the elevator you will walk down polished corridors which speak of the presence of maintenance workers and housekeepers on the hospital staff.

Your friend, the patient, will be found in a clean, adequately furnished room in a bed with fresh clean linen and will likely tell you of the special services and meals which have been given according to the orders of the attending doctor. Here you have the results of the work of many people. Housekeepers, laundry workers, dietitians, chefs, nurses, ward aids and medical interns—each one of them playing a part in the patient's recovery. The food the patient has eaten has been purchased by the hospital on the open market at today's high prices, and the furniture and other equipment in the room, even if not recently purchased at current market prices, must be valued at today's replacement costs.

If the patient has had surgical treatment the operating room has been used and as many as five or six professional people—doctors, anaesthetists, medical intern, nurses—stood around an operating table which may have cost $2,000 and worked under the even light of a specially designed operating-room light which could have cost up to $1,200.

Safety Guaranteed

Prior to using the operating room it was made sterile by a staff of professional and non-professional people so that your friend's safety from infection was guaranteed. The electrical equipment is all explosion proof against the hazard caused by combustible anaesthetics—the floor is specially designed to reduce the hazard of static electricity which might cause an explosion. All these and many other precautions are costly. The preparation, alone, of the operating room may employ many hours of work and much costly material.

Before, during, and after the operation, the patient has likely been administered drugs and medications from the hospital pharmacy. These often include narcotics which could be harmful if not properly prepared and thus the hospital must have a number of qualified pharmacists on its staff to fill doctors' prescriptions. Before the operation X-rays were likely taken by the hospital's X-ray technicians and interpreted by qualified raiologists. After the operation, tissue removed from the patient is sent to the laboratory where, once again, highly qualified pathologists examine it and report their findings to the surgeon.

Hospitals cannot carry on without keeping their detailed record of every patient treated and for this they maintain a medical records library with qualified medical records librarians in charge. The information on these records not only serves as a guide for the future treatment of the patient but plays a great part in the progress of medical science in its battle against illness and disease.

If it should happen that you come to assist the patient leave the hospital on discharge you will go to the cashier's office to arrange for settlement of the account. Now you come in contact with office workers—cashiers, stenographers, bookkeepers—all of whom are necessary in the operation of the hospital. Another section of the hospital, which the patient visited on the way in, is the admitting department where again we find clerical personnel who assure that all the required data on the patient is correctly listed for the hospital records.

And so on and on we find category after category of hospital employees all playing a part toward the care of the patient. Today they are working eight hours the same as their friends in industry. In many cases they are on a five or five and a half day week which means that the hospital has had to increase its staff to assure twenty-four hour patient service. Everything that is used within the hospital must be paid for—hospitals cannot expect to receive either employee service or food supplies and equipment at prices any lower than would be paid by another type of organization. Thinking over the many things which enter your friend's stay in hospital in light of today's employment and market conditions you will soon see that hospitals are doing a pretty fair job in keeping down the cost of their indispensable health service which, after all, means to many people, extra years of priceless life.

Canadian Radio Making Wide Plans For Royal Tour

TORONTO—(CP)—While private stations have various plans for broadcasting their regional share of the coming tour by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, the Caandian Broadcasting Corporation has made large preparations for special programs from coast to coast.

A corps of more than 25 travelling observers and engineers have been assigned to CBC tour broadcasts, to be supplied also to British and American networks and by shortwave to the rest of the world in 14 languages.

Six veterans of broadcasts made during the 1939 visit of the King and Queen have a prominent part in the CBC arrangements. Among announcers are W. E. S. Briggs, of Halifax, Bill Herbert, of Vancouver, who returned recently from a spell with the Canadians in Korea, and John S. Peach, of Montreal.

Others Included

Others are Lamont Tilden, of Montreal, Thom Benson, of Winnipeg, and Erich Koch, supervisor of the Central European broadcasts in the CBC international service.

Judith Hasmin and Raymond Laplante of the CBC French network, will report events across Canada for Quebec French-speaking audiences. Maude Ferguson will deal with items of special interest to women, and John Fisher will report nightly in the "Royal Tour Diary" to be produced by John Kannawhin, of Toronto.

The CBC broadcasters will be split into two teams, leap-frogging across the country with engineers and technicians. Plans call for actuality broadcasts from about 23 Canadian cities, which will also be made available to private stations.

Much Equipment

More than a ton and a half of delicate broadcasting equipment will be transported across Canada and back to handle the broadcasts of the tour.

The equipment is divided into three complete units, altogether including 12 portable master control boxes, 5,000 feet of microphone cable, 16 portable amplifiers and 36 of the CBC "Royal Visit" microphones that were used during the 1939 tour by the King and Queen.

During the tour, arrangements call for two of these equipment teams at Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, while a single team handles broadcasts from such centres as Windsor, Regina and Calgary.

The nerve centre of each outside broadcast is a unit that resembles two matched suitcases when closed. This can handle programs from as many as 16 microphones, while feeding out up to four separate programs. Two or more of these units may be linked to increase the capacity.

A separate unit can handle eight telephone circuits to different microphone locations.

The CBC's "Royal Visit" microphones were specially designed for outdoor broadcasts of the 1939 tour and bear a small crown. They are equipped with a protective wind-screen and were extensively used by CBC reporters overseas in the Second World War.

Adoption Experts Study City Plan

Announcement was made today that the Provincial Committee on Adoptions, will visit Peterborough Oct. 3.

This committee was appointed in April by the Minister of Public Welfare, W. A. Goodfellow, to study the system of adoption in the province. It is now starting to conduct hearings in the various sections of the province. Peterborough is one of eight points in the province the committee will visit.

Chief concern of the committee will be the problems of adoption. However, all aspects of child welfare conditions will be studied with a view to assisting the Children's Aid Societies in improving their services.

Committee Members

The committee is composed of W. H. Bury, chairman, Executive Director of the Children's Aid Society of York County; Miss Reba Choate, School of Social Work, University of Toronto; Rev. John A. Macdonald, Director, Catholic Family Service, Ottawa; Mrs. Grace Burk McFarland, Leamington, Deputy Reeve, Essex County; and K. R. Thomson, General Manager, The Galt Evening Reporter. Assistance is being contributed to the committee by G. C. Price, Statistician, Provincial Department of Public Welfare, executive secretary of the committee, and P. Alapas, Director of Research, Toronto Welfare Council, who is acting as adviser.

Scale Model Saves Hydro Five Million

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 21 (CP)—Practical studies carried out on a hydraulic scale model of the Niagara River have saved the Ontario Hydro Commission "about $5,000,000," Richard L. Hearn, general manager of the commission, said Thursday night.

He told a dinner meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers that engineers studying the scale model—now in operation at Islington outside Toronto — were able to predict the action of water currents in the Niagara River.

Unemployment Blame

OSHAWA, Sept. 21 — (CP) — Local 22 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) Thursday told its 9,000 members that if unemployment in the automotive industry spreads to Oshawa, the federal government and the automobile corporations will be to blame.

BECAUSE FARGO TRUCKS ARE "Built to fit the job"

The Right Units to Carry the Load

Load-supporting units—such as frames, axles, springs, wheels and tires are engineered and built in combinations to provide the strength and capacity needed to safely carry the load.

The Right Units to Move the Load

Load-moving units—such as engines, clutches, transmissions, rear axles and axle ratios are engineered to provide ample power to move that load under specific operating conditions . . . and do it quickly, dependably and at low cost.

Naturally, a truck that fits the job does a better job and requires less time out for repairs. That's why more and more truck operators are turning to FARGO to get a truck built to fit their job.

FARGO builds G.V.W. chassis models to meet 98% of all trucking needs—so, you can be sure there's a FARGO to exactly fit your trucking requirements.

See your FARGO dealer—he's as close to you as your telephone! Call and ask him to tell you how you can get a FARGO "Built to fit the job" truck that's factory-engineered to perform better—stay on the job—and, increase your profits!

THESE KINGPINS of McGill's senior football Redmen, are probably wondering what's ahead for them in this 1951 season. Left is Dave Caldwell, who has been elected captin of the squad and Coach Vic Obeck. They'll know better what the state of things are around the college campus after Saturday's clash against Sarnia Imperials at Molson Stadium in Montreal.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Comes a bulletin from the Canadian Olympic Association re winter games in Oslo, Norway, Feb. 14 to 25, and the summer games in Finland's Helsinki on July 19 to Aug. 3 next year. Lot of interesting items included. For instance "foodstuffs, including wine and tobacco, intended for the use of members of the teams, will be allowed on a special concession to be imported duty free." Tch, tch, and these the top amateur athletes in the world! It also says: "Top water is fit to drink and there are no mosquitoes in the Helskini district. Many Finns speak English and there should be few language difficulties. The weather during the games may be a little hotter than that in England."

Grid fans are hailing the appointment of Frank Gnup as coach of the Orfans. He is well regarded by senior ORFU, and Big Four football players and experts. The addition of plunging Bill Huntley, Babe Levantis (powerful lineman) and kicking Chuck Pauli, also enhances the team's chances in a stiff schedule. They've dropped one game so far, but shouldn't lose any more. We believe their toughest opposition will come from Cobourg and Oshawa, with Orillia also a threat. Don't know too much about Ryerson Tech yet, nor Toronto East Yorks, who show here next Wednesday. Time will tell.

Petes' Advance Party

Bob Peirson and Doug Miller were to leave today for Vancouver as an advance party for the Petes' lacrossers. Mann Cup finals open there Monday, and the team flies west tomorrow aft. Ken Kingston and Harry Tudhope are other executive members making the long trip. Gene Dopp and Jeff Hipkin of the OLA left a few days ago by motor, and we hear Don McPhail went along with them, hoping to get an invite to play for the Petes. The locals are taking Merv McKenzie and Denny Peterson of Mimico as replacements for Ike Hildebrand and Don Ashbee, who are off to their AHL training camps. Peirson told us yesterday that Nit O'Hearn and Bob Thorpe definitely would go west.

Jerry Fitzgerald? Ah, that's not so clear. Looks like this starry defenceman won't be going now. After much persuasion, Coach Metras of Western reluctantly agreed to let Jerry go, though the latter has clinched a backfield berth with the starting football squad there. But Fitz felt he had to live there another year and was expected to play football for his college. Figuring the Petes could replace him for one lacrosse series, he arrived at the difficult decision of passing up the trip. That's the last we heard. And who can blame him? But his lacrosse shoes will be hard to fill. Wipper, of course, is going. The club still needs more money, and donations may be made to W. R. Wallace at the Bank of Montreal.

Bob Heads Hockey Club

Bob Gamble last night was named president of the Peterborough Hockey Club, as Reg Perks dropped back to the executive owing to the pressure of business. Jim Ellis was chosen manager and Johnny Russelle assistant manager. The club is checking on several prospective coaches, two of them from out of town. Ed Foley earlier announced he could not devote enough time to managing the Petes but he will serve on the executive. Drake Jopling is not anxious to handle the coaching job this season. Curly Alberico is vice-prexy, Baz Phelan the secretary and Fred Scates treasurer. Other executive members include: Ed Riley, Gene Sheedy, Dr. Howes, Sam Miccelli, Ben Swartz, Ray Harding, Dr. McCartney, Ed O'Toole, Irv Cipin, Spiros Zakos, George Bennett, Jim Guiry and Dave Wilson.

President Bob Batley of the men's City Softball League announces that the winner of the Peiler Trophy this year as most valuable player to his club is Terry Woods. Executive and scorer voted for the tall righthand hurler of Orphans, city champions, and it will be a popular decision. Terry carried most of the twirling load for Harold Dormer's team, often flinging double-headers, and he also filled in at first base more than once. Hit well, too. Previous holders of this trophy were Ray Garvey, Howie Dalton, Bob Greenlaw and George (Red) Sullivan.

Examiner's Sports Editor To Cover Mann Cup Finals

Complete coverage of the Mann Cup finals in Vancouver will be supplied by The Examiner, commencing Monday. The newspaper is sending sports editor Cec. Perdue west by plane this weekend to write up all phases of the series between Peterborough Timbermen and Vancouver Combines to declare the 1951 Dominion senior "A" lacrosse champions.

While Perdue will travel with the Petes out and back by the Trans-Canada Air Lines, and will be staying in the same hotel as some club officers, all his expenses will be paid by his paper. The CLA pays part of the club's expenses on this trip, and the club itself makes up the difference.

Daily Coverage

Daily stories from British Columbia, as well as his daily column will be wired back by Perdue. These will be exclusive as no other paper in Eastern Canada will have special coverage. Nor will any morning paper receive game accounts until a day late, because Vancouver time is four hours behind that of Ontario. A game there will end at approximately three a.m. Peterborough time. Other evening papers in this province will receive an account of Mann Cup games through Canadian Press.

This is the longest sports assignment in The Examiner's history. It may require two full weeks as the series is a best-of-seven one, the teams playing every other night except Sunday.

Back in the days of professional baseball here just before the first war, the late Fred Craig made trips to the United States to cover games. During the 30s, Perdue made three-day junkets western Ontario, Montreal and to Ottawa on sports jobs. The Petes won the Eastern Canada intermediate "A" hockey title in Ottawa the spring of 1940. Three years ago, he was with Legion three days in Sarnia when they won the provincial senior "B" hockey crown.

But this is the first Dominion senior final series for any Peterborough team — and Examiner readers will get complete on-the-spot coverage.

Bell Telephone Captures Ostrander Cup

Bell Telephone Civic Softball League champions, defeated Foresters 5-3 at the Bowl last evening to capture the Ostrander Trophy. It was presented to them after the contest by Umpire G. Trennum. They took the best-of-five series three games to one.

Guerin hurled four-hit ball for Bell and Rivard of Foresters allowed just six in a swell scrap. An error in left by Foresters proved costly. Bell had two runs in the first frame and one each in the second, third and sixth. Foresters got one in the second and two in the fourth. The losers had two errors to one by Bell. Teams:

Bell: Guerin p, Gillespie 1b, Harris 2b, Jamieson ss, Smith 3b, James c, Tushingham rf, Greatrix cf, Ackford lf.

Foresters: Rivard p, Collins 1b, Roberts 2b, Tyndal ss, Davidson 3b, Doughty c, Mathison rf, Parnell cf, Mortimer lf.

Umpires: Trennum and Castle.

Mathews Squares Softball Series

COBOURG, Sept. 21.—Mathews squared the Cobourg and district softball final here Wednesday night, whipping Donny Ball, ace fastball pitcher of the Baltimore Millers 8-3.

Barney Mills, the winning hurler, didn't approach Ball's strikeout total of 15, but the Mathews club turned in a fine effort afield.

Rene Racine was the leading hitter, the Mathews' third baseman getting three blows in the nine-hit attack against Ball. Almost keeping pace with Racine was teammate Len Ashby, who contributed a single and homer to the cause.

Jack Ball and Donny got doubles, and W. May two singles to head the Baltimore hitters.

The series now stands at one win each.

V. Rose And J. Faguy Take Tennis Crown

John Faguy and Miss Verna Rose captured the city tennis mixed doubles championship on the Quaker courts by defeating Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Charlton by a narrow margin. The scores were 3-6, 6-4, and 6-3.

This winds up the city tennis playoffs, except for the final in the ladies' doubles. Mrs. J. Fletcher and Mrs. N. Stuart will be meeting Mrs. R. Charlton and Mrs. Isobel Whitehouse in this competition next Tuesday evening at 5.30 on the Quaker courts.

King Edward Wins

King Edward edged Central 1-0 in public school soccer, intermediate game, played yesterday at King Edward Park. They had a territorial margin but the Central fullbacks held them well in check. The lone goal came early in the first half by Rowe on a pass from Davies, these two starring for the winners, while Pollock and Simpson were good for Central. Teams:

Central: Hayman, Pollock, Stringer, Barber, Menzies, Sorrie, McInroy, Birkhof, Simpson, Findlay, Dinsdale, Lang, Chalmers.

King Edward: Detlor, Lombard, Finney, Murduff, Heard, Cuffe, Rowe, Curtis, Warner, Davies, Riel, Quemby.

Ford Frick Baseball Commissioner After Giles Withdraws From Race

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP). — Ford Frick, with a dramatic assist of sportsmanship from Warren Giles, today is baseball's new commissioner.

Giles late Thursday night threw his full support behind the National League president to break a deadlock of club owners and swing sports' biggest job to the grey-haired lean, 56-year-old Frick.

Frick was given a seven-year contract at an annual salary of $65,000, about $25,000 more than he received as head of the senior circuit.

Frick is baseball's third commissioner. He succeeds A. B. (Happy) Crandler, who resigned last July 15 after the club owners had refused to vote him a new contract.

Until Giles, the courtly, white-haired president of the Cincinnati Reds made his unparalleled gesture, the 16 major league magnates had wrangled almost 11 hours in a vain attempt to get the required majority of 12 votes.

After Giles appeared before the owners and withdrew his name, the following vote was 14-2 for Frick. Then the Cincinnati executive made a motion that a final ballot be taken and that it be unanimous.

That is how Frick, climaxing a varied career running from newspaperman, assistant English professor and radio commentator to the National League presidency in 1934, obtained the full 16 votes.

Main Candidates

Giles and Frick became the main candidates in a New York screening session last month that sliced the list from 11 to five names. Some 40 nominees had been mentioned when the search first began last Dec. 11, after the owners' explosive action in voting against renewal of Chandler's contract. Chandler bowed to pressure and resigned, effective last July 15.

Chandler in 1949 succeeded the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis who had served as baseball's first commissioner since 1921 following the Black Sox scandal.

Upon the death of Landis, there was a movement toward Frick as his successor. At that time, Giles was reported ready to become president of the National League should Frick be named.

Although this manoeuvre was detoured by the selection of Chandler, the way may now be cleared for it.

"I just haven't given the idea a great deal of thought," said Giles when asked about the possibility of filling Frick's vacancy. "That is something that will have to take care of itself."

Thinks Argos Take Ottawa By 17 Points

By The Canadian Press.

George Stockwell, the genial and efficient trainer of Toronto Argonauts, thinks the scullers have finally shaken off the sluggishness which, armchair quarterbacks believe, is one of the reasons for their poor performances this season.

They also admit injuries have hit hard at the 1950 Dominion champs At any rate, despite the fact that the double-blue squad is far from sound, Stockwell predicts that the club will rise to its last year's form Saturday against Ottawa Rough Riders in Toronto and win by at least 15 points.

"I'll bet on 15 points," said Stockwell, "but I think it'll be 17" The Argo-Roughrider scramble is one of four games scheduled for this weekend — in which all eight of Canada's senior football teams will take part. Two games will take place in the east, two in the west.

For the other eastern game, Hamilton's Tiger-Cats, unbeaten in four straight Big Four games, will travel to Montreal for a Sunday game against the Alouettes, who are tied with Argos for third place with one win.

The outcome of the games will not affect the league leaders. Tiger-Cats have a four-point lead over Ottawa in the Big Four.

Frank Clair, Argo's coach, hopes halfback Ted Toogood, out for two weeks with injuries, will be back in action Saturday Halfback Ulysses Curtis, also sidelined with injuries, is said to be a week away from being ready to return to the line-up.

Hamilton coach Carl Voyles doesn't intend to take any chances against the Alouettes. He's sending out the same 24 men who beat Ottawa 11-6 last week. Snap Jake Gaudaur, who injured a rib cartilage 10 days ago, will be out for another two weeks

The experts in Montreal figure Lew Hayman's Alouettes will try the same ground assault tactics with the Tiger-Cats that enabled them to beat Argos 8-6 last Saturday The Als filled the air with pigskin during the first three games—and lost all of them.

Herb Trawick, backbone of the Montreal line until he was injured 10 days ago, is ready to go again.

Billy Bell Retires

KINGSTON, Sept. 21 (CP). — Billy Bell, counted on to be one of the stalwarts on the rebuilt Queen's University senior team in the intercollegiate loop, has been forced to retire for the season. He joins Bob McIntyre, one of the leading snapbacks, on the sidelines. However, coach Frank Tindall says he'll still be able to field a formidable array of talent in Saturday's exhibition game against McMaster Marauders in Hamilton.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Ormond Beach, 27-year-old halfback with the Sarnia Imperials football team, was killed in a refinery tank explosion at Sarnia 13 years ago today. The former University of Kansas ace, weighing 260 pounds, was one of the greatest players in Canadian football, noted as a defensive back, an accurate forward-passer and dynamic plunger.

Leafs Cancel Victory Banquet

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP). — A civic victory banquet to honor the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team, 1951 Stanley Cup winners, has been cancelled out of respect for defenceman Bill Barilko, missing nearly a month on a far-north fishing trip. The dinner had been scheduled for Sept. 28.

Managing director Conn Smythe said Thursday the Leafs are going to their training camp at St. Catharines under sad conditions.

"Little hope is held for the safety of Barilko. Also, since last season, we have lost through death our chief scout, Squib Walker and J. P. Bickell, a director of the Maple Leaf Gardens who as first president played a major part in raising funds to erect the building."

Another unsettling factor was the election of forward Howie Meeker as Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Waterloo South.

"We don't know how much hockey Meeker will play. For instance, he'll be away for the opening of the House of Commons Oct. 9. He was in to see me today and told me he wanted to be fair to his constituents. I told him he could have off as much time as he needd."

Kingsway Wins Title

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP). — Toronto Kingsway Lumber Thursday night won the Viaduct Major Baseball League title by beating Staffords 7-4. Kingsways took the best-of-seven series 4-2.

Royals Subdue Chiefs 7-2, Nearing Cup

SYRACUSE, NY, Sept. 21 (AP) —Montreal's Royals today are a game away from their fifth International League - Governor's Cup championship.

The Royals defeated Syracuse Chiefs 7-2 Thursday night to take a 3-to-1 advantage in the best-of-seven finals.

Veteran Bert Haas blasted a pair of home runs as the rampaging Royals got 14 hits off losing pitcher Bob Keegan and Gene Costello. Chris Van Cuyk, towering southpaw, went the route for Montreal and scattered eight hits.

A walk and George Byam's double produced the first run for the Royals in the second inning. A homer by Haas in the fourth gave them a 2-0 lead.

Syracuse scored a lone marker in the fourth and Montreal came back with a run in the sixth. Gene Markland's sixth-inning homer with no one on pulled the Chiefs to within a 3-2 deficit. A four run cluster in the eighth inning, featured by Haas' second homer with two aboard, sealed the verdict for Montreal.

Royals will send Hampton Coleman to the mound tonight in an attempt to qualify for the junior world series against the winner of the American Association playoffs. Syracuse will counter with Jack Griffore.

Yanks Edge Chicago Sox In 5-4 Victory As Brooks Shade St. Louis

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

Thanks to Joe Collins' timely home run, New York Yankees take one-half game American League lead in Fenway Park today for their vital dog-eat-dog series with Boston Red Sox. Cleveland, idle Thursday, gets its big chance to storm into first place while the Yanks and Red Sox wrestle. The Indians play three games with Detroit, a team they have beaten 16 out of 17 times this season. Collins, who blew off Chicago's Saul Rogovin with two on base in the eighth inning saved the Yanks from dropping out of the lead. Instead they opened up a half game edge on the Indians by a 5-4 victory over White Sox.

The part-time first baseman also saved the game with a dazzling backhand grab of Eddie Robinson's smash in the ninth inning.

Eating Out of Hand

Rogovin had the Yanks eating out of his hand through the middle innings, retiring 12 straight batters from the second to seventh innings. He took a 3-2 edge into the eighth.

Phil Rizzuto's single broke the spell after Johnny Mize flied out, Mickey Mantle walked. Collins' blast into the right field seats cost Rogovin his eighth loss.

Johnny Sain, the $50,000 waiver buy from Boston Braves, failed to survive the first inning. The Yanks had to use five pitchers with Bobby Hogue, another former Brave, getting the win.

Eight of their nine remaining games are with Boston.

Cleveland, with six to play including five with Detroit, will shoot Bobby Feller at the Tigers lefty Ted Gray in the opener of their three-game series at Briggs Stadium.

Shade St. Louis

While the American League threatens to grind down to the final day, the National has loosened up a bit. Brooklyn widened its lead to 4½ games by shading St. Louis 4-3, while the second-place New York Giants lost to Cincinnati 3-1.

Carl Erskine snapped Cliff Chambers' six-game win streak with an eight-hitter for his 16th victory. Gil Hodges' 39th homer helped him home.

When the final standings are tabulated, Brooklyn's feat of taking 18 of 22 from St. Louis probably will have been decisive.

The Giants suffered a staggering blow to their faint hopes when the Reds routed Jim Hearn in a three-run eighth inning. The defeat left the Giants six games behind Brooklyn in the loss column.

Kenny Raffensberger chalked up his 15th win at Hearn's expense. The Reds had 12 hits to four for New York and left 15 on base. Ewell Blackwell finished up for Raffensberger.

Satchel Paige struck out five in a three-inning relief chore to give St. Louis Browns a 4-3 edge over Washington in the only night game. He fanned the last four men in the game. Cliff Mapes' homer in the first was one of the 13 Brownie hits off Don Johnson and Tom Ferrick.

With only four games scheduled half the major league teams were idle yesterday.

Tar Hell Sets Four Records In Ohio Meet

By FRITZ HOWELL.

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 21 (AP). —Tar Heel, one of Billy Direct's most illustrious sons, was spread all over harness racing's record books today.

The streamlined black colt, owned by the W. N. Reynolds estate of Winston-Salem, NC, set four world records Thursday as he whipped 13 of the nation's standout three-year-old pacers to take the sixth annual $66,280.55 "Little Brown Jug" in straight heats.

Some 35,000 fans, crowding the fence around the Delaware county fair's half-mile track, were stunned when Tar Heel came home in 2:01 in the first heat—the fastest trip ever made by a three-year-old over a half-mile track.

Just the Beginning

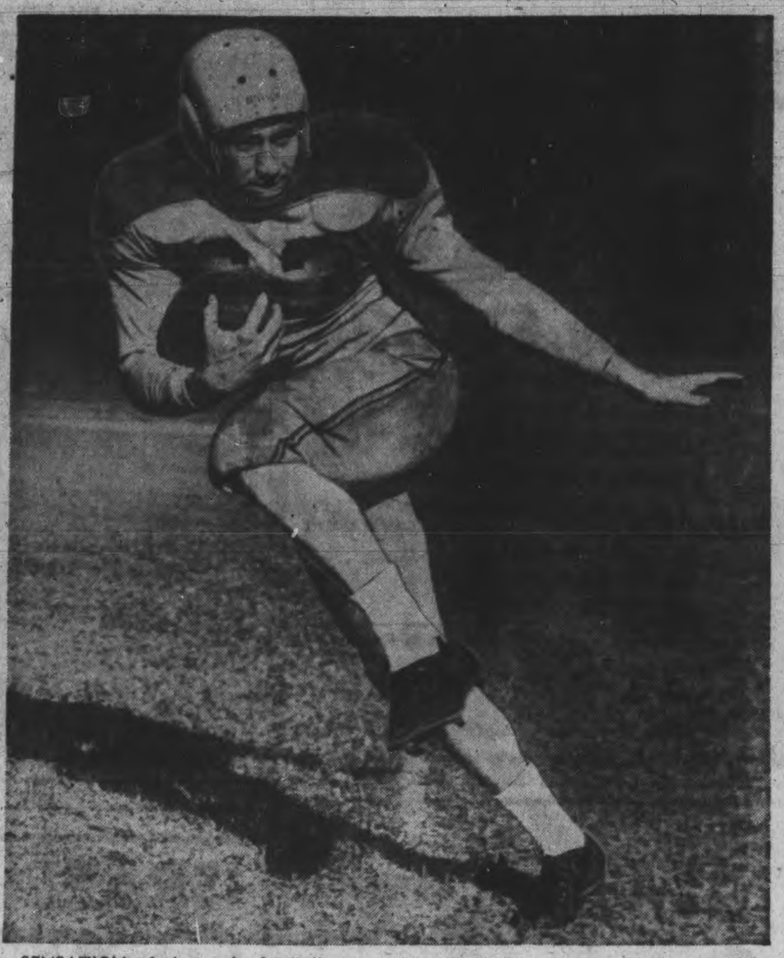
But that was just the beginning. In the next heat reinsman Del Cameron brought Tar Heel under the wire in two minutes flat, erasing the world mark he had set up only two hours before.

The combined two-heat time eclipsed the world record of 4:04-4-5 set by Knight Dream in 1948 and also bettered the all-age pacing record for two heats of 4:01¼ hung up in 1940 by Dusty Hanover.

Tar Heel picked up $33,140.27 for his two-mile stint, boosting his 1950 winnings to $63,657.21 —the greatest "take" any three-year-old side-wheeler has ever amassed.

The three-horse entry from the Del Miller stable—Tar Heel, Solicitor and Direct Rhythm—finished first, second and fourth in the classic—richest racing event in history as well as the top-pursed fixture ever raced over a half-mile track. The Miller trio picked up $53,024.44.

Tar Heel and Solicitor, the one-two punch of the Miller stable, go on the auction block in November at the Harrisburg, Pa., sales, when the 38-horse stable of the late W. N Reynolds is broken up Reynolds died about two weeks ago.



SENSATION of the early football season has been Hal Wagonner, top scorer in the Big Four. Here is the whizbang as he'll look on Sunday when the unbeaten Tiger-Cats rip in for a setto with the Montreal Alouettes. One of the swiftest runners in the pastime, Wagonner was called a "one-man track team" at Tulane University where he played with Joe Shinn, Tiger-Cat end.

Here and There In Sport

New York Yankees announced Thursday night they would accept orders for world series tickets starting Saturday.

All requests must be postmarked after midnight of Friday, Sept. 21, and must be placed by mail only, and must not exceed four sets of boxes or reserved seats.

The orders should be sent to: Yankee Ticket Manager, Yankee Stadium, Bronx 51, NY.

The tickets will be sold in sets of four, good for the first, second, sixth and seventh games. In the event the sixth and seventh games are not played, refunds will be made after the series.

A box seat (one ticket for each of the four games) costs $32 and a reserved seat is $24 a set. Add 50 cents to each complete order to cover registry and postal charges.

The Marlboro hockey teams start fall workouts at Maple Leaf Gardens today and Saturday. The activity involves 200 hockey players of various ages and degrees of ability.

The Marlboro Junior A team, the Junior B Weston Dukes and the Marlboro Midgets start today. The Peewes, minor bantams, and Bantams join them Saturday.

The Central Ontario Basketball Association will hold its annual meeting at Galt Sunday. It is planned to start this year's schedule a month earlier than usual.

Four prized watches, with a total value of over $2,585, have been stolen from his trophy cases, Boxing Magazine publisher Nat Fleischer reported to police on Thursday.

Fleischer, publisher of Ring Magazine, told police that he found a lock on the showcase had been pried open in the morning, that the four watches were missing and other valued time pieces in the case had been scattered about.

The nameless Syracuse entry in the American Hockey League is not playerless.

Twenty-two turned out for the first scrimmage in a four-week training camp that began at Lindsay Wednesday.

Coach Frank Beisler, however, had only this to say following today's 90-minute workout: "The boys looked good."

Back in Syracuse, meanwhile, a contest is being held to find a name for the new team.

Big Bob Gain, 250-pound middle with Ottawa Rough Riders who is well up on Big Four football scoring with his convert and placement kicking, Thursday laughed off a reported offer from Cleveland Browns.

Already popular with Ottawa fans because of his kicking and tackling ability, the all-American tackle with University of Kentucky last year had this to say:

"Uncle Sam (draft) willing, I intend to play football in Ottawa as long as the folks up here want me. I like Canadian football, and it would take an offer in six figures to even make me give the matter a second thought."

The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission said Thursday it would recognize the winner of Monday night's Johnson-Archie Moore bout as the logical contender for Joey Maxim's light heavyweight title.

New York Rangers Thursday announced a deal by which they acquired Paul Ronty, 23-year-old centre, from Boston Bruins in exchange for defenceman Gus Kyle and the rights to forward Pentti Lund. An undisclosed amount of cash was involved.

The Toronto-born Ronty played the full 70 games for Bruins last season and had a record of 18 goals and 13 assists. Rangers hope to use him as foundation for a line with rookie Wally Hergesheimer and Gaye Stewart.

Break Up Fight

BERLIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—West Berliners, engaged in a rock fight with Comunist East Berlin residents along the sector border, were dispersed Thursday night by Red police firing warning shots in the air. An estimated 2,000 persons were reported involved.

Reach Hong Kong

HONG KONG, Sept. 21 (AP)—Archbishop Frederic Melendro-Gutierrez of Nanking, five Spanish priests and a Spanish nun arrived Thursday—all deported by the Chinese Communists. The seven were convicted of "plotting an armed uprising against the government."

Western Gets New Trophy For Athletics

LONDON, Ont., Sept 21 (CP) —Creation of the Claude K. Brown memorial trophy was announced today by the University of Western Ontario.

The silver and ivory cup has been given in memory of Dr. Claude K. Brown, former member of the UWO board of governors who died in Scotland in 1941 while serving overseas supervising the work of the Knights of Columbus Canadian army huts. It will be given annually to the student making the greatest contribution to the university's athletics.

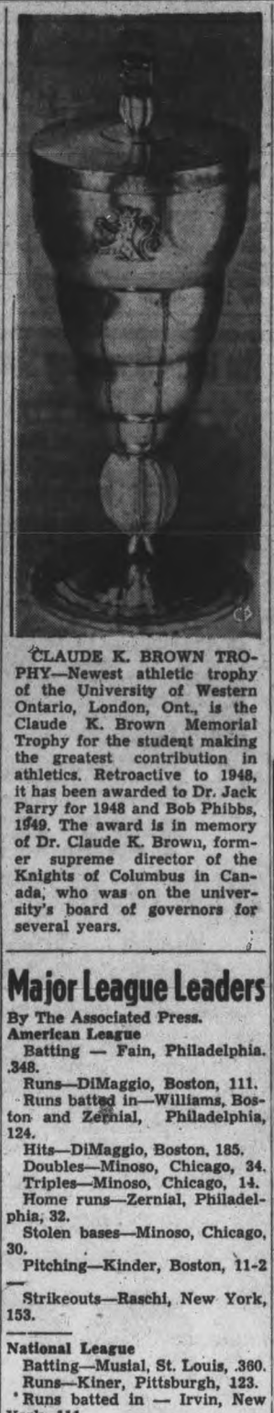
The work of a British silversmith—Dunstan Proden of Burgess Hill, Sussex—the cup has been on exhibition in the United Kingdom for several weeks. It will be delivered to Western this month.

In Memory

The trophy was commissioned by the university on behalf of a committee of Londoners to perpetuate the memory of Dr. Brown, former supreme director of the Knights of Columbus in Canada and long associated with the university.

Main feature in its design—the surmounting stag and the demi-lions, ermine crowned and double tailed—has been taken from the university's coat of arms.

The award will be made retroactive to 1948. First winners of the trophy are Dr. Jack Parry, 1948, and Bob Phibbs, 1949, each will receive a replica of the original.



CLAUDE K. BROWN TROPHY—Newest athletic trophy of the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont., is the Claude K. Brown Memorial Trophy for the student making the greatest contribution in athletics. Retroactive to 1948, it has been awarded to Dr. Jack Parry for 1948 and Bob Phibbs, 1949. The award is in memory of Dr. Claude K. Brown, former supreme director of the Knights of Columbus in Canada, who was on the university's board of governors for several years.

Don't Intend Use Ron Atwell

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 (CP). —Coach Sammy Pollock of Montreal Canadien Juniors said Thursday that Ron Atwell, a young Ontario player, has worked out with the junior Canadien squad "but we are not using him; he's going to play school hockey."

Pollock was commenting on a Waterloo story which said the Junior A Hurricanes of that city had filed a complaint with the Ontario Hockey Association alleging tampering by Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

The Hurricanes said Atwell is on the reserve list of the Boston Brins of the NHL, which sponsors the Hurricanes and that Waterloo got Atwell in an OHA draft draw from the Nobleton club, of lower junior rank.

The Montreal Canadien juniors are sponsored by the NHL Canadiens and Pollock handles the junior team.

Black Duty Wins In Fastest Time

LINDSAY, Sept. 21.—The track was fast for the speeding in the ring events at the opening second day of the Lindsay Central Exhibition. The 2:28 pace had to be run in two divisions because of the large entry. The best time was made by Black Duty who went the mile in 2:20. Peggy McGrattan took the second division in 2:23. Victory Hi, the blind horse from Peterborough, which was the sensation of the track last year went the 2:15 event in 2:13½. There were six Grattan horses in the afternoon's races.

Seven Persons Killed Newfoundland Plane Crash

BUCHANS, Nfld., Sept. 20 — (CP)—A Norseman plane owned by the Buchans Mining Company crashed in landing at South Pond Wednesday killing all seven persons on board.

The wreckage was discovered Wednesday afternoon by a search plane after the Norseman, on a routine flight to carry supplies to a prospecting party, had been reported overdue.

Dead are:

Pilot Tom Mattinen of Sudbury; Dr. J. H. MacLean, chief geologist of the company; Ralph Barnes of Buchans; George Pike of Badger, and Patrick O'Keefe of Placentia, company employees; and Douglas Derry and Roy Moran of Spartan Airways, whose home towns are not immediately available.

Edward Martin, company assistant manager, said no word had been received from the Norseman since it left Wednesday morning on the flight to South Pond where a geological party was working.

Sudden Dive

Carl Fisher, who piloted the Bowater's pulp and paper mills plane, which found the wreck at noon, said he received an account of the crash from two membears of the survey camp who watched it at a distance of four miles.

"The plane circled the camp and was on its final approach to the lake when it suddenly dived to earth and caught fire," Fisher said. There was no apparent reason for the crash.

"There was nothing in the wreck that could be salvaged," he said. "The bodies were burned to ashes."

Mr. Martin said the bodies would not be brought back here until civil aviation authorities had examined the wreck scene.

Urge Quick Passage Of Niagara Proposal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) —The Interior Department Thursday urged prompt passage of legislation that would authorize the federal government to build new power facilities at world-famed Niagara Falls.

The department's recommendation was given to a House of Representatives public works subcommittee by William E. Warne Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

Specifically, Warne supported one of three bills that are before the committee.

The bill would provide that after the project is built by the federal government it would be transferred, at cost, to New York State.

Named To Board

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP). — Dr. Joseph T. A. Sullivan, Toronto surgeon and physician, on Thursday was appointed to the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto. A graduate of the university, he has been its assistant professor of otolaryngology, the science of the eyes, ears, nose and throat, for the last three years.

Tobacco Strike Almost Ended

HAMILTON, Sept. 21—(CP)—With the end of the strike over wages at the Tuckett Tobacco Company in sight, T. H. McGuire, president of the firm, said Thursday night he hopes the plant here will be back in operation next week. It employs more than 370 Hamilton residents.

Meanwhile, the International Tobacco Workers' Union (AFL) continued to picket the plant. Union officials said picketing will continue until union members ratify the tentative settlement reached today in Quebec.

In Quebec, Labor Minister Barrette announced Thursday settlement of a strike of 3,000 Quebec Province tobacco workers.

The announcement followed a meeting between representatives of tobacco manufacturers and of the International Tobacco Workers' Union (AFL-TLC).

Details of settlement of the strike called early in the month for wage increases were not revealed immediately.

In Montreal Thursday night, a union spokesman said simultaneous meetings fill be held Monday morning in the three cities affected by the strike — Montreal, Granby, Que., and Hamilton.

Union membership then will decide whether or not to accept terms which have not yet been made public.

Common Problems Discussed By RCASCA

WINNIPEG, Sept. 21—(CP)—Reports from the various units throughout Canada and discussions of common problems Thursday occupied the opening session of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps Asssociation annual convention.

The convention, which brings together about 40 reserve officers of the corps from many parts of Canada, will last three days. Chairman of the meeting is Lt.-Col. H. A. MacDonnell, president of the association.

Change In Law

TORONTO, Sept. 21 — (CP) — Welfare Minister Goodfellow announced Thursday that legislation will be introduced into the Ontario legislature next week to outlaw recoveries from deceased pensioners who leave less than $2,000. He said the legislation, which will benefit the heirs of pensioners, will go into effect Jan. 1, 1952.

50 Million Order Placed By CPR

MONTREAL, Sept. 21—(CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has placed orders with Canadian companies for more than $50,000,000 worth of equipment, to be delivered in 1952, it was announced Thursday by N. R. Crump, vice-president of the company.

On order are 50 Diesel-electric locomotives, 4,250 freight cars and 50 units of passenger equipment.

Some orders for the equipment have been placed with the newly-established Diesel plant of the Canadian Locomotive Plant, Kingston.

Appointed Director

OTTAWA, Sept. 21 (CP)—Col. E. C. Mayhew, 39, formerly of Moose Jaw, Sask., on special duties with Canadian Arsenals Limited, has been appointed director of armament development for the Canadian army, Army Headquarters announced Thursday. Col. Mayhew is a graduate of Royal Military College, Queen's University, and the Military College of Science in the United Kingdom.

Actress Of 20s Finds Modern Films Boring

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21 (AP) —Madge Kennedy, star of spicy bedroom farces on the stage and screen in the 20's, today assailed French bathing suits and single-meaning plays.

Miss Kennedy, still glamorous as a matron, is starting her third career in show business. She was Samuel Goldwyn's first star and and a comedy favorite on Broadway. Now, 28 years after her last picture, she is making her talking picture debut in "The Marrying Kind."

We discussed how manners and morals have changed over the years and she clucked her tongue at the Bikini bathing suits which some gals wear.

Subtle Sex

"Goodness knows, I spent a large part of my career unclothed," she laughed. "But I was always very proper. In the bedroom farces I played in, I was required to appear in negligees and nightgowns (never pyjamas in those days!) even though I was completely covered, I believe such outfits were sexier than the French bathing suits of today.

"After all, it's what you suggest, not what you show, that is sexy. Adornment is more suggestive than bare skin."

Miss Kennedy said the theatre was more fun when it had such bedroom comedies as she appeared in.

"The shows I appeared in had double meaning," she admitted, "but they were good clean fun. The audience had a good time and they could take the meaning any way they wanted. We never had any censorship troubles, except in Boston, where one or two lines might be cut out.

Times Change

"But, starting with 'Tobacco Road" and continuing through Tennessee Williams, double meaning disappeared from the stage. There is only single meaning. The fun is gone."

Miss Kennedy appeared in such shows as "Cornered," "Poppy" (with W. C. Fields), "Paris Bound" and "Private Lives." She left the stage in 1932 and has spent the years since then as a housewife.

British Farms

OWEN SOUND—(CP)—Farms in Britain are highly mechanized, the Owen Sound Junior Farmers club was told by Murray Sewell, who went to Britain this summer as a member of the Ontario Junior Farmers' judging team. He said farms in Britain are not as small as most Canadian imagine.

THERE WAS PLENTY of produce and fresh fruit for residents of Montreal's West End recently when a heavily loaded truck coldided with a passenger car and toppled over, scattering a load of edibles on the street. A good deal of the produce reportedly disappeared before the arrival of investigating officers.

Charles and Anne To Stay With Nurses

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON (CP). — Prince Charles, who still thinks kings, queens and princesses exist only in fairy tales, will stay in London with sister Anne when his parents are in Canada.

What to do with Charles and Anne has been a problem ever since the royal visit was announced. Now it's definite that they will stay at Clarence House, London residence of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Prince Charles, who will be three years old Nov. 14, and 13-month-old Princess Anne will be looked after by Edinburgh-born nurse Helen Lightbody, and a young Scots nursery maid, Mabel Anderson of Elgin, Morayshire.

Pop In Often

The King and Queen will pop in often, too. They like to have their grandchildren near enough for frequent visits when Elizabeth and Philip are away. When the Princess went to Malta, for instance, Charles and later Anne spent much time with the King and Queen in London and Windsor Castle.

The young Prince is always happy to see "grandmama" and "grandpapa." Apart from his genuine fondness for the King and Queen, like every other youngster he appreciates the interest adults lend to games. His favorite pastime now is hide-and-seek and all visitors to the nursery, from the King downwards, are asked to join in the fun.

Princess Anne, as yet too young for such robust sport, nevertheless receives much of her brother's attention. He likes watching her pull herself erect, using the bars of her play-pen for support. Like all one-year-olds, Anne is soon back in sitting position.

Happy Youngster

The Princess is at exactly the same stage as was Prince Charles at the same age. She has six teeth, says the same number of words and has the same big-eyed interest in everything she sees. But she is less noisy than her brother. At one, Charles' favorite game was banging a saucepan with a spoon. Anne is happy with a squeaking duck given the Prince by Queen Mother Mary.

Now Charles shows increasing interest in mechanical things and other typical boy's amusements. The saucepan has given way to a trumpet and a mouth organ.

His favorite nursery books are stories of an elephant called Babar. This is a French child's series translated into English.

Interested in Tour

Charles shows considerable interest in his parents' Canadian tour. He finds it exciting that this time "Mama" as well as "Papa" will go on a ship. He sits quietly for minutes on end looking at pictures of the Empress of France and asking questions about it.

Charles is not yet aware of what Royalty means. He has not been told, for instance, that his grandparents are the King and Queen and his mother the heir to the throne. No doubt he thinks that all little boys and their parents have throngs to watch them going off on holidays.

Reports that Elizabeth and Philip will telephone home to their children every day while in Canada are regarded here as somewhat exaggerated. But it is certain that leters on the children will be waiting at many of the Canadian cities the Royal couple visit—letters from the Queen, for instance, and nurse Lightbody.

Canada's Oil Line In World Atlas

LONDON. — (CP) — Canada's new oil pipeline from Edmonton to Lake Superior is shown in a new World Atlas just published here. So are new towns in remote parts of Russia and results of recent Arctic exploration.

But population figures for British cities are 20 years out of date. The atlas went to press just before the results of this year's census came out.

Published by Oxford University Press, the atlas was produced by a team of wartime map-makers who started from scratch five years ago to build what they hoped would be the first really new World Atlas in 50 years.

A foreword gives special praise to Enid Cox, 23-year-old Surrey girl whose job was to mark and tint hills, valleys and oceans. But it was strictly a drawing-board tour. Miss Cox has never been outside England.

Winnipeg Dancers Planning Performance For Princess

By WILFRID CHISLETT

WINNIPEG (CP)—Twenty-one whirling, perspiring dancers will wind up 10-hour daily rehearsals Oct. 9 with a show that promises to be the climax of their dancing careers.

Oct. 9 is the day Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh reach Winnipeg on the western leg of their Canadian tour.

It is also the day the Winnipeg Ballet Company opens its 13th season—with a command performance.

When the lights of Winnipeg's Civic Auditorium are dimmed that night the dancers will present a special program of original Canadian ballet for the Royal visitors.

Behind the ballet is Gwenneth Lloyd, a tall Englishwoman who came to Winnipeg 13 years ago. The Royal couple will be able to judge what her company—supplemented by a 30-piece orchestra and a score of blue-jeaned stagehands—is able to produce in the line of ballet entertainment. Four short ballets will be presented at the command performance. The evening will start with "Wise Virgins" and end with "Finishing School," a gay witty ballet.

However, because of train-times and other commitments, the Royal couple will be able to see only the two middle attractions on the program—"Ballet Premier," and "Visages."

Original Ballets

All four ballets are original and have a distinct, made-in-Winnipeg appearance. The choreography for three was worked out by Miss Lloyd. The other, "Ballet Premier," is by Arnold Spohr, principal male dancer of the company.

"Ballet Premier" follows the free classical style in the tradition of the Imperial Russian Ballet. Principal dancers are Arnold Spohr and Jean Stoneham, formerly with the Ottawa Ballet Company.

"Visages," is an abstract, modern ballet about young love and the various emotions—jealously, fear, greed and indecision—which interfere with it. Leading roles will be danced by Arnold Spohr and Lillian Lewis.

Colorful settings were designed by Joseph Plaskett of the Winnipeg School of Art. Costumes and masks are by Winnipeg artist Dorothy Phillips.

Original Music

"Visages" will feature original music composed by Walter Kaufmann, conductor of the Winnipeg Symphony orchestra. A piano concerto in G minor by Mendelssohn forms the background for "Ballet Premier."

Music for the performance will be conducted by Eric Wild. Cecile Henderson, Winnipeg pianist, will play in the Mendelssohn concerto.

Most of the dancers come from places all across the Dominion.

Marmora Church Devotions End

MARMORA, Sept. 21 (ENS)—The forty hours devotions closed at Sacred Heart Church Tuesday evening with the chanting of the litany of the saints, procession of the blessed sacrament and benediction given by the Very Rev. H. J. Farrell of Perth.

Rev. Dr. Pickett, DCL, gave an interesting sermon on "The Rosary." Visiting priests in the sanctuary were the Rev. E. Briceland, Read; the Rev. W. Ferrion, Stanleyville; and the Rev. J. Brickley, Belleville.

Cucumber Shortage

WINNIPEG—(CP)—Owing to cool nights and cloudy days, a shortage of pickling cucumbers has developed in Manitoba. Cucumbers currently are eight cents a pound, wholesale, compared with five cents at this time last year.

Evidence Shows Rankling Enmity

WINDSOR, Sept. 21 — (CP) — Evidence of rankling enmity between Mike Lesko and the man who is charged with his murder, George Liska, was introduced Thursday as the Liska murder trial went into its third day.

Crown evidence was given that Lesko had assaulted Liska at work a few days before the June 8 shooting and that Liska had remained away from his job for several days. This was just prior to the actual slaying.

An attempt by the Crown to enter statements, allegedly made by Liska to police shortly after his admittance to hospital, was protested by defence counsel. An adjournment was ordered to today.

Revolution Afoot —Rev. H. Cotten

The world is in a state of revolution the Rev. Henry Cotten of St. Andrew's United Church told members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting Thursday.

The topic of Mr. Cotten's address was, Where are we in World Affairs Today?

The speaker named the German revolution following the First World War as the first of a number of comparatively recent revolutionary movements that have spread through out the world.

Spreading

These movements have resulted in changes of government in India and the Far East and have caused unrest in Africa. The peoples of these countries are rapidly learning of the prosperity of the west. This means that as we are willing to share rather than exploit these countries so shall we win friends.

Mr. Cotten called the British Commonwealth of Nations one of the greatest examples of co-operation among nations, and one of the greatest guardians of peace. He said the people of this commonwealth believe in and must have a firm conviction in the democratic way of life. This belief and conviction must be guarded in order to combat the ideological war which Russia is now waging.

"Some people are too easily frightened by the Russians," Mr. Cotten concluded. "This is no time for hysterics. If they do come at us we must be ready for them and so show the same spirit as our forefathers so that we will not lose our Christain democratic way of life."

Mr. Cotten was introduced by James Lillico and thanked by Charles Hurst.

1,190 Steel Workers Off Jobs In Sydney

SYDNEY, NS, Sept. 21 (CP)—The number of steelworkers out of work due to layoffs and suspensions at the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation plant here rose Thursday to 1,190 when the company announced another 175 employees had been suspended.

The trouble began two months ago, when members of Local 1064, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), began negotiations with the company for wage parity with Central Canada steel workers.

Evening shift employees returned Thursday night to their jobs in several departments of the sprawling plant, following a day-long walkout.

Here's why a further quarter of a billion dollars is being invested by Aluminum Company of Canada in

"OPERATION ALUMINUM"

Aluminum is being put to so many uses these days that Canada's aluminum industry, begun at Shawinigan Falls in 1900, and already grown to giant size, is embarked on another vast expansion program.

More dams, powerhouses, smelting facilities in Quebec . . . a whole new operation in British Columbia . . . these great forward strides will further step up Canada's aluminum capacity to a total of more than half a million tons a year.

Today the names "Peribonka" and "Kitimat" mean nothing to most Canadians. Right now they head blueprints — blueprints of work in the planning stage, of work in progress with thousands of men already on the job.

"Shawinigan", "Shipshaw" and "Arvida" were new names, too, many years ago. Today they are living reminders to Canadians — and to the world — that Alcan has grown, developing this country's resources so that now it produces a quarter of the world's aluminum supply.

On the Peribonka River in Quebec, Alcan is harnessing two cataracts — Chute-du-Diable and Chute-à-la-Savanne. These will provide hydro-electric power for a big addition to aluminum output and additional power resources for the Saguenay District.

Meanwhile, up coast 400 miles from Vancouver, a whole new aluminum operation is planned. Where now stands the tiny Indian village of Kitimat, a whole new town will be built; here Alcan will construct a huge smelter. At Kemano, 50 miles away, Alcan will build a powerhouse inside a mountain; a ten-mile tunnel through this mountain will carry water from a chain of lakes down a 2,600 foot drop to develop an eventual 2,000,000 h.p. capacity.

This "Operation Aluminum" means jobs for thousands of Canadians. It means additional millions of dollars coming into this country from abroad, for much of this aluminum will be exported.

It means additional low-cost aluminum for Canada's own use — metal which a thousand plants throughout the country use to fashion everything from utensils and toys to airplanes and bridges.

"Operation Aluminum" is a big thing for Canadians and for the free democratic world. It means a further line of defence against aggression. And it means a busier, more prosperous country in which to live and work.

Farmers Ready Fight Controls On Food Alone

MILTON, Sept. 21 — (CP). — Organized agriculture will fight any government move to impose price controls on food, without imposing similar controls on wages and profits. H. H. Hannam, president of the 400,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said Thursday night.

Speaking before the Halton County Agricultural Federation, Mr. Hannam warned the government that if it makes such a move it will have a bigger row on its hands than it now has with this clamor for price control.

"If any government thought of clamping price controls on food without at the same time putting controls on profits and wages, it is going to hear from the farmers," Mr. Hannam said. "Organized agriculture will fight."

In Keeping

"Food prices today are not high in relation to other prices or in relation to wage rates or the profits made by industry," he said. "Most food in terms of the hours of work required to purchase it is cheaper than it has ever been."

It required more than 15 minutes of work at hourly wage rates in industry in 1939 to buy a quart of milk at the price then prevailing, Mr. Hannam said. Today, at current wage rates, a person could earn enough for a quart of milk in 10 minutes.

Average hourly wage rates in manufacturing industries had increased from 42.7 cents per hour in 1939 to $1.15 in 1951. This was an increase of 174 per cent; milk prices had jumped less than 80 per cent.

"It is humiliating," he said, "for the farmer to be picked out as the only one who is not entitled to a fair exchange value for his product in the market place."

Say Wright's Death Won't Affect Policy

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP)—The Globe and Mail issued the following statement today:

"Although the late William H. Wright was the founder of The Globe and Mail, his passing will not affect the operation of the newspaper. Its policy will remain unchanged.

"George McCullagh, the present publisher, has held the controlling interest in the Globe Printing Co., which publishes The Globe and Mail, since 1942.

"Mr. Wright's estate is the only other shareholder."

Atomic Fire Chief Pays Toronto Visit

TORONTO, Sept. 21 — (CP) — Roswell L. Pooler, the first atomic-bomb fire chief, was in Toronto Thursday to help train Canadian firemen to deal with radiation problems in A-bomb attacks or in fire in industries using fission materials.

Mr. Pooler, fire chief at the first A-bomb explosion at Los Alamos in 1945, said Ontario's course "is as good as any I've seen." He now is a field expert in the Division of Safety of New York State's fire office aiding the Ontario fire marshall's office.

Nine teams of firemen from Toronto, Hamilton, Sarnia, Oshawa and New York State Thursday practised using ionization chambers to detect the radium on the field.

More Laymen Needed For Church Work

Ministers Should Encourage Laymen —Ministerial Ass'n

The necessity of deepening of the demand for personal committment in the church was emphasized by the Rev. J. E. Griffith, president of the Bay of Quinte conference at the September meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery.

The meeting was held in Lakefield Untied Church.

The conference president also said that there was a larger place for laymen in the church today and called on the ministers to do the work of the evangelist. He listed three methods, mass evangalism, classes and meetings for witness.

Mr. Griffith was welcomed to the meeting by chairman of the Presbytery, Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church.

New Charge.

A recommendation was made that the policy expressed by the presbytery executive regarding extension work in Peterborough be adopted. This policy stated that a new charge made up of Grace United Church, Stewart Hall congregation and any further work that may be required, be created with an ordained minister in charge. A presbytery objective of $30,000 for the United Church was set and the church extension committe was given authority to allocate and carry through this project.

Dr. Harry Tuttle, secretary of the Board of Pensions gave a picture of present needs. The Rev. N. Cole reported that capital resources of the pension fund have reached an all-time high of $12-,504,462. The annual income is also at a new high, $1,268,501. There are on the benefit roll 904 ministers, 855 widows and 62 children.

The rate of benefits to ministers has been increased this year to $25 per active year of ministry.

Rally Meetings.

It was decided to hold a series of three rally meetings. They will be held at Millbrook, Oct. 21; Norwood, Oct. 22; Peterborough, Oct. 23.

The following attended the meeting: the Revs. H. G. Douglas, H. B. Herrington, H. L. Yarr, N. Cole, D. P. Morris, R. G. Newman, N. F. Malcolm, H. Cotten, A. M. Butler, H. D. McCormack, A. E. Larke, B. S. Morwood, E. W. Rowland, H. K. Wright, D. B. Gordon, W. Tonge, A. A. Mathews; and alymen H. H. Lowes, A. E. Prest, L. Bristow, J. A. Porter, W. F. Fallis, L. W. Humphries, A. E. DeNure, Gordon Payne, G. H. Roper, J. Barnes, W. H. Girgen, A. E. Sackville.

$200 Car Damage

More than $200 damage was done to two cars in a collision on Otonabee St. Thursday morning. Drivers of the autos were James Faux, Hastings, and Roy A. Plunkett, RR 1, Keene.

Plunkett was stopped on the north side of Otonabee St. at Whitlaw St., waiting for traffic to move. Faux, also west-bound on Otonabee, braked as his car approached Plunkett's.

The Faux car skidded and hit the rear of the Plunkett auto, damaging the trunk door, bumper and gravel pan. About $166 damage was done to the front of Faux's car, and about $55 to the rear of Plunkett's.

Bible College Opens Oct. 4

Eastern Pentecostal Bible College will begin its 13th year when enrolment starts in Peterborough on October 4.

Formerly operating in Toronto, a total of 750 students were enrolled and of these 427 graduated from the three-year course. The college is sponsored by the District Conferences of Western and Eastern Ontario, Quebec, the Maritimes and Newfoundland with a total of 300 churches.

President of the college is the Rev. W. H. Found, the dean is the Rev. Charles Ratz and the director of public relations the Rev E. N. O. Kulbeck, MA. All will live in the city.

The dedication service for the college will take place on the front lawn of their building, the old Civic Hospital, on the afternoon of October 4. General superintendent, the Rev. C. B. Smith will officiate and the first service will be held that evening in the Summer Gardens with the Rev. A. A. Wilson, of Kansas City, guest speaker.

It is anticipated that 110 students will enroll. They will come from Newfoundland, the Maritimes, Quebec, Eastern and Western Ontario, Bermuda and South Africa.

ROLLING THROUGH PARK

George St. buses are again cutting through Morrow Park Warren Paving Co. are finishing the road bed for the Lock St paving. The new strip through the park was a timely convenience for that traffic switch.

305 OPERATIONS

A total of 305 operations were performed during August at Civic Hospital. Of these, 67 were major and 94 were minor operations. Eighteen eye, ear, nose and throat operations were performed, 77 transfusions made, and 49 casts put on.

All Lindsay Moves To Fair For Its 75th Birthday On Citizens', Kids' Day

Thursday Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen and family of Lindsay were not at home to their friends. But it didn't matter much because their friends were in the same social boat, and thoroughly enjoying themselves, too. Everybody and his pet dog was off to see the Lindsay Exhibition, this year celebrating its 75th anniversary.

Town council got into the spirit of things by deciding a half holiday—much to the delight of the schoolchildren and others, but to the confusion of tourists and outsiders who wanted to do some business.

It was a doubleheader at the fair grounds, having been declared Citizens' Day and Kids' Day. Attendance was boosted to a record figure (not disclosed) with the help of a clear sky and warm fall sunshine.

Many country schools in Victoria county—probably anticipating a disastrous one-day mortality rate among grandmothers—decided to let the kids go anyway. The exhibition board cooperated by admitting free all children under 12 years. And the result was a tumult of youthful shouting and laughter — along with mingled sounds of calliope music and midway barking—that could be heard blocks away.

As promised by Fair Manager B. L. McLean there were no idle moments.

Highlights

Among the highlights were a stage show of top entertainment value, stock judging, band concerts, doll show; exhibits of art stamps, grain; a cooking school, school show, poultry show and egg contest.

Supplying music and a dash of color were four bands: the Havelock pipe band (with four dancing girls), Lindsay Collegiate Cadet Band, Little Britain brass band, and the CGE pipe band from Peterborough.

During the four-day exhibition there will be a parade along the main street of Lindsay twice a day. One at 1.30 p.m. and the other at 7 p.m.

It consists of the pipe bands and the Little Britain band, a parade of heavy horses in harness, shetland ponies, and pretty Miss Leighton Shantz, Baden, driving a four-wheel show buggy.

Thursday they didn't need the parade. Everybody was in the grounds, it seemed, except an unhappy looking cop on Kent St., a couple of taxi drivers, and idle beverage room waiters.

"Our exhibition is bigger and better than ever this year," said Mr. McLean who has been manager for the last 14 years. "It is second only to the CNE in Toronto.

Beat 100,000

"Last year our attendance was more than 100,000 and we expect to beat that figure before we close Saturday night. We circulated 50,000 tickets in advance sales and 90 per cent of them are sold.

"Altogether we're contributing $12,000 in prize money, and we expect a final turnover of $60,000.

"What's that you say? You're from Peterborough, and they have an annual fair down there too? Well, well, the idea does catch on."

Mr. McLean, who does a chamber of commerce job on all strangers, continued: "In Lindsay we don't fool. We give you the best entertainment and our gate admission is the same this year.

All exhibit buildings on the large fair grounds are filled and every foot of space outside the buildings has been occupied for displays of cars, trucks, farm implements and feed lines.

In the harness racing the entries are more than full. The 2.28 class was so large that it has to be run off in two sections. Drivers

Weekend Goes Inside Pen At Kingston

This week's Examiner WEEKEND contains two kinds of angels.

Among a large number of features, picture stories and short fiction stories, WEEKEND readers will get an inside view of the big "inside," the Kingston penitentiary and an inside view of an explosive manufacturing plant.

Here are the two kinds of angels. The angels of the Kingston penitentiary are members of the women's softball team who are taking part in the pen's new program of "re-creation."

Barromee Benoit is an angel walker in CIL's explosive works at McMasterville, Quebec. He moves tons of nitroglycerin each day and tells a WEEKEND reporter why he enjoys his risky job.

3-Year-Old Acrobat

Pictures of a three-year-old acrobat show how the youngster gets into the act with her parents 65 feet up.

"Boy" Browning, described in another interesting feature, despite his peculiar nickname, is 54 years old and will act as chief-of-staff to Princess Elizabeth throughout her forthcoming visit to Canada.

Why do husbands leave home? Some interesting and amusing answers are supplied by Ronald J. Cooke in an article with illustrations by cartoonist Doug Wright.

Striking Cover

WEEKEND's colorful cover illustrates an inside picture story about the Air Pack, a five-in-one garment for fashion conscious women who do their travelling by air.

When members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science chose the Duke of Edinburgh as their patron, WEEKEND staff photographer Louis Jaques was on hand to make a color film recording of the ceremonies. His outstanding shots are featured in this issue.

Teenagers who have difficulty in deciding what they should do and when during parties and in the everyday mixing with other people will get a hand from Kate Aiken in her Good Grooming column this week.

And of course there is Nipper waiting to give you a chuckle.

Together with the 16 pages of your favorite comics, the WEEKEND adds up to a lot of entertainment in your Saturday's Examiner.

MERCY KILLING

Smith township had a mercy killing Thursday evening. But there'll be no messy investigation even though the police were called in. Victim was an injured dog, also believed to be suffering from distemper. The animal crawled into a tool shed at the rear of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lucas, Smith township, and remained there a couple of days. When anybody approached he began to act ugly and he foamed at the mouth. So Mr. Lucas called the provincial police and OPP Constable Wallace Mohns shot the animal to put it out of its misery on instructions from Humane Society Inspector Bruce Menzies.

Traffic Accident Verdict Reversed By Appeal Court

Mr. Justice Roach in Ontario Appeal Court Thursday reversed a judgment of Judge S. L. Smoke in a motor accident damage case.

The original action arose out of an accident December 10, 1949, when cars driven by Aubrey Wilson, O'Carroll Ave., and Bertram Andrews, Sherbrooke St., collided on King St.

At the hearing before Judge Smoke, Wilson was awarded $164.43, and Andrews was found 100 per cent at fault. Justice Roach's ruling reversed the situation and Andrew's was awarded about $180.

On King St.

The accident happened when Wilson was driving east on King St., and Andrews was driving west. A truck was parked across the south half of King St., and Wilson swung out to pass it. He saw Andrews' car coming, and stopped.

At this point Andrews had about 11 feet of the road to drive on as cars were parked on the north side of the street.

When only a short distance from Wilson's car, Andrews braked, but the left sides of the two cars scraped.

T. J. Carley, KC, appeared for Wilson and W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, for Andrews.

PATIENTS DISCHARGED

During August, 494 patients were discharged from Civic Hospital, the board of governors was told Thursday night. Two hundred and forty-eight were discharged as recovered, 191 as improved, and 30 as unimproved. Nine were transferred, four were for diagnosis only, and there were 12 deaths.

New Hospital To Tighten Money Belt

First 8 Months At Civic Show Deficit

T. T. Rodger, treasurer of Civic Hospital, took a gloomy view of finances Thursday night and forecast a policy of rigid economy for the hospital in the immediate future.

Cause for the continued deficit at Civic, he said, was the high cost of hospitalization.

In one respect, the outlook was bright. The hospital showed an excess of revenue over expenditure for August. Amount was $5,352.80.

The deficit for the first eight months of the year, however, was $17,629.86.

Total revenue for the eight-month period was $561,636.19, roughly $22,000 below the budget estimate for two-thirds of the year. Expenses for the same period were only about $4,000 below estimates.

Turning to the statement of accounts receivable, Mr. Rodger remarked that "here is another gloomy picture."

Balance of accounts still owing the hospital jumped up about $5,500 from the balance at August 1 of $120,521.75 to $126,040.73. Net earnings from patients in August were $50,198.40, and a total of $44,679.42 was collected during the month.

Superintendent John Hornal predicted that that section of the financial report should brighten up within three months.

His statement was prompted by a question from board member J. L. Welsh, who wanted to know when the accounts receivable would be in a more favorable state.

Mr. Rodger remarked that since the hospital's volume of business had increased during the past few years it was not remarkable that accounts receivable should also increase. He admitted they were a considerable amount, but said that business in general is having the same experience.

Mr. Hornal said he thought with the recent appointment of an accounts collector for the hospital, that the amount of accounts would look less gloomy.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Black and White Show at Keene Monday Night . . . Farm Forums Aim At Ten More Peterborough Groups . . . Campbellford Fair Wed., Sept. 26 . . . London Fair Gains 32,455 in Attendance . . . Strong Prices at Sargent Sale.

If Peterborough Holstein breeders maintain the volume of exhibits reported from other counties in the province, their Black and White show at Keene Monday evening should bring south at least 100 to 125 head.

The night program is a departure from the Black and White Day in switching from the customary afternoon assembly. It is an experiment undertaken by the directors, and if breeders co-operate in their usual hearty way there should be no decline from the past levels of success.

George McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farm, Oshawa, who was judge at Keene last year has again been engaged.

Renfrew breeders showed 70 entries from 19 herds recently. N. W. McConkey, judge, said the junior heifer calf section was outstanding, as reported in a new column.

Carelton-Russell "Black and White Day", where George McLaughlin was judge, paraded 117 head. Twenty-four exhibitors responded. Obviously there is no lapsing of interest in these competitions, which have helped materially in keeping the Holstein cow and its merits before the farmers of Ontario, and Peterborough is not likely to be an exception.

✦ ✦ ✦

OTHER B. & W. DAYS

Here are some other figures from the Holstein circuit. Stormont county: 120 head by 17 breeders, W. Ray Wilson, Kenmore, judge. F. C. Eligh of Finch took 11 firsts.

Welland county, 95 head by 16 breeders, D. S. Dunton, Brampton, judge.

Mr. McConkey judged 62 heads from 15 herds at Lennox-Addington B. & W. Day at Napanee Fair. Thirteen of 22 entries in the senior and junior heifer calf classes were by calf club members. That is significant of the interest of the calf club groups, and a broadening of the base of Holstein breeding. Premier breeder award was won by J. R. Ackerman & Son of Bath.

James R. Henderson of Kingston judged the 63 head shown by nine breeders at the Prescott county show held at Vankleek Hill fair.

HAS SURPLUS GRAIN

Harry Jackson of Omemee has nearly 35 bushels of registered Cornell wheat and Commercial No. 1 which is a surplus from his harvest. Some of the growers of the district may be interested in this supply.

WEED OF THE WEEK

Goldenrod is branded the weed of the week by Stanley Young, fieldman for the crops branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. One fault, he says, is that when the plants are ripe and dry in the fall, they act like tinder, and go up in flames if a spark or ash happens to drop on them. Because of this fire hazard, the goldenrod was recently listed as a primary noxious weed under the Weed Act. This weed is seldom found in cultivated places. It can't stand cultivation.

CLUB LEADERS MEET

Bob Bell has called a meeting of his Junior Club leaders for next Thursday, Sept. 27, at 8 p.m. Purpose is the final review of plans for the junior club Achievement Day Saturday Sept. 29 at Morrow Park.

SWINE CLUB SEPT. 26

Final meeting of the junior swine club will be Wednesday evening Sept. 26 at 7 p.m. at the farm of Alf Sturzinegger in Smith. This is the first season for the work in raising and caring for pigs, and interest of the young members has been active from the outset.

DISTRICT FAIRS

Peterborough district fall fairs are dropping from the calendar dates as September moves along. Campbellford is Wed. 26; Madoc Oct. 3; Warkworth Friday Oct. 5; Norwood Monday Oct. 8, Thanksgiving Day; Roseneath Fri. Oct. 12; Kingston Oct. 1-6.

✦ ✦ ✦

PASTURE STIMULANT

Nitrogen is recommended for improved fall pasture by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Their suggestion is 125 lbs. ammonium sulphate of 74 lbs. of ammonium nitrate to the acre.

For quick growth in spring an application of 125 lbs. an acre of granular cyanamid in the late fall is advised.

Comment is that grasses respond to phosphates as well as to nitrogen and that a combination of the two, applied in the fall, will give the pastures a good start then, and will promote early spring growth.

"Ammonium phosphate 11-48-0 applied this autumn at the rate of 100 lbs an acre should give good results."

LONDON UP 32,455

Total attendance at Western Fair, London, last week was 345,582, an increase of 32,455 over last year.

Attractions for the concluding Saturday night included a ticket drawing for two automobiles, television set, refrigerator, washing machine and two bicycles. Final summary was: the best yet.

A feature was the Western Ontario Championship Holstein show with 253 head exhibited by 68 breeders. In that strong dairy cattle country, couties of Oxford, Middlesex, Perth, Elgin, Lambton, Essex, Bruce, Huron, Norfolk, the county herd championship went to the Holsteins of Lambton.

Premier breeder banner was taken by Lorn B. Reid of Ripley, who showed the grand champion cow, which picked up the prize for best udder.

Dr. Hector Astengo of Rosafe Farm was awarded senior and grand male championship on his first prize aged bull A.B.C. Reflection Sovereign.

The judge, C. B. Smith of Williamston, Mich., praised the show as "the greatest I have been privileged to judge, and one of the best I have ever seen." Of the first and second prize winners in the junior championship, Mr. Smith said: "They are eight as good heifers as I have ever seen come out for a championship class. Anyone of them would make a worthy junior champion."

The junior female title went to the first prize senior yearling, Lulu Caron, owned by Wilfred James of Sarnia.

BUY JERSEYS

The Bamforth-Kelly herd of Jerseys has been increased by the purchase of six cows at the recent St. Michael's College dispersal sale at Aurora.

AT PIMMETT'S SEPT. 24

The beef calf club is taking off Monday night to the farm of M. H. Pimmett & Son for the last of their season's events, prior to Achievement Day. Lorne Pimmett is leader of this club. The youngsters should profit from his coaching.

SARGENT AUCTION

A team of Belgian horses sold for $445 at the sale Tuesday, of the farm stock and equipment of the estate of the late J. S. Sargent, on the Asphodel-Otonabee boundary. Gordon Hancock, auctioneer, reported a big crowd. Hay went for $12 a ton in the barn, and 1,500 bus. of oats were cleared out at 80 cents a bushel.

Livestock included purebred Holsteins and Jerseys. Top price was $560 for the Holstein cow, Lady Vale Ormsby in calf to the Maple sire Bond Haven Rag Apple. Others brought $510, $490 and so on. The whole range of sales was satisfactory. A binder went for $240 and seeder $225, example of the machine returns.

The Sargent stock quality was widely known, accounting for the big attendance.

THE WHEAT CLUBS

At least 12 more grain men are wanted for the senior 50-bushels of wheat club. Harry Jackson of Omemee, Ralph Drummond, Otonabee and R. Boner of Millbrook are the first three to sign memberships. The club should be completed by Oct. 1, and should have 15 members at least.

The junior club is one up on the men, with David Stewart, John Waterman, Robert Hutchison and Howard Johnston, already in.

DROUGHT IN VIRGINIA

Severe drought south of Washington is reported by W. J. Murphy, Lindsay, home from a business trip through Virginia and Maryland. No rain had fallen in the area for six weeks. Pastures are dried up, and corn fields look worse than similar stands in this section after two or three hard frosts. Canning corn in most instances hasn't been worth cutting. Farmers have their entire herds, including young cattle, on winter rations.

Mr. Murphy says alfalfa hay was selling at $50 a ton, with probability of going higher. A serious shortage of milk is developing in the Baltimore, Washington and Richmond milkshed.

"On arriving home it was most refreshing to see our abundance of green pasture, for which we should be deeply thankful," Mr. Murphy remarked.

FORUM SEASON PLANS

Can Peterborough county come through with 25 Farm Forums? That question embodies the Forum objective for the coming season, as set at the meeting Wednesday night in the office of the Department of Agriculture.

Decision was to canvass ten new communities which have not yet seen the Forum light that has been expanding its rays over the province in the last ten years. President Wellington Sutton volunteered to visit two of the localities suggested. Several other members also promised to do similar missionary work before the 1951-52 series of Radio Forum broadcasts begin.

First review night is to be the occasion of a county rally and social evening. Prominent in the program will be contributions by the individual Forums both of educational and entertainment features, followe by games and folk dancing.

Another proposal recommends that each Forum hold an open meeting for the whole community about a week prior to the first broadcast Oct. 29 to encourage new members to participate in its affairs.

Federation of Agriculture will be asked to try to include in their CHEX broadcasts on Saturdays information about the basic principles of co-operation during October and November.

W. W. Dawson said Kawartha Medical Services was doing a fine service for the people of the county, but that too few recognized it as being anything more than any of the commercial hospitalization plans.

Some 500 people were joined together to help one another in times of sickness, and not to see how much they could get out of this co-operative agency.

Clare Burt, of Toronto, secretary of Ontario Forums Association, recalled the statement of the Rev. Dr. Coady, of Antigonish, "that we can put the searchlight on everything by using Farm Forum properly. As a Forum it is not our responsibility to carry out policies, but to look into and consider everything pertaining to better rural living, and only to make recommendations, not to act as pressure groups."

Peterborough Forums are planning more pre-seasonal preparation for this coming season, and they are hoping that they will attain their goal of ten new groups.

Ask Salary Boost

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP). — More than 200 Ontario postmasters Thursday voted unanimously to request the Postmaster-General's Department at Ottawa for increased salaries, to be made in accordance with the rise in the cost-of-living index. The resolution was passed at the annual convention of the Ontario Branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association.

Profit Begins When Care Taken In Buying

For the third consecutive year, Glenafton Futurity won the male grand championship at the Durham County Black and White Day at Orono Fair. Futurity who was All-Canadian Bull Calf in 1948 and Reserve All-Canadian in 1949 and 1950 is owned by a group of breeders operating under the name of the Central Durham Bull Club.

Jas. T. Brown, Newcastle, and E. J. Brown, Orono, each had four firsts while A. Muir & Sons, Couctice, has three firsts and J. H. Jose & Sons, Newcastle; J. W. Bowman, Enniskillen; Neil T. Malcolm, Nestleton; Harold C. Muir, Courtice; Bruce Tink, Hampton; M. J. Tamblyn, Orono; Carlos Tamblyn, Orono; and Lawrence S. Malcolm, Nestleton, one first each. A. Muir & Sons won the Premier Breeder award.

Senior and Grand Champion female was the winning aged cow in milk, Diana Pietje Fayne shown by Jas. T. Brown. Mr. Brown also had the second prize winner in this class, Rob Roy Texal R.A. Veeman that went on to the reserve senior and reserve grand championship.

Junior champion female was Bruce Tink's first prize junior yearling heifer, Glennariff Sylvia Rag Apple, while M. J. Tamblyn had the reserve junior champion, taking this award on his winning junior heifer calf, Cedar Dale Sky Rockette.

Junior and reserve grand champion bull was the first prize senior yearling, Malco Rag Apple Bad Boy, owned by Lawrence S. Malcolm. The second prize senior yearling bull, Eldersile Triune Sir Heilo, owned by A. Muir & Sons, took the reserve junior award.

In the group classes, E. J. Brown, took the junior get-of-sire on the progeny of Glenafton Futurity and also had the first prize junior herd while Carlos Tamblyn brought out the winning senior-get-of-sire, a group by Montvic Hiemke Pietje Posch. A. Muir & Sons showed the first prize progeny of dam which was from Eldersile Heilo Sally while Jas. T. Brown had the winning graded herd.

The judge was J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, Ont., who commented on the uniformly good quality of the classes.

A total of 114 head were shown by 17 exhibitors. There were three new exhibitors, Harold C. Muir, Courtice, H. J. Brooks, Bowmanville and Carman W. Bell, Campbellcroft.

MAPLE LEA L. G. ROSINE, was selected as the Grand Champion Female at the Western Ontario Championship Holstein Show held at Western Fair, London, Ont. Owned by Lorne B. Reid, Riple, she was also chosen as "the best-uddered female" of the show. Last year Rosine was All-Canadian four-year-old heifer.

Juniors Of Eight C lubs, Achievement Day Sept. 29

Boys and girls of the agricultural and other clubs which are proomted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture come to their Achievement Day, Saturday September 29, at Morrow Park.

The day's program prepared by R. E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative, opens at 9 am with the placing of exhibits.

At 10 am there is an hour of questions for all club members, followed at 11 o'clock by judging competitions. These are for the two dairy and one beef club groups, grain and swine club members; forestry club identification competition, and driving contest for the tractor club.

Lunch is from 12 to 1:15, and then the afternoon events get under way, as follows:

1:15 to 2:30—Judging of grain produced by the members of the Peterborough District Grain Club.

Judging calves, and showmanship, produced by East Peterborough Dairy Club.

2:30 to 3:30 pm—Judging swine raised by the members of the local swine club.

2:30 to 3:30—West dairy club judging of the members' calves and test of showmanship.

3:30 to 4:30—Judging of the beef club calves and contest in showmanship.

Achievement Day is the conclusion of the season's activities by the eight clubs composed of farm boys and girls of this county. They have been under the leadership of a group of Junior Farmers who will be present for the final stage of competitions and exhibiting. This work has been under the general direction of Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, and his assistant, R. E. Bell, who are hoping that all the boys and girls will be able to attend this closing event of the main program.

Friends are invited to the Exhibition Park, and parents are requested to spend some time with the young folks during the day.

The lunch hour can be made a picnic occasion, especially if the weather is anything like the grand day of a year ago.

Achievement Day brings together all the club members. It is an opportunity of meeting one another and getting better acquainted, and the presence of adults will be manifest evidence of interest in this work of the young people.

The date again is the last Saturday of September.

For Third Year Same Bull Takes Award

Profit begins with prudent purchase in any business, and not least in farming, is one of the statements from the CHEX text of Wilson Gemmell broadcast Saturday noon Sept. 22.

"There is no way short of pure luck or duplicity that can convert a bad buy into a good sale. If proper care is not taken in selectiong the merchandise which the merchant puts on his shelf, he may not sell it. In that case loss results. If you do not buy good seed, proper type of fertilizer, good animals whether grade or pure bred, then regardless of the amount of labor which you may put into your efforts subsequently, you can rest assured that your returns will not be as worth while as they should be.

"Far be it from me to suggest that your long hours should be further lengthened, but it is essential, nevertheless, even if that is necessary, that you re-examine your daily activities, and re-arrange your work so that each day you may have time to record what you have accomplished."

Mr. Gemmell, who is manager of the Royal Bank, referred to the recent report by Dr. H. L. Patterson of a year's results of the County Herd Improvement Association which was published in the Examiner.

"I do not know whether it is possible for any one to see the figures for the individual 24 farmers of that Association in order to ascertain how many operated at a profit, and how many at a loss, nor to study other figures which would be equally interesting from a comparative standpoint.

"This much, however, I do think, that everyone of those 24 men is in a position today to improve his returns from his dairy herd."

Mr. Gemmell was emphasizing the perennial advice to farmers not to keep "boarders" in their herds and flocks.

"Perhaps it requires a change of animals in certain instances. Perhaps it requires a change of feeding practices or re-arrangement of equipment to permit economical operations. My point is simply that these farmers by participating in this scheme have put themselves in a position to better their lot, and I am suggesting as I have done many times that everyone should be doing the same thing."

As to farm programs set out in considered private projects, Mr. Gemmell said it might be contended that farmers have to face the uncertainties and hazards of weather. He affirmed that the merchants and the manufacturer "are in the same position."

"From his records, a clothing merchant knows that through the years a given quantity of winter clothing is customarily purchased in his store, and he lays in an inventory which will take care of that trade. This buying is usually done months before, and the goods are in hand and on his shelves before the season is upon him.

"If we are blessed with a mild, open winter, or a long delayed start of the season, people put off buying, and the merchant not infrequently finds himself going into spring with much of the winter clothing he should have sold still on his hands."

WEINER ROAST

Forty boys and girls of the two dairy calf clubs spent a profitable evening Monday at the McConkey farm. This was their final briefing in judging and showmanship for Achievement Day. Some of the parents attended with the young folks, and Mr. and Mrs. McConkey provided a weiner roast.

Latest Autumn Fashions Like Grandma Wore In Youth

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"Heavens to betsy," said grandma as she took her first look at New York's fall fashions. "They're the same things I wore when I was a girl!"

She pointed a trembling finger toward the waist "clinchers,"—boned and laced contraptions calculated to draw the most ample waist into line.

She eyed the ornately designed belts and noted the velvet trim on suit-collars and cuffs. Even on gloves.

"Fancy that," she said. "Just the way we used to wear them."

There were the same rustling multi-colored petticoats and full pretty skirts.

Even the hats—with ostrich plumes dripping from the crown—and shoes—with French heels and strap effects—served to convince grandma that the styles of 50 years ago have come back to haunt her.

Scarlet Popular

Whether scarlet was an approved color in grandma's day is a page from another book. Certainly 1951 pretties are using it to advantage.

New York stores have windows filled with hats in pink, poppy, carmine—and red you would care to name.

Buy a red hat—the brightest you can find—put a shining clip on it, and you will be able to hold your head up in the best of fashion circles.

Last autumn's most talked-about color — orange — also is showing in dress trims and hats. However for day-to-day wear, black still holds the floor. Grey also is at the top of the list.

The hosiery manufacturers wonder if their customers know that heel panels are an optical illusion. The high tailored panel, they say, is an ankle flatterer.

One half to three-quarters of an inch into the reinforced top of your stocking—that's how far your garter should bite. Never garter below this double thick hem.

Tips for longer wear:

1. Soften hands with lotion before putting on nylons—then take time to roll the stocking leg down to the toe before slipping it on the foot.

2. Garter stockings while sitting down or while the knee is bent—to allow for knee action.

3. Buy two or more pairs of a shades at a time—then you'll always have an extra stocking to match into a pair.

4 Small snags sometimes can be rubbed out with a soft eraser—if you're careful.

5. Suds nylon in warm water and with any mild soap. Squeeze—don't rub or twist. To speed drying, roll nylons briefly into a soft towel before hanging.

A new chalk has become available for women whose hurried hands become moist while sewing. It is a special formula in cake form, shaped the size of your palm. When you rub your hand over the chalk just enough comes off to dry up the moisture. It will not soil the work.

Making of Wine Requires Cook With Much Experience

QUESTION: Being a super-enthusiastic cook, I have a line-up of cook books to rival a library. However, this week when my husband discovered an elderberry bush in the yard and asked if I could make elderberry wine, not one of the volumes contains the recipe. Could you please help me out? Marilyn J. S.

ANSWER: While a cook with know-how can follow wine-making directions it is wise to have the help of someone who has had some experience. You will understand why I say this when you read this formula for

Elderberry Wine

Gather the berries when quite ripe and in dry weather. Pick them off the stems. Add double the quantity of water, and simmer until berries sink in it and are soft. Strain through cheesecloth. To each gallon of this juice add 2 gallons soft water, and to every gallon of the mixed liquids add 3 lbs. sugar. Pour back into kettle and boil gently 1 hour, then skim thoroughly. Remove from heat and let cool to 70 deg. Fahr. Spread piece of toast with 1 package of moist yeast, float it on top of the juice and let it stand in room temperature for about 48 to 72 hours. Draw off into your clean wine cask. To each 18 gallons add 1 oz. whole cloves, 2 oz. whole allspice, 2 oz. Jamaica ginger root, and 1 oz. sweet almonds, all of them bruised. Bung very lightly, until fermentation subsides, then bung tightly for 3 months. Bottle. Ready to use in 12 months.

QUESTION: Must tell you of a dish we like—especially in cool weather, and it does not cost much. Have a deep pan with tight lid, put in one can of peas, liquid and all, and a good lump of butter, salt and pepper, and a cup or two of milk. When it boils add your favourite dumplings. Boil not too hard until the dumplings are done. It is a good family dish. Mrs. Grace B. L.

ANSWER: I have sent the chart you requested. I want to add something to this dumpling luncheon dish you describe.

We have been experimenting with dumplings; (1) adding such things as ½ cup chopped cooked chicken livers, and mushrooms and other flavourful foods such as leftover ham or crispened bacon. This is a delicious way to use up small amounts of flavourful and costly foods. Thank you for sharing your ideas with us.

QUESTION: Would you please send me your recipe for Bread and Butter Pickles or Wafer Pickles . . . I enjoy your column very much and your hints and ideas are of tremendous value to me. Mrs. J. F.

ANSWER:

Bread and Butter Pickles

Use cucumbers that are about 2 inches in diameter. Slice them as thin as possible until you have 1 gallon. Do not pare the cucumbers. Add 8 medium-sized onions sliced wafer thin. If desired add 2 large sweet red or green peppers cut in fine strips. Sprinkle ½ cup salt over the vegetables in layers and cover vegetables with at least 2 quarts of ice. Let stand 3 hours, then drain. Mix together 5 cups vinegar, 5 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons mustard seeds, 1 teaspoon each tumeric and whole cloves. Bring this vinegar-syrup to a boil. Add the drained vegetables and bring to just below boiling point, but do not boil.

Mildred McLaren Bride Of Sgt. Robert Cowie

Hiawatha United Church, decorated with gladioli, dahlias and other fall flowers, was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday when the Rev. H. Malcolm of Bailieboro performed the marriage of Mildred J. McLaren and Sgt. Robert A. Cowie of Ogden, Utah. The bride is daughter of Mrs. J. McLaren and the late Mr. McLaren of Peterborough. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cowie of Hiawatha.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Jack Stuart and during the signing of the register Mr. Delbert Coward sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law Mr. E. McInroy of Kankekee, Ill., the bride was lovely in cornflower blue nylon tulle, ankle length, designed with strapless bodice and matching bolero. Pale blue 'mums held back her shoulder length veil and she was carrying a cascade of American beauty roses with white 'mums.

Miss Lucille Cowie, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, dressed in yellow taffeta. Miss Ureta McLaren, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, frocked in nile green nylon. Each wore matching color gloves and floral headdress with shoulder veil. They carried bouquets of yellow and rust 'mums and ferns with streamers.

The groom was attended by his brother Boyd Cowie. Ushers were Robert Heafield and Neil Paudash.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, his mother receiving in black ensemble with corsage of red roses. The bride's mother who was also receiving, fore navy lace over satin with grey accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Leaving later on their wedding trip to Hamilton, Niagara Falls and points west, the bride was wearing a violet blue taffeta dress with matching accessories.

Sergeants Dance 1st Social Event

A gala dance is on the orders this evening for members and associate members of the Sergeants' Mess, 59th HAA Regiment RCA and their friends. The dance committee has secured a popular dance band to play in the Armouries and there will be refreshments.

ST. PETERS SCHOOL

St. Peter's Parish held its frist P.T.A. meeting of the season in the K. of C. Hall Tuesday night, with new president Mr. J. J. Legris in the chair. Rt. Rev. Monsignor P. P. Butler opened with prayer.

Guest speaker for the evening was Monsignor Butler, who first stressed the necessity and value of the P.T.A. and earnestly solicited a large attendance. He paid a word of tribute to the recently deceased Monsignor O'Brien and to his valualbe work in the establishment of Separate Schools in this district. Monsignor Butler explained very thoroughly the various steps in selecting a site for and the erection of a new school and the role played by the Department of Education.

The speaker then outlined the history of Separate Schools in Ontario from their infancy, under the Recollet and Jesuit Missionaries, to the present day. He emphasized the fullness of the education which always has been and should be carried on in the Separate Schools. A vote of thanks was given Monsignor Butler by Mr. Jas. Guerin.

During the evening Mr. Anthony De Noble delighted the audience with two song. He was accompanied by Miss Margaret McCabe.

Lunch was served under convenorship of Mrs. P. J. Anglesey assisted by Mrs. Stan Houlihan and Mrs. E. O'Brien.

Council of Women Present Resolutions of Civic Interest

Support was given a resolution by Local Council of Women, presented at the regular meeting on Thursday, which has to do with the situation in court when women are on trial. It is desired to have the male loiterers removed from the court room at such a time; also, to have at least two women of the Council present during the sessions.

Convener of laws Mrs. F. Merrett and her committee are asked to consult with the Police Matron on this matter, and proceed according to her advice.

There was considerable discussion on a resolution from Provincial Council which proposes to ask that the English laws on divorce be adopted in Canada, making divorce possible for four reasons: adultery, desertion for three years, cruelty, incurable or unsound for five years. As the women were devided in their opinions, it was decided to give the matter more thought before registering approval or disapproval.

Following the disastrous May fire in Peterborough, a committee of women, headed by Mrs. J. Wood, consulted with Fire Chief George Smith. They found that the Fire Department now controls only fire escapes and oil burners. Firemen do inspect buildings used for storage at their own request and two inspectors work full time on fire prevention work in the city. It is suggested that if the Fire Department could be supplied with a blueprint of all alterations being made in old buildings, and if these alterations could be authorized by the Fire Department, as well as the City Engineer, the Chief would then know the hazards faced by his men in fighting fire in such premises. Also that blueprints of new buildings be filed with the Department for similar reasons. Resolutions covering the suggestions will be sent to city council, Provincial and National Council of Women.

Convener of natural resources Mrs. H. R. Scott was given support in a suggestion that there be an essay contest on fire prevention in the forests held in the schools, for which a prize might be offered by the Department of Natural Resources. Also that permission be gained to speak on this subject at Assembly in the Collegiate.

The report on a chairman's conference held recently at the president's home with 32 women taking part was read by Mrs. A. W. Nelson. It included the opinion that there is need for more knowledge of civic taxation. Also it is felt that newcomers to the city are not being properly welcomed, and it is suggested zoning the city and appointing members to look after new residents. It was suggested too that permission be gained for two representatives of the Local Council to go to the court house when citizenships are being taken out and to give these persons a welcome.

Mrs. W. Steinkrauss, president, will attend the National Council of Women annual meeting at Montreal, September 24 to 29 and delegates appointed from the council are Mrs. E. B. McWilliams and Mrs. A. W. Nelson.

Council will again sponsor a spring fashion show of children's wear which is being planned on a larger scale, to be held possibly in the Brock Ballroom.

A Thrift Campaign suggested by Provincial Council will be given support by the local women in the coming months.

Mrs. E. Chambers gave a graphic account of her visit to England last spring. She suggested relatives continue sending canned meat in overseas parcels. She commented on the fact that Britishers are realizing the heavy taxing is for betterment of their country and noted that old people are looked after with extra tea and tobacco rations; there are privileges for sick and diabetics; children's health is a main concern. "The standard of the country has been raised". she said She also commented on the polite children in England where courtesy is taught at school.

Calling On All Housewives To Launch Thrift Campaign

OTTAWA, Sept. 21 (CP). — Mrs. R. J. Marshall, president of the National Council of Women of Canada, called on Canadian mothers and housewives today to launch a "thrift campaign" to beat "Canada's No. 1 enemy — inflation."

A delegate to the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers' board of directors, Mrs. Marshall said that some women may not be able to save much—perhaps not more than five or ten cents a day; others may be able to trim $5 a week from their spending.

"Let each of us examine our own conscience and set our own objective," she said in a speech prepared for delivery before the association. "By a concerted effort, Canadian housewives may be able to save as much as hundreds of millions of dollars.

Mrs. Marshall said the National Council of Women at its annual meeting in Montreal next week will prepare plans to develop the "thrift campaign" theme. Finance Minister Abbott will be the chief speaker.

"He is coming at our invitation not to tells what to do," Mrs. Marshall said, "but to help us with our planning as we earnestly and sincerely launch a voluntary campaign to save, to practice thrift and to do our part in preventing inflation with all its resultant evils."

Price controls by themselves were not the answer to the inflation problem. It was the national council's belief that inflation could be halted without "government orders, an army of officials and the resultant imposition of restrictions which bind and chafe the individual and thwart the exercise of his democratic rights and freedoms. . ."

"It is a task for government, yes," said Mrs. Marshall, "and for men's organizations and for big business but it is also ours so let us get on with the job."

If the government is to curb inflation it must first slash some of its own unjustified spending was the contention of Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr., president of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

Government dependence on "still more burdensome taxation on essentials," alone will not provide the cure, she said.

Her speech initiated a two-day discussion of consumer problems, particularly the cost of living.

Affiliated with the association is a group of national women's associations, representing more than 100,000 Canadians.

"The sharp, mounting cost of living," said Mrs. Walton, "has made inroads into the standard of living of many Canadians. . . ."

Swamped by requests for protection against high prices, the association had been asked to support a roll-back in prices, subsidies, prohibition of some imports and bans on some exports and for selective and overall price controls.

"It seems absurd," said Mrs. Walton, "to control the low-powered credit of instalment buying and the medium-powered credit of bank loans, if the government itself fails to exercise more adequate restraint on its own credit and spending policies.

"The time has come," said Mrs. Walton, "when Canadians need to roll up their sleeves and produce more, and at the same time decrease their purchases of goods and increase their savings.

"We cannot leave this cost-of-living business just to government. We can do something about it ourselves and each individual who is able to, must do everything he or she can."

DOROTHY DIX

Stop Stepfather's Bullying Or Ruin Children

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two girls, aged 4 and 7, by a former marriage. My present husband and I have been married two years. He takes great pleasure in teasing the little girls. He won't answer a question for them without going through a preliminary teasing of ten minutes or more. He doesn't believe in letting them do or have anything from which they won't derive profit. He won't let my older girl learn to skate, for instance, because he says she will not learn anything useful from it.

Dorothy Dix

He teases the children at the table by pouring milk on their food, or putting burned matches in their dishes. He will not stop irritating them until they cry. I know this kind of life isn't good for them and it is making a nervous wreck of me. My older child is beginning to realize that he is different from her playmates' fathers, and resents it. What can I do to make him realize his duty as a father?

W. R. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER Permitting this situation to develop much longer along these lines will result in completely wrecked personalities for your little girls. They already resent their stepfather; they will soon resent you for upholding him. Discouraging all their efforts to learn new things and participate in activities with other children will produce inferiority complexes — which is exactly what your husband wants. He certainly evinces no trace of parental love or pride in your children, in fact, he sounds jealous and resentful of your interest in them.

Can Cause Real Harm

You can't possibly make him realize his duties as a father because he has no fatherly feelings and doesn't want any. To him, this constant teasing may be funny, to you it may be annoying, but to the children it is downright persecution and will have a similar effect.

The situation will not improve, as far as your husband is concerned. He is a bully, and the more he gets away with pestering the children, the more he'll do it. Obviously the solution is up to you. Straighten your backbone and stick up for your girls! Make yours the voice of authority for a change. Insist on your daughter learning to skate if she wants to, or doing any other thing that isn't harmful. If your husband continues to spoil the children's mealtime, feed them at a different hour, and let him know why. Nothing takes the wind out of a bully's sails like having someone else doing a little bossing. Your present attitude is costing you the esteem of your children, your husband and yourself. Change it! See if you don't suddenly assume a much more important and respected place in the household!

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going steady with a boy for two years, secretly. My problem is, what can I do to make my parents like the boy? I have been forbidden to see him. I have to meet him on corners and make all sorts of excuses to get out.

CONFUSED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are doing exactly the one thing that will make your parents dislike the boy even more intensely — and I don't blame them. Your folks must have some basic reason for their feelings, and certainly a clandestine romance will not enhance your friend in their eyes. Surely you can do better than a street corner romance. Continuing with this boy will only bring more dissension with your family, and I doubt if it will result in happiness for your. Why not give it up and find a boy with better principles?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young girl of 21, truly in love with a man 60. He is very active, and works in the same office I do. He is divorced but has no children. My co-workers think he is too old for me, but I think he has a pleasant disposition and suits me perfectly.

D. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is absolutely impossible for you to be truly in love with a man old enough to be your grandfather! You may be dazzled by his importance in the office, his money, or the polished attentions he pays you, but love? Never! Surely young men are not so scarce that you have to seek the companionship of one three times your age. Get down to your own group.

Admiring Looks Only, Given Mink Coats

HARROGATE, England (CP)—Canadian mink coats flown to this Yorkshire town from Paris caused gasps of astonishment among women buyers. The prices were in the four-figure bracket.

Examples included a natural Canadian silverblu mink coat costing £4,500, a natural Canadian wild mink at £4,200 and a silverblu short jacket costing £3,170.

Cheapest furs in the collection were priced at £800 and £640.

"Plenty of women in this area can afford expensive furs," said T. J. Paterson, manager of the Harrogate store who organized the show. "But no inquiries were made."

"English women are so defeatist about furs," said E. J. Jacobs, Paris representative of the furriers.

Harrogate, a watering-place with wide, terraced streets, has long been a favorite residential area for wealthy factory owners in the industrial Midlands. That is why it was chosen for a show of the type of furs usually seen only in London and Paris.

Grandmother Heads Steel Union Local

VANCOUVER (CP)—All steelworkers aren't husky fellows built along the lines of the legendary Paul Bunyan.

Reporters lifted surprised eyebrows when they were introduced to the president of Local 4010, United Steel Workers of America, here to attend the annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

They met Mrs. Brida Gray of Toronto, a grandmother, and one of only three women presidents of steelworkers locals on the entire continent.

Local 4010 is the bargaining agent for 150 workers at Coulter, Copper and Brass Co. Ltd., Toronto, where Mrs. Gray helps assemble automobile parts.

Since there are only 25 women among the members of her local, Mrs. Gray's election would seem a big vote of confidence from the men.

Had To Prove Worth

"I had to prove myself in the beginning," she smiles quietly. "But the men are fair. If you do your job, they're willing to give you credit."

She also feels that they have a sneaking respect for the power of a woman, and faith in her tact and intuition.

"They kid me about the company having a soft spot for a woman."

However when it comes to union ideas Mrs. Gray' thoughts are the same as every member who attended the convention. She doesn't like the cost-of-living, she wants price controls and thinks white collar workers are "taking a beating."

What with union affairs (as president she's on all committees) and doing her housework weekends, Mrs. Gray doesn't have much time for social life, "but we have lots of dances in our union."

She comes by her enthusiasm honestly. Her Scottish mother was a millworker, an active member of the Labor party and of the Jute and Flax Union.

Her husband, Albert Gray, a printer, is also a union man.

What does he think of his wife's prominent part in union affairs?

"I think," Mrs. Gray says shyly, "That he's pretty proud of me."

will buy this two-storey home, with the balance of $3,500 on easy terms. Six good size rooms, three-piece bath. Located west of Park near Sherbrooke. Hurry! Phone 8402 or 5345.
SO COZY
That's what we thought when we listed this stucco home in the north end. There's a very nice living-room, two good size bedrooms and cheerful kitchen downstairs, and one big bedroom up. Three-piece bath, good basement, garage heavy wiring, etc. The price is only $6,500 and low down payment will be accepted from reliable party. Phone 8402 or 5345.
DON'T BELIEVE IT
Just tell yourself we are kidding—BUT call for an appointment to see this fine two-storey home with seven rooms and laundry room. Modern tiled bathroom downstairs and extra two-piece washroom upstairs, steam heating by oil, attached garage, fine lot, heavy wiring and gas. Tops in value at $10,000. Located near Lark and Lansdowne. Phone 8402 or 5345.

BY-LAW NUMBER 4

A BY-LAW OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC SEPARATE SCHOOL FOR SCHOOL SECTION NO. 17, IN THE TOWNSHIP OF OTONABEE, TO RAISE BY WAY OF LOAN THE SUM OF $56,500.00 FOR THE PURPOSES HEREINAFTER MENTIONED.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate School for School Section No. 17 in the Township of Otonabee requires to borrow the sum of $56,500.00 for school purposes, namely, to build and equip a new school, and for such purpose to issue Debentures therefor bearing interest at the rate of 5½% per centum per annum, which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to make the principal of the said debt repayable in twenty (20) annual instalments of the respective amounts shown in the second column of Schedule "A" hereto which is hereby declared to be and form a part of this By-law;

AND WHEREAS it will be necessary to raise during the respective years of the said period of twenty years the respective sums set forth in the fourth column of Schedule "A" hereto to pay the yearly sum of principal and interest as they become due;

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property rateable for Separate School purposes in the said School Section No. 17 in the Township of Otonabee according to the last revised assessment roll is $52,500.00;

AND WHEREAS the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Board of Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate School for School Section No. 17 in the Township of Otonabee is nil;

NOW THEREFORE the Board of Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate School for School Section No. 17 in the Township of Otonabee ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:

1. That for the purposes aforesaid there shall be borrowed the sum of $56,500.00 and debentures of the Board of Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate School for School Section No. 17 in the Township of Otonabee shall be issued therefor in sums of not less than One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars each. The said debentures shall have coupons attached thereto for the payment of interest annually.

2. The debentures shall be dated as of the First Day of November, 1951, shall bear interest at the rate of Five and One-half per centum (5½%) payable annually, and shall be payable in twenty (20) annual instalments on the First Day of November in each of the years 1952-1971 inclusive, and the respective amounts of principal payable in each of such years shall be as shown in Schedule "A" hereto annexed.

3. The debentures as to both principal and interest shall be expressed in Canadian currency, and shall be payable at the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Peterborough, Ontario.

4. The Chairman and Secretary-Treasurer of the said Board shall sign and issue the said debentures, and the debentures shall be sealed with the corporate seal of the said Board. The interest coupons attached to the debentures shall be signed by the said Secretary-Treasurer and his signature thereon may be written, stamped, lithographed or engraved.

5. During the twenty years, the currency of the debentures, the respective sums set forth in the fourth column of Schedule "A" hereto shall be levied and collected annually by a special rate sufficient therefor over and above all other rates in the same manner and from the like persons and property, by, from, upon, or out of which other Separate School rates are levied, raised, and collected for the said period of twenty years.

6. The said sum of $56,500.00 so borrowed and interest thereon and the said debentures shall be and the same are hereby made a charge upon the school-house property and premises and on the real and personal property vested in the said Board of Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate School for School Section No. 17 in the Township of Otonabee and upon all the Separate School rates of the said Board to be hereinafter imposed until the said debentures and each and every one of them together with all interest thereon shall have been fully paid and satisfied.

7. The said debentures may contain any clause providing for registration thereof authorized by any Statute relating to Municipal debentures in force at the time of the issue thereof.

Scholarship Bill Becomes French Law

PARIS, Sept. 21 (Reuters) — France's scholarship bill—allowing state aid to Roman Catholic private schools—today became law.

The National Assembly passed the bill on its second reading in its original form by 378 votes to 236, a few hours after the senate had adopted an amended form by 123 votes to 119.

This will mean an increased yearly expenditure of about $42,000,000.

The controversial measure, which earlier threatened to bring down Rene Pleven's month-old government, departs from a general principle observed previously—that private schools must not be financed by the government.

Last Of 10 Convicts Gives Up In California

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 21 (AP)—James Henry Cesena, 21, surrendered Thursday night, ending a manhunt that started Saturday when he and 10 other prisoners escaped from the county jail at Caldwell, Idaho.

Cesena, under a three-year sentence for transporting marijuana, was the last of the 10 still at large.

The 10 escaped by squeezing through a small ventilator shaft and then dropping down the side of the three-storey building on a makeshift rope.

Driver Failed To Stop After Child Hit

Wilfred Davies, 222 King George St., was fined $50 and $19.10 costs Thursday when he was convicted by Magistrate W. R. Phip of failing to stop at an accident.

Davies was charged after an accident August 11 in which two-year-old John Eggleton, Brown St., suffered slight injuries. The car that hit the lad did not stop at the scene of the accident, and a Lang man followed it to get the license number.

Charges of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and of dangerous driving were dismissed. The former charge was dismissed when no evidence was adduced to show Davies had been under the influence of alcohol while he was driving; the latter when the crown offered no evidence.

Saw Child Hit

Cecil Succee of Lang told court he was driving west on Brown St. on the evening of August 11 and saw an eastbound car swerve south and strike a child on the street.

Succee said the car drove "right on after it hit the child. I got out and asked some people if they'd got the license number, and they said they hadn't. I turned the car around and caught up with the other car. It hadn't gone out of sight."

Davies testified he had had nothing to drink that afternoon and that he felt no bump on his car and didn't see the child. When he got home, he had about a pint and a half of ale, he said. Earlier Sergeant Leo Murphy testified Davies was drunk when arrested at his home.

All Lindsay

are competing for a purse of $2,200.

"Take a look at that midway," invited Mr. McLean. And it is quite a midway.

Most Popular

As always, it is the most popular part of the exhibition. And the same familiar sights: kids getting candy floss in each other's hair; young jokers spending half a week's pay in the shooting gallery to please their girls with a 95-cent teddy bear; other girls giving way to a privileged scream as they are whirled about on the rides; and then the big crowd.

Ah yes, the burlesque show. On the stage the object of four hundred bulging male eyes stands Princess Salu who promises to do the "original French Parisian Strip Tease."

The Princess seems to like it—she shifts her gum from the left to the right cheek, gives a provocative wiggle of her hips, and then a slight wave of her hand. The crowd is hers.

That's one show that's making money.

"You've got to be broadminded to come in here," bellows the barker. "Nobody allowed under 15 years."

But the midway can be educational too. For instance, among the menagerie of "jungle monsters" is a "real Chinese dragon, alive." Ever seen a real Chinese dragon and alive, too?

Socialogy

Along with the trick motorcyclists and the whirl-abouts is another educational exhibit. Something for the sociologists this time. It's a tent show attractively labelled "VICE."

You can see the inside of a dope den, learn a little about "white slavery," see the "red light streets of the underworld," and the "tragedy of youth."

All this for you-know-what-part-of-a-dollar.

Now it's time to go back and see Princess Salu again. Not just to see the Princess, of course, but because most of your friends are there...and you do need a ride back to Peterborough. Smart, n'est ce pas?

Oh yes, there's pigs and poultry and sheep and cattle at the fair. Quite popular too, they say.

Dr. Kent To Lay Cornerstone At Trinity Hall

The cornerstone of the Trinity United Church hall, being built adjoining Trinity Church, will be laid as part of the Sunday morning service by Dr. H. A. Kent, MA, LLD, principal of Queen's University Theological College, and past president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church.

The first sod was turned for the project June 10, and it is expected that the building will be completed in the early spring, said Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, minister of the church.

Architects for the building which is being built by C. H. Huffman, are Horwood and White of Toronto, the same who designed Trinity Church which was erected in 1915.

Included in the section of the new building that will be finished will be an auditorium and Sunday school room, offices and a kitchen.

In the cornerstone will be a copy of the United Church Observor, a copy of today's Examiner, a year book of Trinity Church, Sunday school papers, an outline of Sunday school activities and a list of the names of the newly-appointed church officials, together with the contents of the cornerstone of the old Charlotte St. Methodist Church. It contained a year book of the old Methodist church and a copy of the Christian Record as well as a copy of the Examiner.

Expect King To Undergo Operation Immediately

TO UNDERGO OPERATION—This recent picture of the King returning to London from a holiday in Scotland gives some indication of his illness. Doctors announced Friday night that the King had consented to a lung operation being performed soon.

Crazed Killer Shoots Youth Wounds Four

Say Junk Dealer Went Berserk After An Argument

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que., Sept. 22. (CP)—Daylight and reinforcements today are expected to flush out a crazed killer who Friday night let loose with a shotgun blast into a group of youths, killing one of them and wounded four.

The 45-year-old junk dealer is reported to have gone berserk and fired the blast after an argument with the group.

Police say Houle hid in the woods near his St. Flore shack, three miles from the industrial centre of Shawinigan Falls, after the shooting.

When the accused was flushed from a group of trees he offered no resistance and police recovered the shotgun and a bag of ammunition on the ground a short distance from the shack.

Struck down by the shotgun blast as he stepped out of a St. Flore restaurant, was Robert Baribeau, 16.

Not Likely To Live

In hospital and not expected to recover is Georges Legault, 17. The other youths wounded are suffering from minor injuries.

Friday night, a cordon of policemen closed in on the shack where Houle, a bachelor, lives alone.

Searchlights played on the dingy shack as police waited for daylight and reinforcements from Montreal before pushing cautiously forward. The Montreal officers were armed with bullet-proof vests and tear-gas.

Others struck by shot-gun pellets are Carmel Bournival, 15, Gabriel Harvey, 13, and Baribeau's 15-year-old brother, Gerard, who suffered a pierced lip and a broken tooth.

Police reconstructed the crime this way:

The man went berserk shortly after an argument with the dead youth whose parents live near Houle's shack. The argument is said to have been over two huge dogs owned by the junk dealer.

(There was no immediate report of the present whereabouts of the two dogs.)

Police said that, following the initial argument, Houle rode away on a motorcycle but returned in a short time with a shotgun.

He paced up and down in front of the restaurant. When Baribeau went out to confront Houle, a shotgun blast boomed. Baribeau and Legault, son of restaurant-owner Aurele Legault, collapsed on the porch.

VANISHED—Milton E. Pugh, 30, a Virginia physicist, is the object of a search by police throughout the east. Pugh vanished while en route to work on a highly secret government project in Maryland.

Royal Tour Still On, Fly From UK

Cancel Boat Trip After Bulletin About Operation

OTTAWA, Sept. 22. (AP)—The RCAF is prepared to fly Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada but whether its big C5 royal-visit transport plane is to be used has not yet been decided.

Their Royal Highnesses had planned to sail for Canada next week aboard the Empress of France, arriving at Quebec City Oct. 2.

Their plans were changed Friday when it was announced the King was to undergo a lung operation. The official announcement said they now "hope to fly on a later day" so as to arrive at Quebec in time to begin the tour as originally scheduled.

When it was announced the sea voyage was off, the RCAF was asked whether its special transport plane is available and ready to make the return trip to London. It replied affirmatively.

The plane had already been assigned to fly the Royal couple on various parts of their journey across Canada.

Other Possibilities

The flight across the Atlantic, however, could also be made in a Trans-Canada Airlines plane or by British Overseas Airways.

Shortly after the announcement that the King was to undergo an operation, Prime Minister St. Laurent issued a statement:

"The Canadian government and, I am sure, all the Canadian people will be relieved and pleased that the condition of the King's health is considered not so serious as to cause Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to abandon their plans for their visit to Canada.

5 Doctors Examine Monarch Again, Margaret Home

LONDON, Sept. 22. (CP)—Five of the King's doctors examined him again this morning but did not perform the operation which is to be carried out "soon" on his lung. The doctors stayed more than three hours, some of them supervising the arrangement of apparatus in a Buckingham Palace room which is being turned into a surgery theatre. Thousands of anxious Britons gathered outside the palace, awaiting news that the doctors had operated on the 55-year-old monarch. At midday, the court correspondent of the British Press Association confirmed that no operation was performed during the morning hours.

There was no confirmation from the palace that the King is being operated on today, but medical equipment has arrived and one of the rooms has been turned into an operating theatre.

Expressions of sympathy and concern reached the palace from the Commonwealth, the United States and western European nations.

Pray For King

Congregations at churches of all denominations throughout Britain will offer prayers Sunday for the restoration of the King's health.

All the ailing monarch's engagements for the next few weeks have been cancelled, including the opening of the new parliament on Nov. 6.

The surgical theatre in the palace was hastily equipped for the 55-year-old sovereign.

Seven physicians and surgeons reported in a bulletin from the palace Friday night that the monarch had consented to be operated on "in the near future."

Medical men said his condition causes concern but they gave no hint as to what it is. Lung specialists not concerned in the case said their bulletin suggested something "very serious."

A palace spokesman said, however ,that the royal couple "hoped" to fly to Canada later in time to follow their planned itinerary which begins in Quebec Oct. 2.

Comes From Scotland

Princess Margaret was to fly to London today from Balmoral Castle—the royal family's Scottish home.

Britain Rejects Iranian Plan To Reopen Talks

LONDON, Sept. 22 —(Reuters) Britain today rejected an Iranian direct proposal to re-open negotiations in the oil dispute, The terms were regarded still unsatisfactory, the Foreign Office said:

A government statement said today's proposal indicated "there is no advance" on Iran's previous proposals.

"It does not provide any basis on which negotiations could be resumed," the statement said.

The Foreign Office telegraphed Sir Francis Shepherd, British Ambassador in Tehran, to make this standpoint clear to Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh.

Informed sources said Mossadegh's latest proposal was given to Britain in such a manner that he could disavow the whole transaction if it backfires.

Some Proposals

These sources said the note contained the same proposals for a limited sale of oil to Britain and compensation for seized property as were contained in the Prime Minister's letter to Harriman last week. The only difference, it was reported, was that it did not contain the 15-day time limit for re-opening the talks or ousting British technicians from Abadan.

One source close to Mossadegh said he is still going ahead with plans to withdraw the residence permits of Britons at Abadan unless Britain replies "favorably" to the note within seven days.

The latest maneouvre was executed in a devious manner. Diplomatic custom calls for official notes to be handed a foreign ambassador by the foreign minister. In this case, it was learned authoritatively, a high court official handed over the unsigned communication in English and Persian on a plain sheet of paper without

Big Jet Battle Fought As Allies Hurl Back Reds

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 22 — (AP)—Nearly 120 United States and Communist jet warplanes today fought for 25 minutes high over "Mig Alley" in northwest Korea in what may have been history's biggest jet battle.

US pilots reported they damaged three Red MIG-15s.

The battle swirled from 37,000 feet down to 20,000 feet.

On the east-central front, Allied infantrymen Saturday hurled another attack at the highest peak of "Heartbreak Ridge."

United Nations' planes roared through clear skies and hammered Communist troops in their deep bunkers. Little action was reported from the central front, where Allied tanks Friday smashed almost to Pyonggang in an armored raid through the old Red "iron triangle." Pyonggang, northern tip of the triangle, is 29 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

UN officers estimated the Reds lost nearly 1,000 men killed or wounded in the action.

They said that only one of the four tank-tipped forces on the Jail 380,000 Chinese Admit

HONG KONG, Sept. 22 (Reuters)—The Chinese Communists have officially admitted arresting 380,000 persons in South China between October, 1949, and June, 1951.

Independent Chinese sources here today estimated that to date more than 400,000 had been jailed.

The Communist admission was made in an official Canton newspaper, Nam Fong Yatpo, Sept. 19.

The newspaper did not define "South China," but it was assumed here that it referred to the provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsi.

The newspaper said an additional total of more than 170,000 "native bandits" were wiped out in Kwangtung alone during the period up to June.

East Berlin Reds Snub New Invitation

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (AP).—East Berlin's Communists today snubbed a formal invitation to return to their seats in the legally-elected Berlin City Parliament.

The invitation to return was issued by West Berlin to test the sincerity of the current Communist propaganda campaign for German unity.

Had the 10 Communist members shown up it would have been taken by the West as the first proof of sincerity of Communist unity proposals made by East German Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl.

The 10 seats—out of 137—have been reserved for the Communists ever since they broke up the city government in 1948 and established their separate regime in the Russian sector.

3 Die, 15 Houses Blown Up In Gas Explosion, Evacuate Rochester Suburb

ROCHESTER, NY, Sept. 22. (AP)—A terrifying series of natural gas explosions ripped through suburban Brighton Friday, taking the lives of two children and ripping apart 15 homes. A third person died of a heart attack, and nine others were injured. Authorities said they had no reports of anyone missing. Police, who had evacuated more than 2,000 homes in the eight-block area, said it was safe for persons to return. A local American Red Cross official said about 15 homes were demolished. Four others were damaged seriously.

Estimates of property damage varied from $500,000 to $1,000,000 in the fashionable suburb of 18,000.

The Red Cross said there was no immediate problem in finding living quarters for the families left homeless.

Turned Off Valves

Police said a resident, Wesley A. Williams, probably prevented more explosions when he raced from one unoccupied home to another breaking in and turning off gas intake valves with a wrench.

Most homes were so badly wrecked that it was difficult to tell if any one had been trapped in them.

The bodies of two children, removed from the wreckage of one home, were burned beyond recognition, but were believed to be Mary Ann 8, and William Jr. 4, children of William J. Maas, head of a construction firm.

Mrs. Louise Meyer 77, was fatally stricken with a heart attack while she was being removed from her home.

A utility company official said the first explosion apparently was caused by a regulator on a principal gas main that failed to function.

Evacuate Schools

Several thousand school children were evacuated from grade and high schools on the fringe of the blast area. There were no explosions at the school buildings.

Police and civilian volunteers raced to the area urging all occupants to evacuate the homes for fear that more houses might blow up.

Three of Rochester's six radio stations were off the air for 50 minutes because of the blast. All have power stations near the stricken area.

Alexander M. Beebe, president of the Rochester Gas and Electric Corp., said the regulator normally reduces heavy main pressure to permit distribution of gas into homes.

When the regulator failed, he said, pressure apparently built up and led to the explosions.

Keep Door Open For Reds–Advice

OTTAWA, Sept. 22. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday night the "gates of the North Atlantic community must be kept open, even toward those who would now destroy it."

The west, he said, must not seal itself off from Russia in case the day might come—distant though it might be—when the Soviet would put forward a really sincere peace appeal.

In one of a series of CBC broadcasts in connection with the North Atlantic Council meetings which ended here Thursday, Mr. Pearson said:

"The gates of the North Atlantic community must be kept open, I am convinced, even toward those who now would destroy it. The menace of Soviet military power is so great that we cannot slacken in the work of building collective defences.

"That feeling underlay all our talk at our council meeting. We agreed also that we should be wary of false peace campaigns intended to weaken and divide us. On the other hand, we were equally convinced that we should never reject any genuine move for 'peace'; that we should test each move by the deeds that follow it; that we must not seal ourselves off from the Soviet Union and its satellites since, ultimately, our way of life may even succeed in penetrating the isolation in which the Russian people have been placed by their government."

Ask Federal Troops Sent To Quell Brazil Uprising

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 22 — Officials of Maranhao State in Northern Brazil have asked President Getulio Vargas to send in more Federal troops to stop an uprising against Governor Eugenio de Barros.

The States' judges reported on Friday they were helpless.

Gen. Edgardino Pinta, commanding Federal troops at Sao Luis, Maranhao's capital, messaged the Justice Ministry here that a general strike is on in the city.

Dispatches from Sao Luis also said one man died and several were wounded in a fight at Coroata, 135 miles south of the capital. The reports said the men of rebel Chief Ratimundo Bastos took over Coroata and Mirador.

Three persons were reported killed and 39 injured earlier this week.

A report to Ultima Hora, Rio newspaper, said Bastos is leading opposition parties who have joined to fight De Barros. The paper said the rebels control 18 minicipios (counties) and De Barros 58.

The rebels contend De Barros won last October's election by fraud and have demonstrated against him ever since. De Barros returned to Sao Luis recently after a Federal court certified his elections.

'Nos' Leading Aussie Vote

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 22 —(AP)—The "no" votes against outlawing the Communist party outweighed "yes" votes in early returns in today's Australian referendum.

With more than one quarter of the votes counted results showed 737,000 votes against changing the constitution to outlaw the Communists while 689,000 voted "Yes."

With approximately 40 per cent. of the vote counted, the results stood: 992,000 no and 900,000 yes, with the noes ahead in four of the six states. The strong indication was that the proposal to change the constituion so as to permit outlawing the Communists would be rejected both in the over-all vote and by states. In addition to a majority vote, a constitutional change must win approval of four states.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies' coalition government wants parliament to have that power, contending that outlawing of the party will help toward industrial peace, increased production and a better future.

The opposition Labor party and the Communists are against it. Observers believed the outcome will be close.

Polls opened at 8 a.m. (6 p.m. EDT, Friday) for the 5,000,000 who will cast compulsory votes.

CCL Leaders Divided, Conroy Resigns

VANCOUVER, Sept. 22 (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor Canada's chief exponent of unity of labor, today was riven by a deep split in its top ranks.

A Congress vice-president had refused to run for office as a protest against leadership policies, while national secretary-treasurer Pat Conroy—chief policy-maker of the 350,000-member CCL — had walked out of his job.

The two developments stirred an uproar among puzzled and angered delegates to the CCL convention here Friday and Friday night, serving to break up the Congress' annual session with some of its business still hanging fire.

Resignation of the red-haired Conroy, looked on as the master-mind of the CCL policy for some years and crown prince to 70-year-old President A. R. Mosher, jolted the convention to its heels.

Millard Pulls Out

It came only shortly after C. H. Millard of Toronto, Canadian chief of the 60,000-member United Steel Workers of America—Canada's biggest union — had pulled out of his Congress vice-presidency in a policy split with CCL leaders.

The two participants in the biggest rift in years in a major Canadian labor group were in opposite camps in a series of intricate manoeuvrings over Congress power during the week-long convention here.

Millard came out on top, and Conroy promptly exploded his resignation to a stunned convention. The Congress tried to get him to come back, but up until the time it ended, Conroy was insisting his departure would stick.

His resignation, if he stays with it, would leave the Congress without its keystone official. Conroy, 48, a Scottish-born and self-taught coal miner who holds a card in the United Mine Workers of America, is the CCL's chief

Ask Truman Fire Donaldson

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22 — (AP)—The head of the United States Letter Carriers' Union today called on President Truman to fire Postmaster-General Jesse M. Donaldson.

William C. Doherty, the postal union chief and a vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, described Donaldson as "the most tyrannical administrator ever to hold office" in the mail service.

Donaldson, a carrier postal department executive, was advanced to the cabinet job two years ago. He cut down mail deliveries and imposed slashing economies.

Doherty is here for the AFL's 70th convention.

BULLETIN

BRANTFORD — (CP). — A police investigation started today after the body of John J. Burton, 50, was found in his room here.

Police were summoned to the rooming-house at 6:50 am by a telephone operater and reported that when they arrived the body of Mr. Burton was lying face down on the floor. He had been shot in the head.

A woman, whom police said was in the room when the shooting occurred, was questioned.

Expect Ridgway To Answer Reds

TOKYO, Sept. 22—(AP)—An Allied reply to the Communist offer to resume the Korean armistice talks was expected momentarily today.

What form it would take was anyone's guess. All that was known officially was that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway was at work on a reply at 10.15 a.m.

That much was announced by headquarters of the Supreme United Nations Commander.

The big question was whether Ridgway would authorize immediate resumption of the talks, or whether he would ask for certain concessions.

The Communists broke off the talks August 23. They charged the Allies had violated the five-mile neutral zone around Kaesong, the negotiation site northwest of Seoul.

Hollywood Reds Have Lean Days

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22 (AP) —Communists and their front organizations still exist in Hollywood, but they have fallen on lean days.

This is the substance of a hectic week of testimony from 33 witnesses before a House of Representatives Sub-Committee of Un-American Activities.

The witnesses disclosed that:

1. While once there were about 500 Communists among the film industry's 40,000 workers, that number was greatly reduced after the Second World War.

2. Communists tried futilely to influence the content of movies by attempting to infiltrate the Screen Writers' Guild, which at the peak had 50 Reds among 1,000 guild members.

3. Reds milked Hollywood of millions of dollars and sponsored front organizations such as the Anti-Nazi League.

The parade of witnesses, representing many professions, resumes Monday.

Middle East Defence Plan May Be Held Up By Egypt

FAYID, Egypt, Sept. 22 (AP)—The North Atlantic Council's play to set up a middle-east defence system brought into sharp focus today this sun-baked desert strip alongside the Suez Canal.

This is a sovereign part of Egypt but is under British control, and Egypt is hostile to British military rule. The North Atlantic Councils decision at Ottawa to incorporate Turkey and Greece in its defence set-up put it in the spotlight.

Fayid is headquarters and the nerve centre of Britain's widespread middle-east army command. It could be headquarters of a talked-about new Middle-East NATO branch with British, United States and French backing.

But it is apparent that a successful execution of a new Middle-East defence plan depends on the attitude of Egypt.

British troops operate a great military supply base that stretches along the 104-mile canal under terms of the Anglo-Egyptian defence alliance signed in 1936 to run 20 years.

Egypt's prime minister and foreign minister have announced they will denounce the treaty soon. Egypt demands that Britain clear out of the canal area immediately.

But Britain says that because of world tension they can't abandon this base and its supplies and facilities.

It is certain Britain feels the canal area would be the backbone of any Middle-East NATO.

The big question is whether Egypt will go along with this.

Military leaders say there are three primary factors to consider in Middle-East defence:

1. The oil riches of the Persian Gulf.

2. The Suez Canal, the world's most-used Ocean shortcut.

3. The "bastion" of Turkey as a strong defence position.

Any defence against Russian aggression would have to hold the line on these three.

Tow Flaming Barge Away From Pier

VANCOUVER, Sept. 22—(CP) —A flaming oil barge carrying 4,000 gallons of gasoline was towed from its pier at Horseshoe Bay Friday night following an explosion and fire.

Early reports from this summer resort community 12 miles from Vancouver said two persons were injured, but this was not immediately confirmed.

The $22,000 barge was taking on supplies from an oil scow at a marine service station when the gasoline was ignited, possibly from an electric spark.

Ont. Municipal Association Concerned About Money Taxpayer Must Contribute

The property taxpayer's dollar is the basic concern of the Ontario Municipal Association, said City Clerk E. A. Outram, whose term as president ended with the sessions Monday to Wednesday this week in Niagara Falls of the associations 53rd annual convention.

Why were municipalities of the province represented by 654 delegates, the Examiner asked Mr. Outram Friday.

"Because municipal government is a moving and growing function from which many problems arise in the administration of the cities, towns, villages, counties and townships from year to year," he explained.

"For instance, housing became an emergency early in the war, and has continued in various aspects and effects to be a major municipal problem since then. Previously, the boot had been on the other foot.

"During the years of the industrial depression, vacancies of residential properties, collection of taxes, the providing of employment, had been thrust to the top of municipal worries. Relief of many families was a heartache.

Expanding Centres

"Since then, as towns and cities have been expanding and encroaching into townships, costs of extending municipal services, streets, sewers, sidewalks, education, light, water, and so on, have required a great deal of attention from councils and their staffs.

"Details of financing and annexing within the more recent experience of Peterborough have been duplicated in many sections of Ontario. The Municipal Association is the clearing house of many of their difficulties.

"The ratepayers have been told of the increase in the cost of debenture loans for our public works. Until a year ago the rate of interest the municipality had to pay for that money was about 3 per cen. It is now up to 4½ per cent, and we are not certain that we can get bids at par, as compared with the premiums we had been getting from the buyers of such debentures.

Invite Expert

"To supply our members with information on that type of municipal borrowing we included on our program a paper by Mr. George Lascelles, city treasurer of Toronto.

"Preparation of the convention program is undertaken some months in advance of the meetings. Resolutions are received from municipalities seeking the approval of the association. Other suggestions are received from the executive and elsewhere.

"This year the agenda was finally drafted by three of us from this area: Frank Weldon of Lindsay, treasurer of Victoria, representing the counties; William Allely, municipal clerk of Lindsay, representing the towns, and myself.

Panel Discussions

"Delegates from the Manitoba boundary to the Ottawa River, and north beyond the Porcupine country, included wardens, mayors, reeves, councillors and appointed officials. Panel discussions are arranged for the separate classes of municipalities, but there are also general sessions of the whole convention body. At times this week there were up to 500 delegates meeting together.

"Subjects were presented by experts, followed by questions and often debates on problem issues. Then there are 'postmortem' discussions here and there on points that come out in afterthought.

"Some of the delegates were in my room before 8 a.m. with questions, suggestions and so on, and, of course, groups get together in private rooms to thresh out contentious matters.

"From my experience I could reassure ratepayers that their municipal affairs are thoroughly considered at these conventions. That applies, to the representatives from Peterborough.

"One of the most keenly interested members in my time was Mr. James Hamilton when he was mayor. His term had been unusually long, and he had given a great deal of thought to the question of how property might be relieved of some of the burden of taxes which it had to carry. Circumstances this year prevented Mayor Swanston from going to Niagara Falls."

Mr. Outram remarked municipalities were the creature of the Ontario Legislature. The Municipal Act embodied their authority. The ultimate test of new legislation was in the proving grounds of the municipalities. Drafted by department officials and law clerks, new Acts and amendments which appeared sound and satisfactory in text sometimes developed flaws or anomalies in application and operation.

Local Proposals

That has been one source of problems for the municipalities. There are also ideas which have their conception in the municipal councils. They are fashioned into proposals destined for the attention of the provincial or national government, but they are usually submitted as resolutinos, to the Ontario Municipal Association for discussion by its body of delegates. Their approval transfers these recommendations to one government or the other.

A wide range of subjects reaches the convention, such as, highways, traffic and its regulation, pensions, hospitals and costs of patients, education and its various branches of concern, public health, administration of justice, and so on.

Clearing House

"We had 76 resolutions submitted to the convention pertaining to some detail or other of municipal administration," Mr. Outram said. "It is a fact that the association and its deliberations are a clearing house for the problems and perplexities of municipalities. I have long been convinced of its value to them and also to the province and its government."

Mr. Outram is one of the nine members of the Ontario provincial committee appointed by Premier Frost to prepare a report and recommendations largely in regard to municipa. finances. It is at present waiting for "terms of reference", signifying explicit bounds of their study.

Mr .Outram is also a member of the council of the Institute of Public Administration of Canada. These are appointments which have come to him from his Association membership as a delegate from Peterborough.

Will Landscaping Improve Hospital?

Improvements will eventually encroach on the lower slope of Civic Hospital grounds, and the state of nature will be properly beautified. That's in the four or five year plan of the board of works and parks committee. No one expects that an institutional property is to be left looking like a pasture field, and that 20 acres never rated as pasture. It was damp and boggy, part of it a swale in spring.

But, these autumn days especially with the haze of late September floating down from the Monaghan horizon the rude tapestry of the hospital field has been dissolving from dominant gold to purple and amethyst.

The sheen and glitter of the golden rod are dimming, but the mauves of the wild asters of autumn seem to be an amethyst mist above the lower field as viewed from the hospital's height. Whatever refinement is achieved in the ultimate new order of that landscape, it may be predicted with assurance that the experts will never fashion anything lovlier than the soft pastel colors of the asters and daisies and goldenrod that are still providing a late flower show to passers-by.

Open New School On Monday Night

The new annex to the Prince of Wales Public School on Monaghan Rd. will be formally opened by the Board of Education Monday night. A short program will be held in the kindergarten of the old school commencing at 8.00 p.m. This is scheduled to be over at 8.30 when the new school will be thrown open to the public for inspection.

Gospel Hall Reopens After Fire

BANCROFT, Sept. 22 (ENS) — Rebuilt and redecorated after a disastrous fire on February 15th, the Bancroft Gospel Hall will be officially opened on Sunday with three services. Three days before the building was to have been opened on February 18th, a $15,000 fire started in or near the furnace room and swept through the interior of the church.

Immediately after the fire the work of re-building began, with the bracing of the weakened superstructure, while burned and charred sections were replaced. Now the interior gleams with shining birch veneer panels matched with natural birch furniture on a new tile floor.

Located on North Hastings St., the Bancroft Gospel Hall is probably the largest Protestant church in North Hastings and church officials proudly state that visitors class it as one of the finest Gospel Halls on the continent of North America. Although its cost was approximately $35,000, this does not represent the true value of the building as many hours of volunteer labor by men and trucks are not included in this figure.

Frame Structure

The church is a frame structure with a stone front, with outside dimensions of 40 by 70 ft. The seating capacity of the main floor is 300, with additional room for 100 in the balcony and another 200 in the basement. When required a sound system connects the basement with the main floor.

Opening services will be conducted by W. Belch of Belleville, Ray Fox of Trenton and Evangelist Fred W. Nugent of London, Ontario.

The builder of both the original structure and the re-built hall was George Easton of Bancroft, with William Watson of Belleville as architect.

Car Caught By Gravel Crashes Into Tree

Richard Grahame, of 636 Union St., received minor injuries Friday night when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and struck a tree on the Keen-Hastings road.

The 1951 car, driven by Jack Fitzimmons, 34, of 521 King George St., hit the heavy gravel on the road, three miles east of Keene, and ran into the west ditch. It stopped against a tree.

Damage is estimated at $600, mainly to the front end.

Grahame was treated by Dr. Wilson Ford, of Keene.

OPP Constable Tom Fitzgerald is investigating.

Developing All Week

The events leading up to the blowoff had been developing all week, mostly in convention-hotel rooms as the opponents lined up delegate strength for Friday's annual officers' elections.

In the background was the resentment of Millard's big steel union against some conditions in the Congress, notably the fact that steel has not had what it considers adequate representation on the CCL's 14-man executive committee.

However, the immediate fight was pegged on the decision of a majority of the executive—led by Conroy—to support the re-election to the executive committee of Sam Baron of Hamilton, who recently was deposed by his international office as Canadian director of the Textile Workers' Union of America. Baron was engaged in an internal union scrap with his international president, Emil Rieve of New York.

Baskin beat out Baron in a runoff vote Friday night—squeezing Baron off the executive—and it was right after the vote announcement that Conroy, speaking quietly but obviously seething with anger, told the convention he was quitting.

"In this fight," Conroy said, "I chose to supoprt Sam Baron. I have taken this vote as a test of the feeling of the Congress on my judgement. I feel I no longer have the confidence of the Congress, and I therefore tender my resignation effective at once."

Warkworth Fair Opens Thursday

The 101st fair of the Percy Agricultural Society will be held at Warkworth on Sept. 27-28. It will be officially opened by Walter C. Thompson, KC, Opposition Leader of the Province of Ontario. Mrs. W. A. Hume of Campbellford, president of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies, will be one of the guest speakers.

Some of the Fair's highlights will be a cheese show, Northumberland County "Black and White Day," Junior Boys and Girls Calf Club, hobby craft and baby show. A large parade, consisting of Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and floats led by the Warkworth Community Band, will march through the village to the fair grounds.

The Warkworth Fair date is being advanced one week this year so that citizens may have an opportunity of attending the Royal Visit at Trenton on Oct. 5, their usual fair date. Village homes and business houses and the fair grounds will be decorated in the Royal colour scheme.

London newspapers expressed concern and offered sympathy to the King and his family.

The King has been in poor health since last May when he came down with influenza. A medical bulletin last Tuesday night reported "structural changes" in one of his lungs.

There was some speculation that X-rays and bronchoscopic examinations have failed to show what is wrong and that doctors merely planned an exploratory operation to find out.

Other Opinions

Some private doctors, however, thought the surgeons hoped to drain off inflammatory matter accumulated in one lung.

They speculated the King's attacks of lung inflammation have scarred and narrowed his bronchial tubes — a development that could be described as a structural change.

With the narrowing or obstruction of one of the three the natural drainage would stop and inflammatory matter would accumulate in the lung, endangering general health.

Sometimes doctors can deal with such situations by using a bronchoscope, an instrument inserted through the mouth and into the tubes.

When bronchosocpic treatment fails, surgery may be resorted to.

Surgery may be more dangerous for the King than for most people, because of his history of circulation disease.

He was operated on March 12, 1949, to relieve a blood clot in his leg.

The British people rallied to their monarch in his ordeal. Small crowds clustered outside the palace Friday watching the coming and going of doctors and ambulances carrying equipment for the operating theatre. Newspapers wrote of the King's immense devotion to duty. Some have blamed over-work for his condition.

The Times of London says his advisors should bear in mind that British law allows a council of state to be created to perform some of the sovereign's duties.

C. H. McFaul Funeral

Pall-bearers at the funeral Friday afternoon of Clifford Hamilton McFaul, 48, 61 James St., were John Wallace, Garfield Dunford, Glenford Murphy, Ernest Bullock, Delbert Crapp and Orville Redpath.

Mr. McFaul died Wednesday in hospital. He was a retired electrical appliance dealer.

Flower bearers were Don Pearson, Ken Hudson, Ray Redpath, Morgan Crapp, and Ralph and Lawrence Bigelow.

The funeral was at the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield, David Kirk of Hamilton and William Rae of Stouffville officiating. Burial was in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Urges Britain Give Canada More Business

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuters)—The Conservative Daily Graphic said today Britain needs no evidence of the "deep and lasting friendship that exists between Britain and Canada.

"It is all the more disconcerting, therefore, when we read how our food-buying policy has devastated Canadian farming," the paper said in an editorial.

"Since the war we have been buying much of our food from Eastern Europe, from an area described in the army orders for our autumn manoeuvres as 'Redland.'

". . . Meanwhile, what has happened to the farmers of Canada? Statistics from Ottawa show that over the past six years 20 farm workers in every 100 have left the land and gone into factories.

"Herds have been slaughtered, orchards uprooted and whole farms closed down. The huge food surplus of Canada that helped to feed us during the war is no longer there.

"Canada is actually importing food in competition with ourselves.

"The Canadians are our friends and kind. We must do more business with them. We can depend on them for years ahead whatever happens," the Graphic concluded.

Plan Refinery In North Quebec

QUEBEC, Sept. 22 (CP)—A plan for a $10,000,000 base metals refinery in northwestern Quebec has been outlined to the Quebec government by Harry Knight, president of Barvue Mines Limited, Premier Duplessis announced Friday.

The Premier described the plan as "a serious project." He told his weekly press conference the president of Barvue Mines, which holds the rights to zinc deposits in the region, visited him with Howard Young, St. Louis Mo., business man.

He said he asked them to submit a memorandum outlining their proposal so that it may be studied by the Quebec Mines Department and the Provincial cabinet.

Timber Nearly Cut From Burned Forest

TORONTO, Sept. 22—Honorable H. R. Allied night fighters, prowling the Korean skies Friday night and Saturday morning, attacked 1,400 Communist vehicles. United States Fifth Air Force pilots said they destroyed or damaged at least 430 vehicles, 50 rail cars and three locomotives.

Talk of a gigantic Red offensive in the west has died down around Eighth Army headquarters.

The Communist power still is there—masses of infantry backed by tanks and threats of air power. But the waning of the full moon has quieted speculation. Red attacks usually are launched by light of a full moon.

In the east, save for the renewed assaults on "Heartbreak Ridge," there was a general slackening of pace in the five-week-old battle of the hills.

Second Car Damaged On Torn Up Street

Second accident at Braidwood Ave. and Lock St. in which the underside of a car was damaged occurred Friday.

The road at this point is undergoing repairs and no warning signs have been seen by drivers in either accident. In the first, the underside of a small British car was damaged when it ran over a projecting manhole.

Friday, a car driven by Garth Clark, 717 Bethune St., ran over a pipe sticking up from the road surface. The manifold was broken and the tail pipe and muffler torn off.

Clark said there was no warning sign on the projecting pipe. Constable Grant Gillespie investigated.

The law provides that obstructions or excavations in the road must be marked with lamps at night and some kind of warning sign by day.

The Shah had been taking the lead in a move to get Mossadegh to withdraw the ultimatum. One court source said there is even a possibility Iran would be willing to send a delegation to London to resume the talks.

There is a strong feeling high in political circles here, however, that Attlee will stall any further action on the delicate oil negotiations until after the Oct. 25 election.

Details of the new Iranian note were kept secret.

But informed sources said its tone is much more moderate than the ultimatum Mossadegh asked Harriman to relay last week.

Car Hits Pole Driver Injured

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2 — (ENS)—Joseph Convey of Hastings suffered minor injuries in a traffic mishap about a mile west of town at 3 a.m. today. Driving to Campbellford, he has apparently blinded by the lights of an aproaching car, lost control of his wheel, and banged up against a telegraph post. The car was owned by his brother James.

Bruises and scalp cuts were treated at Campbellford hospital. Mr. Convey was taken there by Provincial Constable George Rose.

The accident attracted a cluster of cars, even at that hour of the morning. Another one coming over a hill to the west was travelling so fast as it approached the place of the accident that PC Rose flagged it to a halt.

The driver, Lyall R. Dingman, 26, of Raglan St., Campbellford, objected so loudly and vigorously that he was taken to the local jail and booked on charges of having beer in a prohibited place, driving an automobile while ability was impaired, plus obstructing police.

Police Commission Refuses Traffic Guards

The Board of Education's request for traffic guards at two intersections was turned down today by the police commission. A citizens' petition for a traffic guard at Park and Lansdowne Sts. was also refused.

Main reason for the refusal was the fact that the commission could not afford to hire more traffic guards.

Said Judge S. L. Smoke: "If we accede to this request, we will soon have traffic guards on every other corner in the city."

Feeling of the commission was that they could not authorize more guards without giving them the status of constables. They felt that the job of supplying traffic guards to watch children going to and from school was properly that of the Board of Education.

The commission received letters from K. S. Wightman, secretary of the board, asking that guards be placed at Wolsley St. and the Chemong road, and at Mark and Hunter Sts.

The petition was received from parents of Edison and Brioux Aves.

Police set a trap for him but he did not return.

A BUS ECONOMY

Two or three of the larger buses are to be withdrawn from the regular daily routes, except Saturdays, and perhaps rush hours, until the colder weather sets in with seasonal increase of business. It is understood that these buses cost $75,000 to $80,000, and were bought for the special purpose of providing additional accommodation for the public. Since then the number of passengers has declined somewhat, and noticeably this summer. One of the bigger buses will continue on the Monaghan Road line. Saving of gasoline cost is an additional item for consideration by the company when business is light and the smaller buses are adequate.

Old Costumes Worn At WI Meeting

HAVELOCK, Sept. 22 (ENS)—Grandmother's Day was observed at the Belmont Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon, at the township hall, when not only the grandmothers but all the members were to wear old time costumes and any who failed to do so paid a fine of ten cents when the roll was called.

Mrs. William Anderson and Mrs. Arnold Dafoe were conveners for the program during which the grandmothers present were called to the front and a hymn was sung in their honor. They were: Mesdames W. Smith, R. Sanderson, G. Hartin, W. Ketchen, F. Elmhurst, Fred Toms, E. McLaughlin, C. Ellis, R. Barton, A. Dafoe, H. Scott, H. King, E. Hart, W. Anderson. The latter was the accompanist for this item.

Awards Given

The prize for the oldest grandmother present went to Mrs. Fred Toms, with Mrs. Reginald Barton winning the prize for the grandmother with the youngest grandchild.

Best Costume

Mrs. Eugene McLaughlin won the prize for the best old time costume for her impersonation of a grandmother of bygone days. Her black silk shawl was at least 150 years old and her skirt was a style of a century ago, having belonged to Mrs. Munroe, a great aunt of Mrs. Robert Anderson, of Havelock, who came to Peterborough district from the north of Ireland. Mrs. McLaughlin also wore an old-time appliqued shawl style collar which came from France as a souvenir of World War I. The prizes were presented by Mrs. Arnold Dafoe. Other costumes worthy of note were as follows: Mrs. Reginald Barton wore as kirt which was 50 years old and belonged to her great-aunt, Mrs. J. McCracken, of Craighurst. Her black satin blouse belonged to Mrs. J. Freeman, while a sailor hat of about 25 years ago completed her costume. Mrs. George Hendley was wearing a long black cape in a style of over 30 years ago, while Mrs. Robert Wrightly was gowned in a green crepe costume of over 25 years ago.

In opening the program, Mrs. W. Anderson welcomed the grandmothers and visitors, read a poem and gave a few remarks on the motto, "Youth is a garden of roses: age is a crown of success." Mrs. W. Goadsby sang "Granny's Old Arm Chair" with Mrs. H. Scott as accompanist. Mrs. William Smith played two harmonica selection, "Shall We Gather At the River" and "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet," with Mrs. W. Anderson at the piano. A reading was given by Mrs. Clarence King.

Delegates Named

Mrs. William Ketchen, the president, presided for the business session and welcomed the visitors. Mrs. W. Smith and Mrs. G. Gawley were appointed delegates to the convention in November at Toronto.

Mesdames Alex Keene, H. King and G. Hartin were appointed a committee to make arrangements for having new shingles put on the kitchen at the hall. A bingo will be held at the township hall on September 26, when the prizes will be home baking. Mesdames G. Gawley, C. King, P. Wrightly and H. King were appointed a committee to make arrangements. A drawing for a quilt made by the society will be held at this event. The matter of subscriptions for the Health Magazine endorsed by the Federated Women's Institute was left in charge of the health conveners, Mrs. W. Goadsby and Mrs. H. King.

Glove Making Course

A course in glove making will be sponsored by the Belmont branch on March 7, 10 and 11 next. Ten persons are required to take the course which is open to anyone, it not being necessary to be an Institute member. Several articles of lingerie made last week during the lingerie course were on display.

The following members were appointed to make the annual canvass for the Upper Canada Bible Society. Mrs. C. Ellis, Mrs. G. Vilneff and Mrs. A. Althouse.

The October meeting will take the form of an afternoon tea when the Stanwood Sewing Circle and the Trent River Women's Institute will be guests of the Belmont branch, the program to be given by the visiting organizations.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting when the grandmothers and visitors were seated at a lace-covered table decorated with dahlias and marigolds and gold candles in srystal holders.

Huronia Research Uncovers Great Record

By FREDERICK HELSON

MIDLAND, Sept. 22—(CP)—A record of missionary courage and engineering skill 300 years ago is coming to light under the trowel and whisk of a Canadian archeologist.

For the last four years, Wilfrid W. Jury, curator of the Museum of Indian archeology at the University of Western Ontario, has probed the ruins of Fort St. Marie I—once the most isolated outpost in France's North American empire—for details of the early history of the new world.

Among his discoveries are the first canal locks and water piping system in North America.

Fort Ste. Marie I was the fort from which Jesuit missionaries carried christianity to the Indians. Five were tortured and slain. They become saints of the Roman Catholic Church.

Dig Patiently

The record in the earth has been patiently dug out and sifted by Jury. With him works his wife, tabulating, sorting and recording the finds.

The quiet, grey-haired archeologist plies his whisk and trowel in what is regarded by Roman Catholics of Canada and the United States as "hallowed ground."

On the hill above the valley where he works rise the twin spires of the Martyrs' Shrine, erected in commemoration of the five Jesuit martyrs who lost their lives in the service of their faith.

Jury's digging has uncovered the first christian cemetery in Ontario. He exhumed, examined and re-interred the bones of the first christian Indians buried there.

With them he identified the remains of Donne Jacobus Douart, the only Frenchman left buried there when the fort was abandoned.

Plaque Marks Grave

A concrete plaque now marks Douart's grave, surmounted by a tall cross. Wooden crosses mark the graves of the Indians.

It was in this cemetery that the tortured body of Saint Jean de Brebeuf was first buried when it was recovered after the Iroquois left the ruins of the nearby friendly Indian village of St. Louis.

The body was removed long before Jury began his excavations and, wrapped in oiled silks, taken back to Quebec by the Jesuit Fathers.

Arrived In 1639

The Jesuits came to this area on Georgian Bay 75 miles northwest of Toronto in 1639 on a mission to the Huron Indians. They built a fortified enclosure, covering about two acres of ground, and named it Fort St. Marie.

The menace of the hostile Iroquois Indians became so great 10 years later that the remaining missionairies left the area and Indians burned the fort behind them.

Jury's explorations have revealed the outlines of the fort and its buildings.

It was a major fortress at its time, protected by a palisade and moat and on three sides by an inland lake. The lake now has receded from its old waterline.

The foundations of building after building have been uncovered and examined. Some of them are in what Jury terms a "remarkable state" of preservation. They have given invaluable information on the lives and habits of the priests and soldiers of France who lived there, and of Indians served by the hospital.

The rotted butts of the palisade logs have been uncovered, and even the pole logs of Algonquin tepees in the Indian compound south of the fort.

Old Aqueduct

Jury found whole sections of an old aqueduct, ax marks still evident on the side of the wooden trough. The system piped water into the enclosure from springs in the hills.

He found that the water was used for other purposes, too. With its help and a set of canal locks, freight canoes and barges were raised from the level of the lake right into the centre of the fort.

Work is going forward to restore the fort and its buildings as a reminder of Canada's earliest days.

France's empire in America is no more, but the new fort Ste. Marie rising at Midland is intended as a reminder of its faith, skill and courage.

Jinx On Truck

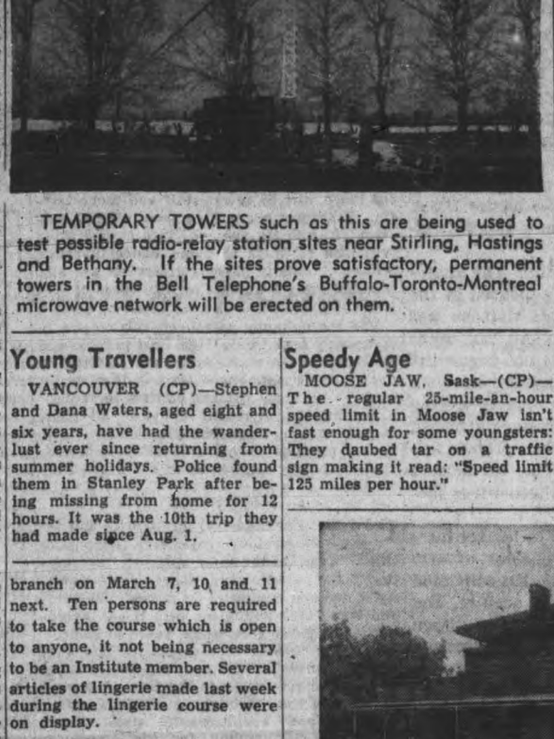
CALGARY — (CP)—Norman Kennedy, principal of a junior high school here, would like to catch the ones responsible for using his office as a target. Twenty-five panes of glass in his office windows were broken in one night.



TEMPORARY TOWERS such as this are being used to test possible radio-relay station sites near Stirling, Hastings and Bethany. If the sites prove satisfactory, permanent towers in the Bell Telephone's Buffalo-Toronto-Montreal microwave network will be erected on them.

Temporary Towers Used To Find Sites For TV Relay

Temporary radio towers are being used to conduct transmission tests near Stirling, Hastings and Bethany on possible sites for radio-relay stations in the Bell Telephone's projected new Buffalo-Toronto-Montreal microwave system.

The radio-relay network will provide additional long distance telephone circuits between Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. It will also deliver television programs to broadcasting stations being built by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in Toronto and Montreal.

E. G. Baker, Bell Telephone manager for this region, said that permanent towers will be constructed later on the sites near Stirling, Hastings and Bethany if they prove satisfactory.

Transmission Tests

The transmission tests are being conducted with portable equipment, which includes sectional towers that can be erected as high as 200 feet in a few hours and dismantled just as quickly. The test towers work in pairs, about 30 miles apart. Each has a saucer-like antenna, which can be moved up and down the tower to conduct tests at various heights, and microwave signals are beamed between these antennae.

The associated transmitting and receiving equipment is housed in trucks. The towers, which are made up of eight-foot sections, also are transported from site to site in trucks.

The Stirling site is about three miles east of the village. The next prospective site is about five miles southwest of Hastings, north of Highway 45 on the township road between Percy and Alnwick, and the next is about 2½ miles west of Bethany, north of Highway 7A on the township road between Lots 15 and 16.

In all, about 12 permanent relay stations will be required for the Toronto-Montreal section of the network, in addition to terminal stations in the two cities. The relay stations will be located anywhere from about 15 to 35 miles apart, depending on the transmission problems to be overcome.

Phone Calls

The telephone conversations or television programs will be carried over the network by microwave transmission. The microwaves will be focused into a narrow beam by special antennae and relayed from station to station. High-gain amplifiers at each station will give the signals a million-fold boost before they take off for the next relay point.

Each permanent relay station will have two receiving and two transmitting antennae, mounted on a steel tower. The towers will range in height from about 50 to 225 feet, depending on what obstructions are to be cleared to obtain a line-of-sight path to the next station.

Completed In 1953

The Buffalo-Toronto section of the network is scheduled to be in operation by the time that television broadcasting is inaugurated in Toronto next year. The Toronto-Montreal section is planned for completion in 1953.

Young Travellers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Stephen and Dana Waters, aged eight and six years, have had the wanderlust ever since returning from summer holidays. Police found them in Stanley Park after being missing from home for 12 hours. It was the 10th trip they had made since Aug. 1.

MOOSE JAW, Sask—(CP)—The regular 25-mile-an-hour speed limit in Moose Jaw isn't fast enough for some youngsters: They daubed tar on a traffic sign making it read: "Speed limit 125 miles per hour."

More Emphasis On The Three R's

An important document on secondary school education in Canada was issued at the first of the week. It is the report on the Canadian Research Committee on Practical Education issued after four years of study and investigation. The committee was made up of representatives of business, industry, agriculture, pedagogy, labour and the home, financed chiefly by business and industry and labour organizations.

* * *

While the committee was specifically concerned with secondary school education it could not avoid questions on proper training in the basic essentials of schooling, primarily the field of elementary schools. (In the Report, secondary education is considered to begin at Grade VI.) It discovered "grave deficiencies in the basic education provided by the secondary school" and this responsibility appears to be the fault of the primary schools which lay the foundation for secondary education. It recommended that the curriculum stress the three R's, reading, writing and arithmetic.

* * *

The report said that instruction in these basic subjects should be more thorough, but not necessarily more advanced or occupying more school time. There should be more emphasis on the fundamentals of arithmetic and daily periods of drill; these were recommended to be continued throughout all secondary school grades. It said that more emphasis should be placed on grammar and composition. Throughout the pupil's schooling there should be an insistence on higher standards of performance in all work and a strong emphasis on thoroughness. "A revision of these subjects in objectives and in content, and possibly in methods of presentation, is required."

* * *

The researchers were a committee on practical education in secondary schools, and it is instructive that they have revived the importance in formal education of the three R's and stressed the need for more solid achievement in them. Their findings are parallel with the evidence parents, secondary school teachers, and employers have discovered as they see youths of employable age struggling to add a simple sum, fumbling with words inadequate to express themselves, and writing a hand that is so slovenly as to be without both character and legibility. If our schools cannot teach a pupil to add and multiply correctly, to read properly, fluently and with comprehension, and to speak and write their language with clarity, precision and ease, they are failing in their basic task. And they have been failing: the Canadian Research Committee has found "grave deficiencies" in the basic education of secondary school children. Finding these, it gravely notes that "these basic skills are essential in all jobs and in all activities of everyday life."

* * *

The Committee has made 45 specific recommendations covering many aspects of secondary schooling in Canada, but the most serious are those dealing with the three R's. Again and again throughout the report on practical education is the emphasis on sound training in general and basic subjects to give the pupils the fundamental skills—the tools—required in all other specific skills and in the skill of thinking itself. For instance, there is this recommendation: "Secondary schools should offer a variety of courses to suit the varied interests and aptitudes of pupils; but all courses should have a core of common subjects to assist in developing those understandings, attitudes, habits and skills that make for a well-integrated, socially-responsible citizen who can think critically and independently." Or this clause: "The emphasis in vocational training should be on the development of basic skills and sound work habits; rather than on the development of highly-specialized skills."

* * *

Teachers, as well as parents and employers have been worried by the sloppy attainments in basic skills and the mental laziness of high school pupils of the last dozen years. Whether the fault has been in the curriculum, the methods of instruction or the condition of society, this penetrating study of secondary school education gives society and the schools the data to improve the product.

Wealth is a disease, says a hermit whom some summer visitors have discovered in the woods. But Mr. Abbott has an infallible cure for it.

What Makes A Colossus Colossal?

When William Randolph Hearst died at the end of August a great many newspapers, including those of his own organization, referred to him in their obituary pieces as "a colossus." This is not a word which careful writers use very often; in order to rank as a colossus a man must be a very important man indeed, possessing great influence upon his contemporaries and upon posterity also. For this reason we have been puzzling for two or three weeks on the problem of whether Mr. Hearst was really a colossus, and if he was one, what raised him to that eminence?

He was a publisher in a very large way of business, for he owned sixteen daily papers, two Sunday papers, nine magazines, and possessed in addition news services and radio auxiliaries. But a big publisher is not necessarily a colossus unless he wields colossal influence. It is arguable that Heart's influence was not so great as some people imagined. He was not able to make or break Presidents or administrations. He was not able to foist isolationism on the people of the U.S.A. The people whom his papers "made" were not great people, and his papers could not break anyone who was really important. He influenced great numbers of people, no doubt, but they were not people whose opinions counted for very much. His papers were strident in their advocacy of his chosen policies, but for the past twenty years their stridency was laughed at by people of normal intelligence. His influence as a publisher was certainly far less than that of several men in the U.S.A. who control the policy of a single first-rate paper.

Was he a business genius? The analysis of his affairs which appeared in the New York Times suggests that he was not. Some of his papers lost vast sums of money. If Hearst had not begun life with thirty millions of dollars, and gold interests which kept producing during his lifetime, he could not have afforded his heavy losses. With a vast private fortune it is not too difficult to make a splash in any business, whether it is successful or not.

Was Hearst a colossus in his ventures as a connoisseur and collector of art? Most decidedly he was not. His collection cost him forty millions to acquire, and its value in 1937 was estimated at fifteen millions. Hearst bought art objects in a wholesale, unselective manner, and many of them were never unpacked when once they reached his warehouses.

Was he in himself a great figure? Certainly he was an amazing man. Orson Wells made a movie (Citizen Kane) about Hearst which enraged its subject; Aldous Huxley, in After Many A Summer, offers another picture of a millionaire who had gained a vast worldly empire, but lived in fear of death. Trivial people do not inspire caricature and comment on this scale.

But—a colossus? The word seems rather an unsuitable one for a man who created nothing, whose influence was vastly exaggerated, and whose effect upon the business of publishing was, upon the whole, a regrettable one. Not a colossus: just a very wealthy man who was able to get his own way more than most people, fortunately, can do.

The Nickel That Failed

Almost two years ago somebody in Ottawa had an idea. Why not strike a five-cent piece—a nickel—to mark the second centenary of the isolation and naming of nickel—by a Swede in 1751. Does that seem like a good idea in this country which produces 90 per cent. of the world's supply? Good. Then let's have a competition for the design. Good. But not so good was the broadcast, unspecific invitation to enter the competition for the $1,000 prize. Scribbled designs on brown paper wrappings came in to Ottawa from hopeful back alleys and backwoods of the ten provinces. Few came from garrets—ateliers, studios—of artists, and fewer still from competent medallists and engravers, because there are few of them.

Eventually the chaff in brown paper wrappings was sifted from passable entries and an artist living in Toronto was named prize-winner. His design was published and that is the last we have seen of the nickel to commemorate nickel. The coin has never been minted and already it is almost a year out of date.

Why was the coin not struck? Can it be that the prize-winner was a painter and drawer, and not a numismatist and engraver, and that he was not able to execute the design in metal? There are about ten people in Canada qualified to enter a competition of this nature, for a man who designs a coin must be the man to create it. It is both an art and a craft, and highly specialized. One does not expect an expert painter of houses on canvas landscapes to design a model home. One asks an architect. So one gets an architect of coins to design and etch a new coin. We approve of competitions, but next time there is one for a new coin, let it be clearly understood what the qualifications are.

There is really nothing like a nice quiet evening at home with Father and Mother to make young people wish they were somewhere else.

Britain's Winter: Grim And Dim

By SUSAN STRANGE

A COLD, comfortless, inconvenient and expensive winter lies ahead for the people of Britain.

Not since the war has there been an autumn when official forecasts for the winter were quite so gloomy and depressing. Even if there are no unforeseen disasters to contend with, we shall, it seems, have a thin time for the next few months. Putting various industrial estimates and calculations—all of them official—side by side, the winter outlook is something like this:

* * *

COAL: "The increase in coal consumption," says the Government's current Bulletin for Industry, "is now beating the increase in production." So much so that if the trend since 1949 went on, by 1953 the country would be mining less coal than it used. Britain would then have to search around desperately—in Poland and America—for import supplies to the tune of four million tons. She would no longer—as during the 1947 fuel crisis and again last year, when some coal was brought from America—be able still to maintain her exports to the Continent. To avoid this, someone must go short this winter, for exports of British coal must be kept up. Those most likely to suffer will be the users of large coal (which anyway is getting scarcer because the new coalmining machines break it up). This means gasworks, railways and—homes. Empty grates, queues for miserable sacks of patent fuel, an ineffective flicker of gas under the diminutive Sunday joint and a fifteen minutes' wait for the kettle to boil on a freezing morning—this is Britain's fuel outlook for next winter.

* * *

RAIL TRANSPORT: "This winter the problem is likely to be more acute than last, for there will be fewer staff and more traffic. Transport users, "the same official bulletin disarmingly goes on, "are co-operating with the railways to avoid dislocation this winter.... cuts in passenger services are also planned so as to release men in areas of serious congestion."

For the unhappy passenger, this means, in fact, many fewer trains, less heat in them and ——because not enough men can be found to keep up the permanent way—slower trains even on the long-distance express services.

For industry it means delays of all kinds in getting and despatching goods by train. Scarce supplies of coal will be made scarcer still when they are tied up in a railroad traffic-jam.

* * *

POWER: For industry, for farmers and for housewives, the forecast here is gloomier still: "Even on the most optimistic assumptions," the bulletin says, "there is no possibility if demand continues its present character and trend of catching up with it and avoiding load-shedding for some years to come."

In other words, the prospect for this winter,—and probably the next and the next—is of cuts and reductions in the flow of current to whole areas throughout Britain every morning and evening: the peak times. Though this is annoying for the housewife with an electric cooker, iron or vacuum cleaner, it is worse still for industry. Load-shedding can slow down whole workshops and bring machines to a stop. Day after day, it leads, if not to unemployment, to short-time and loss of production.

For workers, the power shortage may mean a big increase in night-work—generally unpopular in the raw and foggy British climate. Only by staggering working hours and putting on night shifts to spread the power demand at peak periods will some measure of economic disaster be avoided. Darker and gloomier streets, chilly offices and early-closing shops are already becoming as much a part of the English winter as mulled ale and roaring log fires were in grandfather's time.

* * *

STEEL: Shortages are certain to get worse, and to be more acutely felt. On the average about ten per cent. of total demand will have to go unsatisfied and, since defence orders cannot suffer and exports have already been heavily cut, the unhappy citizen is once again the one to feel the pinch. Controls over sheet and tinplate will be extended to other kinds by December and many unexpected shortages are bound to appear in British shops.

This official tale of gloom seems almost too dark and unrelieved to be true. Why is it that Britain faces so harsh a winter when only so short a time ago everything seemed to be improving so much and so quickly?

* * *

THE answer seems to be that all Britain's key industries have been afflicted with a rash of minor accidents which together add up to a real crisis. The fact that, with brand-new mills and expanded capacity, Britain will be able to produce no more steel than last year has nothing to do with the coal shortage. The cause is a shortage of steel scrap from Germany which the Germans now want for themselves.

Again, the railway crisis is in an odd way probably a by-product of Britain's full employment. In the bad old days, a job on the railways was to many a plum of security in an insecure world; promotion was generally slow but there was a small pension at the end. Now, these attractions mean much less when jobs are easy to get, and men are leaving poorly-paid work with the railways for other things.

* * *

THEN, the phenomenal increase in domestic consumption of electricity which now puts so heavy a burden on the coal miners is believed to be largely due to the millions of electric fires bought since the end of the war. The demand for them, stimulated by recurrent coal crises and the absence of central heating in British homes, was encouraged by a short-sighted sales campaign by the Electricity Authority. Only now is the full effect of all these, and of all the new post-war household gadgets, being fully felt.

All this, coming together, would be bad enough. But on top of it Britain is slowly and belatedly realizing that another economic crisis with the outside world is fast looming up — worse, perhaps, than those that have gone before. It is a double crisis of growing inflation at home and an ever-widening trade gap with the dollar area and with other countries. To avoid insolvency, the country somehow will have to export still more—and probably cut imports still more as well.

It is hardly surprising that the official winter outlook is not very cheerful.

An American Opinion: BUT WE CAN STILL VOTE

Letters To The Editor

MR. ROBB NOT A JINGO

Sir: One reads with misgiving the Examiner's reply to Mr. Robb's speech on preparedness. Mr. Robb's views may be right or wrong. Future events will decide. It is apparent, however, that the best brains of the Western Powers consider the danger imminent and in this respect Mr. Robb is in sound company. If we are to choose, and choose we must soon, it is not safer to do so on Mr. Robb's premises than on what I understand to be the "laissez-faire" policy of the Examiner? If the Examiner's contrary view is correct, then its voice should be heard in all the chancelleries of the Western Powers. Both Mr. Robb and the Examiner are entitled to their views. One would expect, however, that in a discussion of such vital issues the Examiner would have taken a more reasoned, temperate and less flippant approach in rebuttal.

Your pronouncements that Mr. Robb lacks "a sense of proportions" and "historical perspective" and "speaks like a Jingo" does not, I suggest, serve the issue or relieve our minds from the threat of the complete annihilation of our way of life. We remember the unheeded voice of Lord Roberts prior to the First Great War and of Mr. Churchill during the 30's and again at Fulton, U.S.A. in the 40's, when he was branded a warmonger by some of the Canadian Press.

Mr. Robb, whom you appropriately describe as a gallant officer was also an outstanding legal officer at R.C.A.F. Headquarters, London, during the recent war. No doubt his experiences have taught him the need for preparedness and his knowledge of the present ideological and economic struggle has impressed him with its urgency. We do not necessarily agree with all aspects of his argument but can we quarrel with his attack on apathy, and complacency and the need of clear thinking and the urgency of appropriate measures by the authorities concerned, which I believe to be the purport of his address.

Mr. Robb has many friends in the Services and in his profession of barrister, where he has a recognized standing. He has a quick intelligence and the gift of clear, unemotional and logical thinking, qualities which are not often found to be those of a Jingo.

Possibly the Examiner's "pricking" was not in the serious vein I have taken it to be, but rather with a puckish flavour in which it often excels.

Yours truly,
JOHN A. HARSTONE.

CEDAR PARK ALTERNATIVES

Sir: In regards to bog and fog surrounding new park development on Cedar Lakes.

Much has been said about the good of this park for the average citizen of Peterborough and territory, but have we not in our enthusiasm, forgotten that all people have likes and dislikes, even in parks?

The main purpose of the park project was I believe, to give the people who had no cottage of their own, a chance to enjoy the use of the lake and beach freely. Now let us remember:

(1) Many people do not own cars necessary to get out to Cedar Park.

(2) Many people would prefer the shores of Rice, Stony, Chemong, or other lakes less rugged and much closer to town. In case of Chemong people without cars could get bus accommodation.

(3) Concentration of entire people of town and district in one park on a small lake, would soon ruin fishing, swimming, and boating for both the general public and private property owners alike.

(4) Beaches could be provided on other developed lakes, which are far less rugged, much more quickly reached and at a reasonable price.

(5) The suggested site is on probably the worst piece of shore on Big Cedar Lake and to put it mildly it is nothing but a bog hole which is a dead end of stagnant water. The shore on Little Cedar Lake at this point is dangerous for young and old alike, due to the quick-sand-like marl bottom.

As an alternative I would suggest that we provide areas on all lakes for the public, of say 20 acres up to 100 depending on size of lake and location, and not make beautiful lakes like Stony exclusive for the people of above-average means and excuse ourselves by telling the public you can go swimming up in the fog and bog in the bush 25 miles away, but Chemong, Stony, Rice and other nearby lakes are not for you.

Believe me, Mr. Editor, I am all for making room for the public on the lakes and I have no axe to grind as I am fortunate in having both cottage and car of my own, but after personally checking this park project as suggested and having checked the bush, shoreline, and lake bottom carefully on at least six different occasions this summer with a number of interested people and keeping in mind the size of the lakes involved and the scarcity of fish even though they have been restocked recently.

I am of the honest opinion that any person who is really sincere in helping the general public, will block any move which would put all the people into one vast park on such a small lake midst the fog of black flies and mosquitoes and the bog at the end of Big Cedar Lake.

Yours truly,
B. CROOKS.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.

Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness, wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless. (II Pet. 3: 9-14.)

Save That Straw!

(Farmer's Advocate)

There is straw to burn this year, whereas a couple of years ago farmers paid a fairly high price for this by-product of cereal grains to bed down their animals. There is some burning of straw stacks and burning over of fields that have been combined. That is a lazy and primitive way of dealing with a product that nature intended should be incorporated with the soil to help maintain its organic content.

A heavy crop of straw does present problems. It is not easy to work into the soil. It requires a lot of handling if taken off the field in sheaves or bales. If it is not required for the livestock the paper industry offers a market when straw is baled. But there are few, if any, soils but what will benefit from the straw or other refuse from the crops.

If straw is not needed for bedding and it lies too heavily on the field to be worked in, it can be disposed of by raking into large windrows and spread with the forage harvester. It will then form a mulch for a seeded field or it can be easily worked into the soil.

If there is more straw than can be put through the stable the stacks may be rotted down into valuable manure by repiling and adding nitrogen and phosphatic fertilizers. Time and moisture will complete the disintegration of the straw and convert it into much needed manure.

Burning straw stacks is a deplorable practice but burning straw in the field is worse. Then the stubble and trash are all reduced to a fine ash which has some value in the soil but in no way comparable to the organic matter that is added to the land when crop residue is treated in a rational and sane way.

Pocket Money

(London Express)

A Mexican oil millionaire arrived at Longleat, one of England's stateliest homes, and offered the Marquis of Bath $1,000,000 to buy it outright.

"He offered bankers' references and wanted to write a cheque immediately", Lord Bath said.

"We had some stone busts outside marked 'For Sale', and I believe he thought the notice applied to the house.

"When I told him it was not for sale, he offered me £20,000 for a book in the library.

"In poor English he explained he made his money in oil. 'I have more money than I can spend', he said.

"Who was he? I wish I knew. I never asked him for his name."

Financial Footnote: Longleat cost £8,016 13s. 4½d. to build in 1580.

Mrs. Nickleby Grapples With Logic On Trent Water

STALMENT VI.
RICHARD F. CHOATE

"Only connect," wrote E. M. rster, packing a lot of wisdom to two words.

But E. M. Forster, alas, was not member of the Mrs. Nickleby ub; hence, we must suspect, dly enough, that his words will ll short of an effective con-ctedness with the crania of that st body of human souls whose ototype is the well-meaning but coherent Dickensian lady.

A classic example of thinking at is not thinking—is aptly oted by Miss L. Susan Stebbing one of her works on Logic. us:

I think there must be some-ning in the place, said Mrs. ickleby, who had been listen-g in silence; for, soon after I as married, I went to Strat-rd with my dear Nickleby, in post-chaise from Birmingham -was it a post-chaise though! id Mrs. Nickleby considering; es, it must have been a post-haise, because I recollect emarking at the time that the river had a green shade over is left eye; — in a post-chaise rom Birmingham, and after we ad seen Shakespeare's tomb nd birthplace, we went back o the inn there, where we slept hat night, and I recollect that ll night long I dreamed of othing but a black gentleman, t full length, in plaster-of-aris, with a lay-down collar ed with two tassels, leaning gainst a post and thinking; and hen I woke in the morning nd described him to Mr. ickleby, he said it was Shakes-eare just as he had been when e was alive, which was very urious indeed. Stratford — tratford, continued Mrs. ickleby, considering: Yes, I m positive about that, because recollect that I was in the amily way with my son icholas at the time, and I had een very much frightened by n Italian image boy that orning. In fact, it was quite mercy, ma'am, added Mrs. ickleby in a whisper to Mrs. ititterly, that my son didn't rn out to be a Shakespeare, nd what a dreadful thing that ould have been!

hinking On The Trent

In all this talk, as Miss Stebbing marks, there is no sign of rected thinking — that is, think-g towards a point or end. Is it ssible that any amount of think-g in the manner of the Mrs. ckleby Club (its long member-ip is both male and female) n ever solve the problem of the ent Waterway — that uncom-eted waterway with its water-s gap at the Severn? This oblem clearly is genuine and essing, partly because the aterway remains a hybrid — a il-and-water way, closed to vigation at one end (a defect at can be remedied by a odicum of enterprise). The oblem of the Trent in its larger nse will remain a problem so ng as there is a lack of "con-ected" thinking. Lost to sight our days has been the basic levant interest which was seen d felt clearly enough when the oject of canalizing the Trent as first envisaged years ago.

Basically, the problem in its bjective physical aspects remains recisely what it was in the days hen canalizing plans for the ittle Trent of that time were aped initially in rather haphaz-d fashion. Fundamentally, the uestion is one of situational val-

SNAKES AND ADDERS

Snakes and adders in those countries are of a strange forme, in respect of ours, and verie great, for there are some that are at least 25 palmes long, and five in breadth, with their bellies and mouthes so great, that they will devoure a hart or any other beast of the same bignesse; thei feede upon the land, and in the water, using both the elements, and having filled theyr bellies, they do oftentimes lie in some darke place to sleepe, and so are killed, and by the countrey people eaten, esteeming them as daintie as we doo hens and capons.

—I. HUGHEN VAN LINSCHOTEN: The true and perfect description of Guinea. Translated out of the Dutch into English by W.P. (1598).

es. Though structurally unchanged, the problem as seen unctionally has undergone important changes of phase. This hiefly by reason of increasing opulation pressures. The Great-r Trent of Tomorrow will come o fulfillment only as we "see ur problem steadily and see it whole" (as General Smuts might ave put it). To see it thus is o see it connectedly as a con-inuum of energy—an indivisible togetherness", not only of wat-rs, but of subjective-objective nterests — culture, agriculture, orestry, land and water trans-ort, manufacturing, industry and ommerce. Only so can it func-ion as a healthy organic whole.

But Mrs. Nickleby Club doesn't ee it that way. Its many mem-ers throughout the Kawarthas re pre-occupied as usual with promiscuous wool-gathering.

Without any great effort of the magination we may listen to an outgiving upon the Trent as it ppears to Mrs. Nickleby. Thus:

"As I was saying to Nickleby: There it is—the Trent Waterway. t begins at Nassau and runs to he Locks bridge. There's the ridge over by Curtises brick-ard, and the Lift Lock and the Little Lake—all part of the Nat-ural Order just as they were put here by Providence.

"Providence—Providence, oh, es I remember about it. I used o hear about how Providence helped people who helped themselves and sometimes it even looked after fallen sparrows. But all that is changed now."

Mrs. Nickelby's ratiocination seems to have coromed in a new direction. She could now see clearly how it was that Providence which had provided the Natural Order threw in for good measure a collection of locks, dams and bridges.

"The Administration has a lot of heavy thinking to do", she mused. "Perhaps at this very moment they are hard at the Trent question. Is it for the likes of me to ask them what they are thinking about? For what we are about to receive, or not to receive, I say, let us be duly thankful to the Administration".

"As I always say to Nickelby: What do we have governments for if we still have to go on doing things and thinking for ourselves? What a fine thing it will be when governments pay for everything we want done, and take over the check-off at the source out of the natural order, which I sometimes say, must be the Grand Central Jackpot out of which Mr. Abbott draws his surpluses."

In Mrs. Nickleby's consciousness rather dimly there was an awareness that up around Nogey's Creek, or Coboconk, or someplace, there are quantities of water but why should she risk mental fatigue by trying to "connect" those absurd places with the Trent Waterway proper, which is bounded by Nassau and the Locks bridge?

But Mrs. Nickleby withal is of an improving turn of mind, so far as her own convenience is concerned. She wouldn't think of bothering the Administration by asking it if the Trent must forever remain a "canal from nowhere to nowhere", as its enemies used to call it. Talks by the Oracle of the Parish Pump have had a most broadening effect. What if the Trent route does climb piggy-back over a dry, rocky hogs-back up around Georgian Bay—why not advertise to the tourist trade that we have the highest and driest canal in the world? That surely will make them "want to come back" with their cabin cruisers!

Autumn is marching on: even the scarecrows are wearing dead leaves.

OTSUYU NAKAGAWA: Scarecrows, c. 1730.

"Nogey's Creek for the Nogeyites!" says Mrs. Nickleby—and "The Little Lake for the Little Lakers!" Between Nassau and the Locks bridge isn't there plenty of water in the Otonabee to supply her kitchen sink and bathtub?

Mrs. Nickleby, too, has certain ideas about progress. "Why," she inquires, "should they keep on moving those heavy vats of water up and down? A switch-back coaster like that at Sunnyside is so much faster and more thrilling. And besides, if we must have a Lift Lock, I say, why not have it at a more central site—like the Exhibition grounds?"

And so while we pause to reflect upon Sir Richard Livingstone's strange remark that "modernity is not a matter of time but of outlook", let us leave Mrs. Nickleby and her mundus fabulosis to the Engineering Institute, expecting that in due time we shall have a blueprint for a waterless hydraulic lift lock on her Little Trent.

L'ENVOI—

The writer has departed for the nonce from his immediate subject, which is concerned with an examination of the natural phenomena of the Indian river, an integral part of the Trent system. A little thinking about thinking may be in order before proceeding to think about action. Emphasis has been placed upon the pressing need for action which will safe-guard the Indian river from the spoliation of natural resources which has left and is leaving such ugly scars upon many sections of the magnificent Kawartha waterway. The problems of the Trent are of a single piece. Damage to one part means damage to the whole. WHAT we are thinking about the Trent doesn't greatly matter. HOW we are thinking about it matters supremely. Mrs. Nickleby's non-directional ratiocination or day-dreaming may help to illustrate for us HOW NOT to think about our Kawartha problems.

Petty sectionalism with short-sighted avarice and selfishness have been the foes of achievement in canal construction the world over, in all ages. Parochialism of this sort in the United States has been delaying construction of the St. Lawrence seaway year after year.

Water as in Tennyson's Brook, "goes on forever". A continuum of hydraulic energy cannot be chopped off transversely in little pieces to suit anyone. As well try to chop off life itself. A canal in its true sense is a connective or link between larger uniformities. Pareto's residues: "The persistence of aggregates" and "The instinct of combinations" are helpful reminders, even if not fully satisfying in their present form.

The forces of gravitation will have the last word. It is not unlikely that they will be having their say long after the world has forgotten about its King Canutes, its Mrs. Partingtons, who tried conclusions with the Atlantic—and even about the Mrs. Nickleby Club of the Kawarthas who "didn't think"—because they "failed to connect".

CHAMPIONS THROUGH THE YEARS — In Peterborough's 67 years of field and box lacrosse many teams have brought home championships. The Peterborough Amateur Athletic Associationteam ruled the Ontario intermediate circles shortly after the turn of the century. The team (above) was Ontario champion in 1903 and included: back row, Harold Dunford, E. S. Clarry, H. R. H. Kenner, Jim McCabe, T. H. Glover; second row, Shocky Mein, Chris Graham, Walter Parnell, Jack McCabe, Dr. A. W. McPherson, Harry Morgan; front row, Ernie Wasson, Lou Dobbin and N. Dusty.—(Roy Studio Photo).

Lacrosse: A Rip-Roaring Triumphant Local History

By DON GRANT

There once was a time in Peterborough that lacrosse was so popular with young and old that clothing stores were giving away a lacrosse stick with every suit sold.

That offer was made in the early years of lacrosse in Peterwhen fans were stirred by the town's team, then in the race for the North Eastern championship.

Brockville, Kingston, Ottawa and Peterborough, each team packed with colorful stars, battled for the honors. But, backed by nearly every one in town, Peterborough crashed its way through the hard opposition to the championship in 1888.

The same lacrosse favor that swept the small town in those days is back today as the Peterborough Timbermen leave for Vancouver and the Dominion championship series.

Earlier Stars

But since that time, lacrosse titles have come to Peterborough often in the 67 years.

Players like Michael Halpin, George Joyle and Ab Rose, members of the 1888 started lacrosse on its winding path down through the years in Peterborough.

By 1897 the players that developed through the years carried the game along with the same form and class as their forebearers. Just before the turn of the century outstanding players like Jack Mein, E. S. Clarry, Dr. A. W. McPherson, Rollie Glover, Fred Lynch and others made Peterborough known as "the best lacrosse centre in Eastern Ontario", by winning the Ontario Intermediate championship.

Tempers often flew high, wide and handsome both at home and away; often all the action wasn't on the playing field. In towns such as Orillia and Port Hope where feeling was high in lacrosse matches, the Petes had a rough time dodging not only the teams but the fans also.

The home town fans retaliated with a home stand against out-of-town teams to make up for any discomforts the Petes suffered on away games. On more than one occasion visiting teams were escorted to railway stations by angry fans, loaded with rotten eggs and over-ripe tomatoes.

Although not at the same high pitch as before the turn of the century, lacrosse flourished for two decades after. Players like Dillon, Meagher, Hurtubise, McPherson and McCoy kept the lacrosse fan's blood boiling.

Game Changed

But life began to change as radios and cars became more plentiful and field lacrosse faded slowly, finally going out.

Every-day life quickened throughout the twenties and during that time lacrosse was altered to meet the people's desires.

To make the game faster, the field was shortened and less players were used; to meet the the convenience of the fans the games were played under lights at night.

Doug Miller and Pete King promoted the new game which was catching fire across the country. Johnny Sutherland, Jack Creighton, Bud Fisher and Ches Mowry helped support the sport in Peterborough and another lacrosse era began.

Present lacrosse fans will recall and know some of the players, Red Creighton, Ira Dundas, Fred Goodfellow, Mick Magee, Fred Shaw, Red Dallin, Buster Whitton and Shine Bovin. These men, some still active today, in the Brock St. Arena reached the provincial finals and the finals to prove they were among Ontario's best.

Box Built

Before the war Peterborough lacrosse received another boost when the games were changed to the outdoors. The club built an outdoor box with lights opposite the George St. warf.

Lacrosse thrived for several years in the late thirties in the outdoor box. The Creightons, Vitarellis, Magee, King and others again brought Peterborough to the fore in Ontario lacrosse circles, battling to the senior "B" crown in 1938.

Then the war called a halt to the rejuvenated offshoot of the sport, started hundreds of years ago by the Indians. The box was torn down and lacrosse forgotten for the duration.

No sooner had peace been declared than the lacrosse players were back rebuilding.

After a rather dismal year, using Omemee as home base, the Petes moved back to Peterborough. Financed by interested lacrosse fans, a new box was built in again opposite George St. wharf and lacrosse in Peterborough was again off to the races.

Five-Year Plan

During the spring of 1947 besides building the new stands, the club devised a five-year plan which included building minor league players into seniors and bringing in star players from other centres. At the end of the fifth year, 1951, they hoped to have the Mann Cup for the first time in Peterborough's history.

Sports - hungry Peterborough snapped at the chance to see a game filled with body-contacts (which are allowed in lacrosse), a game filled with hot-tempered fights, and a competitive spirit found in on other spirit.

So in 1947 crowds packed the small wooden stand, called Miller Bowl after Doug Miller. The team won against all opposition and found a crowd-pleasing rival in Fergus. Finally Fergus and the Petes ended in the Ontario senior "B" championship series and before 4,000 fans the Petes brought the title to Peterborough once more.

The Creightons, Ozzie Tott, Breakspeares, and the Vitarellis were city-wide heroes and the same squad returned in 1948 for the same fans and won the same title but against weaker opposition.

Thus in the first two years of the five-year plan, the Petes brought the Ontario Senior "B" championship to the city twice.

Realizing another year in the weak Senior "B" league might ruin the rise of lacrosse in Peterborough, the club decided to make the big jump into the "A" league, the finest lacrosse in the world today.

Into Big League

Bolstering very little from the 1948 "B" champions, the Petes went into "A" play for the first time in 1949. The fans backed the team throughout the year although they were only a second-last place team.

The Petes squeezed into the last playoff position in the second-last game of the schedule, dropping Weston aside by only one point. But the Hamilton Tigers sank further playoff hopes in four straight games.

Without any major changes made, the Petes returned in 1950 in the Senior "A" league, beginning with a burst of wins, then staying fairly high in the league standing for most of the year. But again the Petes met the first-place team, Owen Sound, and went down in the first round.

Faced by the final year of the five-year plan the club this year signed players such as Ike Hildebrand, Moon Wootton, Curly Mason, Russ Slater, Harry Wipper, Bob Thorpe, Don Ashbee, Gerry Fitzgerald, along with home-town brew, Dootch Vitarelli, Arn Dugan and Mick Magee.

Before the season even began, other clubs realized that Peterborough would be the team to beat. The Petes went through easily to win the Ontario championship and then to sweep the Eastern honors in leisurely fashion.

Now they are headed west for the Dominion championship series in Vancouver, taking with them the cheers and best wishes of more than 4,500 faithful fans.

Your Garden:

Peony Is Hardy and Easily-Grown Perennial

By HENRY PREE, NEA

Paste this one in your gardening book in order to help you grow a big batch of lovely peonies next year.

Peonies are among the most hardy, showy and easily grown of all perennial flowers. They withstand severe winters, blooming each spring from late May through the month of June.

The many available varieties, ranging from purest white to deepest crimson, in such a diversity of form and size, afford great opportunity for the selection of extensive color scheme.

Peonies do fairly well in partial shade, which prolongs and intensifies the color of the flowers, thus making them a valuable plant to brighten a shady spot in the yard.

Growing two or three feet high they are suitable for planting in front of shrubbery, as a flowering hedge, or as accent in the herbaceous border. Whenever planted their rich glossy foliage is very effective.

The faded flowers should be cut off in early summer before they set seed and the dead leaves removed in late autumn so that they may not interfere with next year's crop.

Late August and early September is a good time to divide or transplant peonies. To divide peonies, dig the clump, wash off the soil and then cut the clump into sections, each bearing three to five buds or "eyes."

Peonies grow in all kinds of soil, but do best in a deep, rich rather moist loam. In preparing the bed, trench the soil thoroughly 18 to 24 inches deep, working in a great quantity of well-rotted cow manure, as the plants are heavy feeders.

The ground should be kept well tilled, and an annual top dressing put above the plants in November; this should be forked into the earth next spring.

The eyes should be set two inches below the surface. In transplanting, it is a good plan to remove all the old earth so as to start with fresh unimpoverished soil next to the roots.

Botrytis often attacks peonies, producing brown spots on the leaves, stems and flower buds, and sometimes the buds turn completely brown and blast.

Botrytis may be prevented by spraying regularly with Bordeaux mixture and working into the soil around each plant about a teaspoonful of copper carbonate.

Gardening Questions

Q—In ordering nursery stock how can I tell whether it is hardy or not?

A—Most nurseries will tell you, if their catalogues don't print a hardiness zone map. A good rule is to order from a nursery in the same zone or north of where you live.

Q—Many garden writers recommend using liquid manure. Since it is not offered by dealers in garden supplies, how is it made?

A—Liquid manure is easily and cleanly made by placing a peck of well decayed stable manure or commercial, pulverized, sheep, horse or cow manure in a burlap bag and hanging it just below the surface of water in a vinegar barrel or other clean (not oily) receptacle. When needed for use the bag may be lifted out and clear liquid dipped out. An even better way is to have a spigot placed two or three inches above the bottom of the barrel, which is set on its end. This spigot has a larger mouth than ordinary spigots so the liquid can be withdrawn much more quickly. After the manure has hung in the water for a day or longer the solution will be ready for use. The barrel may then be refilled with water for a second leaching

MR. JUSTICE LOUIS D. BRANDEIS: Opinion in Olmstead vs. United States, 1928

This is a blurb for the newly-formed G.O.A.S.T.K.; it stands for "Get Out and See The Kawarthas";

We don't care HOW you arrange your autumn scenic tours—by car, horse and buggy, awheel or on foot—but plan them NOW, and GO.

Fall colours are changing fast. Of the thousands of square miles of countryside to look at, here are a few suggestions:

(1) East on Highway 7, or down the Keene Road, to Hastings, west to Bewdley and home again. This is the great Rice Lake circuit.

(2) North on Highway 28 to Paudash Lake, Bancroft or as far as your gas lasts.

(3) Over the Chemong Causeway, across Gannon's floating bridge to Buckhorn and back.

(4) Along the Oregon Trail, Highway 36, to Bobcaygeon, south to Fowler's Corners and homewards.

(5) North from Bobcaygeon over Highway 35 through Kinmount, Minden and the Haliburton Highlands.

(6) Around the east end of Stony Lake; (I believe you are no longer allowed to drive to the top of Blue Mountain for safety reasons, Nepheline Mines orders).

The list is endless. And no matter which highway or byway you may choose at random, the autumn spectacle is breath-taking.

Already deep crimson Virginia creepers festoon the trunks of trees. Golden wild grape vines spill over rail fences. Bright red sumac bushes. Poplars and birches turning to bright gold, their leaves spinning in the wind. Wild mauve asters dotting the ditches.

Colour photography fans have itchy trigger fingers and buck fever from choosing the perfect scene in all directions at once. Artists are busy at their easels, leaving daubs of pigment on the brown grass.

Death In the Ditches

As you travel along some routes, you will think a plague has passed by. It is the work of township road committees trying to control obnoxious weeds by spraying with plant-killing chemicals. They have done a very effective job, so THEY think. Actually, they haven't effectively killed the weeds at all.

Weed root systems often remain unaffected and produce another weed crop the following year. It is possible for some seeds to ripen in the dead stalks and be sown.

Damage being done to roadside brush and young trees is appalling.

M. D. Kent, department zone forester of the West Trent, gives the following reasons why:

Trees and shrubs form windbreaks which prevent the wind erosion of fields left open in winter. Windbreaks reduced water evaporation from fields in summer and make them more resistant to drought.

Roadside cover gives protection and nesting sites for insect-eating birds that eat millions of harmful insects annually. Without birds our agricultural crops would disappear in a few years if insects were to spread unchecked.

Partridge and small game cannot survive in denuded ditches.

SUMMARY: The best means of suppressing obnoxious weeds is to promote the growth of trees and hedgerows. Multiflora rose bush plantings will occupy the space where weeds grow, cheap and permanent weed suppression.

That's what the man says, and we certainly agree with him.

The Stuff Dreams Are Made Of

September is usually the month of fabulous fishing luck. And this year has not let us down. Starting right at home, J. (for Finnegan) Hill of Robinson St., City, tussled with, and landed, a monster pickerel to the tune of 11 pounds, 5 ounces. Took it on a yellow bucktail and spinning rod up at Nassau.

What looks to be a world-beater black bass came out of McCauley Lake, ten miles northwest of Madawaska. Nick Zaykowski of Brantford was the lucky boy. The monster weighed 9 pounds, 2 ounces. He was trolling for grey trout with a copper line in 150 feet of water and hooked this great-great grandfather smallmouth instead.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Two small Lakefield girls, Patsy Jakins and Louise Anderson, found a dead carrier pigeon while on a hike along the River Road below the village. They found that the bird was banded and were kind enough to bring me the aluminum bracelet reading "CU 51—11946." The band held a numbered rubber patch 477. I shall return this information to Washington, D.C. for them. Thanks, girls.

Quinte district conservation officers have made the following observations in their section of the Trent; a slight increase in the number of deer and partridge; bears quite numerous—several farmers have reported damage to fruit trees and one track measured 11 inches long; duck population, about average.

Tiger-Cats Show Biggest Score In Yards Gained

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (CP). — The figures tell why Hamilton Tiger-Cats lead the Big Four football race with four victories and no defeats.

So far this season the team Carl Voyles assembled for his sophomore team as a Canadian football coach has picked more ground-gaining punch and offered a stouter defence than its three rivals.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press from official Big Four scorers' reports show that with combined air and ground the Hamilton team gained 1,793 yards in its four starts for an average of 448 a game. Opponents dented the Hamilton line for a scanty 924 yards—an average of 231.

Montreal Alouettes, tied for third place in the standings with Toronto Argonauts, ranked next to the Tiger-Cats in offensive power. The Montrealers gained 1,240 yards for an average of 310 picking up 586 rushing and 654 passing. They matched the Hamilton team in first downs with 66. But opposing teams have gained 1,158 yards, for a 289.5 average and picked up 54 first downs against the Als.

Close Behind

The Argos rank close behind the Alouettes in ground-gaining with a total of 1,200 for a 300 average. They picked up 731 yards rushing and 469 on passes. They made 52 first downs. Opponents gained 1,475 yards against the 1950 champions, a 369 average, for 60 first downs. The Argos lost 93 yards from scrimmage and 200 from penalties.

From the yardage standpoint, the second-place Ottawa Roughriders have the weakest attack and defence in the union. They gained 1,071 yards, a 268 average, while opponents made 1,849 for a 462 average against them. They made 59 first downs while opponents picked up 85. They lost 45 yards from scrimmage and 165 in penalties. Their total yardage gain was made up of 462 rushing and 609 passing.

GLUE-FINGERED END—Joe Shinn, one half of the famed Tulane Twins with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, is catching many important passes and making long runs to help keep his team undefeated in the Big Four. The other twin is fleet-running back Hal Waggoner.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Energetic Bill Fry, who guides the destinies of the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate series, came out with news Friday about the way two of his clubs have added strength.

Frank Gnup, who came from the United States to coach at Hamilton and played last season with Toronto Argos, has taken over as coach of the Peterborough entry.

The Orillia team has added three former players to its roster —Gordon Perry of Regina Roughriders, Susie Turner of North Bay who used to play with Toronto Balmy Beach and Jim Honey, former Winnipeg Blue Bomber.

McMaster University of Hamilton are putting the P. D. Rose Memorial Trophy on the line today against the University of Ottawa in the second annual clash between the two eight-oared boat crews at Ottawa.

McMaster won the trophy in the inaugural race last year when they battled a bitter cold wind and rough course to finish three lengths in front of the Ottawa crew with a time of 16 minutes and 42 seconds.

Neil Celley, former University of Michigan hockey star, reported Friday he has accepted the head hockey coaching job at University of Denver.

The 160-pound Leoneth, Minn., ace, forsook possibilities of a professional hockey career to take over the Denver post under a one-year contract. Celley had been reported doing well with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League in their training camp at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., when he accepted the Denver job.

Columbia's opening football game at Princeton Sept. 29 was cancelled Friday when illness of two Lions' players was diagnosed as polio.

Dr. Carl R. Wise, Columbia University medical officer, identified the players as Bernard Jansoon, an end, and Donald Page, a tackle.

Other members of the squad will be brought back from the camp, as originally planned, and will be checked every day by the team physician, Dr. Wise said.

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League captured the Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Chamber of Commerce Trophy by defeating Indianapolis Capitals 10-1 to take the fall training camp exhibition series in three straight games.

The NHL champions won the first two games 7-0 and 5-0.

Twenty-nine aspirants for spots in this season's Toronto Marlboros' entry in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series worked out Friday at Maple Leaf Gardens under the eye of coach Reg Hamilton.

Hamilton said he was pleased with the showing but he was "going to start from scratch and build the team up from the bottom."

Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League opened their fall training camp at Stratford Friday with 41 candidates on hand.

Included in the 41 were Pentti Lund, Fred Shero and Eddie Reigle, obtained from New York Rangers in a deal that sent Hy Buller and Wally Hergesheimer to the National League team. A second Lund brother, Joe, also reported for duty.

Turnabout Wins Lindsay Race

LINDSAY, Sept. 22. — Turnabout owned by McIntyre of Peterborough, had to go the limit in the 2.18 pace Friday to win over Buddy C. Grattan owned by Budd of Woodville. Every heat was a race, the best time being 2.16 3-5 for the mile. There was considerable juggling in the 2.25 race with six contenders, but The Admiral owned by Davey, Westport, managed to take the event with two firsts and a second heat.

Report John Quinn To Succeed Frick

BOSTON, Sept. 22 (AP).—The Boston Post says today that John Quinn, 44-year-old general manager of Boston Braves, will succeed Ford Frick as prsident of of the National League.

A baseball writer Joe McKenney says he has learned from a reliable source that Quinn is "the nearly-unanimous choice, if not the unanimous choice, of the presidents of the eight National League clubs" to take over for Frick when the latter assumes his new duties as baseball commissioner.

Prospects Good For Locals In School Grid

Peterborough football fans may have the chance to see both a senior and junior COSSA final game this year.

Early this year the COSSA district divided the small high and the large high schools into two separate divisions, "A" and "B". In both divisions there are teams in senior and junior competition.

Peterborough this year has the strongest, on paper, team in the senior "A" grouping which includes Belleville, combined Oshawa Collegiates and PCVS in the combined Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario district. The winner of this group will be host to the victor of the Georgian Bay and Niagara districts.

In the Lake Ontario district "A" junior grouping there are four teams, Lindsay, Oshawa Central, Oshawa CVI, and PCVS. The winner of this group, (from early indications perhaps OCVI) will playoff with the Bay of Quinte junior "A" in the COSSA semi-finals, the winner advancing into the finals on November 17 in the victor's town of the Niagara—Georgian Bay district playoffs.

A New Setup

Port Hope, Cobourg and St. Peter's High school this year are in the new junior "B" Lake Ontario setup. So far the Saints, whose team varies little from last year, appear the strongest. If they win the group, they'll play the winner of the Bay of Quinte "B" group on November 10 in the COSSA semi-finals, the winner entertaining the victor of the Niagara—Georgian Bay districts.

The Lake Ontario district has only two senior "B" teams, Whitby and Bowmanville High Schools. The winner there will play the Bay of Quinte, the winner going to the Niagara or Georgian Bay district for the COSSA finals.

Therefore should PCVS senior "A" win their small group and St. Peter's be victorious in the Lake Ontario and against the Bay of Quinte winner, there will be a double COSSA final in Peterborough November 17.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Tonight—if the weather is fine —we will hold the regular weekend "Family-Hour" mixed rink tournament, 7.30 o'clock.

That hurried - up mixed doubles tournament that was organized late yesterday afternoon and announced over CHEX at 6 p.m. went over in good style. The night was ideal—in fact just about as fine a night as we have had all summer.

Winners:

First—Mrs. E. Murphy and H. R. Martin.

Second—Mrs. R. Dyer and R. Dyer.

Third—Mrs. H. R. Martin and F. Dearborn.

Fourth—Mrs. H. Beatty and A. Mander.

Fifth—Mrs. R. Gamble and R. Gamble.

Sixth—Mrs. J. A. Knight and J. Adams.

Seventh—Mrs. F. Dawe and E. Jeffrey.

Each winner received a basket of fruit.

I. Cipen, one of our popular bowlers, has been quite busy the last couple of days, shaking hands and passing around the cigars. It's a boy.

Petes' senior lacrossers will be winging their way westward this aft and eve, leaving Malton at three by Trans-Canada Airlines. A 10-hour trip, but they have to change their watches an hour every so often enroute. They'll have Sunday to stretch their legs and get loosened up, taking a look at the arena floor where they'll be opening Mann Cup finals Monday night against the Vancouver Combines. A best-of-seven affair, games every other night except Sunday. Minus two or three of their season regulars, the squad will take on the necessary replacements. They're hopeful of bringing back the Canadian chmapionship within the next two weeks.

We'll be out there, too, covering the series. Got a good break when this paper decided to give readers special coverage. The Examiner will foot the bills, not the lacrosse club. We've been aloft only once before and that was a short flight. And, while we've bussed it to the West Coast in the States, we've never been in B.C. before. Sounds like fun, though there'll be lots of work to do, too. As mentioned yesterday, Bob Peirson and Doug Miller went a day ahead of the team to make sure of rooms when the boys arrive late at night. Some OLA officials motored out several days ago to see the series and attend a CLA meeting afterward. But more again on it.

Revamping The Orfuns

Next ORFU senior "B" fixture will be Wednesday night under the Morrow Park lights this coming week. Toronto East Yorks play the Orfuns, who dropped their first decision earlier to Oshawa. We doubt if they'll drop any more. The executive told Coach Frank Gnup—newly appointed to the job—that they expected a winning team this fall and weren't sparing any trouble or expense. Their first loss was a disappointment to all, but there's a capable new coach now and several more ace gridders on the roster. Gnup is really cracking the whip in drills, determined to mould a winning club in a tough grouping of Cobourg Ghosts, Oshawa Raiders, Orillia Bombers, Ryerson Tech and Toronto East Yorks, along with the Orfuns.

* * * * * * *

Personally, we see no reason why this shouldn't be a potent pack. The pick of last year's team, and some of them were good imports, plus new local talent—including police officers—and some more imports. A number of them have seen service in the Big Four and in senior "A" ORFU competition. And we have a coach who has always up to now handled clubs of higher calibre than this group. He's used to football of the college, senior ORFU, Big Four or Western Conference classes. Just watch the difference in the revamped Orfuns as they start rolling from here on in—you're in for some pleasant grid surprises.

Where Are TABA Victors?

Oshawa Merchants and Niagara Falls Fords are slated for the OBA final series, though the TABA hasn't sent a team into playdowns yet. How come? Maybe they're going into the senior "B" setup, which is about their speed. Kitchener columnist says Oshawa has offered the Falls $500 a game to compete in the senior ball finals. Intercounty Loop declined to send a club along the playdown trail. St. Kitts' scribe says: "As a tip, there's only one native son on the Oshawa nine, the rest being USA imports, and that Toronto story on them being ousted (along with Petes) from future Toronto loops didn't faze Oshawa a speck. They'll keep right on with payoff players, as an average of 1,000 a home game suited fans, and they were in continual hot water with the Viaduct League, anyway.

* * * * * * *

"However that was a disloyal item in the Toronto daily wherein OBA Fred Young was unwise enough to say that the seniors of Ontario ran their own loops and the only actual clubs were intermediate operators. Pres. Young might be embittered with the Intercounty and perhaps the eastern COBL and the Oshawa-Petes rebellion against a Viaduct ban, but he cannot put his own NDBA in the rebel class. They have played ball with the parent body from the start. Not every league in the province can say that with pride, either." Must be something wrong with the OBA if very few senior clubs will obey it, wouldn't you think?

Seeking To Bolster Syracuse Hockey Club

LINDSAY, Sept. 22 — Coach Frank Beisler indicated here on Friday that the new Syracuse Hockey Club is not going to depend entirely on the talent in camp now to gain a top spot in the AHL this season.

"We've got to have a better club than in Springfield last year" said the coach in announcing that owner Eddie Shore is looking for a couple of top defencemen and forwards to bolster the club for the 1951-52 schedule.

A veteran of 17 years in the AHL, Beisler figures the opposition in the league will be "plenty tough" this year.

With their home opener only three weeks away and a trio of exhibition games scheduled for next week in Quebec, the pace of the training grind quickened on Friday. The players began to rough it up during the one-hour scrimmage and tempers flared as the blueliner began handing out stiff body checks.

Beisler stated that he intends to alternate his two goalkeepers, Nip O'Hearn and Gord Bell, during the season. Both netminders have looked good, as did 17-year-old Ray Mikulan, who returned to school in Winnipeg after a two-day trial.

Royals Subdue Syracuse 18-9 To Take Series

By The Associated Press.

Montreal Royals, having dropped up all the team honors in the International League, returned home from Syracuse Saturday to wait for the American Association to decide their opponent in the little world series.

The American Association representative will be either St. Paul or Milwaukee. Milwaukee holds a 2-1 edge in their best-of-seven series. The first three games of the little world series will be played in Montreal.

The Royals, after winning the pennant handily, wrapped up their fifth Governors' Cup championship with just about as much ease. They whipped Syracuse Chiefs 18-9 Friday night for their fourth victory in five games.

Highest Score

Connecting with 15 hits off six Syracuse hurlers, the Royals ran up the highest score in the history of the Frank Shaughnessy playoffs.

Second-baseman Walt Fiala connected with four blows, including two in the Royals' nine-run eighth inning. He topped off the big frame with a three-run homer for a total of five runs batted in.

Veteran Bert Haas also drove in four runs to raise his total for the last three games of the playoffs to 11.

The Chiefs sent six hurlers to the mound in an effort to prolong the series with Jack Griffore, who went out in the second, being charged with the defeat.

Bagnaway Captures Straight-Heat Win

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 22 (AP) —Bagnaway captured a straight-heat victory Friday in the $5,000 big five trot, feature attraction of the Delaware Grand Circuit's final meeting. Times were identical, 2.04 3-5.

Hugh Bell was in the sulky. Saunders Mills of Toledo owns Bagnaway.

Both heats were driving finishes, with Arden Homestead stables' Florican from Goshen, NY, just missing.

In the conditioned pace, Bay Prince hit the wire in front in straight heats for owner L. P. Seeley of Whitehall, Ill., and driver Edgar Leonard. The purse was $1,000.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

New York Americans of the National Hockey League 12 years ago today announced signing Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson of the Toronto Leafs, plus six other experienced players, in a move to make the Amerks the "fastest and toughest" club. But the Americans didn't reach the playoffs that season and New York Rangers won the Stanley Cup.

CONVERT KICKER — Tip Logan, former Queen's University star, is building himself quite a reputation as Hamilton Tiger-Cats convert kicker in his first year in Big Four football. To Sept. 21, he had converted 12 which, with two touchdowns, placed him in second place in the league's scoring list.

Alouettes Try To Get Dunlap

MONTREAL, Sept. 22 (CP) — Lew Hayman, coach of Montreal Alouettes' of the Big Four, said Friday night negotiations are still in the talking stage as far as acquiring Jake Dunlap is concerned.

Dunlap, middle wing for Ottawa Rough Riders, has been reported willing to join the Alouettes providing he can be released by his club. Ottawa announced Dunlap was free to join the Larks.

Hayman said a decision may be reached early next week.

He said it was a practice of the Big Four loop not to release a player until each member club had voted on the matter. However, added Hayman, we haven't reached that point yet.

Meeting First

In Toronto Bob Moran, president of the Toronto Argonauts Football Club, said that Jake Dunlap, middle wing for Ottawa Rough Riders, can not play for Alouettes unless the executive of the Big Four holds a general meeting.

He said that a Big Four bylaw states categorically that a player who plays for one Big Four team in the course of a season can not be released to play for another team in the league until the following year. A meeting would be necessary to change the by-law and release Dunlap to Montreal, he said.

Red Wings Take Hawks 3-0 In Exhibition Tilt

SUDBURY, Sept. 22 (CP) — The champion Detroit Red Wings got off to a good start on the 1951-52 season here Friday night by blanking Chicago Black Hawks 3-0 in an exhibition game that was described as the first pre-season meeting in history between two National Hockey League clubs.

In spite of a heavy fog that blanketed the ice for most of the game, Goalie Terry Sawchuk kept the Hawks at bay to ring up his third consecutive shutout in as many exhibition games this season. Terry handled 28 shots compared with the 45 the Wings got against Harry Lumley in the Chicago goal.

The Wings opened the scoring at 8:43 of the second period when Tony Leswick pushed the puck in from the crease on passes from rookie Lou Jankowski and Red Kelly.

In the third period Fred Glover back-handed a relay from Metro Prystal past Lumley at 3:26, and at 18:07 rookie Larry Wilson got the third one on a break-away with Leswick.

Missing from the Chicago line-up were defencemen Jack Stewart and Clare Martin and forwards Doug Bentley and Max McNab. Martin was injured in a workout at North Bay on Thursday, while Bentley and McNab had not been out for practice before the game. Stewart will remain out of any exhibition games until coach Ebbie Goodfellow is certain that his injured spine is fully healed.

Bethany Wins County Ball Cup

BETHANY, Sept. 22 (ENS).— Bethany has won the Duncan Trophy again.

Playing errorless ball, Bethany decisively defeated Blackstock in Janetville Thursday to win the deciding game of the North Durham series and the Duncan Trophy. They won it last year also. The trophy is competed for annually and donated by W. J. Duncan, Viewlake.

Edmunds on the Bethany mound hurled steady ball throughout, holding Blackstock to four scattered hits. Reynolds, the catcher, starred with his performance at the plate. Gunn, Edmunds, Sisson and Stewart were other Bethany hitters.

Dysart and Cawker topped the Blackstock team at the plate.

Orono and Port Hope are tied with two games each in the South Durham league finals, the final game being played today. Next week Bethany will play the winner for the James Cup.

The lineups:

Bethany — Edmunds p, Reynolds c, Sisson 1b, R. Stewart 2b, Ryley 3b, Ginn ss, Rowan lf, McGill cf, Smith rf, A. Stewart rf.

Blackstock — Hayes p, Griffin c, N. Dysart 1b, Cawker 2b, Bailey 3b, W. Dysart ss, Crawford lf, Marlow cf, Grieves rf.

Referees—Tambly and Lowery of Orono.

Yankees Belt Red Sox 5-1 As Indians Fumble Game 7-6 To Detroit Team

By JOHN CHANDLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, gunning for their third straight American League pennant, sported a one-and-one-half game lead Saturday over the Cleveland Indians—the largest margin since Aug. 1. With the schedule rapidly running out, Casey Stengel's Bronx bombers belted the Red Sox at Boston Friday, 5-1, while the Indians were fumbling a game to the Tigers in Detroit, 7-6. The same four clubs hook up Saturday and Sunday, when the final wek of the hectic season begins.

For the Yankees, the "magic number" is six. New York has eight games remaining—seven of them with the Red Sox. If the Yankees can win six, Cleveland could cop all five of its remaining contests, but still would wind up in second place. The Red Sox are five games back, hanging on the mathematical edge of elimination.

Clubbed by Phillies

Meanwhile in the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers were clubbed by the Philadelphia Phillies at Ebbets Field, 9-6, as Robin Roberts hung up his 21st victory of the year. The defeat left the front-running Dodgers four games ahead of the idle New York Giants.

Brooklyn has nine more games to play, the Giants seven. The Bums can clinch the flag with five victories, even if the Giants win all seven.

Stengel calls on Ed Lopat to face Boston's Mel Parnell in a battle of lefthanders today. Lopat hit the 20-win mark for the first time in his career Monday when he beat Cleveland with three hits. He's 20-8 for the year, and 2-1 against Boston. Parnell, stylish Boston ace with a 17-10 mark, is 3-1 against New York. Boston still holds a commanding 10-5 edge over the Yanks in season play.

Al Lopez, the Cleveland manager, will fire Bob Lemon (17-13) against Detroit's Bob Cain (11-12) in the second game of their series.

Out In Front

Joe DiMaggio, back in the cleanup spot for the Yankees, lined a single to centre in the first inning Friday to score Yogi Berra and New York was out in front to stay. Four singles gave New York its second tally in the next inning.

Bob Feller, seeking his 23rd victory for Cleveland, blew a 5-0 lead to Detroit. Catcher Frank House hit his first major league homer to win the game in the sixth.

With Willie Jones banging a grand-slam homer in the first inning at Brooklyn, the Phillies ended the four-game winning streak of rookie Clem Labine who was knocked from the box for the first time in five major league starts.

Another rookie, young Jackie Collum—just up from Rochester—tossed a brilliant two-hitter for the Cardinals against the Chicago Cubs at St. Louis, for a 6-0 shutout. No other games were scheduled in either league.

Hatred Of Christ Found In Places Least Suspected

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The Bible is for the whole world. But how many "worlds" are in the Bible? Recently I searched through a concordance to find out how many times the word "world" is used in the New Testament.

I was truly amazed at the number of such passages to issue from the little land of Palestine, seemingly of minor importance among the great empires of the ancient world. Equally impressive is the number of references to the word by Jesus, the man from a tiny village in the hills known as Nazareth.

In spite of an environment that would have stifled many, Jesus glimpsed truths that were universal and from the very beginning delivered His message with a consciousness of the world about him.

Let's take a look at the first example of his awareness of the world. It began in that temptation (Matthew 4: 8-11), in which he saw the kingdoms of the world, with all the allurements of worldly power, but in which He chose the divine, not the human way, and set the fulfilment of His spiritual mission above all that the world could possibly have given.

The earthly Christ understood clearly and fully the meaning of that choice. I have been impressed with his many and persistent references to the world hating Him (John 7: 7, 15: 18; 17: 14, etc.), and that hatred of Him by the world of His own time stands out strongly when we observe, and reflect upon, the hatred of the world for the Christ today.

A worldly hatred of the Christ lies deep also in places where we might least suspect it. I have been reading recently rather extensively in the most popular and best-selling fiction of our time.

It is true that the novels of my late friend, Lloyd Douglas, were distinctly religious, and that other similar books have had similar, if not equal distinction.

But what has amazed me is the number of these best known current stories in which there is not on a single page the slightest evidence that either the authors or their characters, in these books produced in a "Christain" land, had either the knowledge of Christ, or the merest interest in the fact that Jesus, the great Teacher ever lived.

Hatred of the Christ in that respect is probably an unconscious factor, but surely it must underlie the sheer and gross paganism of so much of our litrature and life today!

Yet the world that hated Jesus was the world that He loved. His prayer for His followers was not that they should be taken out of the world, but that they should be kept from its evil; and even more that they should overcome evil with good. And to those who, like their Master, would be in the world, but not of the world, He gave a great message of hope and confidence: "Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

Health Topic WM Meeting

ROSENEATH, Sept. 22 (ENS) —"Health Before and After Forty" was the subject of an address given by Mrs. Hilton Eagleson, district president of West Northumberland Women's Institutes at the September meeting of Fenella branch, held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Percy Macklin.

It was also grandmothers' meeting; there were 17 grandmothers present, who assisted with the program.

The president, Mrs. Frank George, the secretary, Mrs. Percy Macklin, and the pianist, Mrs. N. C. Leach, were all grandmothers, as well as the guest speaker.

Mrs. Thomas Adams, 81, had the distinction of being the oldest grandmother and oldest great-grandmother present. She contributed a vocal solo. Mrs. J. Whitney carried off the prize for the youngest grandmother; four grandmothers tied for the prize for the lady with a knot of hair—Mrs. Beecher McDonald, Mrs. Solomon Leach, Mrs. Wilbert Macklin and Mrs. Thomas Adams.

Mrs. Frank George sponsored a lucky number contest won by Miss Marguerite Macklin; Mrs. Wm. Sandercock donated a prize for a lucky chair, won by Mrs. Thomas Adams. Mrs. J. Whitney conducted a quiz; the grandmothers were heard in a chorus; readings were given by Mrs. Solomon Leach, Mrs. Marcus Lonsberry, Mrs. Carl McNaught and Mrs. W. H. Sandercock, and a vocal trio of Misses May and Marguerite Macklin and Mrs. Ross Macklin.

During the business period plans were made to hold a quilting in the community hall on September 25.

The October meeting will be held at Mrs. Carl McNaught's home, with a speaker from the Cobourg Salvation Army.

65% Grads Of Collegiate Resume Study

Go To University, Normal School Take Other Courses

More than 65 per cent of last year's Grade XIII students at PCVS have carried on their studies this year at universities, normal schools, business colleges, nursing schools and chartered accountant courses.

A survey by Howard Moebus, director of vocational guidance at PCVS, indicated that the majority of the students are attending universities or normal schools.

The University of Toronto this year was the favorite choice for students with 12 attending. Queen's University attracted six while only one each is attending the University of Western Ontario, Ontario Agricultural College, and Royal Military College.

10 At Normal

This year 10 students from PCVS entered the Peterborough Normal school, two less than in the last two previous terms. Nursing schools were chosen by three students, chartered accountant course by one student, the RCAF by one, business college by one and the Provincial Institute of Textiles by one student.

One-quarter of the 1950-51 Grade XIII students are working in Peterborough and Toronto industries or in store offices.

Back at PCVS this year for a second attempt at some studies are six students.

Students are situated at: University of Toronto, Lorna Stewart, Patricia Johnston, Grace Hudson, Kay Grier, Mary Craw, Adele Rostocky, Barbara Eastwood, Donald Curtis, Edward Toal, Donald Pollock, Peter Turner and Drew Buckland.

At Queen's University, David Mitchell, Harold Frederick, Marleigh Snowden, David Fortner, Donald Allen and Joan Marie Lang.

University of Western Ontario, Nancy Brooks; O.A.C., William English; Royal Military College, Donald Northey.

Normal school, Hazel McIntosh, Colleen Dawson, Laura Horne, Gwen Todd, Betty Scollard, Evelyn Wallace, Dorothy Watson, Gary Stevenson, Margaret Heal and Betty Merrett; nursing, Mary Helen Mathews, Margaret Forsyth and Marian Jones; chartered accountancy, Edward Evans.

RCAF, Larry Shear; business college, Shirley Florence; Provincial Institute of Textiles, Alastair Fettes.

THE GREATEST FOREST RECLAMATION SCHEME in Canada, experts say, has been in operation for five years in Durham County's desert, the Ganaraska Forest. Members of the Ontario Conservation Association and the Ganaraska Authority noted its progress early this week. They drove through the badlands in 27 cars, Top Left photo. They saw what their reforestation plans might achieve in the Durham County Forest next door, Top Right photo, viewed the 20-year-old red and white pine plantings and were fieldlectured by Ed Youngman, the combined forests supervisor, Second from Left. One visiting member is shown on the rim of an 80-foot eroded gulch; Lower Left photo, typical of the ravaged Ganaraska district. Civic Hospital Hires Expert To Cut Costs

Will Cost $3,000 Hope To Save $25,000 Yearly

A $3,000 investment that may in time save Civic hospital $25,000 yearly was approved Thursday night by the board of governors.

The investment is a job analysis and re-training program to be done by a firm of business consultants whose Canadian head office is in Montreal.

The job, enthusiastically and unanimously approved by the board of governors, might easily be called one of efficiency engineering. Experts from the Montreal firm will study each department, set up an organization and departmental control for each, and as well institute management controls.

Special Attention

Particular attention will be paid to the housekeeping and dietary departments. These departments will get the same treatment as the others, but re-training program will be carried out as well by the consultant.

"It's a matter," said Superintendent John Hornal, "of whether the present staff would be called on to do more work or a reduced staff to do the same work."

Departmental budgets will be drawn up for these two departments.

In a report made recently to the board of governors, the consultants said that the savings resulting from the work done in the dietary and housekeeping departments would probably bring about savings in other departments as well.

Bargain

At Thursday night's board meeting, members were enthusiastic about the scheme. "It's a bargain at that price," declared Ian McRae.

Chairman of the board of governors, John Marshall, said: "We know more or less what needs to be done. What we lack is a man trained to do it. For $3,000 this firm will do the job and their work, they claim, may result in a saving of $25,000 a year."

The question arose at the meeting as to whether it would be possible to have the job done by someone on the staff. Superintendent John Hornal said it could be done, but it would cost $6,000 to train a man to do the job.

Mayor In Favor

Mayor Max Swanson spoke strongly in favor of the consultants' offer. He said it was the thing to do, but added that the board must make sure the suggestions and innovations are carried out.

Mr. Hornal, questioned after the meeting, said he was not sure that the savings would amount to $25,000 yearly. But, he said, it was a good idea to have the job done, even if it saved only a quarter of the amount claimed.

The re-training and re-organization, coupled with the policy of more rigid economy forecast by hospital treasurer T. T. Rodger, might well result in savings of $25,000 or more.

2 Take Courses In Civil Defence At Ottawa Camp

An educational program for members of the Peterborough Civil Defence organization will be conducted soon by two civil defense specialists.

Murray Metcalfe, assistant city engineer, and Dr. Harold Worton, city food and dairy inspector will be the specialists starting a chain of training courses that will develop throughout the organization.

Mr. Metcalfe has just returned from Ottawa where he took a three week course in civil defence rescue work. The course took place at Connaught Ranges, about eight miles north of Ottawa, and was under the Department of National Health and Welfare. Conducting the course were instructors who had recently returned from taking a specialized course in this work in England.

"The purpose of the course is to enable us to instruct people in rescue operation emergencies involving bombing" Mr. Metcalfe said today.

Mr. Metcalfe also explained that topics studied included rescue reconnaissance, use of essential equipment, elements of building construction and what to expect.

Starts Course

Monday, Dr. Worton will leave for the Connaught Ranges to take the civil defense general instructors course. Both he and Mr. Metcalfe were appointed to take this course by the local civil defense committee.

Dr. Worton's course will include instruction in organization, fire fighting, high explosive bombs, and atomic biological and chemical warfare.

Col. J. A. Dewart, chairman of the local civil defense committee said today that Dr. Worton and Mr. Metcalfe will give courses in this work as part of the committee's fall and winter activities. Attending these courses will be representatives from all parts of the city who in turn will give courses to people in their own districts.

Scattering Of Trees Start To Reclaim Desert In Ganaraska River Badlands

By NICK NICKELS

The southeast portion of Durham County did not differ from the rest of southern Ontario one hundred years ago. It was threaded with clear streams that teemed with game fish. There was not abnormal spring flooding because the giant forest soaked up moisture like a sponge. The woods were full of birds and game. It was a paradise.

It was until lumbermen saw the possibilities of turning these unlimited natural resources to the amassing of quick family fortunes. They attacked the forest with axe and saw. Savagely. And in a few years reduced this paradise to the most dismal wilderness in Canada.

Homesteaders helped, too. After the lumbermen were through they put the light forest loam to the plough. With the loam disturbed, the light sandy soil beneath was exposed. It just blew away. It has been blowing away ever since.

What does this wilderness look like?

Sand Plateau

It is an escarpment of sand overlooking the lowland valleys of the Lake Ontario shore country. The slopes of the escarpment are gutted and slashed with gaping canyons 80 feet deep. Small trickles of water run through them—you can span them with two hands—and the air is filled with blowing sand.

Here and there are sparse grassy "fields" that were once farms. Weathered stone foundations filled with ground drift are all that remain. Farmers drifted out with blowing sand years ago and their population to-day is less than half their number a century ago.

Each spring the town of Port Hope is ravaged by the flooding Ganaraska River as it boils over the town's low limestone banks. The water is a tawny yellow, colored with millions of tons of silt from the badlands escarpment to the north.

Formed Association

Town fathers became so alarmed five years ago that they formed an active association to battle the cause of these floods. Their first step was to help nature restore herself, up in the county's badlands. The association was formed by members from the town and the townships of Manvers, Cavan, Hamilton, Hope and Clark. They called themselves the Ganaraska River Conservation Authority. This was in 1946.

Each year these six combined municipalities, from the start put, $5,000 into the pot to buy as many acres as possible of the badlands. To date they own 3,600 of these acres with more than a million young trees. It is the Authority's dream that eventually the Ganaraska forest will cover 20,000 acres within the next half century.

Tuesday, 20 carloads of Authority and of Ontario Conservation and Reforestration Association members drove through the badlands project to see what gains, if any, they were making for nature. They were impressed.

Durham Forest

As a start, the motorcade drove to the Durham County Forest, another project started 20 years ago by the Department of Lands and Forests, which adjoins the Ganaraska. Here they saw the result of white and red pine plantings, now a generation old, young forest that is producing eight cords of merchantable timber per acre per year. It was a heartening sight, something to shoot at.

What a comparison they found in the forest next door!

But there were very definite signs of the results of their hard-headed dreams. The barren rolling hills were ribbed with planting furrows and, if one observed closely, four-year old seedling pines could be seen. There are more than a million of them all told.

The members stood on the precipices of deep eroded gulches and saw work of the department, which manages both forests, living mats of willow cuttings are gradually anchoring the light soil of the banks. To the west, they saw the clumps of Carolina Popular and Black Locust bushes that held the shifting sand in their strong root systems.

"It is the best example in Canada of the most results for the least expenditure I have ever seen," said the Provincial Minister of Planning and Development, the Hon. William Griesinger

Members of the Ganaraska Authority were pleased to hear that statement. They knew they would never live to see a sturdy pine forest like the one next door in Durham Forest. But they knew that generations to follow would bless them for their foresight.

Thieves Steal $30 At Garage

Thieves early today broke into Gilder's Service Station on the Chemong road and stole $30 in silver.

They pried open a window on the south side of the building to get entry. Once inside, they tried the cash register which contained no money and then removed $30 that was in a bag on a shelf.

That apparently ended the hunt for there was nothing else missing and the place was not ransacked. The only damage was to the side window.

The service station remained open to 1.30 a.m. today and the breakin occurred between that time and 7 a.m. when one of the mechanics arrived to open up the station.

Provincial Police were called in and Constables T. H. Armstrong and Jack McKendry are investigating.

Anybody going upstairs in the Public Library to see the Wallis collection or the current exhibit of paintings month by month, has his eye catered to outside the upper door. That wall is held by the Peterborough Camera Club. Sometimes the two or three "photographs of the month" are as interesting as the exhibits inside. Now, for instance, is a nice camera study of the interior of Gaspe church by R. Williamson, and a harvest field scene by E. W. Glover.

75 Head West To Help Harvest

Already 75 Peterborough and district men have headed west to help the Prairie Provinces' farmers with the annual wheat harvest.

The situation is still considered critical, said William Mellis, manager of the National Employment Office, and "we will send more men if we can get them".

The 75 men from Monaghan, Douro, Smith, Otonabee townships and from Millbrook and Lakefield, are now working with the harvest. They were first sent to Winnipeg and then distributed to the farms in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Five More

Since the last group left Peterborough on Thursday another five have applied at the district office for the annual excursion. These men, according to Mr. Mellis, will either leave today or Monday.

So far the Peterborough contingents equal last year's total which went West.

This year the prevailing wages for experienced men of farms in the West vary between the areas but are presently from $6 and up a day with board for stooking and somewhat higher for threshing.

When the weather prevents work, the board only is provided.

Every person given transportation assistance by the government is required to do farm work in the West and must stay there until at least November 30.

This year 12 Prairie Provinces' farmers came east in July to help with the harvest in Peterborough and district. They stayed until the harvest was completed and then returned west in time for the beginning of the fall harvest there.

Last year 20 Westerners came to the Peterborough area.

Cement Handy In Repairing About House

Keep a small quantity of Portland cement on hand for household repairs. You will find it very easy to preserve if you keep it in a moisture-proof container such as a covered tin can or glass jar.

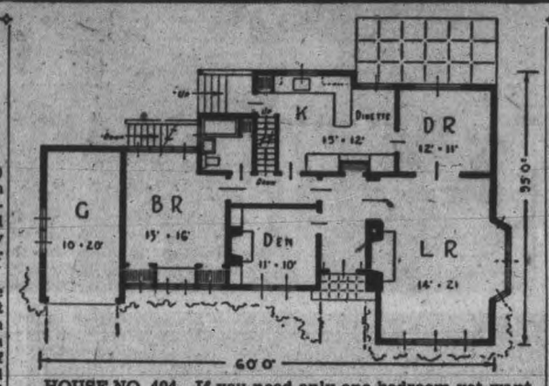
Cement is very handy in repairing cracks in cement flooring or imperfect joints in the wall. Small repairs of this sort can usually be made by using cement alone, or preferably, by the use of cement mixed with one or two parts of sand.

As a specific example of such a repair, let's suppose that a narrow crack has developed in a concrete basement floor. First, chip away the concrete on both sides of the crack to the width of approximately ½-inch and a similar depth. Clean away carefully, all loose material. Next, saturate the concrete along the crack with water. Do this thoroughly so that the concrete will absorb as much water as possible.

Now make a thin cream of water and cement and with a small, stiff brush apply it freely to the side of the channel which has been chiseled out. Mix a sufficient quantity of 1:2 mortar, adding to it only as much water as is necessary to handle it readily with a trowel. Fill the channel with this mortar completely. After the mortar has dried it is a good policy to keep the floor in the vicinity of the crack wet for a few days by covering it with wet sand or burlap, or by sprinkling it frequently. This will insure a good bond between the fresh mortar and the old, and proper hardening.

Repairs of points in brick, tile stone and concrete block walls can be made in a similar manner if you will add about 10% of dehydrated lime, based upon the weight of the cement. For such repairs, however, work out the old mortar and then follow the same procedure as was given previously. A similar mixture may be used for plastering a brick wall. Make sure the wall is thoroughly clean and saturated with water before applying the cement.

Cement may be used in filling cracks in laundry tubs; holes where water and gas pipes enter the basement; furnace casing and fireplaces; joints and breaks in drain pipes; repairing breaks and cracks in concrete walks and steps; connecting smoke pipes to chimneys, and in patching stucco. Before repairing the last three items, however, keep in mind the fact that such cement patching is not always good looking, so unless the repairs are essential for the maintenance of the walk, steps or stucco, it is better not to make them than to have a plaster patch as a constant eyesore.



HOUSE NO. 494—If you need only one bedroom yet want all the other advantages of a full-scale home—this sprawling, modern-style home will be sure to interest you. When the owners showed us through their five well-arranged rooms, we were much impressed with the livability and character in evidence. All traffic is carried by the central hall. While the living room is something to remember, the rooms that really caught our fancy were the den, with its fireplace and built-in bookshelves, and the kitchen-dinette. The house is heated by oil, with hot water convectors.—For working drawings write Home Building in Canada, 472 Bay St., Toronto.

Canadian Press Work Praised

FREDERICTON, Sept. 22 (CP)—"The reputation of the Canadian Press for "objectivity in presenting the news of the day is well founded and internationally recognized," Premier J. B. McNair said Friday.

"Certainly it can be said of the member newspapers in this part of the country that this reputation is safe in their hands," he told a luncheon of newspapermen of the four Atlantic provinces, held in conjunction with CP's annual East Regional meeting.

"Such a reputation is not easily come by and is, I am confident, being jealously guarded. Our citizens may well be proud of the newspapers and the co-operative news service which is sponsored by them."

Business sessions included a panel discussion on "CP Service—How the Members Can Improve It."

Premier McNair, main speaker at the luncheon given by the Fredericton Daily Gleaner, said that a trend towards monopoly in the newspaper field imposes even greater responsibility on the press.

This trend arose from the high cost of newspaper production plus competition from other quarters, resulting in a steady decline in the number of newspapers.

Curriculum Talks Held In October

TORONTO, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Ontario's first school curriculum conference will be held Oct. 12 and 13. Teachers, trustees, parents, university lecturers and Department of Education officials will discuss curricula drawn up by boards throughout the province.

The conference results from adoption of the Porter Plan which was announced a year ago. The plan proposed decentralization of authority in the planning of courses.

Recover Body In Lake

BEAVERTON, Sept. 22 (CP)—The decomposed body of an elderly man was recovered from Lake Simcoe Friday night and police said it might be that of one of the five members of the Fletcher family drowned at Stroud July 22 in Ontario's worst drowning tragedy of the summer. The body was clothed in a light blue shirt and blue trousers.

Record Seal Catch

TROMSO, Norway — (CP)—Sealers report record catches in all parts of the polar basin east-southeast of Spitsbergen. The season is not over but 254,000 killed seals have been landed here compared with 112,038 seals for the full season last year.

Fussy Penguins

LONDON—(CP)—A King penguin chick hatched in Regent's Park zoo has fussy eating habits. Feeding is done by either of the parents, the chick being kept on the parent's feet and covered by a fold of the bird's body. The diet: regurgitated fish.

Landscaping Plan Improves Value And Beauty Of Property

Landscaping is a necessary part of a new house. It provides an attractive setting for the house, increases the value of the property and makes comfortable and convenient outdoor living possible.

The proper arrangement of flowers and shrubs can lend eyeappeal to a home and garden and express the individual character and tastes of the family owning it. Certain basic plantings are needed on any small property—trees for shade, flowering shrubs for background, seasonal flowers for that extra touch of color, and evergreens for both appearance and protection from winter winds. Of course, the actual landscaping pattern will depend on cost, individual wishes, and the surface features of the property.

A good, long-term landscaping plan will allow you to develop your property from season to season in keeping with what you can afford. The first step is to decide how much foliage is needed for shade. A large maple will provide protection from the sun in summer, and a dash of color These are life insurance or trust and loan companies that have agreed to lend money for the construction of houses under the terms of the Act. A list of these companies may be obtained from any office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. There are two ways in which you can attain ownership of a house under NHA. You may purchase a house built for sale by a builder or you may have a contractor build a house for you. If buying a house already built, you make your down payment to the builder and assume the existing mortgage. In this case it is necessary to consult the lending institution that handled the builder's loan to learn what is required of you as the buyer. If you hire a contractor to build a house for you, it is your responsibility to arrange the financing and also superision of constructon from start to finish.

Under the NHA a prospective home-owner may borrow up to 80 per cent of the lending value of the house and lot. Lending value is the appraised value of the house and lot or the owner's estimated cost of the lot and construction, whichever is the lesser. The maximum loan obtainable for a one-family dwelling is $8,500.

The owner's investment must be put into the property before any advances are made on the loan. The first advance is generally made at the roofing stage, or when a quarter of the work has been done. Subsequent advances are made at the plastering stage and on completion of the house.

May Ease Policy On Gold Price

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — The International Monetary Fund soon may relax its policy of trying to hold sales of fabricated gold to $35 an ounce.

Canada, South Africa and other major gold-producing areas have favored such a step for some time. The US has opposed it in the past.

Here is the new picture, as drawn by monetary authorities here:

The official monetary rate at which the US will either buy or sell pure gold is $35 an ounce. From this base, the fund approves official exchange and evaluations of currencies of member nations—they are worth so much in either gold or dollars, which are interchangeable.

Increasingly, however, in recent months, some gold has been slightly processed and sold at higher prices of $38 to $40 an ounce, ostensibly for industrial, artistic and professional puroses.

Graduate Loan Fund Started At Western

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 22 (CP)—Immediate establishment of the first graduate student loan fund at University of Western Ontario was announced Friday by the board of governors.

Designed to assist post-graduate students at Western help finance further education, the fund has an initial capitalization of $2,500. The money was raised from profits of the student supply store and other sources.

Tom Roskin, counsellor to men at the university, said Western has never had a fund to aid post-grads, although there have been several funds established for undergraduates. Other Canadian universities with large post-graduate schools have had graduate students loan funds for some time.

Alexanders Give Up Bedrooms To Royal Visitors During Trip

By DOUGLAS HOW.

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (CP). — Like a lot of other folks, the Governor-General and Lady Alexander think they should give up their bedrooms for special guests.

The special guests are Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh who will spend a night at Government House early in their Canadian tour.

By the laws of Royal precedence, the Governor-General outranks the Princess in Canada because he represents the King here. His flag will fly above hers over the great stone building.

But Lord Alexander and Lady Alexander apparently think it would only be courteous and kind to give up the best rooms in the house to their guests and preparations are being made for that.

Lady Alexander has already moved to another room so her bedroom—used by the Queen in 1939—can be redecorated in time for the new Royal visit.

It is a sunny, semi-circular room with four large windows looking out on sweeping grounds and flower gardens. Its walls are being painted a soft pink. Its large grey carpet has been taken up for the redecoration job, and the room is almost empty. The bed has been taken apart and stands outside in a hall.

Have Eight Rooms

Of roughly eight rooms the royal couple will be in—there are 70-odd in the building—this is the only one being redecorated.

The prince's room is just across a red-carpeted hall. It is the Governor-General's room and his numerous decorations stand in three glass cases in it. On the walls and bureau are pictures of his family.

Downstairs are the rooms where a glittering assembly of government, diplomatic, church, and other dignitaries will come that night, about 100 of them, to dine in the vast ballroom where huge paintings of the Princess' grandparents will look down on the 90-minute banquet.

The dinner, replete with 30 waiters, champagne and other wines, five courses and a red-coated military band playing in the wings, will be a sight such as Canada seldom sees. The princess, replying to a toast by the Governor-General, will speak into a microphone hidden behind flowers. Her voice will be broadcast by the CBC.

Later 300 other guests will arrive in two groups according to their eminence and position and join the 100 cabinet ministers, privy councillors, high commissioners and few ambassadors who have dined with the Royal couple.

They will remain, chatting and moving about, until 11 o'clock or so—three hours after the dinner starts. The signal to go will come when the princess starts moving around among a few guests saying boodbye.

In the selection of guests, the authorities have ignored the cold war. Those invited include heads of the Russian and other Iron Curtain missions in Ottawa.

Plan Tourist Fare

LONDON, Sept. 22 (CP—Pan American Airways announced Friday it's going to fly "tourist" passengers across the Atlantic next summer at 33⅓ per cent American vice-president Willis less than present rates. Pan Lipscomb said his company plans to establish a "tourist" class of passengers who would pay a maximum fare of $250 for the flight from New York to Shannon, Ireland. The present fare is $375 and that goes up Oct. 1 to $395.

Sell Hitler's Granite

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 22 (Reuters)—Six thousand tons of Swedish granite ordered by Hitler in 1940 for victory monuments have been sold to Soviet Russia for about $196,000. Hitler refused delivery in 1943 when the war turned against him. It is believed the Russians are using the granite for decorating new stations on Moscow's subway.

Good Fixtures Found In Best Plumbing

The water supply, and drainage systems of the house, included in the general name of plumbing, are of the highest importance. The materials chosen should be good but beyond this, the man who does the work must be capable. The competent plumber is familiar with the principles of mechanics and hydraulics which govern his work, and in some provinces he can only practice his trade under licence. Before he is allowed to undertake regular work he must undergo a rigid examination. He must live up to all building-code regulations in the performance of his work under penalty of losing his licence. As a consequence the builder of a home is protected and in a measure guaranteed a plumbing system that will be adequate and efficient.

Comply With City Code

In building a house in a rural district the owner could not do better than employ a well-known workman for the plumbing job and insist that all the regulations of the city code be complied with.

In a locality where water comes from a community system, mains are tapped at the street line. Supply pipes leading from the main to the house are of different sizes for different sizes of houses.

For the average house of 2½ storeys a pipe of 1-inch diameter is considered sufficient. Pressure at the outlets of pipes on the upper floors should be five pounds to the square inch if automatic flush valves for toilets are to be installed. The amount of pressure is governed not only by the pressure in supply pipes but by the number of bends and joints in all the pipes of the water system. While the 1-inch pipe is sufficient for average conditions, a larger pipe is needed where solid matter or chemical content of the water L. likely to cause filling or corrosion.

Quality Of Pipe

Water pipes are of copper, brass, steel, black or galvanized, wrought iron and lead, giving the builder a wide range of choice. Copper pipe lasts longer and can be used in smaller sizes because it does not rust. The choice between iron and steel should depend upon the corrosive action of the water.

Pipes should be laid on a grade. The stops of horizontal piping should be about one-tenth of an inch toward the main supply pipe. This will drain sediment toward the lead-in at the basement wall where an outlet valve for the drainage of the whole system is installed. All lines should rest on hangers at intervals of not less than 10 feet. A sleeve for the pipe should be provided wherever it goes through a wall. Expansion in pipes due to heat is overcome by loops or bands.

Power Failure Marks Opening Of School

BARRIE, Sept. 22—(CP)—A 45-minute power failure Friday night marred the official opening of Codrington Public School by Premier Frost.

While 2,000 persons waited for the lights to go on, flashlights and automobile headlights were used to supply some light in the building. After the power was restored, the public address system temporarily went out of commission.

H. W. Barnard Buried

The Rev. H. Ludlow Yarr, assisted by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, Grace United church, conducted the funeral service Thursday in the Bailieboro United church for Henry Wilbur Barnard, 86. Mr. Barnard oldest resident of South Monaghan died suddenly at his home Monday.

Pallbearers were: I. B. Pengelley, Robert Kelly, Harold Barhard, Charles Barnard, William Thompson and Neil Thompson. Burial was at the Bailieboro cemetery.

Engineer Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Murray Calder Hendry, hydraulic engineer with the Ontario Hydro Commission for 30 years, died Friday. He was responsible for the early surveys in the proposed St. Lawrence River power development.

GETTING TIRED of dark woodwork which was standard equipment not many years back and still looming darkly in countless homes.

Light-Finished Woodwork Will Brighten Dark Room

Spring or fall cleaning time seems to touch off the decorator urge, too.

A lot of people, for instance, are getting tired of the dark woodwork that seemed to be standard equipment not many years back and still looms darkly in countless homes.

Being dedicated to the easy way of doing things, we can think of no better recipe for getting light where there's darkness than painting over the old woodwork. When the walls are painted, too, woodwork done in the same color (with a slight gloss finish for easier washing) creates the happy optical illusion of making small rooms look larger.

If you persist in a natural finish for your woodwork, however, you've got to start by getting things back down to bare wood again.

You do this with a liquid paint-and-varnish remover, sandpaper, steel wool, and an ample supply of elbow grease. After you've gotten rid of the old finish, carefully following manufacturer's directions on whatever remover you use, go to work with the steel wool, following with fine sandpaper.

Sometimes—but not very often—you'll wind up with woodwork that's light enough for your taste at this stage. If the old stain went in too deep to be sanded away, you've got another step to take—bleaching. Use a prepared wood bleach or a solution of eight ounces of oxalic acid crystals in two quarts of hot water (careful: it's poison). Brush it on and let it dry, using several applications if necessary, then rinse thoroughly with clean fresh water.

Now you're ready to sandpaper again, using very fine paper until you have a surface as smooth as glass. After you've cleaned things up with a dust brush or a cloth moistened in turpentine, you can go ahead with the new finish.

For a natural finish that will be no darker than the wood itself, use shellac or varnish. You can go ahead and stain the whole thing all over again if you keep it light enough, finishing with shellac or varnish in this case, too, or with a penetrating wax of appropriate color.

One particularly popular finish these days is a silver-gray stain, highly adaptable for white oak woodwork. "Pickled" finishes seem to give happy results, too.

One way to achieve this effect is to mix white paste wood filler with turpentine until it's like thick cream. Apply it freely to the bare wood. When the sheen fades out, wipe coarse cloths across grain. Let it dry for a day, sand lightly and shellac.

Since houses of the dark woodwork era often have built-in sideboards or buffets and dining room furniture finished in the same forboding tones, once you've taken care of the woodwork you can apply you new skill on these, too.

Investigation Ordered In Slapping Of Pupil

TORONTO, Sept. 22—(CP) — Donald Russel, chairman of the Lakeshore Board of Education, said Friday he had ordered an investigation into the alleged slapping of a Grade 8 pupil by a teacher at a public school in suburban Long Branch.

Twelve-year-old Carol Black says that her teacher, Stephen Knight, slapped her across the face when he thought she had talked back to him.

Love Letters Introduced In Murder Trial

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 22 —(CP)— Pretty Mrs. Adele Vinslovas said Friday that she wrote three letters to Wasyl Krawiec, now on trial on a charge of murdering 29-year-old Jonas Norkus, a railway section worker at Agawa, 130 miles north of here.

Norkus was found stabbed to death on the porch of a railway section house at the lonely hamlet on the morning of July 22.

Mrs. Vinslovas told the court she wrote the letters "only for fun." All three were read to the jury.

Later the 25-year-old wife of a railway section foreman described a party the night of July 21 at the section house.

Attending the party, she said, were herself, Norkus, Krawiec, and Mr. and Mrs. Milevoji Bozic, once a German lawyer, and now is a laborer. All five persons drank wine and danced, said Mrs. Vinslovas.

Become Annoyed

She told the court that Krawiec became annoyed when she refused to dance with him. He went into the kitchen and returned with a butcher knife, which he stuck under his belt.

Soon after, said Mrs. Vinslovas, she went upstairs because her two young children began to cry. When she came down she saw Norkus holding his hands to his chest and moving across the room toward the kitchen.

Later, she said, she found Norkus lying on the back porch dead.

"Wasyl took me by the hand and he kicked the hand of Norkus," said the witness. Then, with a rifle in one hand and a knife in the other he threatened to kill her if she told police he killed the section worker.

The trial is continuing.

Man-Eating Tigers Menace Workers In Malayan Jungle

By LIONEL HUDSON

SINGAPORE, (Reuters)—Man-eating tigers are a growing menace today in Malaya, where the bulk of the population is already living in daily fear of Communist terrorists.

Thriving, ferocious families of tigers are on the prowl and they are becoming bolder, according to the latest up-country reports.

Malaya's tigers have multiplied rapidly during the last 10 years while people have been preoccupied first with an invasion, then with enemy occupation, and now with armed insurrection.

Hunting the tigers has become foolhardy. There are too many Communists in the jungle with guns waiting to take a shot at the hunter.

The olive-green jungle which covers nine-tenths of Malaya has become safe for wild animals only.

Best ime Ever

Game authorities say that tigers have rarely had it so good. There were never more unmolested wild pig and deer on the hoof in the jungle for the tigers. Well-fed cats have larger litters.

The worst tiger menace is on the sparsely-populated East coast area. So far this year at least 20 civilians have been killed by tigers in Trengganu, a state lying inland from Malaya's East Coast, near the Thailand border.

This is more than the total number of civilians killed by guerrillas in Pahang, Trengganu and Kelantann in the same period.

Attack Rubber Workers

Not long ago the big cats were content to snatch dogs and goats from village outskirts. Recently, there have been numerous reports of them lurking near rubber plantations, slinking through the undergrowth to pounce on the rubber tappers when they reach the rows of rubber trees closest to the edge of the jungle. Some tappers, never knowing as they work among their trees at dawn whether they are being stalked by a man-eater, now refuse to go out alone.

As one planter remarked: "The tappers can usually pay off bandits but tigers do not need protection money."

Pius Vendergon, a seasoned hunter on the East Coast, attributed the spate of killings by tigers to the fact that security force patrols and guerrillas may have shot and wounded tigers in the jungle.

When a Tiger has once been wounded, he said, it will attack any man on sight even after the wound has healed.

But an experienced British army guerrilla hunter stated that troops on patrol would not usually dare to shoot at jungle animals for fear of giving away their position to the enemy. And the guerrillas are believed to be so short of ammunition that they would be unlikely to waste bullets on tigers except in self-defence.

Kitchens Are Now Becoming Eating And Living Places

The latest trend in kitchen design goes back to Grandma's time. Nowadays homemakers are turning their kitchens into comfortable eating and living places where the whole family can have a good time. Among the cozy comforts being re-installed in some kitchens is the old-fashioned rocking chair. When kitchens first began to go modern they were inclined to be strictly hospital-like—white and black predominating, with an antiseptic air. Now women are kissing the laboratory type of kitchen goodbye.

During World War II American families rediscovered how much fun you can have at home. They also learned how to get along with little or no household help. Since women were doing their own cooking, with just the family pitching in, they dreamed of making their kitchens more attractive. Sine the war they've been doing just that.

Nowadays most families want a place where they can have breakfast, maybe lunch, and certainly snacks; and they want it right in the kitchen, or opening from it. As these breakfast nooks and snack galleries and lunch bars have crept in they've influenced and given a lift to kitchen decoration.

Invasion of Color

First of all, color has invaded kitchen walls. We've been using darker and more subtle shades. These are usually called "decorator" colors and have been stolen from living rooms. Violet-blue, chartreuse, forest green, shades of cherry and poppy, deep grays, eggplant, are only a few of the new colors. Paint companies have been alert to this trend and have co-operated. Harmonizing floor coverings and counter tops have helped. And of course there are the new colored cabinets and ranges.

Washable wallpapers are getting away from dull stereotyped designs. A company producing a widely-known washable paper has new patterns and colors that it considers more interesting than anything it has ever done. Another company has a fascinating group of wallpapers with a three-dimensional effect. They are plastic and reproduced from sculptured surfaces. Their pattern comes from the play of light and shadow on their textured surfaces. While expensive, they are extremely durable. One design has vertical lines and ridges and gives the effect of striated wood. Another has a charming bamboo design. Both are suitable for kitchens. But one word of caution: close heed must be paid to directions when these are applied.

Papers In Drapery Designs

You can also get wallpapers in the same design as some of the toile used for window draperies. One newly decorated house uses the toile curtain material in a dining space opening onto the kitchen, and the matching wallpaper in the kitchen itself.

The decorative possibilities of brick are being played up. In renovating, brick kitchen walls are now welcomed. If they are old red brick, with charm and mellowness, they may be left as is. Or the brick may be painted white. In many new kitchens, also, brick is playing a part.

Pine paneling, as well as redwood, also is being used. Like brick, they may be found in kitchens planned to duplicate the Early American period in decoration as well as in the most modern kitchens.

Handsome Floors Possible

Floor coverings are handsome and versatile, Linoleum comes in many designs and colors, and helps make present-day kitchens handsome. Asphalt and rubber tile also come in wide variety and fit beautifully into kitchen decorating schemes. Ceramic (clay) tile makes an elegant kitchen floor; here again the color possibilities are wide. Wide pine boards in old houses, newly renovated, are often scraped and waxed.

Counter tops make use of plastic materials, linoleum, clay tile. We have also rediscovered the virtues of marble (for bread and candy making and cake frosting among other things) and maple (for cutting and chopping). One type of kitchen cabinet has counter tops of heavy black plastic with a stainless steel trim. But, if desired, one of the base cabinet tops may be ordered in molded maple —perfect for chopping, slicing, and cutting. This cutting top, like the old-fashioned butcher block, means that you don't have to get out and put away a separate cutting board each time you want to slice bread, trim meat, or cut vegetables.

New Trends In Curtains

Curtains for windows show new trends. Various fabrics and every type of pattern and color are used. White cottage type or tailored nylon curtains are simple to wash, need no ironing, and the dirt seems to "slither" off them. Cotton prints in small allover designs in several colors often repeat the colors of the room. Glazed chintz—plain colors, floral designs and stripes—are popular. And many women are making curtains of plastic material. Some windows continue their decorative valances along the sides. These may be scalloped pine or wide bands of stiff pleated material.

Lighting fixtures vary from the conventional type to the new pull-down arrangement from Scandinavian countries. Fluorescent tubes are popular. If they are used, choose the color carefully. Blue tubes may have an unhappy effect on kitchen colors and foods. The fluorescent tubes that range from white to yellow are best for the kitchen.

Accessories Galore

Kitchens have gone pleasantly accessory mad. Copper molds — old ones and reproductions—are used to give a gleaming effect. Old iron trivets—or reproductions of them—are often used decoratively on kitchen walls. A collection of these may be hung or they may be used in pairs. The trivets may be brought to the table and hot foods placed on them. They are especially useful when round. Copper-clad cooking utensils are so modern in design that they are often served from at the table, and they look stunning on these old-fashioned trivets.

Plants still hold their own in kitchens—as they did in Grandma's time. But nowadays we are more likely to use them with striking decorative effect. Instead of scattering our pink or red geraniums, we line them up in attractive pots on the sill of a casement window over a sink.

Shelf For Cookbooks

With more and more people collecting cookbooks, and with so many new ones being published each year, many kitchen-planners are making a place for them in the kitchen. Old pine shelves—or reproductions of them—may be hung and used for the cookbooks. Spices and herbs in glass bottles, or in old-fashioned wooden spice boxes, also enliven the culinary scene.

Modern kitchen furniture is likely to be functional, with practical seat covers for chairs. Leather, leatherette, or a plastic material that can be easily cleaned are good choices. Many homemakers have a desk in the kitchen where they can make out shopping orders and menus and pay bills.

It all spells out a better time in the kitchen for Mother—and for the rest of the family, too.

FLORENCE CHADWICK, the first woman to swim the English Channel in both directions, has a broad smile and a wave for her admirers as she arrives at New York's international Airport from England. With her is her father, Richard Chadwick. The San Diego, Calif., swimmer said her first plan was to take a dip in the hotel pool. She hopes eventually to have her own sports program.

Useless Doorways Turned Into Attractive Shelves

Conversion is a fine challenge for the handy husband around the home, whether he starts out with an old-fashioned house or a re-made apartment.

The challenge lies in what to do with left-overs. For some reason, people seemed to need a lot more doors in the old days than they do now, and when you take over for modern living you're bound to find a lot of potential space eaten up by doorways that are either gaping frames or paneled-over monstrosities.

A friend who's a newspaperman, and therefore has a lot of books to stow away where he lives, converted leftovers like this into handy recessed bookcases and even added a shallow cabinet underneath.

First thing he did was to get rid of the latch-plate, the remnants of hinges, and the wooden lip against which the door closed. After this surgery was accomplished with screwdriver and chisel, there were an amazing number of coats of paint to come off to bring everything down to the level of the unpainted wood exposed by the wooden lip.

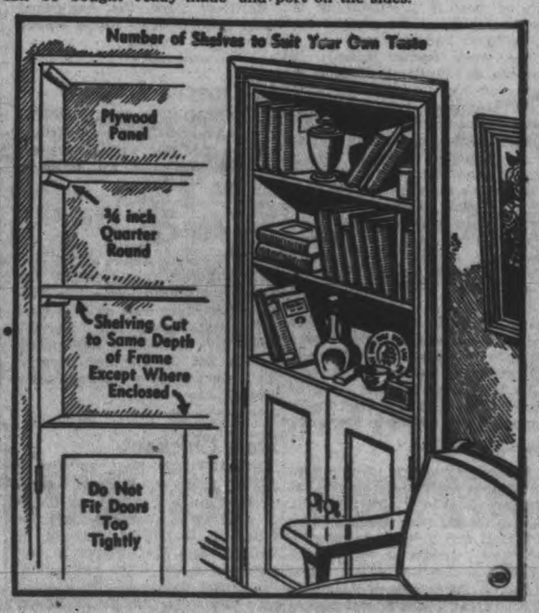
Next come the shelves and the stirrups they'll rest on. This takes careful measurement. For a doorless bookcase, have the shelves cut to the exact depth of the door frame. If you want doors, they can be bought ready-made and cut roughly to size. But subtract their thickness from the width of the shelves to be enclosed. One good arrangement is a bookcase-and cabinet combination — the lower shelves enclosed, the upper ones open.

Lengths of three-quarter inch quarter round, screwed against the frame, make good footholds for the shelves.

The doors follow the shelves into place. Some planing and sandpapering is going to be necessary to make them fit. Also, it's wise to trim a little extra—so the doors will fit just a little loosely. Remember the paint will add some thickness.

The last, triumphant step is fitting the back panel. One large sheet of plywood should do it. And, if you've measured properly, it will sit flush against shelves and frame alike. But before screwing it into place, have someone hold it there for a minute while you run around to the other side and trace the center of each shelf with a pencil.

Drill a screwhole at each center mark you've made. Now the panel goes up, you screw it into place—and put a screw through each of the center holes, good and tight. This eliminates the possibility of any crack between shelves and panel—and also give the shelves a center support, as well as support on the sides.



YOU'D NEVER THINK that this attractive bookcase-cabinet was once a useless doorway.

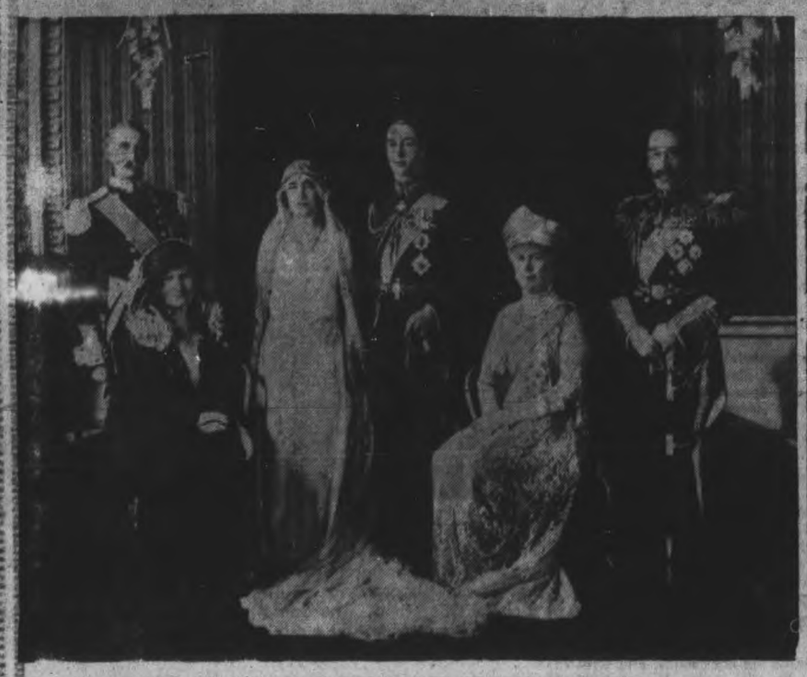
COMMONWEALTH PRAYS KING BE PRESERVED DURING OPERATION



ROYAL WEDDING—When the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes Lyon were married in 1923, the possibility they would become King George and Queen Elizabeth seemed remote. This photo from United Kingdom Information Office shows Their Majesties with King George V and Queen Mary on the right, the Earl and Countess of Strathmere and Kinghorn, the Queen's parents, on the left.

CLOSE TO PEOPLE—Throughout his reign, King George has always been close to his subjects. No occasion is too formal to prevent him from greeting the people he rules. This photo shows the King and Queen with Princess Margaret chatting with exhibitors at the Scottish Women's Rural Institute exhibit at the Royal Highland Show at Inverness.

VISITS CANADIANS—During the Second World War, none of the Royal Family spared themselves. While Canadian troops were stationed in England, they were visited many times by Their Majesties. Here in this photo, His Majesty the King inspects members of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, "Somewhere in England."

The first houses on the site of Edinburgh were grouped together on Castle Rock about AD 900.

First flight of an airplane powered by a successful gas turbine jet engine was in England in 1941.

51 NCO's In Princess Pats Adopt New Baby Of CO

OTTAWA, Sept. 22—Baby Victoria Patricia now has 51 fathers all in Korea.

She was "adopted" recently by the sergeants and warrant officers of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. They presented a silver baby porridge set to her real father, Lieutenant-Colonel (Big Jim) Stone, of Edmonton, officer commanding the battalion.

Regimental Sergeant-Major Les Grimes said the battalion had been given two honors—"the Unit Citation from the President of the United States and the birth of Victoria Patricia." In a large squad tent used as a sergeants' mess, Lt.-Col. Stone accepted the gift, promising to send it home at the earliest opportunity to his newly born daughter.

The Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment is also named Victoria Patricia. When wealthy Montreal manufacturer Hamilton Gault raised the battalion in the First World War he asked Princess Patricia, daughter of the Duke of Connaught, then Governor-General of Canada, to lend her name. She is now Lady Patricia Ramsey.

UK Promises To Halt Import Discrimination

GENEVA, Sept. 22 (Reuters)—Britain Friday night replied to criticism from Canada, France and the Netherlands with a promise that she will remove discrimination against foreign imports caused by her "utility" goods system.

Sir Stanley Shawcross, president of the Board of Trade, made the promise to the general agreement on trade and tariffs conference.

The three delegations had accused Britain of not only failing to keep her promise to remove discrimination but of extending the discrimination by recent revisions of utility specifications.

Recall Decline In King's Health

LONDON, Sept. 22 — (AP).—The following is a record of the King's recent decline in health:

November, 1948—Doctors ordered a prolonged rest owing to a blood clot in the leg.

March 12, 1949—Operation performed to remove clot which doctors later reported completely successful.

June 1, 1951—Doctors announced there was a small area of catarrhal inflammation in the King's lung.

June 12—Physicians advised the King to take a long rest.

August 2—The King left London for a vacation at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

Sept. 1—Doctors travelled to Scotland to examine him.

Sept. 8—The King visited London for further examination, including X-rays.

Child 6 Accidentally Kills Mother With Gun

FOUNTAIN FALLS, Ont., Sept 22 — (CP). — Mrs. Dennis Dunn, 26, was killed in her home here Friday night when a .22-calibre rifle held by her six-year-old son Brian, discharged accidentally.

The child was playing with a brother Hugh, 4, and picked up the loaded weapon, which had been standing in a corner. The bullet struck Mrs Dunn, wife of a hydro worker, in the head. She died an hour later.

Average Stock Exchange Investor Confident On Wobbly Market

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The average Stock Market investor just doesn't believe the experts.

More than a month ago markets in New York, Montreal and Toronto launched a sustained drive that carried prices to the highest levels in more than 20 years. In the latter half of the rise, market observers, traders and other professionals grew progressively pessimistic. The market was overextended, they said.

They're still chary—but the "little man" has jumped right in.

For two weeks on the Toronto exchange the average daily volume has been more than 4,000,000 shares. The bulk of the turnover—the heaviest in many years—has been in low-priced "penny" issues. Base Metals and Western Oils have shared investor interest about equally. Bay Street traders say that the public is participating on a larger scale than it has for a long time.

Little Impression

Apparently the flunctuations of this week's markets made little impression on the enthusiasm. Experts themselves were divided on whether the irregularities indicated normal profit-taking or the beginning of the general reaction many had predicted.

The week opened briskly in Toronto as industrials climbed to a record high within the first hour. Supply slackened abruptly, however, and prices closed lower. Papers pushed moderately higher in Montreal but found little support in other sections.

Tuesday's sales in Toronto once again started auspiciously but support soon weakened and prices slipped. Only Base Metals fought the trend successfully. Papers dipped sharply in Montreal and were followed by industrials.

Prices climbed slowly in Toronto Wednesday as the market fought to reverse its two-day reaction. Base Metals and Western Oils displayed most of the strength with industrials finding most of their support in the final hour. Papers gained slowly in Montreal.

Industrials Higher

A brief mid-session rally pushed industrials slightly higher at Thursday's close in Toronto. Papers weakened sharply in Montreal and industrials eased.

Friday, gradually dwindling support in Toronto eased prices to their third decline of the week. Papers edged upward in Montreal but industrials weakened.

Radio issues fought gamely in New York Monday but failed to halt a lower trend. The decline followed Friday's 1951 high. A two-phase rally failed again Tuesday as radio-TV and utilities advanced against a weakening market. Railroads showed the greatest weakness and individual issues strengthened.

Heavy Rush

Many key issues turned back Wednesday but the list, as a whole, struggled higher in a vigorous fourth-hour climb. A heavy rush for a handful of stocks Thursday sent the market to a 21-year high. The Associated Press average stood at its 1930 record of $100.60. Profit-taking and weekend selling dropped the market almost a point yesterday. Rails started strongly but weakened in the final hour.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials down 2.47 at 357.81, golds down 3.86 at 83.55, base metals up 4.01 at 196.18, and Western Oils down .69 at 119.47.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .35 at 29.48, utilities up .5 at 88.8, industrials off 5.8 at 243.8, Combined off 3.7 at 192.1, papers off 10.51 at 875.72 and golds off 1.57 at 68.15.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 10 cents to $100.30.

Ask Special Prayers

LONDON, Sept. 22 (CP) —The Archbishop of Canterbury Friday night called for special prayers for the King in all Britain's churches Sunday.

Killed By Car

WATERLOO, Sept. 22 (CP) — Robert Tuck, 6, was fatally injured by an antomobile late Friday three miles west of here. Carl Fritz of St. Agatha, Ont., described as the car driver told police he did not see the boy because the sun's glare momentarily blinded him.

Stole Chickens

STRATFORD, Sept. 22 (CP)—Joseph Miller of Rothesay, Ont., pleaded guilty Friday to a charge of stealing 15 chickens from the farm of Wesley Armstrong of Wallace and was ordered to pay court costs and make restitution. Six others facing similar charges were remanded to Sept. 28 on $1,000 bail each.

Citrus Fruit Polio Preventive

SHELBURNE, Sept. 22—(CP)—Citrus fruit, particularly oranges, may be a poliomyelitis preventative, Health Minister Phillips said Friday night.

Addressing a joint meeting of the Shelburne and Orangeville Rotary Clubs, he described research done by Dr. Klenner in Virginia which indicated that an increased consumption of Vitamin C—contained in oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes and some other fruits—could act as a polio repellent.

He recommended that persons take a double amount of Vitamin C during the polio season, July to November, and a "normal" amount the rest of the year. By normal he meant two oranges a day.

Interesting Relic

COPENHAGEN (CP)—An artificial finger made of bronze, soldered with silver and provided with ball joints was uncovered during excavations at a medieval castle. Archaeologists say the finger must have been used 400 years ago and thus it is the oldest artificial limb ever found.

Not Enough Money

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 22 (CP) — This hurricane-battered island will have about £10,000,000 ($29,500,000) to help cover damages of about £16,000,000 when all loans, grants and voluntary pledges are received, it was estimated Friday. More than 150 persons were killed, crops were ruined and heavy property damage was caused when the hurricane slashed the island late last month.

Defy Board Ruling

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 22 — (CP). — Some Lakehead grocers Friday defied a ruling of the Ontario Milk Board by selling cash-and-carry milk at 22 cents a quart. The board had set the store sale price at 21 cents, with the maximum delivered price 22 cents. A few dealers abided by the board's ruling effective Friday. But at least one in Fort William sold milk at 23 cents.

Good Floor Show, Is Arranged For Tartan Ball

The Tartan Ball is again the first big formal dance of the year and its popularity is as great as ever, possibly greater, as evidenced by ticket sales, and Pipe Band members are hard pressed to look after demands.

The floor show this year is to commence at ten o'clock and the band sent to Hamilton in competition this summer will play the competition tunes. Then will be heard what seems like an odd combination—bagpipes and accordion. Those who have heard the real Scotch tunes by the two operators of these instruments declare they are truly wonderful.

It is planned to have some time allotted for those who would like to do an eightsome reel or highland fling, but there will be plenty of time for modern dancing to the Club Aragon band.

Draw prizes to be given are worth in the neighborhood of $100, and there will be favors for every lady present.

"Don't Feel Right Unless Busy" Builds Store

WINDSOR, Sept. 22 (CP). — A Windsor housewife is creating a stir in building circles here as she puts finishing touches on a 40-by-50-foot cement-block store which she is building by hand, by herself.

She is Mrs. Alphonse Gaudette, whose daily round includes taking care of her husband, two sons, a daughter and her mother. In season she takes part-time employment at a nearby canning factory.

Her chief occupation now is putting up the store, which she expects to use as a furniture display room. She has put in foundations, outside walls, a steel beam room covered with 1,800 pounds of tar and has laid the cement for the floor.

When the store is completed Mrs. Gaudette plans to start work on a concrete-block cottage.

"I don't feel right," she explained, "unless I keep busy all the time."

Mrs. David Nixon Hostess To WA

NORWOOD, Sept. 22 (ENS). — Mrs. David Nixon was hostess to the Woman's Association of the United Church on Thursday. The president presided.

"ROYAL TOUR"—A ball gown designed to delight any woman planning a special gown for the Canadian visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, is this creation by Angele Delanghe of London. Called "Royal Tour" it is in green brocade starred in gold, has skirt fullness falling from low hipline and a deep cuff-top to emphasize the bustline. Shoulder straps are wide and a tiny peplum at the back gives the effect of a full train skirt escaping from the confines of jacket tails.

Determine "Not To Panic" Want Parley On Inflation

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (CP).—The Canadian Association of Consumers will urge the government to call a national conference of industry, trade, labor, agriculture and consumer representatives to clarify each group's responsibility in the country's battle against inflation.

This was the final upshot of a two-day meeting of the association's board of directors which probed into the reasons for price climbs and sought means of holding down prices, short of outright price control. The association has decided "not to panic" and not to approve of a measure which Canadian women may later regret.

One other measure aimed specifically at holding down prices was defeated. This move from the floor was to get the government to impose an embargo on the shipment of beef to the United States, thus providing more beef to the Canadian market at possibly lower prices. The majority of opinion was that this would cut down Canada's chances of earning American dollars.

The association also urged: That the down payments required to get a National Housing Act loan for the purchase of a new house be cut down by the government to the level before credit restrictions were imposed; that the government declare tea and coffee as foodstuffs and remove the 10 per cent sales tax on these items; that both federal and provincial governments should recognize "fair trade" principle of having consumer representation on all price-fixing bodies, including provincial dairy commissions. The meeting also urged that Canadian housewives, wherever practicable, buy Canadian fresh and processed food products rather than imported.

DOROTHY DIX

Should Use Lonely Hours For Constructive Activities

DEAR MISS DIX: What can a young mother do with lonesome evenings when her husband works nights? I have two children, aged 3 and 1. My husband was recently transferred to a more lucrative job on the night shift and while the added money comes in very handy. I get so lonesome in the evenings. The babies are in bed by six, my housework done, and neighbors don't like to spend time with a lone woman. I read some, and watch television to pass the time until my husband returns at twelve. I wait up for him so I can fix something to eat when he arrives. Any suggestions will be greatly appreciated.

ANSWER: A change of routine as drastic as yours does entail a period of readjustment that seems very difficult at first. You will soon get used to it.

As the initial step in getting the problem licked, view the situation in a different light. Just because you aren't on the same household timetable as your neighbors doesn't mean you must be lonely. Don't regard these evening hours as a dreary interval of "time to kill". Turn them into a constructive period of accomplishment.

You Can Learn Skills

A new activity will make the hours fly and midnight will come as soon for you as it did for Cinderella. For instance, learn a new handicraft. If you don't already sew, learn to! Or add crocheting or knitting to your household arts. Look through a new number of a shining woman's magazine (the best reading I know for a busy housewife). Find an interior you like; copy it or use it as a basis for decorating schemes of your own, work on which can easily be done evenings. Have you a piano? If you can play it, improve your skill! Get a group of other young mothers together. Let their husbands baby-sit one evening a week and gather them at your house for sewing and feminine chit-chat.

As you watch a beautiful bedspread or a lovely sweater grow under your nimble fingers, you'll wonder how you ever dreaded lone hours of idleness.

DEAR MISS DIX: How can a woman of 40, who has kept steady company with a man the same age for two and a half years, get him to propose marriage and really do something about it? He tells me he loves me and I should take my time waiting for him. I have tried breaking off with him, as I thought he wanted his freedom, but he felt terribly hurt. I really love him, and think he feels the same about me, but I am getting tired of waiting. He is very shy, but I hate to have to push him into something.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Men of this age can be very irritating to the women who love them. Years of bachelorhood have given them established ways which they hate to contemplate changing. On the other hand, the companionship of a woman, the good meals she cooks, the harmonious home atmosphere she provides for an evening's comfort, are also factors to be reckoned with. So our gentleman of 40-odd years finds himself torn between keeping his independence and assuming the responsibilities of matrimony. Of course this is all most unfair to the lady involved, and there really isn't much you can do to rush a reluctant suitor. Bluntly telling him you're tired waiting and want to break off might work, but you have to know when to act on this idea. The wrong moment, psychologically, may spoil everything.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 16 and a freshman in school. My people are unable to keep me in school any longer. If I stay, I'll have to work nights and the studies are difficult for me as it is. Do you think I'd be wise to quit school, go to work and finish my course at night?

C. E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think you have hit upon the best solution for your own case. Going to school at night, taking just the courses you need, will be much easier for you than struggling with the regular day curriculum. You will also ease the financial burden on your family, and have a chance to save a little money yourself.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: I enjoy your column very much. I have two recipes for pickles that I make each year and always have good luck. The first is a crisp sweet pickle called

Icicle Pickles (contributed by Mrs. C. W.)

One gallon cucumbers, 1 cup salt; make a brine by adding water and let stand for a week. (I split mine lengthwise and let stand only 3 days.) Drain and cover with boiling water. Stand 24 hours. Drain and split pickles lengthwise. Cover with alum water—1 tablespoon powdered alum to every quart water. Let stand overnight and drain, in the morning. Cover again with boiling water and let stand 24 hours. Drain and cover with the following solution: 2 quarts white wine vinegar, 7 cups white sugar, 1 tablespoon celery, 2 tablespoons cinnamon buds, (these last 2 tied in cheesecloth bag). Drain off and reheat the syrup 3 days. Put spice bag in each time you reheat, and add I cup sugar each time of reheating which makes 10 cups sugar altogether; also add 1 tablespoon alum last time you reheat syrup. (Mrs. C. W.)

Dill Pickles (Contributed by Mrs. C. W.)

To each quart jar of small cucumbers add a piece of dill to top and bottom of jar, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper, to the top of each jar. Make a syrup of 4 cups vinegar, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup water; pour over cucumbers in the sealers and seal. While jars are still hot put them in the boiler full of hot water, and cover them over with blankets and let stand. This drives the spices into them, and cooks and seals them. Mrs. C. W.

Best of luck with your column. Hope you will like these two recipes as this is the first time I have written you. Mrs. C. W.

Answer: Thank you for the recipe for Icicle Pickles especially, and for reminding me of them. I have tasted these before. They are so crisp and clear they are quite different from ordinary cucumber pickles. Let me help you sometime.

Note to Readers Who Make Icicle Pickles

Mrs. C. W. speeds up the curing process of the cucumbers by splitting them then putting in the brine. If you do not split them give them the full 7 days in brine and split them after this.

QUESTION: Professional boarding houses are desperately required everywhere . . . built on high land, no basements, 2 storeys high, 20 single rooms upstairs, hot-water-heated, insulated, air-conditioned flat roof, with full laundry and cooking equipment, with minimum board and washing rate $38.50 per month paid in advance, especially for pensioners. A splendid business proposition for farm couple. (This idea was) originated by women's societies in U.S.A. in 1949 and is spreading fast with government subsidies. Geoge C. L.

ANSWER: I have printed part of your very detailed and interesting letter. If there are any readers who would like to have Mr. Geo. C. L.'s address because they are interested in this modern idea of professional boarding houses with community privileges I will give it to them, or will forward their letters to him when they write.

I would be interested in knowing how your panama-hat-cleaning job turned out.

QUESTION—Please give me ingredients for white cake using 4 egg whites no yolks—just ingredients—I know how to make the cake. Molly.

ANSWER: 2¼ cups sifted cake flour, 1½ cups sugar, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ cup soft shortening, 1 cup milk, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, 4 egg whites (½ cup).

NOTE TO OTHER READERS: If you would like details for making this white cake without yolks please write to me.

Street Corner Ramps Built For Carriages

MOOSE JAW, Sask—(CP)—An experimental baby carriage ramp has been "officially opened" at a main street corner here.

The ramp is a cement runway cut through the sidewalk curb to lighten the load for Moose Jaw mothers when pushing their carriages from the sidewalk to the roadway—or vice versa.

Mayor L. H. Lewry presided at the "official opening" with J. H. Poston, city works superintendent, and the ramp contractor.

If the innovation—advocated by Mayor Lewry for two years—proves successful, more ramps will be built at other main street corners.

At any rate, the ramp has provided a big hit with the "carriage trade." It is located just far enough back from the corner not to interfere with normal pedestrian traffic.

Use New Colors In Fall Clothes

LONDON—(CP)—The British color council recently staged an exhibition showing new colors for autumn and winter. It presented tableaux depicting hour-by-hours occasions in the day of a woman's life.

For the morning shopping the motif was inspired by the familiar symbol of London street life—the costermonger's barrow with its pyramid of colorful fruits. Aster pink, a pastel shade, was introduced; crimson leaf, a rich autumnal color; aconite yellow and bronze green (a variation of foliage green) and a sophisticated color called smoky lilac.

With correctly selected accessories, brightness can be brought to morning jobs by women wearing these colors.

Glade green and autumn crocus were suggested for the matinee or concert and for the cocktail hour, colors might be worn in plain ensembles such as rutland green, sweet lavendar, chestnut pink and crimson leaf with matching or contrasting accessories.

For dinner, sophisticated styles suggested were red wine and opera violet, while nightshade violet and autumn crocus were regarded as dignified colors for all ages.

For gala occasions there was rayon jersey in chartreuese yellow and chestnut pink; moss crepe in venetian pink; sweet lavendar taffeta, crimson leaf and black brocade.

What's Right?

A couple tells you they are soon going to be grandparents.

WRONG: Kid them about getting old.

RIGHT: Never, even in fun, point out the unpleasant side of happy news.

6—In Memoriam

CAVALIER—In loving memory of our darling, Jane Cavalier, who was killed five years ago, September 23, 1946.
A beautiful memory dearer than gold,
Of a darling whose worth can never be told.
Alone unseen she stands by our sides
And whispers, don't grieve, death cannot divide.
Deep in our hearts her memory is kept
Of one we loved and cannot forget.
And though the years may be many or few,
We will always be thinking dear Janie of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Gramma and Grandpa and Aunt Barbara and Harold.

DECK—In memory of mother, who passed away two years ago today, Sept 23, 1949.
Memories. —Daughter Una and family.

DECK—In loving memoy of mother, Mrs. Albert Deck, who passed away Sept. 22, 1942.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by husband and son Bert.

JEWELL—In loving memory of Mrs. Annie Jewell, who passed away Sept. 22, 1950.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by husband and daughters.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ELIZABETH HEWETT

Mrs. Elizabeth Hewett of 1500 Main St., Buffalo, died suddenly at her residence on Friday in her 57th year. She was born in Glasgow, Scotland, daughter of the late Samuel McKinlay and Elizabeth Murdock, and came to Peterborough in 1911. She has lived in Buffalo for the past 25 years. Her husband, Charles Hewett, predeceased her in 1946.

She leaves three sisters Mrs. J. Jones (Margaret), in Australia; Mrs. Jean Lashbrook, Mrs. W. H. Wheeler and brothers Alex and William McKinlay, all of Peterborough. A third brother, Nathaniel, lives in New Toronto. Mrs. Hewett was an adherent of the United Church, a member of Peterborough Eastern Star, Lodge 161, and of the White Shrine of Jerusalem (Australia).

Funeral service will be held on Monday at the Kaye funeral home at 2 p.m.—The Rev. H. D. McCormack of St. James United Church will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. AMELIA J. BRADBURN

Mrs. Amelia Jane Bradburn of 49 Arundel Ave., Toronto, died on Friday at her residence following a short illness. She was 81 years of age.

Mrs. Bradburn was born at Selwyn, Smith township, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Boyce, and has lived nearly all her life in Peterborough. Her husband, Henry Thomas Bradburn, predeceased her in 1948.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Cora Mortimer of Toronto. There are three sisters, Mrs. Charles Jordan (Hannah) of Deep Cove, BC, Mrs. Ed Fitzgerald (Florence) of Birtle, Man., and Mrs. Elizabeth Bell of RR 3, Lakefield. Mrs. Bradburn was a member of George Street United Church.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at the Belleghem Funeral Home at 2 p.m. The Rev. A. A. Mathews will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

WILLIAM LOUKES

William Loukes, 78, a resident on the Alderville Indian Reserve near Roseneath all his life, died suddenly Friday in Cobourg hospital.

He was born on the reserve, son of the late William Loukes and Ellen Crowe. He was a former postmaster and former member of the Alderville council. A member of Alderville United Church, he was also a former member of the church choir.

He leaves two sons, John D., Alderville and Alfred, Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. Irven Smoke (Ellen), Alderville; and two sisters, Mrs. Christopher Marsden, Alderville and Mrs. Frank Joblin, Sutton. His wife, the former Stella Gray, predeceased him 35 years ago.

The funeral arrangements by the McMillan funeral home, Roseneath, will be announced later.

Washington Revises Cheese Import Order

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (Reuters)—The United States Department of Agriculture has revised its cheese import order to make sure that each cheese-exporting country receives its proportionate share of the US market even under existing reduced shipments.

The revisions in the Cheese Importing Order were announced by the department when it revealed procedures for determining cheese quotas for US importers who began business after 1948.

The order was amended, the department explained, to allow any US importer of cheese to base his quota on the amount of cheese he had previously imported from each individual country. Previously, an importer had to base his quota on his total quantity of cheese from all countries.

Bigger Shipments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Bigger and faster United States arms shipments were reported in military and diplomatic circles Friday to have been promised to French and loyal Indo-Chinese forces battling Communists in Indo-China. Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, commander-in-chief of French and Indo-Chinese armies, is said to have obtained these assurances from defence and state department officials during talks which began last Friday.

Time For Canadians Support Democracy

SUSSEX, NB, Sept. 22 (CP)—"Now is the time for every Canadian to get out of the bleachers and take part in the game so democracy can survive," George A. Drew, National Progressive Conservative leader, told an audience of nearly 1,000 here Friday night.

Mr. Drew, winding up a short Maritime tour, said there never was a time in history when it was so necessary for every Canadian to take an interest in politics.

Mount Pleasant Wins Second, One More To Go

Mount Pleasant Supertests took a stranglehold on the city fastball championship Friday night with a convincing 8-3 victory over the Mutuals at the Bowl. The win gives Mount Pleasant a 2-0 record in the best of five series, the third game scheduled for Monday night.

Errors by the Mutuals, mostly in the infield allowed three runs to cross for the Supertests and that edge affected the outcome of the game considerably by giving them the edge throughout.

Mount Pleasant sent a run across in the first inning and had men on third and second when play died. They added a second in the second inning as the Mutuals pushed their first across. The Supertests scored two each in the fourth and fifth to take a healthy 6-1 lead and then gathered in two more in the seventh while the Mutuals scored one each in the sixth and eighth.

Two Men Acquitted Of Attempted Rape

WHITBY, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Richard Finely, 62, of East York township, and Andrew Brown, 27, of nearby West Hill, Friday night were acquitted of attempted rape.

A Supreme Court jury deliberated more than six hours before bringing in the acquittal. Mr. Justice Wishart Spence told the jury members that if he had been one of them, he "would have reached the same decision."

Earlier, a married woman told the court that two men tried to pull her into a car.

Frightened To Death

WHITESBURG, Ky., Sept. 22—(AP)—Magistrate E. B. Addington said Friday that Bradley Breeding and Gail Ison are accused of "frightening" Constable Jim Combs to death last Saturday night. He said a coroner's jury reported that Combs, 55, apparently died of fright when a number of shots were fired in his direction. He was not hit.

Narrow Escape

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22—(AP)—A policeman's broad back Friday came between Richardon Jackson and possible death from a 35-foot fall. Patrolman Jerome E. Fitzpatrick saw the 27-year-old painter topple from a ladder, stepped into the path of the falling man and used his back to break Jackson's descent. Both escaped serious injury.

Cabinet Meeting

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (CP)—The federal cabinet met Friday and is understood to have considered some of the legislation to be presented at the fall session opening Oct. 9.

Old Age Inmate Remanded In Wounding

COBOURG, Sept. 22—(ENS)—Mike Manchuri, who was last week found guilty of wounding James Forbes, fellow inmate of the counties home for the aged, was remanded until Monday for sentence when he appeared in police court yesterday.

Douglas Chamberlain, 18-year-old Bancroft youth, was also remanded to Monday on a charge of failing to allow sufficient room in passing another car. Crown witnesses were not present and the case had to be laid over.

James Duff, Roseneath, paid $25 and costs on a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. Duff struck another car near Roseneath and didn't stop.

A charge of careless driving against Gordon Thomas, of Peterborough, manager of a drive-in theatre near Lindsay, was dismissed yesterday when Magistrate R. B. Baxter accepted his story that defective brakes caused the accident. Provincial Constable W. Baluk, of Cobourg, said that he had encountered difficulty getting the details of the accident from the accused as he was taken to hospital with serious head lacerations and was hazy about the accident. However, an examination at the scene showed that the car had skidded and gone 150 feet along the shoulder of the highway near a curve at Bewdley, went back on the pavement for 90 feet and then along the shoulder of the road for 75 feet until he hit a culvert and toppled end-over-end for 36 feet.

Thomas said he had had his brakes adjusted at Lindsay but they were grabbing, but as he had to drive the theatre staff home he couldn't wait for them to be fixed again. At the time of the accident, a car had suddenly slowed up in front of him for the curve and as there was an oncoming car he applied his brakes quickly and they grabbed and threw his car out of control.

An old customer at police court, Eldon Smoke, Alderville Indian, appeared on a drunk charge yesterday. Just out of Burwash, he told the magistrate that he had a few beers to celebrate his release and as he had not been used to drinking for some time, it hit him harder than normally. Magistrate Baxter warned him to stay away from drink, fined him $25 and costs and promised that if he came before him again he would lower the boom.

Two Minor Accidents Damage Four Vehicles

Two minor accidents were investigated Friday by police. No one was injured, and damage was not extensive in either case.

A car and truck were damaged when they collided Friday afternoon at Mark and Hunter Sts. Campbell Rowatt, 400 Dublin St., was driving west on Hunter and at Mark St., a truck, northbound on Mark, turned left into Hunter St. The truck was driven by Keith McCoy, 603 Donegal St.

The left front fender of Rowatt's car and the right front of the truck were damaged. Constable W. A. Scott investigated.

Two cars, driven by Charles Gordon, 759 Brown St., and Richard Doris, 747 St. Mary's St., were slightly damaged when they collided in front of 500 Chamberlain St.

Gordon was parked in front of that address and after looking for oncoming traffic, pulled into the traffic lane. He said he didn't see Doris' car coming west on Chamberlain St.

Recalls Strawboard Days In Paper Industry Thos. McCook Now Retiring

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22 — (ENS.)—Citizens of Campbellford took off their hats this week to Thomas McCook who retired after 60 years with the pulp and paper industry. Mr. McCook's achievement is believed to be without record. He has been superintendent of the local plant of the Gair Company of Canada, and although he is now superannuated, his services will still be available in an advisory capacity.

Of Scottish extraction, Mr. McCook was born in Seymour township a short distance from Campbellford. He attended school near the village of Meyersburg, and at the age of 14 started work in Campbellford at the paper mill, which at that time was the only one of its kind in this part of the country.

He drove a horse and light wagon as his first job, but since has worked at every job in the mill, weighing and drawing straw, firing, back tender, machine tender and finally superintendent.

Likes Horses

A familiar figure wherever horses are shown or judged, Mr. McCook's main hobby was horses and horse racing and until recently, he kept a good driving horse. He felt this was the only sure way of getting through the snow drifts in the winter months.

Had 12 Teams

In the early days of the pulp and paper industry in Canada, the main product was strawboard, straw for which was purchased from farmers in the surounding country. To haul this to the mill the company kept 12 teams of horses. Owing to his knowledge of horses, Tom did the buying when replacements were required to keep the horse power up to full strength. He still can remember the cold winter mornings when the teams would leave the local plant at four a.m., travel miles in the frosty air before daybreak, and finally arrive at their destination. After a cold lunch they would load up and start for home, sometimes in a blinding blizzard or drizzling rain. Often as not, the teams would have to stop and double up in order to get the loads up the long steep hills. The men would pull into the mill at nine or 10 o'cock at night unload, feed the horses, groom them and bed them down for the night. Though this would seem a hardship to the younger generation, Tom thinks of these as 'good old days', even if the pay was only a dollar a day. He feels that people were more happy and contented then than they are now. They did not seem to require so much in the way of amusement.

Better Machinery

The big change in the paper industry is the great improvement in paper making machinery, he says. The machines at that time turned out two tons of paper in 24 hours and ran only in the summer months. There were no dryers and the sheets had to be dried in the sun as they came from the machines. Four years later, a machine was installed which turned out twice as much paper, and this attracted people from far and near.

"Early to bed and early to rise" is Mr. McCook's recipe for good health. He has enjoyed good health throughout his lifetime and does not touch alcohol or tobacco.

Percy White of Port Hope has been named to succeed Mr. McCook as superintendent of the Campbellford plant.

STARS OF CINDERELLA PAGEANT, sponsored by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, Thursday and Friday evenings, were congratulated on a splendid performance by PFGPA president Jack O'Neil. The children, all of this city, Left to Right, are Barbara Parker, (Cinderella), Gary Calberry (the Prince) and Maureen Carter (the Good Fairy). Maureen also placed third in the show's child popularity contest. Diane Mallory and Donald Manley were first and Jean Caravaggie and Randy Manning, second. City boys and girls under six years of age were the contestants and suitable prizes were given to the winners.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Helicopter Tries Delivering Mail In Test

OTTAWA, Sept. 22—(CP)—Mail will be delivered by helicopter to nine Ottawa valley towns in November in a joint experiment by the Postoffice and the Transport Department to determine costs.

The helicopter to be used is one ordinarily carried aboard the Canadian Arctic vessel C. D. Howe which is due to arrive at Quebec next week.

The 'copter will leave Ottawa each morning and carry mail bags to Carp, Carleton Place, Perth, Smiths Falls, Kemptville, Winchester, Chesterville, Finch and Russell.

It is estimated it will be able to make all its stops in a matter of little over three hours, despite the fact it will land each time on fair grounds and ball parks to deliver the mail bags.

The air delivery will be an experiment only, to determine the cost of such a service should it ever be considered for remote areas not served by rail or highway.

WITH THE OPENING of the Canadian International Stamp Exhibition, an occasion which marked the 100th anniversary of Canada's first postal service, Governor-General Alexander, an ardent railway fan, inspected an old, wood-burning locomotive. Shown in period costume of a century ago, are: left to right, Rose Burkett, Catherine Rowe, Viscount Alexander.

Former Leaf Catcher To Be Math Professor

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 22—(AP)—The appointment of a former professional baseball player as assistant professor of mathematics at Trinity College was announced Friday by Acting President Arthur H. Hughes.

Dr. Walter J. Klimczak, named to the post, played third base for Yale but turned to catching when he entered professional baseball. He caught for Toronto in the International League and Cornwall in the Canadian-American League.

He was sold to Philadelphia of the American League just before joining the U.S. Navy Air Corps in 1942. He was taken seriously ill in the service and did not return to baseball after his discharge.

For the last four years he has been asistant professor of mathematics at the University of Rochester.

Catches Record Black Bass Man Planned To Eat It

BRANTFORD, Sept. 22—(CP)—Nicholas Zaykowski hung the second fish he's caught in his life in the lobby of his Village Inn here Friday.

It happens to be the biggest black bass on record with the Department of Fisheries in Ottawa. Weighing nine pounds, two ounces, it is 23 inches long and 17¾ inches in girth. The previous record-holder weighed eight pounds, eight ounces.

Zaykowski's first fish, caught the previous day, was a 4½-pound trout.

"I didn't do very much fishing in my life," said the 49-year-old hotel owner, "because I've been too busy." But his plans for the future include buying a new boat, new rods, reels and line and "lots more equipment." He wants to try to break his own record.

Using a 40-pound-test metal line last Sept. 9, Zaykowski was trolling in McAuley Lake near Madawaska, for trout, when this big fellow "nearly upset my boat."

"He took about 15 minutes to land and gave me plenty of trouble," Zaykowski said. "I had no net so, when I got him in the boat, I put my foot on him."

Unaware he had made a record catch, Zaykowski planned to eat it until the other fishermen saw it. Then F. T. Chaddock, Madawaska boatman, weighed the big fish, while a game warden unidentified, looked on to be sure it would not be discounted as "just another fish story."

Visit Thrilling To Kapuskasing

KAPUSKASING, Sept. 22 —(CP)—The message chattered on the teletypne—"Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will spend 18 hours in Kapuskasing Oct. 8."

First . . . stunned silence. Then . . . "wow!"

In a word, this bustling pulp-and-paper town hacked out of the bush 80 miles west of Cochrane is agog. Society—what there is of it—is atwitter. In fact, it's palpitating.

Nothing as big ever happened here before.

Citizens of other Northern Ontario towns are greener than their bush with envy. Maybe noses here are a mite higher than normal and chest buttons under a greater strain but who can blame the town?

Although Kapuskasing put in a bid for the Royal visit here like everyone else, "we really never expected anything would come of it," said Mayor Alex Stevenson.

Necklace, Ear Rings Gifts For Princess

VICTORIA, BC, Sept. 22 (CP)—The government has decided on gifts to be given to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip during the Royal visit.

Her Royal Highness will receive a necklace and earrings to match, mounted in platinum and gold, and set with diamonds and emeralds.

The dogwood, British Columbia's official emblem, will be the design. The Duke will receive cuff links and studs of the same design.

For Prince Charles there will be an Indian sweater, and for Princess Ann soft Indian moccasins.

May Come To Canada

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (CP) — The 27 persons who escaped from Czechoslovakia by taking over a railway train and driving it across the border may soon find refuge in Canada, it was announced Thursday night by the International Rescue Committee. Adolf A. Berle, a former US assistant secretary of state said applications have been made to transfer to Canada as many as possible of the 27 passengers on the train.

Gun Breaks Loose

KINGSTON, Sept. 22 (CP)—An anti-aircraft gun towed by an army truck broke its coupling Friday and crashed into an automobile. Mrs. Cara Williamson suffered a back injury, Mrs. Stanley Harrison a shoulder injury and Archibald Botting injuries to the left knee and chest. All were in the car.

Narcotics Charge

HAMILTON, Sept. 22 (CP) — James Carlyle Stout, 66, and Louie Gallo, 49, Friday were committed for trial on a charge of conspiring to distribute, transport and possess narcotics. Maxine Morrison, 19, described as Gallo's common-law wife, was remanded on the same charge to Sept. 17.

For Parents Only

Your Child and Royal Visit

By NANCY CLEAVER

The days before the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip in their atmosphere of eager anticipation are a little like the days which precede Christmas. This is a very special time for Canadian boys and girls. Thoughtful parents can take advantage of their child's interest in the royal visit to deepen their child's love of country and pride in the British monarchy.

Thousands of boys and girls will catch a glimpse of the lovely 25-year-old Princess and her handsome naval husband. This is a memory they will never forget. "Ay, every inch a king," was Shakespeare's description of King Lear, and this royal couple, by their appearance and manner have called forth many favorable comments wherever they have visited.

If you have read Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" you will remember the scene where the mother, Jane, takes her two small sons, Joe and Edward, out on the front upstairs balcony of their home to see the funeral procession of Queen Victoria. She admonishes them:

"Shhh! Now then, Joe, Edward, stand absolutely still—to attention, like father showed you . . . Five kings riding behind her."

Joe: "She must have been a very little lady."

Queen Victoria may have been little in stature but she was a truly great woman. Each in their own way the Queen Mother, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Elizabeth have in their turn won the love and admiration of their subjects.

If your boy or girl is studying British history, the royal visit provokes a new interest in the kings and queens of other days. Encourage your child to look up the descriptions of earlier monarchs, and see how much Britain owes to outstanding rulers such as the energetic and dauntless "Queen Bess" in the stirring days of the sixteenth century.

A large map of Canada on the wall of the kitchen or living room is a good idea. Have your child trace the royal tour day by day. If you have visited in other provinces tell your child something interesting about other parts of Canada. The royal visit helps Canadians realize how vast is their own land.

Someone has called the daily newspaper "The poor man's university." But the press belongs to no one class. Many fathers and mothers could use the newspapers more than they do to increase their child's store of information. Read aloud comments about the plans for Princess Elizabeth's entertainment while here. Enjoy the picture sections which are doing a splendid job in color and black and white "shots" of the royal family.

Younger boys and girls love to make a scrap book. Why not invest in a new scrap book at once in which they can paste all the pictures which attract them connected with the royal visit? Take an interest in their scrap book. Praise your child for doing a neat job in arranging the pictures. If he can print, have him print his own caption under each picture. This is something of his very own which will have sentimental value to him as the years pass.

Wherever possible parents will make plans for their child to see the royal couple. No two people can stop at every large centre in the Dominion and so many families will travel long distances to see the Prince and Princess. There will be so much traffic on the highways that father will take extra care to see to it that his car is in good shape and that he drives carefully. Buses and trains will be crowded and plenty of time before catching them must be planned for. Provision should be made that a child will not be too exhausted by excitement and travel.

Sales of books about the Royal Family have soared and buying a good book is always a good investment. Did you ever compare the money spent by your family on movies with that spent on books? Children have thoroughly appreciated the story of Princess Elizabeth's and Princess Margaret Rose's childhood as told in "The Little Princesses" by Marian Crawford. "Royal Cavalcade," by L. A. Nickols is well done and so is this writer's recent volume, "First Family." There is a charming chapter on Princess Elizabeth in Lady Cynthia Asquith's "The Family Life of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth." These books can all be found in the Public Library.

Throughout the Empire there is grave concern for the King's health since his holiday in Scotland was cut short by a lung ailment. But assurance has been given that this is not so serious as to necessitate a postponement of Princess Elizabeth's and Prince Philip's trip. Whatever their private anxieties, the British Royalty have a fine record of being faithful in performing their public duties. John Buchan's words about the late King George on leadership also apply to our ruling sovereign:

"Leadership does not consist only in a strong man imposing his will upon others. In that sense it has no meaning for a British sovereign. But in a far profounder sense the King has shown himself a leader, since the true task of leadership is not to put greatness into humanity, but to elcit it, since the greatness is already there. The King has led his people for he has evoked what is best in them."

Ask Soldiers Help Harvesting

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 22 —(CP)—Lethbridge Chamber of Commerce Friday appealed to Defense Minister Claxton to release members of the armed forces from military duty so they can help with the Southern Alberta harvest.

The chamber said it is also asking the Alberta Government to free school children to help overcome a critical shortage of harvest workers.

James Lynn, director of the Lethbridge National Employment Service office, said only a few eastern harvest workers have arrived in the Lethbridge area.

Mr. Lynn said the peak of the grain harvest will not be reached until next week, when further demands on labor will be made by the opening of the beef harvest Wednesday.

Upholds Reporters Getting Stories

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Sept. 22 (AP)—Assistant Secretary-General Benjamin A. Cohen Friday upheld the right of correspondents at the United Nations to file reports on information they gather about closed meetings of UN groups and appealed for more information on such sessions.

The assistant secretary-general appeared at his own suggestion before a closed meeting of the military sub-committee of the UN collective measures committee. This group began several days ago an investigation of a leak of one of its reports to UN newspapermen. A UN spokesman briefed reporters on the closed meeting.

Cohen told the group the UN could not take action unless someone stole a restricted document and printed it.

Find Navy Bomber

CAMPBELL RIVER, BC, Sept. 22 (CP)—A seven-man search party confirmed by radio Friday that they had found the wreck of a United States Navy Neptune patrol bomber near the peak of Mount McCreight. The wreckage is still being examined to determine whether it was remains of a bomber which disappeared with nine men three years ago, or one with 11 aboard lost in the same vicinity last December.

3,000 Bottles Blood From Ont. Red Cross

TORONTO, Sept. 22 — (CP) — The Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society has supplied approximately 3,000 bottles of blood plasma to the defence department, an executive of the society was told Friday. The total for all Canada so far supplied is 5,000 bottles, about one half of the society's commitment.

Mrs. W. Green, of St. Thomas, associated with the Red Cross since the First World War, was given an honorary membership in the society by the executive for her "outstanding service."

Express Concern

FREDERICTON, Sept. 22 (CP) —The concern and regret of the people of New Brunswick over the condition of King George VI was expressed here Friday night by Premier J. B. McNair, "The people of New Brunswick will join at once with their fellow Canadians in hoping that His Majesty may soon be restored to good health," he said. "Our wishes and prayers are with him."

Navy Address

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (CP)—Mail for personnel aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent and the destroyer Micmac during the balance of the Mediterranean cruise should be addressed in care of the Postmaster, Montreal, the Navy announced Friday. Arrangements have been made so that the mail will be forwarded by the post office to reach the ships at subsequent ports of call.

Water Shortage

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (CP) — Nearly 1,000 children were sent home from a public school in suburban Etobicoke township at noon Friday because of an acute water shortage which was reflected in decreased water pressures all over the northern section of the township.

Liska Statements Admitted As Evidence

WINDSOR, Sept. 22 (CP) — Statements made by George Liska a short time after the shooting of Mike Lesko were admitted as evidence Friday in the trial of George Liska charged with Lesko's murder.

Mr. Justice J. M. King gave judgment on the hearing and ruled the two statements admissable. The murder hearing was then adjourned until 11 a.m. Monday.

Lesko was shot to death in his Drouillard Road back yard last June 8. A few hours after the shooting, Liska was found wounded about three miles from the scene and taken to Hotel Dieu hospital.

To Abolish Controls

WINNIPEG, Sept. 22 (CP) — Manitoba will soon pass an order-in-council abolishing rent controls in 129 areas in the province, Provincial Secretary C. E. Greenlay announced Friday. Rent controls will be retained in 59 other areas including Greater Winnipeg.

SUMMER WAITRESS IS HEROINE IN RESCUE AT RESORT CAMP

16-year-old Gloria Gerner, of Toronto, saves three tourists from drowning at Harlowe, north of Napanee, Ont.

1. Toronto Sea Ranger Gloria Gerner, 16, was working for the summer as a waitress at Happy Landing Camp, about 40 miles north of Napanee. On a mid-July day she was setting a table in the lodge for lunch when she heard a scream coming from nearby Lake Kashawackamac. Rushing to the window, she saw three people clinging to an overturned rowboat some distance out in the lake.

2. Quickly putting down her dishes, the girl ran out, raced to the small dock and leaped into the water. Being fully dressed, it was no easy matter to swim out to the stranded, exhausted trio. But Gloria made it. Calmly she told all of them that everything was going to be all right. Then, telling two of them to hold on to the craft, she swam into shore with the first woman.

3. The gallant 16-year-old girl made three separate, gruelling trips to the overturned boat . . . but each swim was successful . . . and finally all were safely ashore. To young Gloria Gerner goes the praise of every Canadian citizen who hears about her deed. We are proud to add our sincere tribute to her courage through the presentation of The Dow Award.

THE DOW AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Portraits Best In Show By Young Artist

A young Peterborough student of art, Margaret Florence is showing 37 paintings at the Public Library gallery.

Most are landscapes, pretty enough, but in this viewer's eye, uninteresting, lifeless, and not particularly good. There are several abstractions; one large "Design in flat planes" takes the eye with its queasy shapes and rhythms. What gives the show distinction are three nudes and three portrait heads.

The studio nudes—quite large canvases—are competently painted and unusual in their color harmonies. Miss Florence makes an interesting use of greens in them. They are worth seeing. One has a mildly surrealistic effect—as if it were done (and seen) through bifocals.

Of the three portrait heads the two of negresses are distinguished, done with a sure brush (and greater freedom than in any of her landscapes) and with sympathy and a touch of humor.

I should also mention a still-life of a copper kettle and periphery; a good piece of color composition. It is brilliant and vivid without a display of brilliant shouting colors. Another still life (jug, mug and bottle) is an unbalanced, restless hodge-podge of moods and colors.

Only one landscape took my eye: a subdued, indefinite snow scene with three gaunt trunks. It is an interesting treatment.—T. J. A.

Roseneath Anglicans Welcome New Rector

ROSENEATH, Sept. 22 (ENS)—Rev. J. A. Patstone, rector of St. James' Anglican Church and Mrs. Patstone were welcomed by the congregation of the church at an informal get together held in the township hall on Wednesday evening. E. G. Brown was chairman for the program period, and James L. Timlin, rector's warden, read an address of welcome on behalf of the congregation. Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, WA president, voiced the welcome of the organization. J. T. Drope also added a welcome.

Mr. Patstone replied, voicing his appreciation for the kind reception tendered Mrs. Patstone, their daughter, and himself.

There was community singing with Mrs. Frank Brown at the piano. Instrumental numbers were played by Misses Doreen Nichol, Dale Braithwaite and Nelda Brown.

The singing of the National Anthem concluded the program. Lunch was served by the WA members.

Proceeds Of Play Go For Centre Deficit

MARMORA, Sept. 22 (ENS)—Marmora town hall was well filled on Wednesday and Thursday evenings as the play "Going Places," was put on by local talent directed by Miss C. Auld of Hamilton. Sponsored by the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce, proceeds go towards the deficit on the recreation centre. On Thursday evening, the results of the Tiny Tot Popularity Contest were given and the young winners, all present, ascended the stage to receive from Miss Auld the loving cups and ribbons. They were: girls: 1 (Queen) Cathie Jones, 2 Cheryl Moss, 3 Sharon McGarvey; boys, 1 (King) Brian Lummiss, 2 Tommy Campbell, 3 John Bedore.

Beverley Young received the gift of a camera for selling the most tickets for admission. The results of the two weeks training the cast had received were surprisingly good in all sections.

The cast was as follows: Uncle Billy, James Black; Mary Margaret, Verna Black; Mayor, Vincent M. Lynch; Professor Quiz, L. Begley; Major Domo, Mrs. Mabel Nayler; President of Conventionaires, Alex Fraser; Al Jolson, George Mantle Jr.; Conventionaires, Vaughan Glover, Floyd Loveless, L. Begley, Basil McTaggart, Dougald Sanderson, William Regan, R. E. Neal and A. M. Janes; Harem Beauties, A. M. Jones, James Walker, Ford Woodhouse, Percy Embury, Douglas Smith and Percy Gray Jr.; Cinderella Group, Sandy Fraser, Danny Shannon, Vincent Lynch, Dale Walker, Herbert Parkin, Jane Glover, Joyce Campion, Anne Neal, Carol Wannamaker, Betty Empey, Anne Marie Bedore, Chorus, high school girls; kitchen band, Marmora Women's Institute.

H. A. McNally voiced the thanks of the audience to cast and directress for the efforts put forth and expressed the hope that that form of entertainment might become an annual event.

Oldest Horse

Kiwanis Sponsor Campaign Of Local Buying

A buy-it-in-Peterborough campaign, sponsored by the Kiwanis club, starts Thursday and it will continue till Oct. 25. During that period shoppers in Peterborough and the Kawartha district will be urged to buy from Peterborough merchants.

The official name of the campaign is: Shop In Peterborough Days.

As an inducement there will be more than $5,000 worth of prizes. The prize list includes chesterfield suites, combination radio-phonographs, washing machines, clothing of all sorts, watches, jewelry, dinette suites, credit coupons for city stores, and other items.

"It is the greatest selling-promotion campaign we have ever had in Peterborough" said George Cheatle chairman of the Kiwanis ways and means committee. He added that while it is something never before tried in Peterborough it is no innovation.

"Similar campaigns have been tried and proved successful in New Toronto, London and Simcoe."

100 Take Part

The idea has caught on with local merchants and about 100 are expected to be enrolled by the time the opening gun of the campaign is fired.

And just how does the average shopper get into the act. Well, here's how:

When you patronize a business that is supporting Shop In Petergorough Days, the sales clerk will give you a ticket for each dollar's worth of merchandise you buy. Put the ticket in the store ballot box and keep the stub.

Once a week the ballot boxes will be collected and the draw made by a prominent local citizen. In all there will be about 50 prizes awarded every week.

Two Aims

Allan B. Collis, a member of the committee, said that the objective of the campaign was two-fold: to get new out-of-town business and to encourage local shoppers to buy in Peterborough.

Mr. Collis said many people in the Kawarthas are unaware that the city has one of the finest shopping centres of any city of comparable size. And the merchants carry as fine a line of merchandise as anywhere in Canada.

There will be even greater values during the drive, he promised.

Agricultural Society Holds Euchre Party

APSLEY, Sept. 22—(ENS)—The Apsley Agricultural Society held a progressive euchre party in the Public Library Wednesday night.

Eight tables were played. Winners of prizes were; Ladies first prize, Mrs. Norman Reddick. Men's first prize, Ted Wilson, consolation prizes went to Mrs. Colby and Herb Tucker.

Following the games lady directors of the society served lunch.

Italy Ready To Place Workers In Canada

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 22—(CP)—Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi said Friday that Italy is "most anxious to place Italian workers in Canadian industry."

Italy is exploring every avenue to gain overseas employment for as many as possible of two million Italians currently unemployed, he said.

Mr. Gasperi visited some of Ontario Hydro's new projects on the Niagara River with Hydro chairman Robert Saunders.

Athletic Prince Now Known As Witty, Clever Speaker

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON— (CP)— Australia's Sir Donald Bradman, the greatest cricket batsman of them all, once made some flattering comments on the Duke of Edinburgh's talent as a bowler.

Prince Philip himself has no illusions. A right-arm, medium-pace bowler, he would probably be content in saying that he is a good club player, of the Saturday-afternoons-only stamp. He enjoys the game but does not consider it his strong suit.

Residents of Mersham, Kent, recall—usually with mitigating excuses—the time Prince Philip appeared unexpectedly at a village match and was bowled for a "duck" by Frank Wastell, a farm laborer. Going out for a duck means being retired without a run, and is approximately as shameful as striking out with the bases loaded.

Philip has few opportunities now to indulge in his fondness for cricket. But he retains close connections through a club called the "Lord's Taverners," an association of cricket spectators of which he is patron. Until recently, too, he was president of the Marylebone Cricket Club, an office sometimes known as the "woolsack of cricket."

Other Favorites

Other favorite sports are sailing, polo and yachting. The Duke tried golf but didn't get beyond the duffer stage. In his younger days at 300-year-old Cheam school, in Berkshire, he won a school diving competition and tied for first place in a high-jumping competition for under-125.

What is he really like, this sailor prince? Canadian readers probably know little of him as a person beyond his blonde good looks and his smiling, pleasing personality. That may be partly because the Duke deliberately tries to keep in the background. Buckingham Palace, mindful of Princess Elizabeth's pre-eminent position, tends to be shy about personal questions.

Polished Speaker

The general impression of Philip is that of an easy-going, nonchalant, genuinely modest man with a quick smile, a sense of humor and plenty of poise. On speech-making occasions, Canadians will hear a polished, witty speaker who uses note more sparingly than most top public figures.

Philip often improvises. Sometimes he can be seen jotting down points for a speech while others are on their feet. He writes or edits the bulk of all his formal talks. Notes for an address which he delivered recently before a distinguished scientific audience at Edinburgh were written on signal pads in the captain's cabin on the frigate Magpie.

Philip, now on indefinite leave from the Royal Navy, gave up command of the ship in August. Associates say he really is a good naval officer.

Sometimes Too Free

Considerable publicity has been given reports that the Duke is sometimes too free and easy to suit the more severe officials in Buckingham Palace. This probably dates from the days when he was described by a tutor as "often naughty, never nasty."

He was fond of pranks, such as signing the name "Earl of Baldwin" for early autograph hunters, and of climbing to the roof of Kensington Palace. But those were boyish escapades, long since outgrown.

What about those whispers that he likes driving his sports automobile at high speed? Probably exaggerated, says Lieut. Michael Parker, the Duke's equerry-in-waiting.

"He's not so fast as a lot of drivers I know," says Parker. "I've ridden with him hundreds of times, and would think nothing of going to sleep in the car."

Marmora WMS Meets

MARMORA, Sept. 22 (ENS)—The September meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. E. Trennum. The president, Mrs. E. C. Prentic was in the chair.

The worship period was conducted by Mrs. H. C. Barlow and Mrs. G. D. Young. Mrs. Grace Pack gave a report of the recent WMS Training School at Whitby. Following the program of the afternoon the hostess served lunch.

Traffic Lights Considered

The problems brought on by traffic lights, and signs cropped up in the police commission meeting Thursday afternoon.

Stop-and-go lights were suggested by Magistrate Philp for the intersection of George and McDonnel Sts. He pointed out that there have been at this intersection a number of accidents in which people have been injured.

Judge S. L. Smoke remarked on the "No Left Turn" signs at George and Charlotte Sts. "I wonder if those signs are in the right place," he mused. "I believe they could be more easily seen if they were lower."

Mayor Swanston said he thought that the posts which hold traffic control lights should be painted yellow. Recent stop light installations have included this feature, and he thought the standards would be more visible if painted yellow.

On the question of stop lights at George and McDonnel Sts., City Clerk Outram remarked that traffic studies were being made at several city intersections as a result of requests from citizens to city council.

The commission agreed to take action on these matters.

Family Honor Couple 40 Years Wed

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Thompson of Campbellford celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary on Thursday, with members of their family attending the gala affair from many distant points. The day was also the tenth anniversary of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson of Campbellford.

Mr. Thompson is of Scottish parentage, his father coming from Scotland in the pioneer days of Campbellford, to settle on the farm now owned and occupied by the couple.

Mr. Thompson was formerly married to Jessie Innes, who died a few years after the wedding leaving two small children, a daughter Agnes who trained for the nursing profession and who died four years ago, and a son, John D., who is now principal of a continuation school at Fenelon Falls, Ontario.

Mr. Thompson married his present wife, Bertha May Humphries forty years ago on Sept. 20th, 1911. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Humphries of Asphodel Township, and eldest sister of a recent ex-warden of Peterborough County, James Humphries.

The Thompsons have four sons and one daughter: Roy H., a farmer; Jack and Don, Peterborough; Renee, Toronto.

Twenty persons attended the reception at the Thompsons home a few miles east of Campbellford.

Newlyweds Honored In Hiawatha Hall

HIAWATHA, Sept. 22—(ENS)—A shower and dance took place Saturday night in the Hiawatha Community Hall. Over two hundred friends and neighbors gathered to celebrate with Sgt. Robert Cowie and his bride on their wedding night. The newlyweds were escorted from his home in a gaily decorated buggy drawn by a tractor, with several cars two and three abreast following with back-firing and honking of horns. A Peterborough orchestra played while a waltz was danced by the bride and groom.

Dancing by everyone followed until lunch was served. Sgt. R. Cowie and Mrs. Cowie were the recipients of many lovely and useful gifts and money as well as a magazine end table with a figurine from fellow workers at the Quaker Oats, where Mrs. Cowie is a machine operator.

Tea-Time Topic...

WHEN women get together, the topic of conversation, sooner or later, touches on new fashions. This is no modern trend, it has been going on for generations, because women are instinctively clothes-conscious.

Kaesong Unsuited For Truce Talks Ridgway Tells Reds

By DON HUTH

TOKYO, Sept. 24—(AP)—The United Nations' command today told the Communists that Kaesong is unsuitable as a site for any future Korean armistice negotiations. Allied liaison officers gave these reasons in a note handed to Red liaison officers at Kaesong: 1—Kaesong is too close to the main Red supply line, under attack by Allied planes. 2—Red and Allied ground forces are in constant manoeuvre around the five-mile Kaesong neutral zone.

3 — Uncontrolled partisan groups, responsible to neither command, are active in the area and could take action at any time which would again cause a break-up of talks.

The Reds called off the talks August 23, charging an Allied plane tried to "murder" the Communist cease-fire delegation with a bomb.

"It is regrettable," the Allies said, that the Reds didn't accept the original suggestion of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, that the negotiations be held aboard the Danish hospital ship Jutlandia.

Ridgway proposed some other, more incident-proof site for the conference in a note to the Communists September 6. He since has made clear that he wants better working conditions established for negotiators before he agrees to resumption of the conference.

UN and Red liaison officers met in Kaesong Monday morning to set up arrangements under which talks, if resumed, could make the most rapid progress possible.

About six hours later the Reds sent the Allies a memorandum, contents of which were not disclosed by Allied headquarters.

The liaison groups are scheduled to meet again Tuesday at 10 am (9 pm EDT Monday).

The Reds were reminded that Gen. Ridgway suggested September 6 that a new site for the talks be chosen.

The Allied liaison team said, "from the viewpoint of the military aviator, the Kaesong neutral zone is but a few minutes removed from the most important military line of supply in your rear area. Thousands of aircraft sorties are directed against this line of supply. The likelihood of an accidental occurrence involving Kaesong is obvious.

"The Communist commanders have alleged that a number of violations of the Kaesong neutral zone approaching the figure 200 have occurred. Could any fact argue more persuasively that Kaesong is unsuitable as a conference site?"

West Coast After New Hydro To Save Industry

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 24 — (AP)— The big search for new sources of electric power is underway in the drouth-stricken Pacific northwest United States.

The search was touched off last week when the Defence Electric Power Administration ordered cuts which resulted in a 10-percent reduction of power to the area's booming aluminum industry.

Then Saturday the seriousness of the situation was emphasized when mabilizer Charles E. Wilson told aluminum producers to prepare plans for the possible removal of some Pacific northwest plants to areas of assured power supply.

What caused the power shortage?

Little Rain

Most public and private power officials blame one of the driest summers in the history of the area. Not enough rain has fallen to swell the Columbia River, which with its huge hydro-electric generators is the source of much of the Pacific northwest's power.

Representative Hugh Mitchell (Rep. Wash.) said a delay in facilities also was responsible.

What can be done to ease the situation?

Among suggested solutions is a "brown-out" of the Pacific northwest, calling for outdoor lighting and advertising signs to be shut off. Joseph H. Gumz, region DEPA director, said a brownout may be ordered within two weeks.

1. Representative Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) has introduced a bill in Congress to authorize the Bonneville administration to build steam and gas plants to augment the area's power supply.

2. Bonneville is awaiting authorization to hire rain-maker Irving J. Krick to increase the water supply by seeding clouds with silver oxide crystals.

3. The Bureau of Reclamation has suggested that the Pacific Northwest Power Grid could be inter-tied with the California and Utah systems. Congress has blocked the proposed tie-up.

Woman Drives Into Lake, 4 Die

TORONTO, Sept. 24 — (CP)— A 40-year-old mother drove an automobile into Lake Ontario yesterday, carrying herself and her three children to death.

Drowned were Mrs. Eleanor Stuart, wife of Joseph T. Stuart, and their three children, Ethel 9, Susan 8, and Joseph 7 months.

Witnesses said they saw the four-door sedan drive slowly along the lake front in Toronto's east-end, turn toward the water and nose in. Within three minutes it disappeared beneath the surface.

The witnesses said they saw people in the car scrambling from the front seat to the back but none of the car doors opened as the auto plunged into the lake.

"The car just drove right over the water's edge," said Harry Hogg, a witness. "There seemed to be no attempt to stop it. It just floated out and sank gradually. I saw no one attempt to get out of the car."

Neighbors said Mrs. Stuart had not secluded herself since the birth of the baby seven months ago.

Allow Ex-Servicemen To Don Old Uniforms

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (AP). — Former officers and other ranks of all three armed forces will be permitted to wear their uniforms and medals during the Royal visit, the defence department said today.

Orders have already gone out from Defence Minister Claxton's office to allow all ex-servicemen to dig their old uniforms out of mothballs and put them on—if they still fit—for the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

If the uniforms don't fit or if they are reported missing, the veterans can wear their medals and let it go at that.

The temporary rule applies whether the men are on duty or mere spectators.

Resignations Of 3 Heads Cripple CCL

Conroy, Millard, MacAuslane Split Union Wide

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24. (CP) —The Canadian Congress of Labor showed a gaping wound today after a convention battle here ended in the biggest blowoff in recent labor history in this country.

The annual convention wound up Friday night but repercussions followed Saturday, leaving a wide-open split in the executive of the 350,000-member Congress.

National secretary - treasurer Pat Conroy, who shapes congress policy, resigned. So did Vice-presidents C. H. Millard of Toronto, chief of the 60,000-man United Steel Workers, and Alex MacAuslane of Toronto, Canadian head of the Oil Workers' International Union.

Millard quit one of the four vice-presidencies after the Congress executive had rejected what it considered Millard's bid for greater power in congress.

But Millard had already pulled off his coup, getting more representation for his union—the biggest in Canada—on the CCL executive.

Refused To Return

At this point, Conroy suddenly quit Friday night. He has so far steadfastly refused to return to his key post.

The following day, MacAuslane announced his resignation in sympathy with Conroy's stand.

The battle, brewing for a long time, was touched off during the election of officers.

The executive board decided to back for re-election to the Congress executive committee Sam Baron of Hamilton, recently fired as Canadian head of the textile workers by his international chief in the United States.

Millard put up two steel-union delegates instead and got the support of the packinghouse workers and international woodworkers.

This was enough to elect the steel men where there had been only one before although Millard himself quit his vice-presidency.

When the result was announced Conroy walked out.

An executive council meeting has been called for Ottawa in late October. It will consider Conroy's departure and what is to be done about it. Meanwhile, Conroy's post will be filled by Harry Chappell of Winnipeg, second-in-command of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

ONE OF THREE TOP CCL officials who have resigned after a split in ranks at the annual convention is Pat Conroy who had just been re-elected secretary-treasurer. He and C. H. Millard, chief of the Steelworkers, are divided on Congress policy. Conroy was last in Peterborough during the CGE election campaign.

Sign Contract Or Get Out, Iran Tells UK Men

TEHRAN, Sept. 24 (AP)—An Iranian government official said today that British technicians in the oil field at Abadan will be expelled in a week or 10 days unless they sign individual contracts to work for the nationalized Iranian Oil Company.

The announcement was made by Ali Sheyegan, member of the parliamentary oil board.

He said the decision was taken in a three-hour meeting of the board with Premier Mohammed Mossadegh this morning.

"We will make no further overtures to the British government concerning the position of the 300 technicians in the closed-down Abadan refinery," he said.

Shayegan said the temporary board of directors of the national Iranian Oil Company—which has taken over from the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company under Iran's nationalization law—would set a definite time limit.

(A dispatch from Abadan said James Cunningham, superintendent of communications for AIOC, has already left for neighboring Iraq. His residence permit was withdrawn yesterday.)

The action today was taken after Britain rebuffed an Iranian government "feeler" for renewal of oil talks.

Reds To Explode Hydrogen Bomb

LONDON, Sept. 24 (Reuters)— A forecast that Russia will explode a new-type hodrogen bomb in July, 1952, will be published here in the October edition of the Intelligence Digest, a news letter circulated to private subscribers.

The Digest, edited by Kenneth De Courcy, claims to have contacts with "distinguished persons" behind the Iiron Curtain who are secretly hostile to the Soviet regime.

In January, 1949, the Digest forecast that the Russians would explode their first atom bomb in the summer of 1949. President Truman later announced that an atomic explosion had taken place in Russia.

According to the report prepared for next month's issue the new hydrogen bomb will be triggered by an atom bomb. This method, the report claims, has been developed by Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, British atom scientist who disappeared with his whole family last year and is believed to be in Russia.

Winnipeg Weather Drops Below Freezing

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24 (CP) — Winnipeg has had its first below-freezing weather of the season. Last night thermometers stood at 26 above.

Neepawa was the coldest spot in Manitoba last night with a low of 21 above.

Take That!

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 24— (AP)—The plug kept popping out of Mrs. James P. Polka's bathtub yesterday. Mrs. Polka would poke the plug in and out it would pop. Finally she called the Sheriff. Before the deputy arrived, he said, a chicken snake popped his head out of the drain "and stuck out his tongue at the lady." Her husband dispatched the snake with a screwdriver, a pair of pliers, a coathanger and a couple of bottles of scalding water, the deputy reported.

Tobacco Growers Urge Abbott To Cut Taxes, Restore Level Of Sale Of Cigarettes

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (CP)—A six-man delegation representing some 4,000 Ontario tobacco growers today urged Finance Minister Abbott to slice the tobacco tax drastically in order that cigarettes may be cut in price from 40 to 35 cents for a package of 20 to offset a critical reduction in sales.

Francis R. Gregory of Leamington, Ont., delegation chief, told a press conference later that Mr. Abbott promised to give the request consideration but that no change could be made in the tax before the next annual budget may be brought down in the latter part of next March or early April.

Mr. Gregory, chairmah of the board of the flue-cured tobacco marketing association of Ontario, said that huge government taxes imposed on Canadian tobacco had led to widespread smuggling into Canada of cheaper-priced American cigarets, giving rise to deep concern as to the future of the Canadian tobacco grower.

Mr. Gregory said he had reports which led him to believe that American cigaret smugglers had regular outlets in most large office buildings in major Canadian cities.

He said it was impossible for Canadian retailers to try to compete against the smuggler, when cigarets in the United States were selling at about 20 cents a package and domestic cigarets in Canada at 40 cents. Provincial tax in Quebec and New Brunswick bring the price there to 43 cents.

Best Burglar On Continent Admits Theft Of $300,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (CP)—A Canadian-born jewel thief who described himself to police as "the best burglar in North America" has admitted last week's daring theft of $65,000 in gems from the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. Police identified the thief as Joseph Ireland, 31, who gave his birthplace as Vancouver and said his admission implicated Joseph Lovello, 35, a Manhattan house painter, as the alleged receiver of the jewels.

Ireland, in custody on another larcency charge, made his admission last Friday, last night's announcement said.

Lovello admitted, police said, that he received the jewels and still has them in his possession.

Police said Ireland is a drug addict and "a very good sneak thief" know to "the trade" as one of the nation's most successful burglars.

He admitted, they said, taking about $300,000 worth of jewels in New York City thefts since last March.

Had Pass Key

Police said that Ireland told them of a larceny at the General Brock Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ont., in 1947 when he said he had a pass key made and entered five rooms, taking about $800 to $900 in cash and jewelry from each of the first four rooms.

In the fifth room, he told police he found a man asleep and saw that the man's wallet was hidden between the pillow and pillowcase on the side of the bed nearest the wall. Using a razor to slit the pillowcase, he slid his hand into the case and took the wallet which contained $20,000. He also took $100,000 in jewelry from the room including a gold testimonial statue of a horse, studded with diamonds, rubies and sapphires. Police said the room was occupied by a well-known Canadian horseman, but did not divulge his name.

The costly gems from the Waldorf-Astoria were taken from a showcase in the hotel's lobby last Tuesday. The jewelry belonged to the Roy W. Johnson Co.

It included five rings, one clip, a vanity case and a lapel watch set, all of them studded with gleaming diamonds and emeralds.

Ireland, out on $500 bail, was rearrested last week when he was found carrying "a suspicious key" in a Park Avenue jewelry shop.

Detectives found him in a cell in Manhattan City prison and questioned him for 16 hours about the Waldorf-Astoria theft.

Police said Ireland told them he unlocked the jewel case with a key he had made to fit a matching lock. He told police he noted the number of the lock, found a corresponding one in a camera store, stole it and had the key fashioned.

Britain, US Try KeepGold Cheap

JOHANNESBURG, Sept. 24 — (Reuters).—Dr. J. E. Holloway, South African director on the International Monetary Fund, said today that the "cheap-gold" group —chiefly the United States and Britain—is trying to oust competitors will...g to pay more for gold.

Holloway, just returned from a meeting of the fund at Washington, added:

The struggle over the price of gold has now openly developed into a fight between the cheap-gold group and (those) who realize that the price of gold must be raised and are willing to pay a substantial premium to obtain possession of gold in any form."

South Africa, by her fight against the fund's attempt to "usurp authority which was decided it at Bretton Woods," had established that the fund has no authority over the marketing of gold for industrial purposes, he said.

South Africa wants the official price increased from $35 an ounce but John Snyder, Secretary of the US Treasury, said Sept. 14 that no action on the question had been taken at the Monetary Fund conference.

(The international fund was set up in March, 1947, after details had been thrashed out at Bretton Woods in July, 1944.)

Grandmother Dies In Small Plane Crash

EFFINGHAM, Ill., Sept. 24 — (CP).—Mrs. Geoorge Aubin, 75, of Montreal died in hospital today of injuries received when the small plane in which she, her daughter and pilot-grandson crashed during an electrical storm last night.

Her daughter, Mrs. Jean Aubin, 45, an invalid, and Bruce Aubin, 25, the grandson, were described as not seriously injured.

Anxiety Felt In Palace King's Condition Good As Can Be Expected

Monarch In Good Spirits After Surgery Dozes Frequently Scores Of Letters And Telegrams

By DON SCHWIND

LONDON, Sept. 24—(AP)—The King's doctors fought to safeguard his life today after cutting out all or part of his ailing lung. Palace sources said keen anxiety continued this afternoon but "we are pleased at the moment because things have gone as well as can be expected." A palace spokesman said the 55-year-old Monarch appeared in good spirits. But it seemed likely that he would doze frequently on the first day after surgery.

The Queen saw her husband this morning, then spent the tense hours reading over scores of telegrams and letters of sympathy arriving from throughout the world. Princess Margaret was with her.

LONDON, Sept. 24—(AP)— The royal panel of physicians who operated on the King reported tonight the Monarch is gaining strength.

"The King has gained strength during the day," said the bulletin from Buckingham Palace.

A morning medical bulletin said the King "has had a restful night."

The brief announcement said only:

"The King has had a restful night. His Majesty's condition this morning continues to be as satisfactory as can be expected."

It came after a Buckingham Palace source had reported that the King "made it safely" through the first crucial night after his operation yesterday morning.

Anxious Britons, who had prayed for the safety of their beloved Monarch, got no indication of the King's exact condition in his battle against the after-effects of the surgery.

Signed By Five

The announcement was signed by five doctors who had spent the night at the King's bedside.

Handwritten with soft lead pencil, the bulletin was posted on

Dutch Buyers Strike Lowers Cotton Price

ALMELO, Netherlands, Sept. 24 (Reuters)—A buyers' strike lasting several months has forced down prices in the Dutch and cotton industry, H. A. C. Huijsmans, chairman of the Dutch Clothing and Textile Workers' Union, said today.

He said the drop in prices has cost the industry 25,000,000 guilders (about $7,000,000).

United Europe Could Defend Self-Gasperi

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP) —Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy told Congress today a united Europe would be able to take care of its own defence.

He addressed a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives a few hours after arriving for three days of talks with President Truman, State Secretary Dean Acheson and other top officials.

"Europe once solidly united," the 70-year-old premier said, "will relieve you of your sacrifices in men and arms, for she will herself contrive the defence of her peace and common freedom."

De Gasperi reaffirmed Italy's desire that Trieste be returned to Italy as recommended by the big three in 1948. But this does not mean, he said, that Italians "are victims of a narrow nationalism."

Rather, he explained, it was evidence of Italy's "wish to consolidate our western coalition in Europe."

German Treaty 'Impossible' Now

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP) —Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France said today a German peace treaty at this time is "impossible."

"The present situaflon of Germany and especially the fact that this country is divided and partly occupied by Soviet forces make impossible, for the time being, the conclusion of a German peace treaty," he said in a copy-righted interview in US News and World Report, a weekly news magazine.

Earlier this month Schuman attended a western big-three conference in Washington which agreed on a contractual peace, to be arranged "as rapidly as possible." He returned to Paris Saturday after attending the Atlantic Treaty conference in Ottawa.

United States officials have been pushing for a German peace settlement before the end of the winter.

Schuman in his interview did not amplify his stand on a peace treaty.

As to whether Germany should be rearmed as part of the European defence set-up, he said:

"Germany must not be rearmed, but Europe must be rearmed with German contingents; the German contingents being integrated in an European army."

Royal Tour Still On Watch Condition King

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (CP). — Royal tour officials, keeping their fingers crossed, were proceeding today on the assumption that the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will go on as scheduled.

Canada has offered the use of the RCAF's top transport plane, the C-5, to fly the Princess and her husband across the Atlantic but no word had been received from London this morning.

Tour officials were assuming that it might be another two days before it's clear whether the King condition will allow them to reach Canada by Oct. 2 as scheduled. In the meantime, tour plans stand as arranged.

The C-5 has arrived back in Ottawa and stands ready to take off on short notice.

Saddened But No Wiser

53,000 See Sherlock Holmes 'Possessions' Unable To Find Clues Of Disappearance

LONDON, Sept. 24—(AP)—The gaslight was turned down, the oil lamp on the table was doused and Sherlock Holmes' old sitting room in Baker Street was closed today —but there was no solution to the mystery of what had happened to the master detective.

More than 53,000 people came to see the master detective's room. It was part of a Festival of Britain exhibition organized by Marylebone, the London borough in which he lived.

The organizers, while happy at the success of their venture, are sorely disappointed that the publicity failed to uncover clues to what became of Holmes and his friend, Dr. Watson.

Many are sure that Holmes is still alive, though he would be getting on to 100.

Their belief was heightened a few days ago when a letter received by the Times said the famous pair had decided to visit the exhibition and were arriving that day.

An anxious party gathered at the London station—but the ascetic figure in a deerstalker cap was nowhere to be seen. The theory is that Holmes at the last moment learned the true nature of the exhibition and refused to attend. Far too much attention, his followers argued, was given in it to the preposterous theory that Holmes was merely a character of fiction, invented by one Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, author of books quite unlike Dr. Watson's celebrated memoirs.

Recall Him Well

One or two elderly visitors claimed personal recollections of Holmes. An old lady said she remembered perfectly well being at school with him. Another said Holmes had solved a case for her sister, details of which were still too painful and intimate to reveal.

The organizers, who had difficulty in assembling Holmes' belongings, freely admitted the reconstructed room contained nothing they had positively identified as belonging to Holmes.

Of a gold snuff-box, with a great amethyst in the centre of the lid, which Holmes described as "a little souvenir from the King of Bohemia," the catalogue said: "There is no evidence to show that the snuff box exhibited is not the one presented to Holmes."

Conan Doyl-ites brushed aside arguments that Holmes' effects may all have been destroyed by fire.

But those old people who left Baker Street with a sad step knew better than the clever ones. They knew why, when they wrote to Holmes appealing for his help, they never received replies.

The master was too busy— solving, perhaps, the scandal in Bohemia.

Australia Rejecting Anti-Communist Law

SYDNEY, Sept. 24. (AP)—The majority against giving the Australian government power to outlaw the Communist party was slightly reduced today, but final rejection of the proposal seemed assured.

With about 770,000 votes still to be counted, there was an overall majority against the proposed constitutional amendment of 107,409.

The vote no wstands at 1,976,361 for the 2,083,770 against.

The Conservative cabinet plans to meet tomorrow to discuss other methods of combatting Communism.

It had asked the electorate for power to dissolve the Communist party and remove Communists from key positions in government and industry.

Pension Bill Up

Ontario Legislature Opens Fall Eelction Predicted

TORONTO, Sept. 24 — (CP) — What may be the last session of Ontario's 23rd Legislature opens today.

Old age pension legislation is the only business officially scheduled for the brief Fall session, but some political observers are predicting that Premier Frost will top it off by calling an election, probably for some time in November.

The premier himself has given no hint of his intentions on that score. He has stated that the session will be devoted solely to passing legislation extending pensions to needy persons in Ontario between 65 and 69 years of age.

An estimated 41,580 persons in that age group in the province are eligible to receive pensions under an agreement by which the federal and provincial governments will share the cost 50-50.

Ottawa passed enabling legislation last June. The Ontario Legislature, in a session expected to last no longer than a week, is expected to implement its part of the agreement.

$40 Pensions

Chief change in pension legislation is the payment of a maximum of $40 a month to persons between 65 and 69 who can show need and who earn no more than $240 a year. Any incore amovme $240 a year. Any income above $240 would be deducted from the pension.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow, who is expected to pilot the legislation, has announced that the government plans other changes in pension legislation.

These would end the practice of recovering pension payments from the estates of deceased pensioners who leave less than $2,000; and would extend to the 65-69 group the medical assistance now given to pensioners over 70.

The new pension plan will go into effect Jan. 1. That is the same date the federal government hopes to implement its plan for a universal $40-a-month pension to everyone over 70 without means test.

Attlee, Bevan Meet To Patch Truce

By ARTHUR GAVSHON.

LONDON, Sept. 24 — (AP). — Prime Minister Attlee and Aeurin Bevan met today to patch up a truce so the Labor Party can present a solid front against the Conservatives in the October 25 general election.

Attlee and the leftist razor-tongued former Cabinet member faced each other as members of the Labor Party's high command and went into secret session to write the party's election manifesto.

They are the Labor Party's two strong men. Attlee leads the party's right wing and Bevan the left wing. As colleagues in Britain's two post-war Labor Governments, they helped shape and set up the welfare state.

But since last April, when Bevan and two of his friends quit their ministerial jobs because they disliked the size and speed of Britain's arms program, Attlee and Bevan have been obvious rivals for party leadership.

Talks today are expected to end in a truce between Labor's right and left wings, at least until after the election.

Bevan went out of his way yesterday to make 'peace with his colleagues.

In an article in the leftist Sunday Reynolds News, he said he and his supporters will "work for the defeat of the Tories with all the power we possess."

Bevan, two other government officers, and a sizeable chunk of Labor's left wing contend the orthodox leadership of the party hews too close to the United States' foreign policy line. They say the dream of making Britain a true Socialist state has been clouded by the expense of rearmament.

Although the Bevan group never quit Labor party there was doubt as to its stand in the crucial election. Loss of even small percentage of party support would doom Attlee's administration and almost ensure the election of the favored Conservatives.

But Bevan's statement was clear.

Intention Clear

"Now that the general election is upon us there can be no doubt as to the duty of all members of the Labor movement, Socialists, Trade Unionists and co-operators alike.

"It is to work for the defeat of the Tories with all the power we possess."

He urged:

"Return the Labor government to power backed by a majority large enough to enable it to apply its own principles to the problems that crowd upon Britain and the world."

Man Charged With Extortion Of $10,000

SUDBURY, Sept. 24—(CP)—Joseph Doucet, 32, of suburban Neelon township, today was charged with extortion in city court in conection with a demand for $10,000 involving a threat on the life of Sudbury lumber firm proprietor J. A. (Fred) Laberge.

Doucet was picked up shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday by police who lay in wait for the pickup of the $10,000 demanded in a threatening letter Laberge received earlier in the week.

City detectives and two members of the provincial police staked out the pickup spot near a telephone pole in Neelon township after a package containing the money was deposited by Laberge.

It was the third time an attempt has been made to extort money from Laberge by a threat on his life.

In court today Doucet was charged with vagrancy and extortion and was remanded a week without bail for a hearing. Bail will be set Tuesday.

Previous threats against Laberge 's life and demands for money were made in 1925 when he had just completed a term as mayor of Sudbury and was in thick of a battle for election as federal member for Nipissing. The second was made three or four years later, he said.

A taxi driver served a year in Burwash as a result of the first attempt, while in the second no pickup was made of a decoy package placed at the designated spot by Laberge, although police kept watch for months.

Protest Detention

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP) —The United States State Department rapped Czechoslovakia Saturday for holding two western jet pilots nearly a month and then complaining about the brief detention of Czechs who rode on the train which sped to freedom in Germany. A spokesman said that 77 of the Czech civilians aboard the train which dashed across the border Sept. 11 were returned home at their own request, after a two-day investigation. Thirty-one anti-Communists who engineered the adventure have been given political asylum.

5 Killed In Gun Fight

PUEBLA, Mexico, Sept. 24 — (AP)—Five persons were killed and several others seriously wounded in a gun battle south of here today. The shooting started when suporters of presidential candidate Gen. Miguel Henriquez Guzman attempted to attend a rally. Police said the mayor of Tlacoptepec, an army captain and three farmers were killed.

Market Prices Mixed, Buying In Metals, Oils

TORONTO, Sept. 24—(CP) — Stock market prices continued mixed and trendless today in early afternoon dealings, with selective buying in base metals and western oils. The rapid pace of past sessions eased as volume for the first three hours reached 2,043,000 shares.

Utilities, Constructions, Liquors and Miscellaneous Industrials held firm. Papers weakened sharply.

Base metals turned mixed after a first climb to a record high. Consolidated Smelters and Noranda posted the best gains. United Asbesto climbed steeply in active trading. Cassiar, Golden Manitou, Mindamar and Quebec Manitou showed penny gains. Falconbridge, Quemont, Sherritt-Gordon, Minda-Scotia and Mackeno eased.

Western oils were irregular. Model Oil, Long Island Petroleuh, Calmont and East Crest climbed in heavy dealings. Mid-Continent dipped in active trading.

Senior golds weakened. Giant Yellowknife, Lake Shore, Sigma and Wright-Hargreaves showed declines up to 25 cents. Malartic and Teck Hughes strengthened. Juniors and prospects showed little trading.

Can. Platoon Raids Chinese

WITH THE CANADIAN BRIGADE IN KOREA, Sept. 24—(Reuters)—A platoon of Canadian infantrymen, out to capture Chinese prisoners for strategic reasons, recently turned a Chinese encampment into a free-for-all reminiscent of the best fireworks display back home.

That is how one officer described the raid of the black-faced troops who infiltrated into a Chinese position:

When they had assembled around the sleeping Communists, they broke the silence with demands of "surrender".

The sleepy Chinese seemed not to understand. Then a six-foot Mongolian jumped out of his trench and told the Canadians they were surrounded by Chinese.

With that, the fireworks started in earnest.

Both sides heaved hand grenades and Canadian Bren guns answered the Chinese automatic fire.

One grenade hit Pte. A. Antoine of Saut Ste. Marie, Ont., on the mouth, but didn't explode. Enraged, Antoine, who still carried Communist shrapnel in his right arm from a previous battle, hurled it right back.

Then he went after two Chinese in a trench with his rifle.

When the dust cleared away the platoon, led by Lieut. J. P. MacLean of Toronto, returned with the first batch of prisoners the brigade has taken for several weeks.

Red Dean Holds Prayers For King

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Britain's "Red" Dean, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, led a special service for the King in historic Canterbury Cathedral yesterday.

The Dean, who often visits behind the Iron Curtain and has supported many Communist projects, usually leaves the services to a subordinate.

Special prayers were said in all British churches—Anglican, Catholic and Non-Conformist—for the King's recovery from a lung operation.

At Liverpool Cathedral the National Anthem — "God Save the King"—was recited as prayer.

The Queen and her daughters attended a special service Sunday morning in the private chapel of Lambeth Palace, London residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Chiefs of Britain's political parties laid aside their differences to send a joint message of sympathy to the Queen on the King's illness.

It was signed by Prime Minister Attlee, Conservative leader Winston Churchill, and Clement Davies, Liberal leader.

Germany Equal Partner

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 24 (AP). — A three-day European conference on Germany ended yesterday with a joint declaration by delegates of 14 countries that Germany must become an equal partner in a future European community of nations. A resolution said Germany must recover the same degree of sovereignty as that of other nations, and share a proportionate burden of all obligations, including defence.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24 (CP) — Prices generally were higher on fair demand early today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Some buying again was prompted by poor harvest weather, especially in Alberta where snow fell during the weekend. Frost overnight also was a minor factor in the trade.

A few domestic shipper orders appeared in oats and barley while rye advanced in sympathy with gains on United States markets. Flax was dull.

11 a.m. prices:

Oats: Oct. ⅜ higher 88¾B; Dec. ¾ higher 86½; May ¾ higher 88¼.

Barley: Oct. ⅝ higher 1.26¾A; Dec. ⅝ higher 1.19½B; May ½ higher 1.19B.

Rye: Oct. 1⅜ higher 1.78¼; Dec. 1⅛ higher 1.73⅝B; May 1⅝ higher 1.57⅝B.

Flax: Oct. 1½ higher 4.19; Dec. not open; May ¾ lower 3.98A.

BERLIN, Sept. 24—(AP)—Neue Zeitung, official American news organ in Germany, said yesterday it has cemetery records showing that Russian soldiers had murdered at least 62 Germans in the city of Weimar in six years of occupation.

8th Army Kills 58,000 Reds Since August 18

By JOHN RANDOLPH

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 24 — (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet today said his Eighth Army has killed or wounded 58,000 Communist soldiers in Korea since Aug. 18.

The report covered the entire 150-mile front.

About 80 per cent of the Red losses were in the bloody "Battle of the Hills" in eastern Korea.

The figure represents almost six Red divisions.

Van Fleet said 2,800 Reds were taken prisoner in the same period.

The casualty tolls of killed or wounded have been "evaluated." That is the army's term for the final estimate after all field accounts and reports have been discounted for possible duplication or exaggeration.

Since the Allies pushed off on limited offensives in eastern Korea they have captured enough material to equip nearly a full Red division, the Eighth Army said.

Most of the Red losses were incurred after the Reds broke off the Kaesong truce talks Aug. 23.

During this period United Nations losses have been comparatively light. UN troops have smashed hills on the eastern front.

The Allies have not lost a yard of ground in either North or South Korea.

The Allied picture was not so bright in Monday's ground action. North Korean Reds launched a fierce counter-attack and drove American infantrymen off the highest peak on "Heartbreak Ridge" in eastern Korea.

The Americans had gained control of the peak late on Sunday night. Three soldiers—remnants of a platoon (about 40 men) — had stormed to the top. Reinforcements came up fast and threw back a Red charge.

But, AP Correspondent Stan Carter said, "an overwhelming mass" of Reds then struck from behind a curtain of grenade explosions.

Recaptured

For the second time in seven days the Reds recaptured the strategic height overlooking the Communist supply lines to the north.

Elsewhere on the east-central sector, the Reds tapped at Allied lines in a series of stiff probing attacks. All were thrown back.

The remainder of the 150-mile-long battlefront was relatively inactive Monday, although scattered patrol clashes were reported.

A leaden sky with warmer temperatures covered most of the front.

Loss of the heartbreak peak left the United Nations with a hard choice: Hurl still-heavier attacks against the deadly slope, or end the offensive without one of its greatest prizes.

West of Heartbreak Ridge, another UN outfit fought toward the top of a huge mountain north-west of Yanggu.

By nightfall Sunday they were half-way up. The Reds fought back with rifle fire and grenades.

Flames Destroy Home While Owner Away

FORT ERIE, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP) —Flames destroyed a one-room frame home of Ike Wagner in Bertie township, a mile west of Fort Erie, late Sunday. Firemen found the dwelling in flames when the blaze was discovered by a neighbor. Informed that Wagner was inside, firemen made several futile attempts to enter.

Firemen raked the ruins searching for the body. They learned later that Wagner was not at home when the blaze started.

Car Makes U-Turn On Highway, 5 Hurt

FORT ERIE, Sept. 24—(CP)—Five persons were injured, three of them seriously enough to go to hospital, Sunday night when an automobile making a U-turn in the Queen Elizabeth Way four miles north of Fort Erie was struck by another car.

Driver of the turning vehicle, provincial police said, was John Taylor, 54, of Niagara Falls, Ont., who suffered a chest injury and a possible fractured leg. His passenger, Mrs. Matilda Campbell, 53, same address, suffered shock.

Driver of the second automobile was Thomas Carter, 21, Toronto, who suffered abrasions of the right knee. Also injured were his passengers, Miss Rita Leblanc, 18, of Riverside, Ont., possible fractured skull, broken teeth and injuries to lips, ear and shoulder, and Miss Theresa McKinnon, 19, also of Riverside, Ont., abrasions of the face and left knee.

Wife Of Owner Of Windsor Star Dies In Hospital

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 24. (CP) —Mrs. Hugh A. Graybiel, wife of the president of the Windsor Star, died in hospital here today. Mrs. Graybiel, who was recovering from a severe illness, suffered a heart attack late Sunday. She had been ill two weeks.

The former Alice Wilson, she was the daughter of the late Manuel Wilson and Helen Freeman Wilson of Caledonia, Mich. She was born and received her early education in that town.

In 1913 following her marriage she moved with Mr. Graybiel to Saskatchewan, where they homesteaded near Saskatoon prior to Mr. Graybiel's entering newspaper work with the old Saskatoon Star. They moved to Windsor in 1918.

A graduate of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., where she was a student in the school of speech, Mrs. Graybiel toured much of the United States as a reader and violinist with the Chicago ladies' orchestra . She continued her interest in music in her later years when she was a member and past president of the Music, Literature and Art Club, Windsor's oldest literary club.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Richard A. Graybiel, two grandchildren, Kim 3, and Janet, 2. A second son, Hugh Manuel, born in 1916, died in 1917.

Funeral services will be held from the Graybiel home here with interment in Caledonia.

Driver Dies, 2 Hurt In Head-on Crash

ROUYN, Que., Sept. 24 (CP)—Lucien Cochon, 33, of Timmins died today of injuries received yesterday in a head-on car-truck crash at Lake Renault, 14 miles from here. Mrs. Cochon and Albert Vincent of Arntfield were injured.

Police said truck driver Emile Perreault told them Cochon's car was travelling in zig-zag fashion before the crash. Vincent was a passenger in the truck.

Wage Hearings Tuesday

ROUYN, Que., Sept. 24 (CP)—Jim Russell, spokesman for Local 4278 of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), reported today hearings in demands for wage increases in Noranda and America Mines will open Tuesday in Montreal. The dispute, involving 1,700 workers, is before a council of arbitration set up by the Quebec Department of Labor.

Anxiety Felt

a board attached to the fence in front of Buckingham Palace.

The waiting crowd found its terms reassuring:

"Thank God for that," one woman shouted.

"We're so glad for the Queen," said another.

A tall police inspector read the bulletin aloud over the heads of the jostling throng. People then lined up and filed slowly past for a first-hand look.

Still Serious

Persons familiar with the wording of official royal announcements said the terse statement indicated there has been no turn for the worse, but that the King's condition is still serious. They found no evidence of any immediate medical concern.

Lung resection is the term used for surgical removal of the whole lung or part of it. It has not been indicated how extensive the operation was or which lung was affected.

Medical authorities are in general agreement that the first four or five days after the operation is the crucial period.

As the Sovereign fought his lonely battle for life a little group of Britons kept a prayerful vigil outside the gates of Buckingham Palace.

They were joined after daybreak by persons on their way to work who stopped to ask "how is he?" very much like old friends asking after a neighbor.

Others set for a longer wait in hopes of a new medical bulletin on the King's condition, parked their cars near the palace or sat quietly around the nearby monument to Queen Victoria.

Good wishes poured in from all parts of the empire. Most British newspapers ran editorials expressing hopes for a speedy recovery.

Opinions vary on how long recovery may take, but most authorities hold out for from seven to 10 weeks.

The Queen spent the night in a room near her desperately-ill husband. The rest of the Royal Family was also nearby. Queen Mother Mary, 84, kept in touch by telephone from her residence at Marlborough House.

Duke In London

The Duke of Windsor, whose abdication in 1936 made his brother George king, hurried to London from Paris.

There was still no change, however, in the plans of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to leave next week for Canada.

The 55-year-old King spent the critical night under the eyes of doctors and nurses. Watchers were understood to include five of the eight doctors who took part in the two-hour operation yesterday morning. Dr. Clement Price-Thomas, who performed the actual lung resection, did not remain in the palace.

Fresh Troops, Winter Clothes Sent To Korea

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP) —The United States Army is moving 100,000 fresh combat troops into Korea so that veterans who fought through the bitter campaign last winter will not have to suffer through a second one.

But for those who must stay, the army has stockpiled enough winter gear in Korea to provide every soldier with warm clothing.

The army doesn't intend to be caught short on winter equipment as it was last year. It is trying to give first consideration to the men who endured last winter's campaign.

The wrangling over the Kaesong truce talks has held no promise of a winter ceasefire. The army has made its plans for another cold-weather campaign.

Last winter the distribution of winter clothing collapsed during the big push toward the Manchurian border. Most troops were caught by sub-zero blasts while they still were wearing thin cotton clothing.

2 Airmen Injured As Car Hits Tree

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—Two airmen were severely injured early today and a third escaped unharmed when the car in which they were riding struck a tree 11 miles east of here.

Nick Iwanyszyn, 21, whose home is in Toronto, suffered a broken thigh, two broken legs, a fractured skull and crushed chest. Jack Pyke, of Kingston, received a fractures right arm, gashed left arm and severe shock.

Ronald Long, 21, of Chatham, NB, escaped injury.

The three are attached to the RCAF base at Clinton. En route from Detroit to Clinton, they had apparently fallen asleep, police said.

Newspaper Urges Princess Stay Home

TORONTO, Sept. 24 (CP)—The Toronto Telegram in a front-page editorial today urged Prime Minister St. Laurent not to "delay another hour in telling Princess Elizabeth to forego her trip to this country."

The editorial said the Princess's anxiety at her father's illness should not be increased by the pressure of a tour of Canada, undertaken under the most difficult conditions."

The editorial said: "Dedicated to duty and service, the Princess would be the last one to cancel plans for her trip. Her father, the King, would be the last one to ask her to take this course. But the Canadian people do not wish to add to the burden the King and Princess are carrying."

Atomic Trains

HARRIMAN, NY, Sept. 24 — (AP). — Atomic-powered trains travelling coast to coast with robot engineers operated by remote control were foreseen Friday by Chairman Wayne Coy of the Federal Communications Commission. He raised that possibility in an address at a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the first telegraphed train order.

John Scott Dies Had 40 Years In Newspapers

TORONTO, Sept. 24 —(CP)— John Scott who started as a newsboy and became managing director of one of Canada's largest newspapers died Sunday. He was 77.

Mr. Scott was managing director of the Toronto Mail and Empire from 1927 until 1936 when the newspaper was purchased and merged with the Toronto Globe by W. H. Wright, mining magnate who died in Barrie last week. The combined paper now is published as the Globe and Mail.

Soft-spoken John Scott had a newspaper career that extended over more than 40 years including two years—from 1929 to 1931—as president of The Canadian Press, Canada's national news service.

John Scott was a newsboy with initiative who held his own in a tough business where the choicest corners went to the aggressive. Later he began to hire others to sell papers for him while he improved his education. His record as a newsboy earned him a position as mail clerk with the Saint John Gazette.

A year or so later, as a proofreader on the Saint John Telegraph, he met and married Jane Cahan McJunkin, also an employee of the paper. Mrs. Scott died in 1936.

Interested In Sport

A boyhood accident brought Mr. Scott a game leg but it didn't quench his enthusiasm for sports. In his spare time, he managed a semi-professional baseball team, Saint John Alberts. He made one monumental mistake as a baseball manager—he refused to hire Christy Mathewson, then unknown, later a famous pitcher for the New York Giants.

He went to the Montreal Gazette in 1901 where during the next 26 years he was successively proof reader, reporter, city editor and managing editor.

As the managing editor of the Mail and Empire he was, as he liked to phrase it, the first Canadian managing director of a newspaper he did not own. He came to work at 9 or 10 in the morning and frequently stayed at his desk until early the following morning. He used to say he "liked to see the paper to bed."

Always a quiet and retiring man, Mr. Scott busied himself during his later years at the Mail and Empire with its business management. He engaged Vernon G. Knowles as managing editor and provided lively competition for Toronto's oldest newspaper, the Globe, until the merger of the two papers.

A son, John C. Scott, of King, Ont., is publicity director of the Ontario Department of Health.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING

"Notice any difference in the tea, Jane?"

"I sure do, it's Mother Parker's, isn't it?"

"Yes, but come now, Betty, you couldn't really tell."

"Oh, yes, I could! Didn't I have my family after me for a month to get Mother Parker's for them?"

"Well—I was a long time coming to it—but one day John was shopping with me. He picked up a package of Mother Parker's—read the money back guarantee printed right on the label. 'Here,' said he, 'let's try Mother Parker's—we can't lose.'"

"And are you glad you did try it?"

"I'll say I am—Mother Parker's is simply delicious—we rave about it to everybody."

MRS. DAVID HEFFERNAN

There died in hospital today after a lengthy illness, Mrs. David Heffernan, of North Monaghan township. Mrs. Heffernan was in her 33rd year and was Violet Louise, daughter of Mrs. Louisa Watkins and the late Joseph Watkins. She was born in Peterborough and spent all her life in this city and in the township of North Monaghan.

She was a member of All Saints' Anglican Church and of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion.

There survive her husband, two daughters, Margaret and Eileen, at home; two sisters, Mrs. H. Missen (Annie) of Toronto, and Miss Ivy Watkins, of Peterborough; and three brothers, Horace and Frank Watkins, of Peterborough, and Joseph of Hamilton.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Comstock funeral home, with burial in Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. M. Poole will officiate.

MICHAEL A. LUCANO

Michael A. Lucano, 66, of 616 Aylmer St., died on Saturday in hospital following a short illness. He was born in Caulonia Reggio Calabria, Italy, and came from there to Peterborough 50 years ago. His wife, the former Lucy Sabatino, and a daughter, Mrs. George Masters (Margaret), both predeceased him.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Fred O'Donnell (Marcelle) and a son Michael, both of this city, and another son Joseph in Montreal. There are three brothers in Peterborough, Harry, Frank and Ralph Lucano, and two sisters in Italy.

Mr. Lucano retired from the Quaker Oats Company after many years employment. He was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Funeral will be held from the Anglesley funeral home on Tuesday to St. Peter's Cathedral where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Police Charge Driver

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 24 —(ENS)—More than $300 damage resulted when two cars were in collision on No. 45 Highway one mile west of Hastings on Sunday afternoon.

Twenty-one year old Paul Smith of RR 1 Hastings, failed to stop when he approached the highway coming out of the 10th concession of Percy township. His car was struck by an auto driven by Robert Roote, 776 Duffus St., Peterborough. Smith received minor cuts to his hands, but neither Rote nor a passenger in his car were injured. The car Smith was driving was owned by his father. A charge of failing to stop will be laid by Provincial Constable George Rose, who investigated.

Omemee Rector Speaks At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 24 —(ENS) — Women Ambassadors, rather than Women's Auxiliary would be a more correct designation of the initials WA. So said the Rev. Charles Richmond, rector of Christ Church in Omemee, when he addressed a deanery gathering in Campbellford last week.

Mr. Richmond, a colorful and dynamic speaker, came to Canada from East Africa about three months ago. The purpose of his return is to arrange for the education of his two sons.

In his address to the members of the various district Anglican church bodies, Mr. Richmond stressed the importance of prayer. He told of many experiences whereby he had received help, not only through his own prayers, but also through others praying for him in the work he was doing as a missionary.

He said younger people of the church should train for the mission fields. If they cannot go as a missionary, they should try to donate money to keep up the work of the church, he said, and finally, if a person is not in a position to do either, he can always pray.

In the mission field near Kenya where Mr. Richmond worked, he performed a great many tasks, not only as a member of the clergy, but also as community doctor, dentist, teacher and advisor. He stressed the need of medical supplies in a steady stream to clergy working in remote spots, and believed that all missionaries should receive some medical training.

Mrs. H. L. Enman of Toronto, diocesan officer of the deanery, also spoke. Reports from officials of the various churches in the district were heard.

Delegates and clergy from many churches in the Peterborough district attended the meeting, about 150 attending communion in Christ Church, Campbellford. Special speaker at this service was the Rev. Morris Poole, rector of All Saints' church, Peterborough. The Rev. John McKibbin of Christ Church, Campbellford, was in charge of the service.

After communion service, ladies of the Parish Guild served dinner in the parish hall on Doxee Ave. At the head table for dinner were Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's church, Peterborough; Rural Dean Rev. W. J. Gilling, rector of St. Luke's church, Peterborough; Deanery Officer Mrs. W. Edgar of Peterborough, who was responsible for planning the Campbellford meeting and Mrs. H. L. Enman, Diocesan Officer of Toronto. Mr. Gilling expressed the thanks of the group to the ladies of the Parish Guild for the excellent dinner they had served.

After dinner, members of the clergy met at the rectory to discuss matters pertaining to the work of the Anglican churches in the district. The religious education program was discussed, as were other items and problems of the churches. Plans for future sessions were also discussed. This meeting was presided over by Mr. Gilling.

Tourist Owners Aid In Preparing Summary

COBOURG, Sept. 24—(ENS)—The tourist division of Cobourg Chamber of Commerce is hard at work preparing a summary of the summer tourist business. Assisting the tourist office staff are the several tourist establishment proprietors in this district who are providing figures from their records which will show the number of tourists looked after and data concerning tourist accommodations.

The location of the mobile tourist office in front of the town hall for the summer this year proved very effective as a record number of enquiries were looked after. When the figures are finally compiled, the volume of tourist trade thus indicated will be astonishing, promises H. O. Taylor, manager of the Chamber of Commerce office.

Miss Clarice Atkinson Leaves For Africa

ROSENEATH Sept. 24—(ENS)—Miss Clarice Atkinson started on the first lap of the long journey to Africa as a missionary on Saturday going as far as Toronto for the weekend leaving on Monday for New York. She will sail on the Queen Elizabeth to England leaving New York on Thursday September 27. Miss Atkinson will spend two days in London before going to France where she will take a language study course before beginning work in the Sudan Interior Mission Maradi, Niger Colony, French West Africa, where she is being supported by the Brent Baptist church, Florida.

Miss Atkinson is a 1951 graduate of the Briercrest Bible Institute, Caronport, Saskatchewan.

Previous to leaving the immediate members of the Atkinson family held a family get-together on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Atkinson.

BRANTFORD—(CP)—One kilowatt-hour of electrical energy costing an average two cents is equal to 13 hours of one man's labor, said Roy Galloway, rural supervisor of the Ontario Hydro Commission here, in a talk to the Brant County Federation of Agriculture.

Old Style Political Boss Tries Comeback In Boston

By JAMES F. KING.

BOSTON, Sept. 24 — (AP) — James Michael Curley, one of the last of the old-line political bosses, is attempting a comeback.

Vigorous despite his 77 years, the white-haired campaigner is running for a job he has won four times before —Mayor of Boston.

The "old man" as he is known among supporters — admittedly faces an uphill fight this time.

With the primary Tuesday, he has stiff opposition from two men who grew up in the Curley political machine.

One is John B. Hynes, the "career man" city clerk who unseated Curley as mayor two years ago in his first bid for elective office.

The other is Joseph P. Timilty, who once served as Curley's police commissioner and managed his unsuccessful campaign for re-election as mayor in 1949 against Hynes.

Boston's mayor elections are non-partisan. All three— Hynes, Curley and Timilty —are Democrats. But there's a move among some Republicans to throw their votes to Hynes in the primary.

The 54-year-old Hynes— quiet spoken and methodical —takes pride in emphasizing the two years of his administration have been "unspectacular," but he claims he has "restored Boston's good name."

Curley, always with a flair for the dramatic— boasts of the extensive public works projects carried out during his regimes at city hall and describes them as "living testimonials of Boston's history made under Curley.

The 53-year-old Himilty, a dapperly dressed bachelor financier, has denounced both Curley and Hynes as "grasping, reckless and incompetent politicians." He calls himself "a new man with a new plan" in his first run for elective office.

During a half-century in Massachusetts politics, Curley has served 16 years as Mayor of Boston, four terms in Congress one term as governor, and two sentences in jail — once when he started out in politics by taking a civil service examination in the name of another man, then in 1948 for fraud in connection with war contracts.

Curley doesn't shy away from mentioning these imprisonments in his campaigns— always professing his innocence.

Students Enrol For 'U' Course

Peterborough for the first time has the opportunity of participating in the University of Western Ontario's extension course.

Saturday morning 30 enrolled for the first lecture. The course has also attracted students from Lindsay and Belleville.

Geography is the course this year and the lecturer is Dr. E. G. Pleva, head of Western's geography department.

Dr. Pleva explained that the course is part of the extension work which takes education to the public.

"You would be amazed at the number of Canada's finest citizens who have received university degrees through extension courses," he said.

The lecturer said there were 22 centres in Ontario where such courses are being given. The seven courses are: geography, English, philosophy, psychology, French, economics and history.

When these courses are completed and examinations passed, each successful student receives a certain number of credits towards a degree. The credits needed for a degree are approximately 60 at Western.

The course in Peterborough is actually two courses. The first is geography 20—the earth as the home of man and the various elements of the physical and cultural landscape. Second, geography 45—a study of the regional aspect of the geography of Canada, major landforms, climatic types, soil forms, pastoral and agricultural industries.

Each class will meet for a double session every second week.

High Meat Prices

Presenting his annual report to the shareholders of Canada Packers, Mr. J. S. McLean noted that the Company had made the highest net profit in the history of the firm, $4,126,013. According to Mr. McLean's figures, this must be attributed to the great volume of business done, rather than to high profits on meats, for he reports that the $4,126,013 net profit is equivalent to only 1.16 per cent. of sales, and to 24.4 cents on a hundred pounds of produce, which is just under a quarter of a cent a pound. Thus it seems that packing house profits have little bearing on the high price of meats. The president reported: "During the year under review, housewives have paid for beef cuts from 60c to $1.00 a pound. If the packer's profit (of ¼c per lb.) were entirely eliminated, the housewife would not even be aware of the reduction."

* * *

What, then, is responsible for the high prices? The costs of basic goods—the steers, hogs, lambs, wool, hides—which packers buy and process have risen phenomenally since the pre-war years of 1935-39. The amount of the increase is instructive:

Delivered in Toronto	1 Price per lb. March 1935/39	2 Price per lb. March 1945	3 Price per lb. March 1951	4 Percentage increase 1 to 3
Good Steers, live	5.86c	11.54c	32.06c	447%
Hogs, B-1 dressed	11.80	19.42	34.98	196%
Lambs, live	8.80	14.95	40.36	359%
Eggs, 'A' Large	22.75	35.00	53.75	136%
Creamery Butter	25.75	43.50	75.50	193%
Cheese f.o.b fact'y	12.35	23.00	39.25	218%
Wool, B Super	30.50	46.00	255.00	736%
Hides	10.33	15.00	43.00	316%
Calfskins, light	18.16	23.50	87.00	379%
Edible Oils, Cottonseed, refined	7.49	18.70	32.66	336%

* * *

These percentage increases (column four) are very high compared with the increase in the cost of living index during the same period—79.7 per cent.; the increase in the price of all foods included in that index—133.9—and the increase in general wholesale prices. These increases have mainly gone to cattle dealers and farmers. The farmer is now paying, of course, much more for his feed and labour and machinery than he was during the years 1935-39—but nothing like 447 per cent. more.

* * *

Since the end of March and as of July 31st, some of these prices have shown seasonal advances; for instance, steers went up from 32.06c to 33.07, hogs from 34.98 to 36.75c and eggs from 53.75 to 69.00c. Some items declined in price due to seasonal plenty, notably lambs, butter and cheese. And there have been notable declines in wool (from $2.55 a pound on March 28 to $1.15 a pound on July 31); hides dropped in the same period from 43c to 37c, and cottonseed oil from 33.66c to 21.88c. These are not seasonal variations and may indicate a trend. Meat-eaters hope that the trend spreads to beef.

Privileges For Peterborough Women In The Dock?

Peterborough's Local Council of Women is a praiseworthy organization and seriously discusses ways to improve the health, welfare and happiness of the community, particularly of women in it. The ladies in their improving zeal have turned their attention to members of the sex appearing in court and a committee of the Council made an astonishing recommendation last Thursday at the monthly meeting. They recommend that when women are on trial 'male loiterers be removed from the court room at such a time; also that at least two women of the Council be present during the session.' We paraphrase the recommendation; but that is its gist. This remarkable recommendation was accepted, and the 'convener of laws' and her committee are asked to consult with the Police Matron about it.

There is no Local Council of Men to rise in wrath, so we—keeping our seat and sense gently ask the ladies what kind of courts and what kind of laws they believe this country has?

Do our magistrates and judges permit "loiterers" to hang around the courtroom merely to ogle women in the dock? Those gentlemen you see (or hear about) in court are spectators of the majestic processes of the law. They believe that they can do nothing better with their time than to listen diligently to the cases before the magistrate or the judge. The two ladies whom the Local Council of Women are now asking to attend court when a woman is appearing in it, presumably will also have nothing better to do with their time than to sit (we should never think of using the word loiter) as representatives of the public. Surely they will not be there to protect the interests of the accused woman? That is the task of the judge, the defence counsel, the police and the police matron (who is always present when one of her wards is in the dock). Surely the Local Council of Women do not feel that these officials of the court are not doing their proper duty by women? Surely they do not believe that accused women are in a special category of citizenship—either above or below the male?

And why, pray, should the court be cleared of men when a woman appears before it? There are closed courts and open courts. When the court is closed all spectators are cleared out. When the court is open (as it usually is) all spectators of reasonable mien and disposition are admitted up to the seating capacity of the room. Now, it seems, the Local Council of Women want to have a special kind of court, one that is open to women when a woman is in the dock, but closed to men. Such a hybrid court offends all the traditions of law and liberty. Before the law all men and women are equal. They have an equal right as spectators at a trial and as prisoners in the dock. If women in the court want to ogle men on trial they can, so long as they do not whistle, or otherwise disturb the decorum of the court in their interest and enjoyment of the scene. Likewise male spectators can be interested viewers of the woman on trial. That is their right as citizens.

Women brought up for trial are not a privileged class of society, nor are women attending a trial. The courts and laws are quite adequately established and administered to see that justice is done.

Campaign To Draft A General

The campaign to draft General Eisenhower as Republican candidate for next year's U.S. Presidential election has been intensified during the past fortnight. A report of a recent visitor to the general is interpreted by the "draft-Eisenhower" leaders as meaning that he will respond to a draft call, but that is still a matter of interpretation. And it seems certain that General Eisenhower did not intend that his statement should be so interpreted, for all previous reports emphasized that the draft must be genuine, that there would be no encouragement whatever from the general himself.

A draft of this nature has something of a parallel in U.S. political history, although it is not too close. The possible exception was the case of the late Charles Evans Hughes, who was a member of the Supreme Court in 1916. The Republicans began a draft movement to select him as Presidential candidate, but despite great party pressure, he made no public statement nor did he take any part in the movement. Mr. Hughes, however, had had an active political career and had friends in the inner circle of the party. He accepted the nomination and was defeated by Woodrow Wilson by a narrow margin; in fact, that was the election in which Mr. Hughes went to bed acclaimed the victor, only to awake to find himself defeated.

A probable and deplorable feature of the campaign to draft General Eisenhower has yet to appear, although the path has already been cleared. A "smear" campaign against his candidacy by certain elements in the Republican Party is freely predicted, and the opening bell may have been sounded by a recent article in The Chicago Tribune condemning the general as an isolationist and belittling his capacity and ability as a general. The Tribune has an effective and unscrupulous hatchetman at hand in Wisconsin's Senator McCarthy, and the journal's own adeptness at "smearing" is not questioned. If the draft campaign means that the general will be subjected to the tactics of this combination and its helpers, the best thing his friends and admirers could do for him would be to leave him undisturbed in his present post.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

EVERYBODY has heard the remarkable story of Andrew Carnegie, the poor Scotch boy, who became one of the richest men in the United States and founded and endowed with approximately $235,000,000 a group of philanthropic trusts. The Scotch have a wholesome respect for the value of education, and Carnegie, though his own formal education was broken and sketchy, was no exception. It is no surprise, therefore, that the bulk of his benefactions was in support of education and allied causes, such as libraries. Our own public library owes its existence in very large part to Carnegie's far-sighted generosity. The musical world also is deeply indebted to the Carnegie Trusts. In the United Kingdom alone valuable help has been given in providing funds for making good music available to a wider musical public. In some cases financial help was given to churches in the purchase of new organs. More important, possibly, was the help given to composers, especially if they happened to be not well known or if the nature of their work ruled out its acceptance in the usual way. The works published in the "Carnegie Collection" include such things as Bantock's "Hebridean Symphony", Rutland Boughton's "Immortal Hour", Vaughan Williams' "London Symphony" and Holst's "Hymn of Jesus". In addition to this has been the important collection of Tudor church music; a standard edition in ten volumes and a cheap octavo edition of separate numbers.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT looks as though we shall never again in our time witness such an enormous accumulation of wealth being amassed by one man: the State has ways and means of siphoning off "excess profits". It is logical to assume that the state under such circumstances should do more for the encouragement of the fine arts. It is regrettable that we in Canada have nothing to compare with the British Council and CEMA (Council for the encouragement of music and the arts), which have done so much valuable work in the United Kingdom. Perhaps it is not too much to hope that something of the sort may emerge as a result of the findings of the Massey Commission. The cost of such an undertaking would be infinitesimal compared with the re-armament programme, and the value to the nation would be out of all proportion to the outlay.

✧ ✧ ✧

YOU may have wondered to yourself, gentle reader, why I have chosen to speak of Andrew Carnegie at this particular time. I will tell you. It so happens that the sixtieth anniversary of the opening of Carnegie Hall (first called Music Hall) in New York took place in May this year. Tschaikovsky was induce to come over for the occasion and conducted his Coronation March. He was rather put out by the American habit of describing personal peculiarities of appearance and manner in the newspaper reports: European journalism had not yet caught up with American methods. He was much impressed by the friendliness and the exuberant hospitality of the Americans, which reminded him of his native Russia. One shock awaited him on his arrival in New York: he found to his surprise that he had been booked to conduct no less than six concerts instead of the one that he expected; four in New York and one each in Baltimore and Philadelphia. All these six concerts took place within the space of one month, an arduous undertaking for a man in poor physical and nervous condition.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE did however find time for an excursion to Niagara Falls, and it was then that Tschaikovsky set foot for the only time in his life on Canadian soil. He wrote an interesting letter of his experiences during this trip. The Falls themselves he does not attempt to describe—a wise and self-denying decision which others might do well to note! Concerning his trip over to the Canadian side he says, "I was forced, in order not to be tortured by the thought of cowardice to put on a very ugly costume, to go down under the Falls in a lift, walk through the tunnel and finally stand right under the Falls, which is very interesting, but somewhat frightening."

✧ ✧ ✧

WELL, the 1951-52 season of music is already upon us. The long summer "hibernation"—or should I call it by its correct name of aestivation?—has ended. Lessons have started, and pupils are hard at it preparing for examinations. Choirs have started rehearsing in real earnest, undeterred by the stragglers who will hang on at their summer cottages until they are well-nigh frozen out. Arrangements have already been made for several concerts. Piano tuners are busy. I am glad to hear that the Peterborough Kiwanis Festival will take place next year in spite of the disappointing number of entries last time. What is more, they plan to have the syllabus out next month—that is to say three or four months earlier than has been usual. This is a very welcome move. Competitors have not really had sufficient time in the past to get up their set pieces, and this has necessarily had an adverse effect on entries. It has been unfair to the majority of competitors, who are busy working folk with none too much spare time for practice. It is my sincere hope that competitors will come forward in greater numbers as a result of the earlier appearance of the syllabus. If this does not happen there is an imminent danger that this grand feature of our musical life may disappear, and the impetus that it gives to better music-making lost. Of course we all have our grouses about this or that decision by the adjudicator. Frequently fault is found with the selection of the test pieces. Taken by and large, however, the disappearance of the Kiwanis Music Festival would be felt by all real music-lovers in the city as a severe blow. The question is how much real support each music-lover is willing to give in order to ensure its continuance. This is an urgent problem, and I feel most strongly about it. I trust that all my readers will make a mental resolution, if not to compete, at least to attend one or more evening session in the audience.

✧ ✧ ✧

DURING the summer I ordered some music from an English firm to the amount of £3, or roughly $9. When it arrived I was notified that I could pick up the parcel at the Customs House. On my arrival there I was notified that I would have to pay $1.35, made up as follows: 7½% on the declared value of $9.00, amounting to 41 cents, plus 10% of $9.41, or 94 cents. I have already mentioned the continuation of this barbarous tax on knowledge in despite of resolutions at UNESCO recommending the duty-free exchange of information. When is our government going to do something about it? I must make it quite clear that I am not implying any criticism of our customs officials, who are merely carrying out orders quietly and efficiently. They are a body of men who claim our respect, even if they are forced at times in the nature of their work to do things which we dislike. It is the government which should put an end to sales tax and import duty on books and music, especially when they are of cultural value.

IRANIAN HOUR GLASS

Letter To The Editor

ORGANIZATION OF CEDAR LAKES PARK

Sir: I read with interest your recent editorial on the Cedar Lake park project.

To clarify the situation, I would like to submit the following information.

One of the objects of the Kawartha Conservation Association as defined in the constitution, Article 5 Sectino 3, is "to advocate, work for and foster sentiment and development of suitable areas for public recreational purposes".

On December 15, 1948, The Kawartha Conservation Association made formal application to The Honourable Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, to set aside for public use approximately 500 acres of crown land between Little Cedar and Big Cedar Lakes on the Apsley highway about five miles from Burleigh Falls.

Mr. Scott wrote on January 11, 1949, advising us that he had set aside the area named for this purpose. The Kawartha Conservation immediately invited many other organizations to join with them in promoting this project as a community enterprise.

On October 25th, 1949, Mr. Scott received in his office in Toronto a delegation representing The Kawartha Conservation Association, City Council, County Council, Township of Burleigh, The Chamber of Commerce, Service Club Council, The Recreation Commission and The Canadian Legion. Also present with Mr. Scott were Mr. Wilson, Crown Chief of the Division of Lands; Mr. Wheatley, District Forester and Mr. Cudney, Deputy Provincial Secretary. At this meeting the type of management recommended by Mr. Scott was agreed upon by those present.

Mr. Scott recommended that a charter be obtained and the members incorporated as a corporation without share in capital, as in this way local organizations and bodies would have full control to administer the project as a community enterprise.

On November 9, 1949, the members of the Executive of Kawartha Conservation Association met with the other delegates and recommended that letters should be sent to service clubs, city, county, and township councils, outlining the park project and ask them to send a delegate to a meeting to be called later for the purpose of electing the committee necessary to work—number of charter members chosen and on what basis they should be picked. It was decided to make the invitation as broad as possible in order that as many as possible of the different interests of the community might be represented. (This also was the wish of Mr. Scott as expressed in a letter to the Kawartha Conservation Assoc.) Further committee meetings were held on November 24, 1949 and December 15, 1949, for the purpose of discussing details of charter. It was finally moved by H. Rehill, seconded by Bill Hamilton, that Currelly and Clysdale meet and work out details of application.

Messrs. Currelly, Clysdale and Marshall met January 5, 1950, and drafted out application for charter which Mr. Currelly followed up on with the Provincial Secretary's office.

On March 1st, 1950, a meeting was called for the purpose of determining the name of the park and to name three to five provisional directors. The application for charter required the final name of the park and three to five provisional directions. Because there was doubt as to who should be properly named to act as provisional directors it was moved that the solicitor, Mr. Currelly, be authorized to apply with members of his own staff signing as provisional directors. This motion was approved unanimously. It was approved unanimously that the name of the Association be Kawartha Recreations Incorporated. It was also approved unanimously that the Board of Directors be set at fifteen members, eleven of which shall be elected representatives (one each) of the following groups, the remaining four to be elected by those empowered to elect directors. Groups named were City Council, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Peterborough Fish and Game Association, Kawartha Conservation Association, County Federation of Agriculture, Local Council of Women, Burleigh Council, Canadian Legion, County Council and Service Club Council.

In order to be able to recommend a set of bylaws for submission to all the delegates a meeting was held April 20, 1950.

At this meeting recommendations for a different set-up than that agreed to earlier were made.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE proposed changes were that the directorship be increased to 21, eleven the same as already named and an additional ten to be elected from the membership. It was also recommended that membership be open and not restricted to membership in a named organization. Under this set-up, it would be possible for a block of membership to gain control of the directorship and management of the corporation.

This was absolutely contrary to the original purpose and agreements and I objected on that basis. No agreement was reached when meeting adjourned. I telephoned those concerned to see if they would agree to refer the question of membership and directors directly to the named organizations for their disposition. This proposal was agreed to and all delegates were invited to a meeting in Public Library, May 11, 1950.

At this meeting, slightly more than half of the named representatives were present and they were reluctant to take active steps in organizing because they were not familiar with enough of the details. I had urged several times on previous occasions that we should get these delegates into the organizational proceedings but was over-ruled by others who believed that a smaller committee could work easier. The final decision of this meeting was to refer the question of representatives of membership back to the smaller original committee who were present with Mr. Scott originally.

On May 22, 1950, the original delegates met and recommended —

(a) That Solicitor John Currelly be instructed to proceed with application for charter on basis of memorandum of March 1st.

(b) That the directors be 15 in number. (The same as originally recommended March 1st meeting.)

(c) That the following organizations be given membership as outlined below:

Two members appointee Peterborough City Council, two by Peterborough County Council, one by Township of Burleigh and Anstruther, two by Service Club Council; and one member appointee from each of the following: Local Council of Women, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, County Federation of Agriculture, Recreation Commission, Kawartha Conservation, Branch Canadian Legion, Diocesan Council, Ministerial Association, Peterborough Men's Association, Boy Scouts Association, Allied Labour Council, Board of Education, Nature Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, I.O.D.E., and Peterborough Fish and Game Association; and such other persons as the Board of Directors shall from time to time submit.

It was unanimously agreed to leave the matter of the road to the decision of The Council of Township of Burleigh and Anstruther, The Minister of Lands and Forests—The Honourable H. R. Scott, and the Municipal Engineer—Mr. Marston.

The above decisions were made by the original delegates at the last meeting before the charter was received and should form the basis of the organization.

Mr. Currelly advised me that the provincial secretary's office would prefer that three of the members sign as provincial directors rather than himself and members of his staff. I telephoned the other members and it was agreed that Mr. Fred Marshall sign on behalf of Kawartha Conservation Association; Mr Norman Wilson sign on behalf of the County and the Mayor, Mr. Max Swanston sign on behalf of the City of Peterborough. I did not learn until months later that Mr. Jim Fraser of the Chamber of Commerce signed in place of Mr. Norman Wilson. Mr. Currelly stated that he was not able to get in touch with Mr. Wilson and on his own responsibility in the interest of expediency had asked Mr. Fraser to sign.

Mr. Wilson was responsible for the matter of the road and the by-law involving property rights being completed promptly. This was almost a year ago.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE charter was received early in January of this year. Since that time the provisional directors have held only one meeting with the original committee. At that meeting I again urged that all the named organizations should be brought into the project as soon as possible. This has not been done. The provisional directors have added to their number other good men but the directorate is not representative of all community interests.

As pointed out by the solicitor Mr. Currelly at this last meeting, the directors have a moral obligation but not necessarily a legal one to follow the policy and agreements made by the original committee. I, personally, made assurances both to county delegates and service club and other organizations that so far as humanly possible we would set up this club in a thoroughly democratic and fair way in which all interests of the community and district would be represented. I have been embarrassed by the results to date.

I have been very candid in this outline but I have also taken particular pains not to exaggerate in any way and I have tried to be objective in my viewpoint.

I would like to pay tribute to the late Fred Marshall for the work he did. On matters of policy there were many times I did not agree with him but he was always thinking and working for conservation and made a tremendous contribution to the cause.

Thank you Mr. Editor for this opportunity of presenting these facts to the public.

Sincerely yours,
MILT. CLYSDALE,
Past President Kawartha Conservation Association.

"This is going to be another re-cellulosing job when we get home."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

These are the generations of Noah: Noah was a just man and perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God . . And God said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them: and, behold, I will destroy them with the earth. Make thee an ark of gopher wood; rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch. . . .

And, behold, I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth shall die. (Gen. 6: 9, 13, 14, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And the Lord said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation . . . . And Noah did according unto all that the Lord commanded him. (Gen. 7: 1, 5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Praise ye the Lord. Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord, that delighteth greatly in his commandments. . . . Surely he shall not be moved for ever: the righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance. (Ps. 112: 1, 6.)

Hockey Player Offers Theory To Find Barilko

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—Gus Mortson, Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman, last night offered a theory on the possible whereabouts of teammate Bill Barilko and Dr. Henry Hudson who have been missing in Northern Ontario since August 26.

Mortson, who has often prospected in the north during the off-season, says he thinks there is a chance the aircraft carrying Barilko and Dr. Hudson, a Timmins dentist, might have come down on Big Abitibi Lake, 35 miles east of Cochrane.

"It's a shallow lake and very rough most of the time," said Mortson, attending the Toronto hockey training camp here. "I figure they might have landed on it when the gasoline ran out, that the plane might have sunk and they managed to swim to one of the islands. It's just a hunch, but I haven't seen anything said of search being made around that lake and I think it well worth while. . .

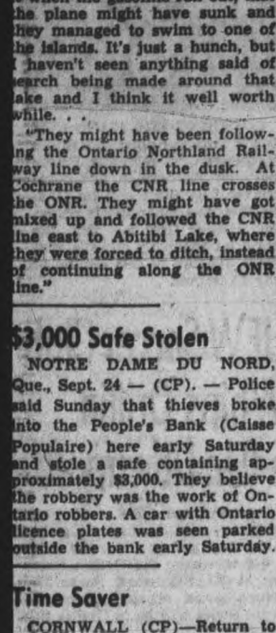
"They might have been following the Ontario Northland Railway line down in the dusk. At Cochrane the CNR line crosses the ONR. They might have got mixed up and followed the CNR line east to Abitibi Lake, where they were forced to ditch, instead of continuing along the ONR line."

$3,000 Safe Stolen

NOTRE DAME DU NORD, Que., Sept. 24 — (CP). — Police said Sunday that thieves broke into the People's Bank (Caisse Populaire) here early Saturday and stole a safe containing approximately $3,000. They believe the robbery was the work of Ontario robbers. A car with Ontario licence plates was seen parked outside the bank early Saturday.

Time Saver

CORNWALL (CP)—Return to standard time here has been postponed until midnight Saturday, Oct. 6, giving residents and district farmers an extra hour to prepare for the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on Oct. 5. The Royal train will arrive at 9:45 a.m., daylight time.



SAFE AND SOUND—Roy H. Neiswander, 45 - year - old sportsman-flyer of Springfield, Ill., stands on a float of his light plane after flying it to Vermillion Bay, Ont. Neiswander was lost for eight days in Ontario's rugged northern lake country when his plane ran out of gas and was forced down. He managed to reach an isolated Indian camp after tramping through the bush.

DIURETIC MAY BE YOUR NEED when you're slightly "OFF YOUR FEED"

Listless, sluggish feelings often indicate your body needs aid in getting rid of waste matter. Millions of people find Kruschen Salts give them happy relief in such cases. There are two reasons why Kruschen does this. First, Kruschen is a gentle yet effective laxative. Second, Kruschen is a diuretic; it promotes healthy action of the kidneys. Quarrel Over Suez Canal Most Serious Crisis For UK

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON, Sept. 24—(AP)—A festering quarrel with Egypt over the Suez Canal—the world's greatest short cut—has carried Britain to its most serious diplomatic crisis since the Second World War.

The stakes are high: control of a waterway linking Europe, Asia and Africa and the natural gateway for an Eastern invader to get at Britain's bastions on the African Continent.

Whoever guards the Suez guards the Middle East and leads the awakening Arab world.

Britain traditionally has played that role. But today the proud Egyptian nation, stirred by social ills and soaked in nationalism, is challenging Britain's supremacy, hoping rather than believeing its own troubles would disappear if the British got out.

Egyptian Demands

Against this backdrop Egypt, in direct talks with Britain and in the United Nations, has demanded that:

1 Britain's more that 10,000 troops, 400 pilots and her technicians quit their bases in the Suez Canal zone and elsewhere in Egypt.

2 Britain and other UN countries uphold her blockade of ships bound through the Suez for Israel—a nation with which she still is technically at war.

3 Britain give up her share of control over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

The Cairo government's claims have been rejected on legal as well as strategic grounds.

Th result has been to embitter Egyptians still further.

Britain has sought backing from Western friends to confirm her role as defender of Suez.

Nearing Showdown

Developing its own logic, the situation seems to be nearing a possible flashpoint which could come this fall if:

1. Egypt sticks to her declared intention of tearing up the 20-year defence pact with Britain in the next month or two.

2. Russia gets off the mid-Eastern fence and openly takes sides with Egypt—and nearby Iran—against Britain.

Egypt's one-sided repudiation of the 1936 treaty would pose the question for Britain whether to hang on to her air, land and sea bases by force. Britain has said she will not recognize such a denunciation.

Grave Problems

Russian intervention would pose grave problems of war or peace whose outcome can only by guessed at.

Britain's answers to Egypt's three demands:

1. The cold war has made it impossible to pull the British garrison out of Egypt. Western military planners, Britain claims, have laid down that Egyptian bases must be held to keep the Suez Canal, indeed all Africa, safe from Communism.

2. Egypt's shipping blockade breaches the 1888 Suez Canal convention which laid down that the waterway should "always be free and open, in time of war as in time of peace, to every vessel of commerce or war, without distinction of flag." The Cairo government, Britain claims, has snubbed 11 countries which have protested more than 50 times at the shipping restrictions.

3. Egyptian claims to annex the Sudan would break solemn pledges to the Sudanese people who have the right to choose themselves whether they want to be independent or part of Egypt. Britain has proposed an Anglo-Egyptian authority to be set up to control the headwaters of the Nile—Egypt's life-stream—in the Sudan but the Cairo government has rejected the idea.

Unable To Recall Night Of Slaving Court Is Told

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—Handsome Wasyl Krawiec, 24-year-old immigrant charged with murdering Jonas Norkus, 29, a railway section worker, took the witness stand Saturday as the first witness in his own defence.

He told the court he could not recall some of the events of the wild party July 21 which ended in the stabbing of Norkus. The railway section worker's body was found on the morning of July 22 lying in a pool of blood on the porch of a railway section house at Agawa, 130 miles north of here.

Earlier witnesses, testifying for the crown, have given their versions of the events of the evening which led to the fatal stabbing.

Mrs. Adele Vinslovas, pretty 25-year-old wife of a railway section foreman, told the court Friday that the party was attended by five persons, herself, Krawiec, Norkus and Mr. and Mrs. Milevoji Bozic.

W. H. Wright, Puplisher Buried In Barrie Cemetery

BARRIE, Sept. 24—(CP)—A simple funeral service was held Saturday for an English immigrant who became a mining magnate and founder of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

The service for William H. Wright, co-discoverer of the fabulous Wright Hargreaves gold mine, was held in the chapel of a funeral home in Barrie. The chapel was too small for the mourners who filled corridors and ante-rooms.

The Rev. J. dePencier Wright, of Trinity Church, conducted the Church of England service and the Rev. S. W. Lewis, of Collier Street United Church, gave a brief description of Mr. Wright's life and philanthropies.

He said that Mr. Wright's life had been interwoven with the growth of Ontario, first in the north, then in the south. His business interests and philanthropies touched the life of the whole province.

There were no honorary pallbearers, in keeping with Mr. Wright's wishes. Active pallbearers were: George McCullagh, publisher of the Globe and Mail and long-time friend of Mr. Wright; J. Maitland Mackintosh, Charles Burns, Harry G. Kimber and A. Harry Seguin, all of Toronto, and J. H. Rodgers, A. E. Flynn and J. B. Craig, all of Barrie.

Among the friends of Mr. Wright who came to Barrie for the service were: J. S. D. Tory, Lady Oakes, Dr. Smirle Lawson, Fred J. Crawford and Charles Hemstead, representing the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

While football is a tricky game, full of strategy and hidden stuff, it has a surprisingly large following. Not all fans, of course, are former high school gridders—though many are—and there is quite a feminine following, too. Season of the year, the shortness of the rugby semester, color of the game, the robust action—we don't know exactly what the appeal is, but it's there. PCVS and SPS games from now till out in November will be drawing goodly galleries at home, and the Orfuns in ORFU competition should get some healthy crowds. Actually, the greatest single sports attraction in Canada and past several years has been the Grey Cup final, the east-west Dominion football playoff.

Though no word has come through from the Tunney interests in Toronto yet, we rather expect the wrestling cards will be starting here soon for the fall, winter and spring months. They've been coming for yeers with a program weekly at the Brock Arena and will no doubt resume within a few weeks. The big grapplers move elsewhere in the summer, places like Oshawa, Belleville and Kingston where hockey arenas are available for large crowds in the hot weather. But as soon as hockey again takes over, they hit for indoor wintertime spots like the dance hall on the Rue Brock here. We see the pick of the talent which shows regularly in Maple Leaf Gardens.

Hockey Around Corner

Also, it will not be long until there is plenty of hockey chatter hereabouts. Eagles and Petes will not get together this year, so there'll be two OHA senior "B" clubs battling it out again. As well as a junior "B" squad, the gallant Oddfellows picking themselves up off the floor, after losing all their equipment since last spring in that disastrous George St. fire, and carrying on. There will be ice in Civic Arena probably early next month, and then the puck prospects will be out there fighting for positions. Some exhibition games likely, too, ere schedules open about Nov. 1. But more again on the hockeyists.

With trophies being voted upon for most valuable players, the ball season is over. Westclox girls' protest apparently has been disregarded or discarded, and the lasses are finished for another softball season. Men softballers, too, have wound it up after a good summer of competition but small crowds. Minor baseballers did well in their play, but there weren't enough teams in the PMBA and we blame the executive for this—not enough hustle by the officials. Then senior Petes did okay through a long Viaduct Loop schedule but collapsed before Oshawa in playoffs. Both these teams are considering a return to a bolstered COBL another season. Oshawa eyed the Intercounty setup for a space but received little encouragement.

Leather Pushers Quiet

At this time of year, boxing takes on added interest in many places, but not here. The amateur mitt game struggled valiantly to hold its own in Peterborough since the war but has almost folded up completely. Some boxing classes may be held during the winter and the odd inter-city match arranged, but there's nothing definite on it so far. We used to have plenty of good fight cards, with top Toronto scrapers showing on local cards, but professionalism began to creep in, some stinkaroos were staged, and fan interest fell off. The manly art could be a lively sport, if properly handled, but it seldom is. The "sour science" Damon Runyon used to call the tin ear industry.

As you can see, this is just a filler column, made up of "time copy" as we say in this game. No spot news. Well, it was written in advance when we heard we'd be heading west with the lacrossers. Don Grant is looking after local sports for us during our absence, and meantime we'll be wiring back lacrosse news daily—if the communications system doesn't break down. It isn't a pleasure jaunt by yours truly, as there'll be plenty of work in a strange town, but he'll enjoy it, don't worry. A good break for us, this trip, and a chance to see the Petes fighting for a Dominion senior lacrosse title. You can't beat that sort of assignment, eh?

No word when we left on the number of entries in the men's City Bowling League....Guess Secretary Mel Akers was too busy in the Kawartha Golf Club finals with Dootch Vitarelli....Major Bowling League is going strong and has some of the top trundlers in town ....The senior "B" puck Eagles are saying very little so far on their player prospects for the coming OHA campaign, but Ned has been busy....Public school soccer is in full swing again, with the teachers giving their spare time as coaches and referees....Grid Orfuns are happy under Frank Gnup, and Stan McBride tells us that fans will see some real razzle-dazzle play when they take on East Yorks in a loop fixture here Wednesday night....PCVS footballers are set now to start play after the gruelling training grind....Oshawa Merchants' ball sponsor, John Harris, is definitely interested in reviving the old COBL for next diamond season....The Intercounty League wasn't interested in an Oshawa application to play there, due to distance....Bert Bailey, OASA convener announces that Parham and Dixie have been ordered to play the third and deciding game of their Intermediate "C" semi-final playoffs tonight (Monday) in the East City Bowl at 8 p.m.....CLA may allow three Petes' lacrosse replacements for Ashbee, Hildebrand and Fitzgerald; in that case, Don McPhail could be the third....Got to go now and catch a plane.

Riverdale Dumps PCVS Juniors 16-0 In Opener

Although better than first expected, PCVS' junior Garnet and Greys dropped their opening game to Toronto Riverdale collegiate juniors Saturday at Morrow Park 16-0.

Mostly new and last year's Junior "B" members, the PCVS squad's afternoon showing against the strong Toronto crew indicated a better future than a week ago.

Even then their attack on the ground was weak, Barry Hollingsworth and quarter Jack Corbett the main ball-carriers. In the air the Garnet and Greys were more successful as Corbett, playing his first football game, had three passes complete, one incomplete and one intercepted.

Ron Stewart, a wee midget, provided fans with several displays of brilliant field running, scoring once and threatening to break into the clear on several other 20-yard dashes. He was very deceptive.

Hit Line Hard

But throughout the game, Buzz Archer and Art Bonsall carried the Riverdale weight along the ground. Both struck the PCVS line with driving power and averaged about eight yards a plunge during the game.

On Riverdale's second play the difference between the teams could be seen. Archer ripped through for 20 yards, followed by Bonsall carrying to the one-foot line. Archer plunged through the centre for the major count. Little Stewart converted neatly for a 6-0 count.

Twice before the first half ended the Riverdales were pounding at the PCVS doorstep but penalties, holding, roughing and offside, cost them yards at the vital moments.

Stewart then took over for Riverdale in the second half, beginning with a 43-yard display of side-stepping, stopping, a burst of speed with nifty dodges. Two minutes later he gathered in a kick at centre and hot-stepped the ball back to the PCVS 25. Bonsall found the left end free and went to the five-yard line where Stewart went over standing up for a 11-0 score.

Buck Benson put the game away in the final minute by snaring a Corbett pass and romping 45 yards in the clear for the final points.

Lineups:

PCVS—Flying wing, B. Hollingsworth; halves, Goodson, Boorman, Lang; quarter, Corbett; snap, Parry; insides, Dundas, Haggart; middles, Walker, Keating; ends, Eastwood, Reader; alternates Whalen, Coit, R. Boorman, Gilbert, Brooks, Dillman, Gillespie, Merrett, Kearns, Strickland, Davis, Sidey.

Riverdale—Flying wing, Benson; halves, Babiak, Archer, Bonsall; quarter, Harris; snap, Abraham; insides, Hunt, T. Hayes; middles, Wray, Rowley; ends, Burgess, Miladen; alternates Nash, Francis, Davidson, Grant, MacIntosh, Mason, Lawford, Oliver, Elliot, Moore, Newberry, Sneddon, Aston, Perkins, McPhail, Bilenkey, Beauchamp, S. Hayes, Harris, McGirr, Followes.

WHERE'S THE BALL? — That's the question Riverdale collegiate seniors (top) are asking as the PCVS Garnet and Greys clear the way for the first touchdown of Saturday's game. Paul Frise, (arrow), husky PCPVS snap, takes out a Riverdale attacker for Murray Grafstein, (unseen), behind him. Grafstein crossed the line for a major score a second after this picture was taken. Ted Sanders (lower) grips the football tightly after receiving a short pass from Bryan Young for the second touchdown. PCVS won the game 12-0.

PCVS Seniors Shutout 12-0 Mighty Riverdale Outfit

Billed as Toronto's collegiate dream team, Riverdale collegiate seniors were rudely awakened Saturday by PCVS' fast-running and low-flying senior Garnet and Greys. Unleashing a fast ground attack coupled with a short, quick air offence, the Garnet and Grey handed Riverdale its first defeat 12-0 at Morrow Park.

Superior blocking and tackling by the PCVS line gave the collegians the edge in the second and third quarters. The blocking provided by Paul Frise, Stan Facendi, Jim Telford, Don Clapper and Hugh Outram allowed the backfield loads of time to untrack yard-gaining plays.

The tackling, by the same players, although at times they were hitting too high for immediate effectiveness, jarred the Riverdale attack.

Bryan Young's quartering of the PCVS squad was afternoon standout, his passing particularly noticeable in the second quarter, and his running, at spurts, throughout the game. Bus Jensen, hard-driving plunger, and steady Warren Brown, were the main ground-gainers.

For Toronto, Wilson, the quarter, was also the outstanding player. During the first quarter his short passes just across the line to ends, Reid and Bruce, temporarily caught PCVS unprepared. His passing then failed, and he resorted to running plays.

Scored Early In Second

PCVS' first scoring play came early in the second after Young carried for 15 yards to the Riverdale 25. He then passed to Norman Hayward to the Riverdale 12. They were forced to kick and Young's boot hit the snowfence for a point.

Minutes later Bus Jensen took a kick at centre and returned it to the Riverdale 36. Young then ran it with Don Scriver to the 10-yard line where Jensen carried to the three. Murray Grafstein tore through middle for the touch. Young converted it neatly for a 7-0 score.

An intercepted pass by Warren Brown early in the second half helped put PCVS in position for their second touchdown. 'PCVS forced Riverdale deep, finally they kicked out to Young who returned the ball to the Riverdale 10.

Young caught the left side of the Riverdale line asleep and went to the three-yard line where he passed to end Ted Sanders for the touchdown. This time the convert failed and left the score 12-0.

A holding penalty, just before the first half ended, cost PCVS another touchdown. A blocked kick at the Riverdale 35, plus a pass for 20 yards, enabled Dave Langhorne to skirt the left end over the line for a touchdown, but the play was called back on the violation.

Riverdale's only scoring chance came in the last three minutes, but the PCVS line stopped the red and blue twice on the five-yard line to give PCVS possession.

The lineups:

PCVS — Flying wing, Craw; halves, Hope, Jensen and Brown; quarter, Young; snap, Frise; insides, Forbes, Outram; middles, Telford, Facendi; ends, Sanders, Hayward; alternates, Pammett, Graham, Foster, Scriver, Fowler, Nicholls, King, Clapper, Stewart, Gilders, Millburn, Langhorne and Russell.

Riverdale — Flying wing, Mighton; halves, Clark, Fisher, Ivany; quarter, Wilson; snap, Stoyan; insides, Johnston, Corby; middles, Leber, Quinn; ends, Reid, Bruce; alternates, J. Wilson, Gadsen, Shapiro, Crighton, Caskie, Cartwright, Elver, Neda, Niblock, Smart, Grey, Duncan, Champ.

Mit Ahearn Gets Leave To Play With Petes

LINDSAY, Sept. 24—Syracuse's AHL entry started sharing ice time with 50 amateur prospects for Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians 'team in the US Eastern League as the training camp swung into its second week here.

In weekend drills the nameless Syracuse team sharpened the defense work with special exercises under Coach Frank Beisler. Deprived of their sticks each five-man unit took turns defending their zone against the attacking team, with emphasis on playing the man instead of the puck. The remainder of the morning and afternoon sessions featured shooting and passing.

Goalkeeper Nit Ahearn left Saturday to join Peterborough Timbermen for the Mann Cup Dominion lacrosse final in Vancouver and 18-year-old Perk Foshay of Lindsay took over his duties. Two other promising amateurs, Ken Schinkenel of Beamsville and Doug Powell of Hamilton, both members of last year's Kin Junior B's, joined the 19 pros in scrimmages.

Playoff Game At Bowl

Local fans will have a chance to see an OASA playoff game tonight at the East City Bowl, commencing at 8:00 o'clock. The OASA has ordered Parham and Dixie to play the third and deciding game of their Intermediate "C" semi-final series tonight at the Bowl.

Each club won their home game making a third game necessary.

Mimico Whips Manitoba 20-12 Nickle Notches 1

BRAMPTON, Ont., Sept. 24—(CP)—Mimico Mountaineers took a 20-12 victory from Manitoba All-Stars here Saturday night in the opening game of the Canadian Junior Lacrosse finals.

But it's no indication that the Mounties — an Ontario all-star team—expect an easy time of the best-of-five series for the Minto Cup.

The Western champions—first Manitoba team to compete in the junior finals—were unaccustomed to the fast terrazzo floor. They found the fast bounces difficult to control and misjudged several shots and passes.

In addition they had only a short practice before the game. Rested and more at home on the floor, they are expected to make it close in tonight's second game.

Third game is scheduled for Wednesday and the fourth and fifth, if necessary, will be played Friday. All games are in Brampton.

The Mounties appeared to be sharper and more accurate around the Manitoba net. They had a 3-2 lead in the first quarter, led 12-9 at the half, 17-12 at three quarter time and scored three goals without a reply in the final quarter.

Manitoba kept things on fairly even terms for much of the first half. Part way through the second quarter the teams were tied 6-6 before Mimico scored three straight goals.

Goalie Hit

The Westerners were unfortunate when their first string goaltender Clark Higks was struck in the face by a screened shot in the last period. Sub-goalie Mike Tymchyshyn took over and may be in the nets for tonight's game.

Fred Sandford, a scoring star for Mimico during the regular season, paced the team with five goals. Derry Davies, speedy forward who played for St. Catharines during the season but was added to the Ontario lineup for the finals, and Dan Meeke, got three goals each.

Fraser Rock and Bill McLean got two each, while single goals were scored by Bill Lubbock, Burt Barager, Jim McIntyre, Bill Riley and Lou Nickle. Nickle, a hard-hitting defenceman, played for Peterborough during the regular schedule.

Lorne Christianson scored four goals for the Manitobans. Lionel Merrick and Bill Welligan got two each and Jim Palmer, Ron Arklie, Doug Smallwood and Ernie Newbauer got the others.

The game was cleanly played. Only eight penalties were imposed—four to each team. Two of the penalties were majors, given to McLean and Glenn Christianson in the fourth period when they engaged in a stick-swinging duel.

Men Wanted

LONDON—(CP)—Letters from women listeners contained requests for more men on a radio program called "Woman's Hour." So the BBC dutifully introduced a short feature called "The Men's Point of View."

3 British Columbia Cities Selected As Sites For Mann Cup Final Series.

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, BC, Sept. 23.—No hits, no runs, no errors—that is the score in BC so far for the Peterborough senior lacrossers. They arrived late Saturday night with no one being plane-sick. A light workout was held Sunday and another one scheduled for this afternoon before opening the best-of-seven Mann Cup finals tonight. Big Merv McKenzie of Hamilton Tigers and speedy Denny Peterson of Mimico Mounties drilled with the Timbermen as replacements for Ike Hildebrand and Don Ashbee. Jerry Fitzgerald did not make the trip west. Permission is being sought to play Don McPhail in his place.

Protests Made

A first-class rhubarb blew up today.

Both the Petes, the eastern champions, and Vancouver Combines, the western winners, howled when the Canadian Lacrosse Association announced where the games will be played.

After tonight's opener at the Forum, the teams will move to Victoria for the second game Wednesday, to Vancouver's Kerrisdale arena Friday, back to the Forum next Monday, over to New Westminster Oct. 3 and back to the Forum Oct. 5 and 6.

The Pacific Coast Hockey League will be operating at the Forum Oct. 5, however, and this game will have to be shifted elsewhere.

Apparently the Lacrosse Association was unaware there would be ice instead of boards on the Forum floor on that date.

Don Crowe, Peterborough playing coach, and Vancouver coach Johnny Cavallin said they disapproved of the games being moved around.

"We think they should be played at one place, so we can accustom ourselves to the floor," Crowe said. "Vancouver has an edge, having played at all arenas."

Cavallin said he wanted most of the games, at least, at Kerrisdale arena, the club's home floor.

Crowe also said he wanted a non-smoking rule for arenas here because his team plays outdoors back east and asked for the eastern rule for faceoffs. In the east, the centre can face off on either side of the ball; in the west the centre must face the opposing goal.

The time here is three hours behind that of Peterborough. The coast also operates on daylight saving time.

The Petes, who were met at the airport by Bob Peirson and Ald. Doug. Miller (they came a day earlier), are doubling up at the St. Regis Hotel. Club officials are stopping at the Georgia Hotel three blocks away in the downtown area.

Jim Kinna of the Combines, who performed for the Petes a year ago for part of the season, also was on hand to meet them. Kinna is quoted in Saturday's News-Herald of Vancouver as saying "Peterborough has almost an all-star team, comparable to the great teams of St. Catharines of some 10 years ago. They were the last eastern outfit to win the cup in the west, back in 1941. The Petes play it in the middle, not fast like the west, but faster than most eastern clubs. They are tough alright, but not tough enough for the Combines."

That big Jim Kinna's pre-series opinion or so he was quoted. The Petes appeared unworried over the report.

11 Hour Flight

Several of them were considerably worried at Toronto's Malton on Saturday afternoon when they boarded the huge Skyliner. But it proved a fast, enjoyable trip. The plane set down twice for 20-minute stopovers at Winnipeg and in Calgary, snow flurries greeting the passengers in the latter place. The craft ranged from 225 to 300 miles an hour and in altitude from 3,000 feet to 16,000. The flight was about 11 hours.

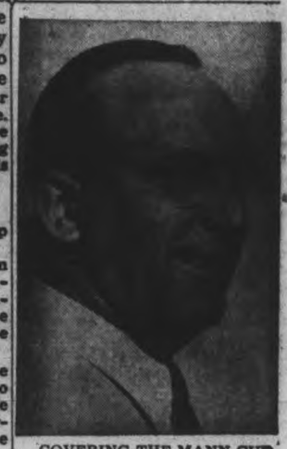
Once Played Lacrosse

Flight Captain Haddon of Winnipeg met most of the team. He played lacrosse for the Salmon Bellies in 1938-39 against St. Kitts and recalls goalie Whittaker as a crusty but capable custodian of the Athletics' cage.

"Some day I'm in Toronto," he said, "I plan to motor down around Peterborough, a place I've never been, the district looks mighty attractive in summer from the air." The crew of the Trans-Canada Airlines all proved competent and courteous.

Out of Calgary, Ken Kingston engaged an elderly traveller in conversation. He turned out to be the owner of three BC coal mines and had a TCA card to show that he had travelled more than 400,000 miles by air. "It still amazes me," he remarked, "how the pilot can set down the heavy plane with 44 aboard without the slightest jar."

The players, wearing splashy new white sweater coats, were pretty tired on arrival after a busy day, and they lost little time in hitting the hotel beds. However, they are rested and loosened up ready for tonight's gutted-stick struggle.



COVERING THE MANN CUP finals which open tonight in Vancouver between the Peterborough Timbermen and Vancouver Combines will be C. J. Perdue, Examiner sports editor. Mr. Perdue flew out with the team on Saturday and his first story appears in this edition of the Examiner.

Lacrosse Player Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 24 (CP). — James Sauriol, 73, who played lacrosse with Cornwall Indians during his youth, died here Saturday.

UEW Soccer Club Whips Orillia 6-0 In Downpour

Peterborough UEW soccer aggregation continued winning Ontario Cup games Saturday with a 6-0 win over the Orillia Raiders at King Edward Park. The return game of the home-and-home series will be in Orillia this week.

The slight rainfall before game time made the ball difficult to control for the first while but when the ground became drier, the teams settled down. The visitors provided the dash but the UEW provided the more polished football.

After several thrusts the UEW opened the scoring when A. Smith sank the ball. Orillia failed to cover up for the goalie and after several brilliant saves, Cotton, unsighted, made the score 2-0.

Meanwhile at the other end Titshall in the UEW goal wasn't overworked but came through with saves on a few Orillia goal attempts.

Shortly before half time Strong broke into the clear on the left side and kicked the ball in the right corner for the third score.

In the second half the UEW were temporarily halted when the Raiders checked and attacked furiously. But near the 25-minute mark, Robertson hit the rigging with a hard shot for the fourth goal.

For the third time in the game the Raiders fought with a pressing offence and the UEW defence was kept on their toes. But again the UEW finished stronger as A. Smith and Cotton rounded the game off with two more goals.

Maurice Booth's Rink Wins Mackey Cup

COBOURG, Sept. 24 (ENS) — A rink skipped by Maurice Booth won the Mackey Cup at Cobourg Lawn Bowling Club to wind up the season's competition for local mixed rinks. The other members of his rink were Mrs. Cliff Boundy, Elmer Cross and Stan Pratt. Second place went to Albert Hoskin and his rink of Mrs. Jimmie Watson, Claire Saunders and J. Holgate.

Toronto West Yorks Win Sr. B. Title

CORNWALL, Sept. 24 (CP).—Toronto West Yorks won the Canadian Senior B lacrosse championship Sunday by defeating Cornwall Pontiacs 11-10 in the deciding game of a best-of-three series. Toronto had to do it the hard way, rebounding back after Cornwall had won the series opener 21-13. West Yorks took a 14-1 victory Saturday.

Eleven Pitchers Have Won 20

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP)—The major leagues today boast eleven 20-game winners.

Vic Raschi, of the New York Yankees, became the fifth American League hurler to reach that charmed figure yesterday with a 6-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. Murry Dickson, of the Pirates, swelled the National League total to six with a 3-0 performance over Cincinnati.

The record for 20-game winners was made in 1903 when 17 hurlers copped 20 or more. That figure was equalled in 1905 and again in 1920.

The American League high of 10 was established in 1907 and duplicated in 1920. The National League high of nine was first set in 1901, reached again in 1903 and for the third time in 1914.

It was the third straight 20-game season for Raschi but only the first for Dickson.

The list of 20-game winners follows with their win total in parentheses:

Bob Feller, Cleveland Indians (22).

Preacher Roe, Brooklyn Dodgers (22).

Sal Maglie, New York Giants (22).

Warren Spahn, Boston Braves (21).

Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phils (21).

Vic Raschi, New York Yankees (20).

Ed Lopat, New York Yankees (20).

Early Wynn, Cleveland Indians (20).

Mike Garcia, Cleveland Indians (20).

Larry Jansen, New York Giants (20).

Murry Dickson, Pittsburgh Pirates (20).

Brooklyn, Yankees Cinch To Battle In World Series

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York's onrushing Yankees and Brooklyn's back-pedalling Dodgers are all but mathematically certain to meet for the fourth time in 21 years, in baseball's top classic; the world series.

Both came close to clinching their respective championships yesterday. The Yankees increased their league lead over Cleveland to 2½ games, beating the Red Sox in the rubber game in Boston 6-1 while the revenge-minded Tigers thumped the Indians for the third straight time in Detroit 9-1.

The Dodgers snapped a two-game losing streak with a 6-2 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies to retain their three-game first-place margin in the National League over the hard-pressing New York Giants. The Polo Grounders, fighting a seemingly losing battle again whipped Boston Braves 4-1.

The Yankees need only to win three of their remaining six to wrap up the flag even if Cleveland wins its final three and Boston its final eight. Two Yankee victories insure at least a tie.

Any combination of four Dodger victories and-or Giant defeats brings the National League pennant to Brooklyn.

Fifth To Win 20

Vic Raschi became the fifth American League pitcher, and the 11th in the majors, to win 20 games this year with an eight-hitter over the Red Sox. It was his third straight 20-game winning season.

A single by pinch hitter Johnny Mize in the seventh drove in the tally that broke a 1-1 tie and paved the way for a three-run Yankee inning. Mize also doubled in the two- run eighth as Chuck Stobbst wen down to his eighth defeat.

Virgil Trucks climaxed a lost-weekend for Cleveland, pitching the Tigers to their third straight win over the faltering Indians.

Trucks helped win his 13th game by collecting three hits and driving in two runs. Vic Wertz climaxed a five-run sixth against loser Mike Garcia with a three-run homer.

Preacher halted a panic in Brooklyn, hurling his 22nd victory against only two defeats with a six-hitter against the Phils.

Roy Campanella who returned to action Saturday following a skulling last Monday, had a perfect day with four for four including his 32nd homer. His first inning homer off Bubba Church gave the Dodgers a lead they never relinquished.

Sal Maglie hurled his 22nd victory for the Giants, holding the Braves to one run despite giving up 13 hits. Bobby Thomson's triple highlighted a two-run eighth.

Murry Dickson won his 20th game for the last place Pittsburgh Pirates who swapped shutouts with Cincinnati. Dickson won the opener 3-0, with a five-hitter. Howie Fox pitched the Reds to a second game 2-0 win.

Tom Poholsky and Gerry Staley pitched St. Louis Cardinals to a 9-3 and 5-2 double win over Chicago Cubs before 18,013 fans.

Philadelphia's Athletics won their 13th doubleheader, tops in the majors with a 12-4 and 8-3 sweep over Washington Senators. Gus Zernial regained the RBI leadership from Ted Williams, 127 to 126, by driving in three mates.

A six-run seventh gave St. Louis Browns an 8-7 victory over Chicago White Sox.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Underdog Argos, Alouettes Win, Three Tied In Second

By The Canadian Press.

It was "underdog weekend" in the Big Four Football Union, Montreal Alouettes tripping the previously undefeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats 17-16, and Toronto Argonauts dropping Ottawa Rough Riders, 17-10.

All of which adds up to the fact that Hamilton still is in top spot with eight points while Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal come next with two victories and three losses apiece for four points.

In the Western Canada Union Saturday, Edmonton swamped Calgary, 30-11, to remain well in front of the pack and Saskatchewan downed Winnipeg 30-17.

In Saturday's college exhibition games, McGill shaded Sarnia 16-14 at Montreal; Queen's downed McMaster 7-3; Varsity walloped Ontario Agricultural College 26-0 and Western routed Windsor 21-1.

In Edmonton, the Eskimos rolled to victory over the tail-end Stampeders before 10,000 fans to maintain their six-point, first-place lead.

Lost All Four

The Stamps now have dropped all four of their meetings with the Edmonton squad but they made a better fight of it than the score indicated. They made more first downs, outrushed the Eskimos and gained more yardage through the air.

Edmonton touchdowns were scored by Roland Miles, Rollin Prather, Ted Tulley, Harry Bunting and Jim Chambers. Coach Annis Stukus booted four converts, the other point coming on a rouge.

At Winnipeg, playing before a crowd of 9,600 fans, the Roughriders took over second place.

Victory for the Riders, which snapped a four-game losing streak, was featured by quarterback Glen Dobbs who completed 16 of 21 passes for a gain of 279 yards. He also got a touchdown.

Other major scorers for the victors were Bob Pelling, Nelson Greene, Jack Nix and Jack Russell. Red Ettinger booted four converts.

For the Bombers Tom Casey, Ron Vaccher and Andy Sokol got the majors with Joe Aguirre converting two.

Ground Attack

In Montreal Sunday, the Alouettes came from behind with an impressive second-half ground attack to end Hamilton's victory string before 20,133 fans.

After being outplayed and outscored by the powerful Hamilton machine in the first half and trailing 13-6, the Als found locomotion in the third quarter with halfback Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts at the throttle.

Even so, the Als were on the short end of a 16-15 count as they went into the final quarter.

Herb Trawick provided the winning points when he flattened Ralph Bartolini in the Hamilton end zone for a two-point safety touch in the fourth quarter.

Roberts harvested 15 of Montreal's 17 points, ripping through the Hamilton line for two touchdowns. He converted both and also booted an 18-yard field goal.

The Tiger-Cats, threatening until the final gun, produced two touchdowns, two converts, a field goal and a deadline kick. Paul Gibson and Hal Waggoner got the majors, Tip Logan the 38-yard placement and two converts and Fred Kijek the single.

At Toronto Saturday, 16,520 fans were on hand to see the Dominion champion Argonauts, a shadow of their 1950 driving club earlier this season, come up with a masterful exhibition for their second victory of the year—both over the Riders.

Tough Football

It was tough, hard football all the way with the outcome a toss-up until Doug Smylie went over for his second touchdown of the day in the final quarter.

Argonauts led 6-2 at the end of the first quarter when they took advantage of a fumble by Hal Hatfield on the Ottawa 44. An Al Dekdebrun-to-Marvin Whaley forward brought the ball to the 14 and Doug Pyzer crossed the line around Ottawa's left side for a major. It was converted by Nick Volpe.

Bruce Cummings, who kicked two singles in the first quarter, got another for the only counter of the second session.

Tom O'Malley did some classy heaving in the third when he sent Bob Simpson, Alton Baldwin and Howie Turner off on a touchdown gallop from the Ottawa 10. Bob Gain made the convert.

O'Malley then kicked a single to give the Riders a 10-6 lead but Smylie knifed through on the left side for a major, converted by Volpe, to give the home team a 12-10 margin.

Toronto's final major started when Bob Marshall intercepted an O'Malley pass on the Ottawa 26. Ted Toogood carried it to the Ottawa 3 of an aerial play and Smylie crossed over to wind up the scoring.

Toronto Leafs Sell McCormack

TORONTO, Sept. 24 (CP). — Johnny McCormack, Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey player, was sold Saturday to Montreal Canadiens. The purchase price was not announced.

Leaf manager Conn Smythe said the sale was in line with a promise Smythe had made to Frank Selke, general manager of the Canadiens, that Montreal would the first chance to obtain McCormack, with the Leafs for two seasons.

McCormack was sent to the Leaf farm club in Pittsburgh early this year following his mid-season marriage. It was generally believed at the time that his transfer was punitive in that he had married without the Leafs' permission.

However subsequent developments showed Leafs intended to bring him back in time for the playoffs. They were defeated in that plan when he suffered a broken collar-bone in American Hockey League playoffs.

Cantor, Savoie To Decide Lightweight Title

MONTREAL, Sept. 24 (CP). — It's a Toronto-Montreal set-up tonight for the Canadian lightweight boxing championship, the principals being Solly Cantor of Toronto and Montreal's Armand Savoie.

The fight, a 12-round bout being held in the West-end Forum was sanctioned by the Canadian Boxing Federation as a title scrap as L'il Arthur King of Toronto vacated the crown on becoming a United States citizen.

It will be the third meeting between the two inter-city rivals, Savoie won the first bout in Toronto last spring, stopping the Toronto boy on a TKO. Cantor took the second this summer with a clean-cut decision.

Both fighters are reported in tip-top shape with Cantor a 6-5 favorite to take the verdict. Cantor scaled 137 Saturday but expects to enter the ring around 134 while Savoie will just come under the 135-pound limit.

$250 Bond

Each fighter has posted a $250 forfeit with the Montreal Athletic Commission.

Wilfrid Sampson of Quebec, president of the Canadian Boxing Federation, and Fred Steele, chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission, will be on hand for the match, first lightweight championship bout here since Danny Webb lifted the crown from Dave Castilloux four years ago.

In the semi-final, Canadian bantam champ Fernando Gagnon of Quebec, meets Myreal Olmstead of Springfield, a hard-hitting featherweight who has a good record in New England.

Jailed 8 Years For Stabbing At Brantford

BRANTFORD, Sept. 24 (CP)—Donald Devereux, 23, was sentenced to eight years in penitentiary Saturday after a Supreme Court jury found him guilty of a reduced charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Violet Thompson.

The jury deliberated for more than four hours before discarding the murder charge and bringing in the manslaughter verdict.

Devereux heard the verdict and sentence with the same poker-faced calm he displayed throughout the five-day trial.

Mrs. Thompson's body was found in the cab of Devereux's truck early on the morning of June 16. She had been stabbed. The truck was parked at the rear of the home of Mrs. Thompson's estranged husband, Charles Thompson.

Devereux, testifying in his own defence, said the stabbing had occurred after he refused to agree to stay with Mrs. Thompson on the night of June 15.

Got Out Of Truck

He said that he was driving Mrs. Thompson to her husband's home when they stopped and got out of the truck.

"She came at me with a knife in her hand," Devereux said. "I reached out and grabbed her wrist. The next thing I knew, she was down on the ground. She was on her side, and sort of twisted. When I turned her over the knife was in her body."

Mr. Justice Kelly, in passing sentence, said to Devereux:

"When the jury brought in the verdict, I rather suspected it was for a major crime and was going to give you a considerable length of time. But I'm going to reduce it to practically half. I sentence you to be imprisoned for a term of eight years."

Three Men, Woman Charged In Abortion

KITCHENER, Sept. 24 (CP) — Three men and two women have been charged with conspiracy in connection with an abortion allegedly performed on a Kitchener girl, and police are continuing questioning of about 20 other suspects.

The 21-year-old girl, who is also charged, became sick after the operation and is in St. Mary's hospital here.

Police have arrested Peter Romanick, Richard Neil and Mrs. Jean Graf, all of Kitchener, and Clarence Kiboda of nearby Bridgeport, in addition to the girl.

Police said Mrs. Graf had been asked to help the girl before the abortion. They added that Mrs. Graf named Kiboda as the man who took the girl to the abortionist. A later search of the Romanick home uncovered instruments said to have been used in the operation, police said. In addition they found a wallet, containing $2,170, between some newspapers on a kitchen table.

Loaded Thief

TORONTO, Sept. 24—(CP)—It didn't take long for two suburban Etobicoke policemen to discover why a housebreaking suspect they were chasing yesterday didn't run fast. Searched at police station; James Brown, 34, discarded, in addition to his suit, six pairs of women's panties, a half slip, two pairs of women's pyjamas and one strapless brassiere. Police found several hundred other similar items at his home.

CATHARINES, Sept. 24 — (CP)—Christmas mail deliveries may be even more chaotic than usual this year due to the change in post office delivery arrangements, Fred Hurry, secretary-treasurer of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, told a meeting of carriers here Saturday. Representatives of carriers in several Niagara district communities attended the meeting.

Gains Status

SINGAPORE, Sept. 24—(AP)—Britain's dollar-encrusted Singapore gained official city status today amid the pomp of empire and clashing color of its mingled races. Before today, this rubber-and-tin-rich city of more than 1,000,000 persons had been classed as a "town."

Tries To Aid German

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP). — A formed United States Army flier, who was saved from death in 1944 by a German civilian, is trying his best to do a favor for his benefactor. The flier, Harold C. Shackleton of North Providence, RI, has filed an affadavit attesting to the heroism of Bruno Ewald Paul in an attempt to prevent the deportation of the German and his wife Margit.

Will Reduce Taxes

FORT FRANCES, Sept. 24 (CP) —Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, told a nomination meeting of the district of Rainy River Liberal Association that the Liberal party, if elected, would lower the present cost of living through reduced taxes. J. M. (Mel) Norman, sitting Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Rainy River, was nominated to contest the riding in the next provincial election.

VOL. CIII. No. 70 — MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1951

WITH A PRACTISED EYE, Dr. H. A. Kent, principal of Queens' Theological College, Kingston, lays the cornerstone for Trinity Hall, which will contain Trinity United Church's new Sunday school. The ceremony was Sunday morning. The hall is being built on the spot original planners of the church picked for it in 1918, when the church was built. AT LEFT, Bob Huffman, brother of contractor Charles Huffman, steadies the stone as Dr. Kent reads a prayer of dedication.

Murder Case Sent On To High Court

Ruling On Committal Hinges On Evidence Of Quarrel In House

Mrs. Lilliam Thompson, 35, was today committed for trial on a charge of murdering her husband, Roy after a quarrel August 25 in their Howden Ave. home.

Mrs. Thompson is charged with shooting her husband, a scrap metal dealer and veteran of the Sicilian and Italian campaigns, after an argument over him taking the family car for the evening.

Her 12-year-old daughter, Betty, and neighbors testified at the preliminary inquiry that she had said: "I've shot him."

The evidence was all in last week but there was an adjournment while defence counsel T. J. Carley, KC, hunted for precedents in which a magistrate had freed a person charged with murder at a preliminary inquiry.

"In view of the fact there has been a quarrel and no other evidence of an affirmative nature—explaining, qualifying or raising any defence—it is my duty to send this case on for trial at the next criminal assize," said Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, giving judgment.

Shows No Emotion

Mrs. Thompson, hatless and dressed in a brown dress and light coat, leaned forward to ask the police matron, Mrs. Mel Shadgett, what was the decision. She showed no sign of emotion but stood up, opened the door of the prisoner's box and walked rapidly away to the cells.

While her defence counsel cited precedents of acquittals on preliminary trials, she listened attentively. Once she asked for a drink of water.

"There is no evidence of intent or motive," said Mr. Carley. "The only evidence is 'I shot him.' It does not exclude self defence or accident."

"The evidence indicates that Mrs. Thompson, instead of looking for the destruction of her husband, was looking for his preservation. She was trying to quieten things. She tried to stop him going out in the car and later called for a doctor."

Before committing the accused, he argued, the magistrate must feel that a jury, properly instructed on law, would probably convict the accused.

Can Presume Intent

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC, said he saw eye to eye with Mr. Carley on the law but intent can be presumed.

"Oh no, not in a murder charge," interrupted Mr. Carley.

Magistrate Philp intervened saying that Mr. Bradshaw was on sound legal ground in an actual trial but he thought this presumption questionable in this preliminary trial.

"The jury can infer intent from the surrounding facts," said Mr. Bradshaw. "Each quarrel is different. It is not in your (Magistrate Philp's) province or mine to usurp the power of a jury and say they would not make that inference.

"There is the evidence of her 12-year-old daughter of a quarrel and this was supported by a neighbor . . . evidence she admitted firing the shot . . . evidence of an argument when she would not give him the car keys. It is for a jury to decide on intent."

Magistrate Philp conceded that it was a "very narrow decision" but the quarrel was the deciding factor that made him decide on committal.

Former Hospital Matron Dies, Aged 79

Matron at the Old Peoples' Home and later at the old Civic hospital in Peterborough for some years, Miss Ellen (Nellie) Webster died Sunday in a Peterborough hospital. She was 79 and had been hospitalized for a year.

Miss Webster was born in South Dummer, the daughter of the late Thomas Webster and Mary Ann Finnie, and received her education there. She was one of nine children.

Later she moved to Peterborough where she became matron at the Old Peoples' Home and later at Civic hospital. She retired about 30 years ago, and except for the past year in hospital has lived in Lakefield.

A member of Lakefield United church, she was president of the Women's Association for five years and was active in the Red Cross. For the past two years she has not been active in this work.

Surviving are two brothers, Albert of Cottesloe, and Lorne of Peterborough.

The body is resting at the Hendren funeral home in Lakefield, where funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield United church will officiate and burial wil be in Ray's cemetery.

Cornerstone Of Trinity Hall Laid By Principal Kent

Plans made 35 years ago were partly realized Sunday morning when the cornerstone for Trinity Hall, the recently started adjunct to Trinity United Church, was laid by Dr. H. A. Kent, principal of Queen's Theological College, Kingston, and 1950-51 president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of The United Church.

At the time of the construction of the church in 1916, the officials of the church planned for an adjoining hall on the southwest corner of the property. By next spring, it is expected the hall will be completed.

These facts were included in the remarks of the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, minister of the congregation, as he spoke briefly at the service.

After the regular morning service, at which Dr. Kent gave the sermon, the congregation walked in processional to the partly finished building preceded by the choir, Dr. Kent, and Dr. Gordon.

The service at the laying of the cornerstone was brief. After a responsive reading, Dr. Gordon offered prayer, and remarked briefly on the history of the church, mentioning two original members of the building committee, R. F. Downey and R. J. Kidd both present at Sunday's service.

Sealed Box Placed

Dr. Kent then placed a sealed copper box in the wall and completed the placing of the cornerstone. In the box, presented to him by Mrs. F. D. Carver, a Trinity church Sunday School teacher for many years, were church papers, a copy of the Examiner, a list of the newly appointed church officials, and some church publications.

In the box as well were the contents from the cornerstone of Charlotte St. Methodist church, the precursor of Trinity church. Charlotte St. church, where the Clinic now is situated, was built in 1873 and abandoned after the new church was built 43 years later.

In his sermon, Dr. Kent congratulated Trinity's congregation on "a forward look into the future. This will surely be a great day in the history of this congregation."

As his text, he chose the 112th psalm: "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."

He asked "Why do we go to church?" and answered with a second question—why did the Jews always wish to go back to Jerusalem even when it was in the hands of foreigners? To the Jew, as the church seems to many people, Jerusalem seemed a second home, and a place of which he had happy memories.

"There may seem to be rough weather ahead," he said, adding that the church flourished best in difficult times, and saying that despite gloomy predictions over the past few hundred years, this civilization has not yet toppled. It may survive yet, he said.

Music sung by the choir included "Glorious is Thy Name," by Mozart, and the processional, "This Stone to Thee in Faith we Lay." Organist was Donald Kennedy.

City Gets Smokes From Winnipeg

Peterborough is getting delivery of Buckingham cigarettes these days from a company warehouse in Winnipeg. Supply is confined to the flat containers.

Shipments of Tuckett's Marguerite and Imperial White Owl cigars have been suspended for the last six weeks. This dislocation of distribution is the effect of the strike of employees in the Imperial factory in Montreal and at Tucketts in Hamilton, now in its seventh week.

Hamilton workers were taking a vote this afternoon of proposed terms of settlement.

On the local retail front, the only pouch Buckinghams were on the shelves of dealers who customarily purchase in large quantities.

Picketing of the several plants has cut off delivery to the trade Tuckett employees declared a strike for wage increase and cost of living bonus in wage contracts subject to renewal, according to a Hamilton news report.

Army Approves 'Canada' Patch

OTTAWA, Sept. 24—(CP)—A grey shield - shaped "Canada" patch has been approved for men of the 27th Infantry Brigade who are going to Europe, the Army said today.

It can be worn on the sleeves of his tunic by any man who has been officially told that he is soon to go overseas. The brigade is going in November.

The patch is the same French grey color as the one used in the Second World War by the Third Canadian Division.

Near the top of the shield will be the word "Canada" lettered in gold.

There will be four variations of the shield according to the unit the man is with. Men of the Rifle Battalion will have a shield with a rifle regiment horn imposed on it. On the Highland Battalion's shield will be a Scottish thistle. On the Infantry Battalion shield will be a bayonet.

Men who belong to other units of the brigade will wear a plain shield.

All University Grads Hired By Industry

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (CP)—The Labor Department said today that Canadian industry has provided openings this year for almost every university graduate and summer employment for practically every undergraduate who wanted it.

A report to the department from the executive and professional division of the National Employment Service disclosed an unusually heavy demand for university graduates and undergraduates.

Heaviest demand was in the engineering field with openings for approximately 3,000 graduates. The 1951 graduating class of engineers numbered only 2,450.

At the beginning of August there were only 172 graduates still registered as seeking employment.

Executive Asks Paving Priority

"If city council lets another paving contract next year, would somebody please insert a clause ensuring us priority in completion over any other towns engaging the same contractor."

So said an executive of one of Peterborough industries. "This is not a complaint, but it is a genuine suggestion to the members of the council who are on the job in 1952.

"Last year the Bennett Paving Company left us to the last because they had one or more paving contracts somewhere else. Result was Monaghan Road, to mention one street, was tied up for months, with unnecessary inconvenience and loss to people.

"This season it is the Warren Paving, and it transpires that they have another paving job, and they are getting around to Peterborough last. They broke up the road in front of our plant two months ago, and we just have to put up with it.

"After that experience of two years, there is no doubt that Peterborough people are very friendly and agreeable. We let the contractors have their way showing that we had a lot of patience and we are well supplied with the spirit of forbearance. Just for a change, let us assert ourselves next year if we have more paving work to be done."

Asks Moslems Fight Reds

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sept. 24—(AP)—Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, head of the Chinese Moslem League and former Nationalist Defence Minister, called on all Mohammedans last night to "band together in the common fight against Soviet Russia." Pai, in a radio address beamed to the Moslem world, also urged Mohammedans to steer clear of India's Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

Three Men Hurt In Crashes On Highway 28

Three men received minor injuries Saturday night in two accidents on Highway 28.

When their drivers became blinded by headlights, two cars crashed headon on a straight stretch of the highway, a mile-and-a-half north of Peterborough. Howard Bailey, 24, RR 2 Omemee was driving his 1935-model car south when he collided with the northbound car of Patrick Fay, 48, Kingston.

Bailey received treatment at Civic hospital for cuts on the head and his passenger, Herbert MacDonald, 21, Park St., was detained overnight after sustaining cuts on the face and on the back of his head.

Fay, driving a 1951-model car, was uninjured.

Damage was about $500 to both cars.

OPP Constable Wallace Mohns, who investigated, reported a mist that reduced visibility.

Car Rolls

Keith Gillespie, 22, Buckhorn, received head cuts when the car in which he was a passenger rolled over a couple of times in the west ditch, two miles north of Young's Point.

The 1934-model car was being driven north by Victor Sage, 28, also of Buckhorn. Somehow Sage lost control and the vehicle went into the west ditch where it rolled over a couple of times.

A Department of Highways official took Gillespie to Dr. H. E. Gastle, Lakefield, and then to St. Joseph's hospital.

OPP Tom Fitzpatrick investigated.

2,000 Anglicans At Service Of Witness

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—More than 2,000 Essex County Anglicans overflowed a spacious downtown theatre Sunday in a public demonstration of faith at their annual service of Witness.

The event has grown into the biggest single religious movement of the Church of England in this district. Massed choirs and clergy from all county churches moved in solemn procession from nearby All Saints church behind cross-bearing servers and flag-carrying choristers.

Very Rev. R. C. Brown, Dean of Huron and rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, said the purpose of true witnessing is to bring men and women face to face with Jesus.

Free Fumigation

COBOURG, Sept. 24 (ENS)—A skunk in a garbage can gave the wife of a Gore's Landing merchant a most unpleasant experience recently. She was about to put some garbage in the can outside the rear door of the store when a skunk, which had been rummaging in the garbage can, let fire his scent from close range. The discharge not only subjected the woman to a most potent treatment but also permeated the store with the stench.

Clergy Request Special Prayers

Special prayers for the King were offered Sunday in most Peterborough churches, and throughout Ontario.

Religious leaders in Toronto and Kingston today called on churches to again offer special prayers on Tuesday.

The requests came from James Cardinal McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto; the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Anglican Bishop of Toronto; and Archbishop John Lyons, of Kingston, metropolitan of the Anglican diocese of Ontario.

Underwriters Elect Henwood President

At their annual picnic Saturday, the Life Underwriters of Peterborough elected officers for the coming year. New president is Edwin J. Henwood.

Vice-president is Leslie Reichardt, secretary is Percy A. Martyn, and directors are: Robert Faulkner, Donald Riggs, I. Victor Frederick, Jack V. Hayes, Kenneth C. Dalrymple, George F. Miller, K. E. Nolan, and C. I. Richards of Lindsay.

Speaker was Jack Allen, and about 50 members of the association were present.

Bishop Cody Opens New Hospital Wing

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 24 —(CP)— Most Rev. John C. Cody, Roman Catholic Bishop of London, Sunday laid the cornerstone of the new 190-bed addition to Hotel Dieu Hospital and dedicatged it 'to the greater glory of God and the relief of pain and suffering."

The event was another milestone in the history of the hospital which has served the community since 1888 under the direction of the Sisters of Hotel Dieu of St. Joseph.

Others who participated in the program were: Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare; Hon. William Griesinger, Ontario minister of development and planning, and Mayor Arthur J. Reaume.

Reds Jail 127

HONG KONG, Sept. 24—(AP)—The Communists at Shanghai last Monday sentenced 127 "counter-revolutionists" to varying prison terms, according to reports reaching here. Thus far this month, the Shanghai Reds have announced execution of 185 "enemies of the people" and the sentencing of 513 to prison.

Baby Sisters Stabbed

SPRINGIELD, Mass., Sept. 24—(AP)—Two baby sitters were stabbed to death yesterday and their divorced father was taken to hospital under police guard with serious knife wounds. Dead were 18-month-old Donna Marie Golden and her sister, Sherrie Ann, 3. The father, Robert J. Golden, 24, was found beside them. He is a totally-disabled veteran.

St. John Groups Plan Winter, Fall Activities

Men's and Women's divisions of the Peterborough St. John Ambulance Brigades have announced plans for a program of fall and winter activities to fall in line with the city's defence committee's activities.

Miss Florence Vickers, in charge of the women's division, said today that classes in first aid will start Oct. 1. Classes will continue for six weeks and will be followed by a six weeks' course in home nursing.

Classes will be held in the division room at the Salvation Army Temple.

At present there are about 30 women in the women's division. The majority of them have their bronze medallion.

Want Women

"We want as many women as can come to take this course," Miss Vickers said. "We have enough qualified demonstrators in the brigade to take care of them."

In the men's brigade plans are underway for the forming of the second division, and to expand the first division.

E. G. Baker has been appointed divisional superintendent of the new division; Dr. John H. Fraser, division surgeon and C. J. McDonald, division secretary.

"Our main objective at present is to expand the St. John Ambulance work in the city and to get this second division organized," Mr. Baker said today.

700 Make Journey To Martyrs' Shrine

More than 700 people of the Roman Catholic parishes of this district went on the pilgrimage to the Martyrs Shrine near Midland Sunday.

The trip was made by special CNR train, starting from Campbellford with calls at Hastings, Peterborough and Lindsay. Weather was clear and pleasant during the day. High mass was celebrated by Bishop Berry.

TRAFFIC WAS HELD UP Saturday night on the Lakefield highway when two cars crashed head-on in a mist, a mile-and-a-half north of the city. Howard Bailey, 24, RR 2, Omemee, and his passenger Herbert MacDonald, 21, Park St. both received cuts on the head and were taken to hospital. They crashed into the 1951-model car of Patrick Fay, 48, Kingston going north, shown above. Both vehicles received $500 damage.

Weekend Toll Of Deaths Climbs To 31

By The Canadian Press.

Thirty-one persons died violently in eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed that of 31, 19 died in street and highway mishaps and six were drowned. One died in a fire, two in shootings and two in an explosion. One man was found dead in a rooming house and police are holding a woman for questioning.

Ontario reported 31 deaths, Quebec nine and Nova Scotia one. All six drownings occurred in Ontario.

In Toronto, Mrs. Eleanor Stuart, 40, and her three children, Ethel, 9, Susan, 8 and Joseph, 7 months, were drowned when Mrs. Stuart drove a car into Lake Ontario at the east end of the city Police said three of the car's doors were locked.

Three Huntsville, Ont., men were drowned in Owl Lake in Algonquin Park when their canoe overturned during a fishing expedition. They were Jack (Scottie) Fenton, Huntsville fire chief, Ken Darling and Harold Fletcher.

Hit By Trolley

Harry Shangan of Thorold, Ont. was killed when he was run over by an interurban trolley car as he slept on the tracks on the outskirts of Thorold.

At Fountain Falls, Ont., Mrs. Dennis Dunn, 26, was killed in her home when a .22 rifle in the hands of her six-year-old son accidentally went off. The body of John J. Burton, 50, was found in a Brantford, Ont., rooming house and police said they were holding a woman for questioning.

Three children were killed by cars near their homes. They were 17-month-old Rose Ann Hartounian of St. Catharines, Ont., Gilbert York, 7, of Penetanguishene, Ont., and Robert Tuck, 6, of Kitchener, Ont. James Sergeant, 68, of Toronto, was killed when he stepped into the path of an automobile in Scarboro township near Toronto.

Killed when cars in which they were riding went off the road were: Mrs. Bertha Heiderman of Griffiths, Ont., near Eganville, Ont.; Mrs. Marion Tobin, 26, near Stratford, Ont.; and Warren Sharpe, 19, of Toronto, near Bracebridge, Ont.

Louis Catchpole, 75, his wife, Elizabeth, 72 and their daughter Evelyn, all of Owen Sound, Ont., were killed near Mount Forest, Ont., when their car swerved onto the wrong side of the road and ran head-on into an oncoming truck-transport.

In Toronto, Lloyd Conklin, 49, died from injuries received in a two-truck collision. Reginald Durrant, 18, of Brantford, Ont., was killed in a collision.

Killed By Shotgun

Near Montreal Robert Baribeau, 16, was killed and four other teen-aged youths wounded by a shotgun blast. Police are holding Antonion Houle, 45, a junk dealer, in connection with the shooting.

Ulric Boisvert, 45, and Charles Briant, 47, died in a Montreal hospital from burns suffered in a packing-plant explosion and in Chicoutimi, Que., Reginald Legendre, 22, was burned to death when fire destroyed the house of an uncle with whom he lived.

Louis Petronzio, 62, walked into a moving taxi in Montreal, fell back on the road and received fatal injuries when a car passed over his body. At Beauport, Que., Louis Gerwain, 13, was killed when he was knocked from a bicycle.

Three men were killed in a three-car crash near Chicoutimi. They were J. P. Louis Berube, Quebec City; Gerard Gauthier of Maudville, Que., and Wildy Simard.

At Cheticamp, NS, four-year-old Marie Poirier suffered fatal head injuries when a truck in which she was a passenger went off the road and she was thrown against the windshield.

WRECKED AT 65 MILES AN HOUR—The cars of the London-to-Liverpool Breakfast Express lie across the tracks near Northampton, England, after the train plunged off the right-of-way at 65 miles an hour. At least 11 persons were killed when the crowded train left the tracks, and 46 seriously injured.

Work Tonic For 92-Year-Old

MacDONALD, Man.—(CP) — William Arbuthnot of MacDonald is a man who lives by the strength of his convictions. For him, work is tonic.

He celebrated his 92nd birthday recently by registering for a job at the MacDonald airport. For the past 10 years he has worked with road gangs on highways around Portage La Prairie.

Arbuthnot boasts good physical condition, has a strong clear voice and gets around as well as persons who are only a quarter of his age. He says "work is top stuff," and that nothing better has been invented for keeping a man in shape.

Mrs. A. L. Williamson Buried In Omemee

OMEMEE, Sept. 24 (ENS)—The funeral of Isabel Williamson, widow of the late Arthur L. Williamson was held Saturday at 2.30 p.m. at her home with the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt officiating.

Mrs. Williamson was born in Omemee in 1874, a daughter of the late Hart Williams and Mary Jane Rice, and has resided here all her life. In 1897 she married Arthur L. Williamson, who predeceased her eight years ago. She was a member of the United Church.

She leaves one son, Lorenzo, at home, and three daughters: Mrs. E. Hazelwood (Girtie) of Hastings, Mrs. T. Osborne (Verna) of Lindsay, and Mrs. D. Carnochan (Millie) of Oshawa. Two daughters predeceased her, Mrs. Fred Evans (Myra) and Mrs. Geo. Linsdell (Lillian). She also leaves 15 grandchildren and five great grandchildren. She is survived by one brother John Williams of Omemee.

The bearers were: Messrs. George Linsdell and Harry Nicholson of Peterborough. Ernie Hazelwood and John Ferguson of Hastings and Don Carnochan and Archie Beavis of Oshawa. Burial was in Emily Cemetery.

Civility Not Servility

CHRISTCHURCH, NZ (CP)—There is very little tipping in any occupation in New Zealand and hotel workers are opposed to the practice. "We aim at civility, not servility," F. G. Young, secretary of the Hotel Workers' Union, said in evidence before a Labor Control Commission.

CAMBRIDGE, England (CP)—Here's a fellow who passed his examinations while lying down on the job. Geoffrey James, 16, was allowed to write his papers while in hospital with an undisclosed illness. He obtained honors in four subjects.

Good System

MONTREAL (CP) — There are three good reasons for the fact juvenile delinquency is not a great problem here, said Assistant Inspector Ovila Pelletier, director of the police juvenile club. He listed these as "good parents, good children, and good organizations contributing time and money to help the children."

India Seeks Ambassador To Send To Red China

By HAROLD K. MIBKS.

NEW DELHI, Sept. 24 — (AP) —India is seeking a top-notch diplomat to fill one of its most important posts, that of ambassador to Communist China.

Sardar Kavalam Madhava Panikkar, 56, bearded rotund writer, journalist and public official, is ready to come home from the job he has held since the Peiping regime started operations in 1949.

Officially Panikkar has asked to be relieved because his wife cannot stand the rigors of another North China winter, but there has been speculation he wishes to return for other reasons, among them that Mao Tze-tung's regime has not come up to the expectations Panikkar raised in earlier reports to his government.

Will Return.

The choice of his replacement still is anybody's guess. But it appears certain that Panikkar — home only once for consulations since he went to China in April 1948 as ambassador to the Nationist government at Nanking —will be back in India before winetr.

It was Panikkar who received much of the blame from Western observers for India's position on Communist China— its insistence that the Chinese should be allowed into the United Nations, its refusal to name the Communist regime aggressors in Korea.

Prior to his selection as ambassador to China he was a member of the Indian delegation to the 1947 United Nations General Assembly.

A good mixer and clever host in the closing days of the Chinese Nationalist regime in Nanking. Panikkar failed in Peiping to break into the "inner circle" of diplomats.

As a non-Communist, Panikkar dealt largely with minor Chinese officials, depended for much of his information on newspaper and other published statements, had a back seat at public functions.

Thomas Kennedy Dies In Lloydminster

MARMORA, Sept. 23 (ENS) — Thomas Kennedy, a former resident of Marmora died recently in Lloydminster Hospital. He was born in Blairton on October 19, 1864. For some years he lived in a residence west of Crowe River, now occupied by Gerald Warren being employed at that time at Deloro. In 1908 he moved to Alberta to homestead one mile north of McLaughlin. Two years later he was joined there by his wife and family. In 1920 he returned to Ontario choosing Guelph for residency. Here he remained until the spring of this year when he returned to the west to make his home with his daughter Mrs. Jennie Adams at McLaughlin. He is survived by his daughter and two sons Harry and Roy also in the west.

The funeral service was held in Lloydminster United Church with Rev. I. Holter oficfiating. Burial took place in Lloydminster cemetery.

Harvest Thanksgiving Service In Marmora

MARMORA, Sept. 24 (ENS) — The harvest thanksgiving service at St. Paul's on Sunday morning which took the form of Choral Communion was taken by the rector, Canon J. M. Brownlie and was largely attended.

The interior of the church was tastefully decorated with flowers which included a fine display of dahlias the gift of Dr. H. Hammond, autumn foliage, fruits and vegetables.

Flowers on the altar were in memory of Joseph Scott and his two daughters Nellie and Eileen, the gift of Mrs. Scott and family. Prayer for the recovery of the King was offered in the course of the service. Traditional harvest hymns were sung.

Rally Service Held In Marmora Church

MARMORA, Sept. 24 (ENS)—Children of St. Andrew's United Church Sunday school participated with the regular congregation in the special Rally Day service. The service was conducted by the pastor Rev. George D. Young, BA, BD, who in place of a sermon, told of the life of the African boy who visited Canada last year with the English missionary Ted Tucker.

In addition to the prayers appointed for the service, orayer was offered for His Majesty the King. The church was well filled for this annual service.

Marmora Lodge Celebrates Its Centenary

MARMORA, Sept. 24—(ENS)—The centenary of Marmora LOL 319, whose charter dates back to Sept. 22, 1851, was observed in a threefold manner in Marmora town hall on Friday evening. Festivities commenced with a supper served in the council chamber by the members of Harmony LOBA 600. Then followed a program of speeches and music with the Worshipful Master, Cecil Holland, as chairman.

This opening number was "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." In his greeting the chairman mentioned the honor he felt being the Worshipful Master in its centennial year. He expressed pleasure that the Grand Master of Ontario East and two other Grand Lodge officers should be present.

County Master Ernest Coulter, of Moneymore, extended congratulations to the lodge and referred to the erection of the church, the school and the Orange Lodge in the rural sections in the days of their settlement. Past Mistress Mrs. Ada Potts, of Harmony LOBA 600, elected Mistress of that lodge at the time of its organization, touched upon the value of the LOBA in Protestant circles and the type of womanhood expected of its members as she extended congratulations.

County Chaplain Archie Sinclair, of Tweed, said he was happy to associate himself with the rejoicings of the occasion and wished the lodge prosperity in the years ahead.

With Mrs. A. H. Rennie as accompanist, Mrs. A. L. Brady, of Tweed, delighted the gathering with her violin offerings. Past County Master W. J. Cottrell followed with a historical sketch of the first twenty years of the lodge's activities. It received its warrant under date of Sept. 22, 1851 when at the age of 21 Thomas C. Campion (son of the pioneer settler Colonel Campion) became its first Master.

Further diversion was forthcoming as X. P. Mayhew, of Stirling, playing his own guitar accompaniment, sang a couple of humorous songs. Wor. Bro. Rev. H. Beare, Deputy Grand Chaplain, followed with a speech in which he tendered congratulations and dwelt on the principles of the Order.

A vocal solo "Would God I Were the Tender Apple Blossom," was sung by Mrs. Vernon Woodcock, of Stirling. Deputy Grand Master Richard Sanderson, of Havelock, conveyed his congratulations and sketched the history of the Order in which it had helped to maintain law and order on this continent. Worshipful Mistress Helen Holland, on behalf of Harmony LOBA 600, voiced that lodge's congratulations. Right Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman, Grand Master of Ontario, brought the greetings congratulations of Grand Lodge and referred to the assistance the Order can render the Protestant churches and the assistance they can render in return. Tweed Salvation Army band played a number.

Wor. Bro. T. E. Potts, oldest member with 55 years of membership, was final speaker. He said that while the past had been very fully commented upon, the future of the Order called for consideration and he hoped the Protestant youth of today would swell its ranks and become effective members.

Thanks to all who had contributed to the welfare of the event as a whole were voiced by Past County Master W. J. Cottrell. The program closed with the first verse of "Abide With Me" and the National Anthem.

The dance which followed was one of the most successful ever sponsored by the lodge. Next year Springbrook LOL 442, the neighboring lodge, of which the Grand Master of Ontario East and his brothers are members, celebrates its centenary.

SALISBURY, England—(CP)—After two years' work restoration of the 400-foot spire of historic Salisbury Cathedral now is complete. The steeplejacks who did the work were congratulated by civic authorities on the speed of the job.

Ask Grain Fields Protected From Air Attack

REGINA—(CP)—The greatest civil defence threat in Saskatchewan would be an incendiary-bomb raid on grain fields, says John Probe, civil defence director.

Wheat fields extending for miles across the Prairies would be vulnerable to air attack by an enemy wishing to cut Canada's food supplies.

Mr. Probe said in an interview that in early fall—when grain all over Saskatchewan ripens at the same time—a single bomber with 5,000 one-kilogram magneslum bombs similar to those used on London during the Second World War could drop a bomb a second at 150-yard intervals for 500 miles.

The techniques of farming would have to be changed to eliminate the continuity of grain fields.

Mr. Probe suggested strip-farming systems, checkerboard summerfallow, and burning of grass and weeds on road allowances.

School children might have to be taught to fight grain-field fires.

The provincial fire commissioner's office is studying techniques of extinguishing possible incendiary crop fires.

High Market On Cash Basis Not Like 1929

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Current stock market prices inevitably bring thoughts of the high markets of 1929 and the crash of that year.

Greenshields and Company, Montreal investment firm, take note of this in their current market letter, and compare the conditions of the 20s and today, with advantage to today's market.

The letter says in part:

In the 20s an artificial market situation had been built up gradually by an excess of credit in the form of margin accounts and bank loans. As a result, the market reached levels which had little relation to corporation profits, with some stocks selling at more than 40 times earnings and yields generally dropping well under two per cent.

Today, margin accounts are the exception rather than the rule. Investment today is largely on a cash basis, and there is ample evidence that most of the funds now invested do not come from speculators seeking quick profits, but rather from institutions and individuals who are taking the long view.

A great part of the buying has been done for investment trusts, pension funds and the like. Also, buying from European sources has been very conspicuous lately, along with United States buying.

Circumstances being entirely different, there is no likelihood that the market will collapse now for the same reasons that it did in 1929.

This does not mean that the market is invulnerable. Forces which cannot now be clearly seen may bring it to an end.

In the meantime there is, of course, the possibility that speculators will be tempted to intervene now on a larger scale, which might easily result in erratic movements of quotations. At this point, however, the underlying value of good Canadian stocks for permanent investment still look good.

To the foregoing comment by Greenshields, might be added the following:

The small investor, particularly should guard against uninformed action.

Try To Get In

As he sees market prices going higher and higher, he may be inclined to regret more and more that he didn't get in on some of the opportunities of the last few years.

This brings him to a mood where he may be inclined to dash in before it is too late. In this mood he often plunges with little thought and without getting competent advice. He is particularly susceptible to a "sales talk" from promoters trying to make an easy dollar.

The facts of the case would appear to be that Canada is in for a continuing period of expansion, and that well-run companies with a stake in the country are bound to profit.

Accordingly, no matter what may happen to the market temporarily, it is difficult to see how one could lose in the long run by investment in the right places; if one is prepared to leave his money in the market if a setback should develop.

But the investment business is much too complicated to be tackled without advice by the lay person who looks at it only occasionally. Accordingly, he is wise if he seeks advice from investment firms in which he has confidence.

Not that the best informed of investment men can give him any guarantee that they will be right. In the end, his decision is his own responsibility; but, with informed advice, he can make his decision more intelligently, and with better prospect of success.

Charge Germans Using Most Steel For Cars, Not Western Tanks

BONN, Germany, Sept. 24 (AP)—Allied officials say too much Ruhr steel which could be used for Western defence is rolling around as shiny new German cars.

The Germans now have more cars than ever before. Allied officials claim many of these should be tanks bolstering Western armies in the defence of Western Europe.

British officials are especially irked that the steel scrap they want to make tanks is going into German cars which can be delivered after a few months wait. British motorists must wait seven years for delivery of new cars.

Fal Down

The Germans have fallen down on their agreement to supply 700,000 tons of scrap to Britain by last June. As a result British officials say their steel production is likely to be reduced this year to 750,000 tons fewer than planned.

German Politicians claim the industrial Ruhr must keep up its civilian production, and hence Germany's living standard, to ward off the threat of Communism.

Actually the Western powers have done little to tap the tremendous potential of the Ruhr to contribute to Western defence. Even the Ruhr's surplus productive capacity has not been tied in to the Western defence program—and there is still no organized move by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to do so.

US and British officials here say Western Germany is the only industrial nation with sufficient slack in its economy to make a sizeable contribution to defence without sharp slashes in consumer goods output.

Yiddish Shows Make Hit On Broadway

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(AP)—Now is the beginning of the theatrical season when audiences have high hopes of new shows.

At the moment, however, the immediate record is the return of Mae West in her everlasting and delightful "Diamond Lil" and two American-Yiddish musical revues called "Bagels and Yox" and "Borscht Capades."

Miss West has been playing "Diamond Lil" since she first wrote it in 1928. She thinks she is about through with it but, judging from the enthusiastic reception she got the other night on Broadway, she may not be.

"I'll admit I'm permanently type cast," she said. "'Diamond Lil' is like 'Hamlet,' but funnier."

Miss West's performance of the Irish-American side of New York has been a profitable property, not only as a stage vehicle but as a novel which sold more than 94,000 copies.

The two other Broadway openings so far depict the Yiddish side of Manhattan's cosmopolitan character.

"Bagels and Yox" and "Borscht Capades" both will probably run as long as "Abie's Irish Rose," judging from the laughter and applause at the opening nights but you have to understand the subtleties of Yiddish humor to get full appreciation.

A Bagel is a Jewish roll. The "Yox" means a Jewish belly laugh.

Lou Saxon, master of ceremonies of "Bagels and Yox," announced that this musical revue would be in English. A great deal of it was, but the punch lines were mostly in Yiddish and so the humor was lost to much of the audience.

The same situation is true with the musical "Borscht Capades" which is a beautiful show pictorially. Mickey Katz, star of the show, said that it would be enjoyed whether the audience understood little or no Yiddish.

Boy Violin Player Selected For Tour

REGINA—(CP)—Jack Griffin, 18, has been awarded a high honor by the Registered Music Teachers Association of Canada. He has been selected as violinist for the 1951 fall concert tour of Western Canada. Boyd McDonald of Saskatoon will be pianist on the tour.

This marks the first time a Saskatchewan male violinist has been chosen. The association sponsors two tours annually. For the fall tour one performer is a pianist and the other must be a violinist or vocalist. The spring tour is for one pianist only.

Jack has already won several honors, including the Mendal scholarship for the most promising violinist in Saskatchewan at the 1951 music festival.

The tour takes in 17 cities from Vancouver to Winnipeg, and is expected to last all through October.

Food Poisoning Hits 38 At Wedding

LAMONT, Alta., Sept. 24 (CP)—Thirty-eight persons, including the bridal party—were stricken by food poisoning at a wedding reception Saturday. Many collapsed while dancing.

Doctors said more than one-third of those attending the reception at Elk Island Park were rushed to hospital. All but five were released this morning. The rest were expected to leave later today.

Dr. M. A. R. Young of Lamont Hospital said the bride and groom the bridesmaids and other attendants were among those treated.

The first victims were taken ill two hours after eating a cold wedding supper of turkey and vegetables. Others became sick six hours after eating.

Samples of the food will be sent to University Hospital laboratory in Edmonton for testing to find the exact cause of the poisonings.

All of the town's four doctors worked through the night treating the ill. The 100-bed hospital and clinic was jammed, with extra beds set up in wards.

Suffocating "Hot Flashes" stopped or strikingly relieved—in doctors' tests!

• Are you going through "change of life"—suffering the "hot flashes," nervous tension, irritability, weakness and other types of functionally-caused distress of this difficult time?

Then . . . here's hope for you. In tests by doctors—on their own patients—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave relief from such distress. Complete or striking relief! In case after case!

• • •

Surely you know that Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action! Surely you know what it has done for others!

But do you know what it will do for you? Not if you haven't experienced the relief of tension, "flashes" and irritability it so often brings at such times!

Before another day has passed—try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound . . . and discover how much easier your "change of life" may be!

NOTE: Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is grand, too, for the functional pains, cramps, and "weak" feelings of menstruation! Millions of younger women, and girls, use it for this purpose! It strikes directly at the cause of menstrual distress!

Lydia Pinkham's action through sympathetic nervous system—relieves distress of the "hot waves"!

Sail 2 Years To Safety German Pair Barred

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 24—(AP)—A two-year, 7,500-mile voyage from Germany in a 35-foot sailboat came to a tearful ending for a middle-aged German couple yesterday when they were denied admission to the United States.

Immigration authorities ruled that Bruno Ewald Paul and his wife could not enter because they have no papers.

The sturdy couple was sent to Ellis Island, immigration detention station at New York, to await action on their appeal from the Miami decision.

The Pauls, with their Scotty dog Cognac, sailed from Hamburg Aug. 21, 1949. Their passage was dependent upon the winds, since the craft had no auxiliary engine.

Spiritual Goals

HONEY HARBOR, Sept. 24 (CP)—William Cranston, publisher of the Midland Free Press Herald, said Saturday that Canadians are placing too much emphasis on the material prosperity resulting from current industrial expansion. He told the regional conference of the Ontario Junior Chamber of Commerce Canadians should look back to their historical heritage and forwarded to "the social, cultural and spiritual goals of national life."

Body Identified

NIAGARA FALLS, NY, Sept. 24 (AP)—A body recovered from the Niagara River was identified Saturday night as that of one of the victims of the sinking of the tug Sachem last Dec. 18. The body was that of Russell McKinney, 49, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Twelve crew members were lost when the tug sank on a run from Buffalo to Dunkirk, NY.

Milkman, 88, Dies

STRATFORD, Sept. 24 (CP)—Ephraim Dunsmore, the first man to deliver a bottle of milk in Stratford, died at his home here Sunday. He was 88. He was a farmer and dairyman before moving here in 1926 when he began milk deliveries which covered almost every home in the city.

Knocked Out Of Boots

STAYNER, Sept. 24—(CP)—George Henderson, 23, of Midland, was knocked right out of his boots when struck by an automobile while walking on Highway 26 Saturday. He was taken to hospital in Collingwood with a broken leg. Driver of the car was Pte. Jack Bresoline, of Camp Borden.

Gananoque Man Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 24—(CP)—A member of one of Gananoque's pioneer families, Charles John Cotton, 75, died here Sunday. He had lived in Toronto since 1940.

Calgary Street Cars Sent To The Country

CALGARY—(CP)—The last of Calgary's streetcars has been hauled into the country.

Once Calgary had 87 of the old rattlers. Now they have been replaced by new trolley coaches. The streetcars are scattered.

Two were put at the entrance to Bowness Park, one as a shelter and the other as a refreshment booth.

Some were dismantled for spare parts. Five others were burned in a car-barn fire.

Most were sold for $125 each, after steel parts were stripped off. They are used as boys' craft rooms; hunting lodges, summer shelters for campers and living quarters in oilfields.

None are allowed within the city limits.

Report Denied

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (CP)—Army headquarters last night issued a statement by Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of Canada's 25th brigade in Korea, denying a report that one of his battalion commanders, Lt.-Col. Jacques Dextraze of Thurso, Que., had been relieved of duty and would shortly return to Canada.

Record Grain Load

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 24 (CP)—All previous records for a single grain cargo were broken yesterday when the new Canadian steamer Scott Misener passed through locks here carrying 670,311 bushels of wheat.

Tweed Doctor Dies

KINGSTON, Sept. 24 (CP)—Dr. John Ferguson Doyle, 66, died in hospital here following a short illness. Before coming to Kingston a year ago he had been a practitioner in Tweed, Ont., for 22 years.

Elected President

KINGSTON, Sept. 24—(CP)—Brig. J. E. Genet, of Belleville, was elected president of the Canadian Signals Association at the organization's 19th annual meeting which ended here Saturday. He succeeds Brig. A. W. Beament.

Hook-Wannamaker

The marriage of Joan Parsy Wannamaker, eldest daughter of Mrs. John Forsythe of Bridgenorth and the late Fred Wannamaker, to Mr. Kenneth Sidney Hook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hook of Lakehurst, was performed on Saturday at the George St. United Church parsonage, Peterborough, by the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews.

The bride was dressed in powder blue orgette with white flowered design and wore a poke bonnet and gloves of matching material and a corsage of red roses. Miss Nancy Heard of Bridgenorth was similarly dressed in yellow and wore pink roses.

Groomsman was Douglas Usher of Toronto, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held at the bride's home in Bridgenorth with her mother receiving in a gown of wine crepe with lace trim and grey hat, assisted by the groom's mother attired in navy.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Windsor and Detroit, the bride wore a grey gabardine suit with navy accessories.

The couple will live at Bridgenorth.

Want Stocking Sizes Changed

HULL, England — (CP)—The long, short and fat women of Britain may at last get action on an old grievance.

They want stockings made in leg, as well as foot sizes, and at a national conference of women's clubs here they decided to take the matter to the ministry concerned.

At present, tall women find that standard-size stockings leave them with knees agape, while stout women must slit the tops or suffer tourniquet tightness.

As for small women, this is what five-foot Mrs. E. Hunt of Nottingham has to say: "I have so many folds at my stocking-tops that I dread to think of the bumps at my thighs if I wore a really slinky dress."

60 Young People Meet After Church At Parsonage

"Open house" was held at the George St. United Church parsonage after the evening service Sunday and more than 60 young people were welcomed by the Rev. Arnold Mathews and Mrs. Mathews.

A sing song of spirituals and other songs was led by Mr. Chas. Forsyth with Mr. Charles Allen at the piano. Mr. Leo Copp announced the formation of a new discussion group for young men and women to be led by Mr. Forsyth. The first weekly meeting will take place Sunday morning from ten to 11 o'clock.

A join social committee from these groups, assisted by Mrs. C. Allen, Mrs. S. Wildman and Mrs W. Young, served delicious refreshments.

BG's End Golfing With Dinner And Presentations

Business Girls of the Peterborough Golf Club held the closing field day and dinner on Sunday. Special guests for the dinner were Mrs. C. G. Graham president of the ladies' section, Mrs. C. B. Westbrook and Mrs. Maurice Holt, who assisted in the presentation of trophies and prizes.

Burtol trophy to the 18-hole player was won by Miss Isabel Bullock and the Waddell tropny for nine-hole player by Miss Marley Jobbitt.

Runner-up for the Burtol was Miss Eleanor Whittaker and for the Waddell, Miss Marie Leahy.

Low ringer score for the year was held by Miss Bullock and Miss Doris Savigny of the nine hole group. Miss Loretta Sullivan received a prize for the most improved game in 18-hole play and Miss Barbara Glaum on nine holes.

The 18-holers field day prize for low net went to Miss Gladys Mortimer and for low gross to Miss Jean Castle. Mrs. Myrtle Hunt had low gross on nine holes.

Competition of the day was "lowest number of putts," won by Miss Mary Sullivan, and Miss Marjorie Lacheur on nine holes. Miss Marg. Behan and Miss Marie Leahy made the longest drives in each group, and Mrs. Shirley Sackville and Miss Esther Might made the best approaches.

Evening Auxiliary Honors Mrs. Dodd

HASTINGS, Sept. 24 (ENS)—The Evening Auxiliary of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. Ross Burnham with a large attendance. The president was in the chair. The worship and program were in charge of the following committee: Mrs. F. Crate, assisted by Mrs. E. Hess, Mrs. L. Humphries, Mrs. S. Fisher and Mrs. H. Dodd. The new study book, "From Lakes to Northern Lights," was introduced by Mrs. E. Hess and home mission digest by Mrs. L. Humphries. Mrs. S. Fisher led in prayer and reading was given by Mrs. W. Dodd.

Mrs. J. G. Thompson invited the group to her home on October 10, committee for worship and program to be in charge of Mrs. C. Lockhart, assisted by Mrs. N. Nelson, Mrs. A. Orr, Mrs. C. Oliver. A delightful piano duet was played by Mrs. J. M. Baker and Miss M. Scriver. Mrs. Burnham introduced the guest speaker, Miss Nelta Brownlie of Port Hope who attended the School for Leaders held at the Ladies' College at Whitby.

Mrs. J. M. Baker asked Mrs. Walter Dodd to accept a gift of figurines from the Auxiliary, expressing the regret in losing Mrs. Dodd, who has taken up residence in Peterborough. Mrs. Dodd made an appropriate reply. The committee in charge served lunch.

MR. AND MRS. WELLINGTON BORLAND were married Saturday at St. James United Church. The bride is the former Margaret Freeman.—Choate Studio Photo

Margaret Freeman Wears Beautiful Gown Of Satin

A very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon was that of Miss Margaret May Freeman and Mr. Wellington E. Borland which took place in St. James United Church at two o'clock. The ceremony was by the Rev. F. W. Craik, former minister, with the Rev. H. McCormack assisting.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Freeman, 452 Brioux Ave., and was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of gleaming satin with the skirt made over a hoop and falling into cathedral train edged with a deep net ruffle. The long satin sleeves were trimmed with a tiny net ruffles and an appliqued yoke of net was caught into gathers held with roses. Her train-length veil was of embroidered tulle and was caught to a crescent French lace. She carried red roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Thomas Faux, and Miss Shirley Anderson and Mrs. J. Thompson were bridesmaids. They were frocked alike in strapless gowns of pastel mauve nylon marquisette over deeper mauve taffeta and wore matching winged capes of nylon marquisette. They carried bouquets of gladioli and carnations to match their floral halos.

Linda Palmer as flower girl was dressed in yellow taffeta and she carried a mauve basket with gladioli and carations which matched her headdress. The ring was carried by small Douglas Faux who was attired in white flannels and a white nylon blouse.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Borland, of Peterborough, was attended by his brother, Mr. Keith Borland. Ushers were B. Braund, of Kingston, and Harold Freeman.

Mr. Carl Palmer was soloist and sang "I Love You Truly" before the bride came down the aisle, and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. Mrs. Charles Braund, organist, played the wedding music.

Receiving the guests after the ceremony in the St. James' Sunday school, the bride's mother wore loganberry wine crepe with a hat of matching velvet and a corsage of talisman roses. The groom's mother was gowned in pink net over taffeta and wore a hat of black velvet with pink and blue feathers and corsage of blue and yellow roses.

For the wedding trip which is to Montreal, Boston and New York, the bride chose a doeskin colored gabardine suit, a dark brown hat and matching accessories. When going away, she wore a corsage of talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Borland will live at 484 Sherbrooke St.

Betty Richmond Marries Will Live In Napanee

The wedding was solemnized in the Church of the Open Bible, Saturday, of Betty Lou Richmond, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Richmond, Peterborough, to John Lawrence Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Moore, Napanee. The Rev. W. S. Crone officiated.

The church was decorated with palms and ferns and the music played by Miss Jean McLeod. Before the bride entered, Miss Marjorie Moore sang "I'll Walk Beside You," and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

The bride was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. Harold Richmond. She wore a gown of nylon net caught with pearl and set in lace. The net sleeves tapered to lily points. Her veil was of French lace and finger-tip length, caught with a pearl-beaded headband. She carried a cascade of American beauty roses.

Wedding attendants were Miss Velma Todd and Miss Myrtle Graham. They were frocked in rust and green color and styled of net over taffeta with shoulder capes, and their hats were covered with matching feathers. They carried bouquets of white gladioli with ribbon.

Groomsman was Ronald Hawley and the ushers James Wilson and William Moore, cousin of the groom.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Club Aragon where the bride's mother received in a gown of mauve with lace, with a hat of black velvet. She wore a bouquet of yellow 'mums. The groom's mother, who also received, wore blue, with a black hat and a bouquet of white 'mums.

The bride and groom left for a trip to USA and New York by motor. Travelling, the bride wore a navy suit with wine accessories.

They will live in Napanee on return.

RCAF Stenographer To Take Dictation From Princess

OTTAWA, September 24—Taking dictation from H. R. H. Princess Elizabeth and H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh during their forthcoming tour of Canada would be a dream for any stenographer.

And that is just what it is for Leading Airwoman Roberta (Bobbie) Richards of Edmundston, N.B., with one important exception—it is a dream that may well come true.

Bobbie answered all the requirements of being bilingual, intelligent and an excellent stenographer so now she has been chosen as a stenographer to accompany the royal couple on their October tour of Canada and the United States. She will be a member of the secretarial group in charge of typing letters, speeches and other official documents for Their Royal Highnesses.

On loan from her RCAF station at St. Johns, P.Q., she has been singing the happy secretary's song at Air Force Headquarters these past two weeks getting genned up on her new duties and is scheduled to spend some time in the office of the Under Secretary of State receiving final instructions.

Among the important but non-secretarial duties she is learning is how to curtsey and address royalty. These and other rules of office court procedue will become a familiar story to her before the tour ends in November.

She will occupy a compartment on the Royal train and because she must look smart and neat at all times—a requisite for secretaries and airwomen alike—she has been allowed leeway in the matter of luggage. She has been given extra service clothing and plans to pack five uniforms, two hats, seven Air Force shirts, four ties, nine pair of stockings and three pair of shoes into her suitcases for the grand tour.

Born in Fredericton, N.B., she went as a small child to Edmunston with her parents and there learned French and English simultaneously.

At the RCAF Station, St. Johns, P.Q., she was in the process of finishing a Physical Recreation Training Instructor's course when news of the posting came through.

She was a member of the Women's Division of the RCAF during the Second World War as a supply clerk, and served at Mont Joli, St. Johns, Que., and Lachine. She took her secretarial course as part of her rehabilitation to civilian life after the war and worked in a pulp and paper company in Edmonston until joining up in June, of this year. She is a charter member of the 251 Madawaska Wing, RCAF Association.

Montreal Actor In British Film

LONDON—(CP)—James Donald, Scottish-born, Montreal-educated star of stage and screen, has taken over one of the leading roles in the British film, "Gift Horse."

He replaces American actor Robert Stack, who was unable to obtain a labor permit to work in a British film.

Donald, educated in Montreal high schools and McGill University, appropriately will appear as a young Royal Canadian navy officer serving with the Royal navy. The film is based on the wartime raid on the French port of St. Nazaire.

Donald has appeared previously in such films as "White Corridors," "Trottie True" and "Cage of Gold." He recently completed a long West End run in the play "Captain Carvallo," in which he co-starred with the well-known British actress, Diana Wynyard.

Isobel Moncrieff Bride Of Norman Harris

Pink and white gladioli with ferns decorated Lakevale Presbyterian Church on Saturday for the wedding of Miss Isobel Moncrieff to Mr. Norman Arthur Harris, performed by the Rev. H. Kaye. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Moncrieff of Lakevale and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris of Peterborough.

Wedding music was played by Mr. Charles Allen of Peterborough who accompanied Mrs. H. Kaye when she sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore ivory satin made with yoke and fingertip sleeves of French lace. Her veil of embroidered tulle was gathered to a Juliet cap of matching lace and satin and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white 'mums encircling an orchid. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sisters, Misses Jessie and Maureen Moncrieff. Their frocks were of orchid and purple nylon marquisette fashioned over French lavender taffeta. They wore matching headdresses and gloves and carried cascades of yellow 'mums.

Mr. Bruce Harris was the groomsman and ushers were Wilfred Moncrieff and Frank Harris.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents. Her mother was receiving in a dress of Bermuda grey ticotina crepe and wore a hat of fuchsia pressed feathers and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore navy crepe with a light beige color hat and her corsage was pink and white carnations.

Leaving later to catch a plane to Buffalo and Rochester the bride was wearing a light blue suit and matching short coat and her accessories were navy velvet.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris will live at 211 Barnardo Ave. on return.

Ex-Polish Envoy Happy In Civil Service

OTTAWA — (CP)—Friendly, soft-spoken, 56-year-old Victor Podoski, one of the first diplomats from an iron-curtain country to refuse to serve under a Russian-dominated government in his homeland, works quietly in a small simply-furnished Canadian government office.

The former Polish minister to Canada abandoned the plush diplomatic service in 1945 when recognition was withdrawn from the Polish government-in-exile and post-war Poland became a Russian satellite.

He could not, he said recently in an interview, serve any country, totalitarian or democratic, which tried to impose its will on Poland. Now a Canadian citizen, he added, he would similarly oppose any country attempting to dominate his adopted Canada.

Simple honesty and self-respect prompted a spontaneous refusal of an offer in 1945 to represent the Russian-dominated government of Poland somewhere abroad, he said.

His refusal ended 24 years in the diplomatic service, but he has never regretted his decision. However, he does become annoyed when he sees his name linked with some of the other Poles who have left the diplomatic service rather than return to Communist-controlled Warsaw.

Sees Big Difference

There is a vast difference, he said, between the men who choose personal freedom and those who could not honestly serve a foreign power dominating their homeland.

Mr. Podoski maintains "friendly relations" with those who "chose decency and self-respect" but he has no relations whatsoever with those who chose only personal freedom.

He cannot understand, he said, why it took some diplomats three, four or five years to realize that Russia was using oppressive methods to impose a political and social system on Poland in the interest of Moscow. While serving the wrong cause, these men enjoyed the high salaries of the diplomatic or consular corps. In many cases they decided to leave the diplomatic or consular corps and seek refuge in a free country only on the eve of being recalled to Poland.

Mr. Podoski chose Canada as his adopted land because he had developed a "deep affection" for this country while serving as Polish consul general and later minister to Canada from 1939 to 1944. In 1944, he married Murial Crocket of Fredericton, daughter of the late O. S. Crocket, former justice of the supreme court of Canada. They have one daughter —Cecylia-Clarine, born in England in 1945.

The switch from the status of a high-ranking diplomat — he served in Warsaw, London, Moscow, Washington and Ottawa— was not made without cost to Mr. Podoski, who speaks and writes Polish, English, French, Russian, Ukrainian and German.

Financial Sacrifice

While declining to give exact figures, he said that his present income is about one sixth of what he would be receiving had he remained in the diplomatic corps.

"In the choice between becoming a moral cripple or keeping my head erect, the price was not too high," he said.

After the last war—in December, 1946—he began working in the Canadian Government Annuities branch. He has been there since.

He became a Canadian citizen in December, 1947, but like many another immigrant has retained a "deep affection for my mother country."

"Who would have respect for one who—safe and gainfully employed in his adopted country—turns his back on his native land, ailing and oppressed, at that?" he asked.

He has no immediate relatives in Poland—three sisters have managed to escape to this continent; one brother was killed in the battle of France and another is teaching economics in Los Angeles.

Mr. Podoski receives Polish papers from Poland and "free countries" and he believes he has a "fair picture of prevailing conditions in Poland." On his own time and without remuneration he helps all Poles who apply to him for information and advice on the possibility of settling in Canada.

One of his ambitions remained to be fulfilled. An ardent believer in health and fitness, he hopes some day to help open a health and rest resort in Canada.

Nancy Derry Becomes Bride To Honeymoon In Florida

At Trinity United Church Saturday afternoon at three o'clock Nancy Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred S. Derry, Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. John Reynolds Daly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan R. Daly, Toronto.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums and white candelabra made a lovely setting at the altar. The music was played by Mrs. Hugh Redmond and soloist was Miss Nellie Smith.

The bride wore a period gown of ice blue satin brocade, the moulded bodice finished with sweetheart neckline and frame collar, the full skirt falling to a circular chapel train. Her long veil of matching tulle was edged with heirloom lace and caught to a calot of net trimmed with pearls and coq feathers. She carried a shower bouquet of white gladioli tips, stephanotis and bouvardia.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Bruce Steele of Toronto and Miss Joan Smith of Peterborough and Mrs. W. Phippen of Toronto were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of royal blue bengaline worn with pierrette veils. Each carried a cascade bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Mr. Edward Sublett of Toronto was groomsman and the ushers were Messrs. Bruce Steele, Edward Smith, John Walcott and Thomas Gifford, all of Toronto.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents, 500 Gilmour St. Mrs. Derry received wearing a gown of cocoa lace and sheer with a feathered hat to match and a corsage of yellow rosebuds. The groom's mother was gowned for the occasion in champagne taffeta and wore a hat of blush velvet and matching flowers.

When leaving later to motor to Florida for their honeymoon, the bride wore an iridescent hyacinthe suit with purple velvet hat and accessories to match. Her corsage was of heather sent from Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Daly will live at Bayview Court, Willowdale, Toronto.

Mother Stresses Marriage At Expenses Of Education

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a high school graduate and am planning on entering college to study either teaching or social work. My parents can afford to finance my education and I have a scholarship which will cover some fees and the cost of books.

Dorothy Dix

This is my problem: My mother, who was born abroad, has the attitude of many who cling to old-world traditions, that is, that too much education endangers a girl's chances of marriage I am going with a boy from my home town who has a good job, but my mother doesn't approve of him; she wants to arrange a marriage with a man of my own nationality, as is still done among many of our people. All my mother's friends agree with her that a college girl is practically doomed to be an old maid, and that, they believe, is the worst fate that can befall her.

What should I do? Insist on a chance to go to college, have a career, and then marry, or marry now in accordance with my mother's wishes?

ANNETTE

ANSWER: Your mother must face the fact that she has left her homeland and must accept at least some of the principles of good living that have made our country the great nation that it is. Rejected, of course, must be the "smart alecky" ideas that masquerade as "modern thought" and it must indeed be a chore for a stranger to our shores to discriminate between these and our sound traditions.

Girl's Schooling Important

Our high standards of education are among those things which must be assimilated. This especially applies to education for women, which in foreign lands is practically unheard of. In many European countries, a girl receives no schooling beyond the absolute rudiments of reading and writing. Here, things are entirely different. A woman receives as much education as she can possibly finance and is mentally fit for, and no one can gainsay the fact that she is the better off for it. Teaching, nursing and social work alone are predominantly feminine professions which require high standards of education. It is very foolish to say that all women in these fields are old maids. In fact, very few of them are! A survey will show that in any school, most of the teachers are either married or engaged.

Looking at your own position from a personal viewpoint, you are now presumably 18 at most. You'll graduate from college at 22, which by American standards falls far short of the "old maid" category. Higher education will increase, rather than decrease, your chances of a good marriage, and the security of a profession to fall back on in case of emergency is not to be lightly discarded. In this insecure world, it is a wonderful thing to have.

With your qualification, ambition and financial stability (plus the fact that you are not emotionally involved to a serious point with any boy), stick to your plans and try to convince your mother that this is the American way—and one of the best!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 years old and have gone with a wonderful fellow of 23 for over two years. We are both very much in love and plan to marry in about two years. This may sound a little juvenile, but it really has bothered me for some time. His surname is one of the worst I've ever heard. I would like to know how to go about asking him to have it changed before we get married. I don't want to hurt him if I can help it. Also, could you give me some information about changing one's name.

EDITH

ANSWER: Having a name changed is a fairly simple procedure; any lawyer can handle it. However, getting your fiance's consent is very likely to be more difficult. Pride in one's family name is rooted in our natures and always has been. No matter how uncouth, absurd or ridiculous the name, as long as its honor is unsullied we are proud of it. Your fiance's family has lived under this name for many generations and a suggestion to change it, from you, is not likely to meet with enthusiasm. What the name is doesn't matter too much; how and where it is used is the important factor. If it is kept out of scandal sheets and away from questionable associations, don't worry about it!

You might try a tentative suggestion on your fiance and see how he reacts to a possible change, but don't, by any means, make an issue out of it if he repels the idea—as I'm sure he will!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are about to be married, and are confused about how to address our mothers-in-laws. I have two recently married friends who address their husband's mothers as "Mrs. Jones." To me, this does not seem courteous nor polite, as these women are more than good to them. I have also heard friends address their mothers-in-law as "Mom," or "Mother Jones." My own mother speaks to grandmother as "Mother." What should I do?

M. L.

ANSWER: If a good mother-and-daughter relationship is to be established between mother-in-law and daughter-in-law, as it should be, the form of address should be in keeping. I wholeheartedly agree that for a girl to address her mother-in-law as "Mrs. Jones" is most discourteous. Two factors must be taken into consideration, besides the girl's wishes. First, a mother-in-law may prefer a special title such as "Mom" or "Mother." Second, if possible, some distinction in title should be made between the two mothers-in-law to avoid confusion. If you have called your own mother "Mother," use "Mom" for your mother-in-law, if that is in accordance with her desire. "Mother Jones" is also proper, but not as kindly as a more informal address.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Cotton Yield Increases When Hoe Is Sent East

A gracious and beautiful lady is doing one of the most inspiring yet urgent jobs there is to be done in the world today: relieve starvation.

She is Miss Florence Reynolds and her jaw-breaking title is Chiew of Public Liaison of the North American Regional Office of Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations.

She is ideally fitted for the role.

In her charming way she removes the mystery of why, while two-thirds of the population of the world are farmers, two-thirds of the world's people are starving.

For instance, she tells us that the water buffalo is the primary draught animal in the Orient. It is essential to rice production, and rice is essential to the livelihood of all Asiatics.

But thousands of water buffalo are being destroyed by a fatal disease called Rimdpest. However, through the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization a scientist developed a toxin which would remove the disease and a supply was flown to China where it was used to inoculate the animals. Results: an increase in water buffalo population and a consequent increase in the rice harvest.

Miss Reynolds says the program of her organization is deceptively simple—"All we have to do is take the scientific and technical knowledge being developed in our laboratories and put it into the hands of the farmers." . . . but because hers is an international organization it is difficult to enlist financial help and support from separate nations.

"In my work" Miss Reynolds explained "I have discovered that each government has its own axe to grind as a reason for doing what it does. As a result, these governments are hesitant to give over large sums of money to an international organization because they will not be able to dictate to what uses the money must be put."

The reason I am giving you this thumb-nail sketch of Miss Reynold's work is because of the "The Story of the Hoe".

A two-hundred-pound six-foot-two Texan came to Miss Reynolds office one never-to-be-forgotten-day and simply stated that he knew quite a bit about raising cotton, and wondered if his services could be used in her organization. After her first moment of amazment she realized he was in earnest. After weeks of planning his destination became the Middle East where what cotton is grown is world-famous,—a long-strand product, but the yield per acre is pitifully small, when compared to U.S. crops. The reason for this is lack of farm machinery. In Mr. Texan's area even a hoe was unknown.

He had a brain wave. He wrote to Miss Reynolds by Air Mail and asked her to send him one hoe, to use as a pattern. Her first problem was where to get the money for one hoe. The Lord answered her by mail that afternoon. A letter from a 4H Club to whom she had spoken recently, arrived with a cheque enclosed for $4.67. She bought a hoe, had it dismantled, and wrapped for air-mailing. Mr. Texan had his native farmers fashion 1000 hoes by hand from their one pattern hoe when it arrived. Crude ones it is true, but workable, and the cotton yield increased by 400% in the area which benefitted from his oversight and foresight.

Mr. Texan thinks we can hoe our way to world peace.

Seven Societies Join In Rally At Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Sept. 24 (ENS)—"The Sisterhood of Nations" was the subject of the address given by (Mrs.) Brigadier J. H. Gillingham, outstanding Salvation Army worker, of Vancouver, BC, as guest speaker at the annual thankoffering rally of the WMS at Roseneath United Church on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Gillingham said in part: "The candle of our influence may seem so small a sacred trust, but if we hold it high the rays of kindness, Christ's likeness, unselfish service shall abound in His name." Throwing out a challenge to women everywhere to help bring Christ to the nations, the speaker continued: "The first step is to know Christ as our Saviour, as we cannot introduce Him to someone else if we do not know Him ourselves." She spoke of the women working for Christ in the slums, hospitals, jails, Alaska, Norway, Japan, India and in the leper colonies. In conclusion, the speaker said: "If you haven't money, give a kind word, and through service we endear ourselves to those we serve."

Mrs. Gillingham was introduced by the Rev. R. C .White and thanked by Mrs. A. Nill.

The president of the WMS, Mrs. J. N. Lovelace, presided, and welcomed the large number present which included members of seven organizations: Harwood WMS, Fenella WMS, Centenary WA, Roseneath Women's Institute, St. James' Anglican WA, United Church WA, and the members of the WMS.

The members of Harwood WMS were in charge of the worship service with the president, Mrs. George Isaac, using "Prayer" as the theme of that period. Appropriate hymns were sung.

The following presidents were seated in the chancel with Mrs. Lovelace: Mrs. Harold Taylor, from Roseneath WI; Mrs. N. C. Leach, Fenella WMS; Mrs. George Isaac, Harwood WMS; Mrs. Ford Derry, Roseneath WA; Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, St. James' Anglican WA, and brought greetings from their organizations.

The program consisted of a solo by Mrs. R. C. White, with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe accompanying; readings by Miss Emma Sherwin, Mrs. Jack Webb and Mrs. Earl Waldie; a vocal duet by Mrs. Carl McNaughton and Mrs. N. C. Leach, with Mrs. Frank Down accompanying.

Brigadier J. H. Gillingham and Mrs. Gillingham sang a duet, "Our Life Is Like An Open Sea," with Brigadier Gillingham playing concertina accompaniment. A sing-song of hymns with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe at the piano concluded the program. The Rev. R. C. White pronounced the benediction.

Lunch was served in the township hall. The reception committee was Mrs. Delbert Brisbin and Mrs. J. N. Lovelace. Lunch was served cafeteria style with Mrs. A. Nill and Mrs. A. Halstead pouring tea.

What's Right?

You have your doubts about the truth of a statement made by someone in conversation with you.

WRONG: Say: "I don't think that is true."

RIGHT: Make your stand in a more tactful manner, such as: "I may be wrong, but it seems to me that such and such is true."

Two Girls Ride Across Rockies

VICTORIA, BC—(CP)—Two Victoria girls duplicated the feats of British Columbia's pioneer settlers recently and rode two horses across the Rockies.

Ann Wilson and Phyllis Elwood of Victoria explain their trip this way:

"We had the horses in Alberta and we were in Victoria. Horses are expensive in Victoria and so we decided to go to Red Deer, and bring our animals out.

So the girls went back to Red Deer and made the nine-week trip back to Victoria.

As in the days of the pioneers the horses had to live off the country.

"Our pack pony was already loaded so we couldn't carry a 10-pound sack of oats, and it's difficult to buy less than that," they explained.

Lung Surgery Performed In 4 Diseases

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP) — There are only four diseases for which portions of lungs, or entire lungs, are removed as has been done with the King.

They are cancer, lung abscesses, tuberculosis and cysts. The first three are standard operations, and in themselves not specially dangerous. The fourth is rare because the lung cysts don't show up often, and when they do they already have done most of their damage in other organs.

It is possible to do other lung operations, but they would be pioneering, and it is unlikely that doctors would risk a king as a guinea pig.

Cancer Frequently

Most frequent lung resection (the medical term of cutting out part or all) is cancer. The first of these operations that succeeded was done only about 20 years ago, in St. Louis. Before that lung cancer operations failed. In that case a tough-minded doctor, whose lung was hopeless, told his surgeon to go ahead and take it out.

Since then such skill has been developed in removing whole lungs that it is a standard operation and success is expected. Partial lung removal for cancer and for tuberculosis caused a good many problems, but surgery finally solved these too.

Operations for tuberculosis are frowned on by many physicians, except when they are a last resort. And such operations come after a long history of tuberculosis. In numbers TB lung operations probably rate third.

In second place, at least until the antibiotics came into wide use, were removals of parts of lungs for abscesses.

Fourth in frequency is operation for bronchiectasis. This is a disease in which the lung is unable to get rid of its own secretions, and violent coughing results. The trouble is formation of sacs in the bronchial tubes. Surgery is sometimes used to correct this trouble.

50 Suspended By Steel Plant

SYDNEY, N.S., Sept. 24—(CP) —Fifty more Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation workers today were suspended for seven days as the Union-company dispute on wages entered one of its most critical periods.

The suspension is under a contract clause prohibiting work stoppages. The workers suspended were employed on the Steel Company docks.

Last night suspended workers of the open hearth department suggested that the executive of Local 1064, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), ask the Steel Controller to stop Dosco's "sabotage of this country's steelmaking facilities."

They also charged the company with "blatant contempt" and carrying out a "fear campaign."

Union President Ed Corbett, head of the 4,700-member local, said the Union would continue its battle.

The dispute began in July when the Union asked for talks on increased wages, although their current working agreement runs until March 31 of next year.

Production dropped at least a third when the company closed a blast furnace Friday and suspended for seven days the employees of that department. The suspension is under a contract clause prohibiting work stoppages.

Sudbury Man Dies Of Bulbar Polio

SUDBURY, Sept. 24 (CP). — The first Sudbury victim of poliomyelitis, this year, Peter Jones, 27, died Saturday. Stricken with the dread bulbar type of polio, Jones was taken to hospital Friday afternoon.

He was employed at the Inco smelter at nearby Copper Cliff and is survived by his young wife and three small children.

Another polio victim is a young married man from suburban Minnow Lake who is confined to an iron lung in St. Joseph's hospital. He is Johnson Howe, 23, married with two children. A third polio victim also is confined to hospital.

Another iron lung is being rushed to Sudbury from Sault Ste. Marie.

Son Changes Story Of Mother Dying Heiress

DETROIT, Sept. 24 (AP)—The collegian son of a blonde socially-prominent Detroit woman changed his story today about his mother being an "heiress" who died of the effects of overdieting.

Mrs. Marian Peck Miles died late Saturday night at her 31-room Georgian mansion in fashionable Grosse Pointe Farms. She was 44.

Her son, Butler, 21, told newspapermen his mother had inherited about two-thirds of a $147,000,000 estate left in 1925 by her father, whom he identified as "Canadian financier Francis G. Peck."

He also reported that the purpuraic anemia, from which she died, was caused by overdieting against her doctors' orders.

But today, after no trace had been found of any Canadian fortune left to Mrs. Miles, the son said the facts had been misconstrued.

"Just call it a case of mistaken identity. She was not closely enough related to the man (Peck) to inherit any of his money," he said.

As to the amount of his mother's weath, young Miles declared:

"I doubt that she had much of anything."

Cleared Mystery

The son's belated statements helped to clear an air of mystery that had surrounded the case since Mrs. Miles' condition became serious weeks ago.

Persons represented as doctors and nurses in the home had verified young Miles' original story. His father, Detroit architect Francis Allen Miles, was reported in seclusion today.

Young Miles said today that death was caused by purpuraic anemia—a weakening of the blood vessels. But he said the doctors had changed their original story that the anemia was caused by overdieting. The doctors were not available for comment.

A death certificate reporting cause of death has not yet been filed.

Mrs. Miles was also said to have been educated at an Ursuline convent near Ottawa and participated in Canadian war relief projects during the last war. But she was not listed in Canadian Red Cross records of wartime aides.

Also there is no Ursuline convent near Ottawa.

It was originally stated that burial would be at the "family homestead at Woodview near Ottawa." This morning it was announced burial would be in Detroit.

Seagram TELLS THE WORLD ABOUT Canada

THIS advertisement was designed by The House of Seagram to tell the people of other lands about Canada and things exclusively Canadian.

Many people in Latin America, Asia, Europe and other parts of the world are not fully aware of the richness of Canada's natural resources, wild life, scenic beauty and cultural traditions. The more the peoples of other lands know about our country, the greater will be their interest in Canada and Canadian products.

The House of Seagram feels that the horizon of industry does not terminate at the boundary of its plants; it has a broader horizon, a farther view—a view dedicated to the development of Canada's stature in every land of the globe.

Indians Falter In Stretch Drive

By JERRY LISKA.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 (AP). — The Cleveland Indians ruefully suspected today they have been bunted out of the bunting.

Seldom has the squeeze play been used with such devastating effect as against the Indians in the American League stretch drive. They have lost four recent crucial games because of opponents' bunts.

In two of the three losses inflicted by the Tigers in their disastrous Detroit series last weekend, the bunt led to the Indians' downfall.

A further factor was the relative ineffectiveness of three of the Indians, "Big Four" hurlers—Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, and Mike Garcia. Winners of 59 games between them, all three were shelled from the box in games which they started. The Tribe's fourth mound ace, Early Wynn, did not appear in the series.

Yesterday, the Bengals belted the Indians 9-1 to put the Tribe two and a half games behind the first place New York Yankees. On Saturday, the Tigers jolted Cleveland 9-4. Yet, as one-sided as these scores seem, bunts which had the Tribe infield doing belly-flops and making like statues were the key taps.

Trucks Joins In

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, who whiffed 10 Indians for yesterday's Detroit win, himself dumped two safe bunts which gave the Tigers the only two runs they needed to win. And still a third safe bunt figured in a five-run sixth-inning Tiger uprising.

In Saturday's Detroit triumph, Pitcher Bob Cain stroked a perfect bunt that put across the leading run at the time, and seemed to break Cleveland's back.

Before that, New York's Phil Rizzuto and Philadelphia's Billy Hitchcock had worked squeeze bunts which wrecked the Tribe.

Manager Al Lopez was stunned by the bunting beating his Tribe took from the Tigers.

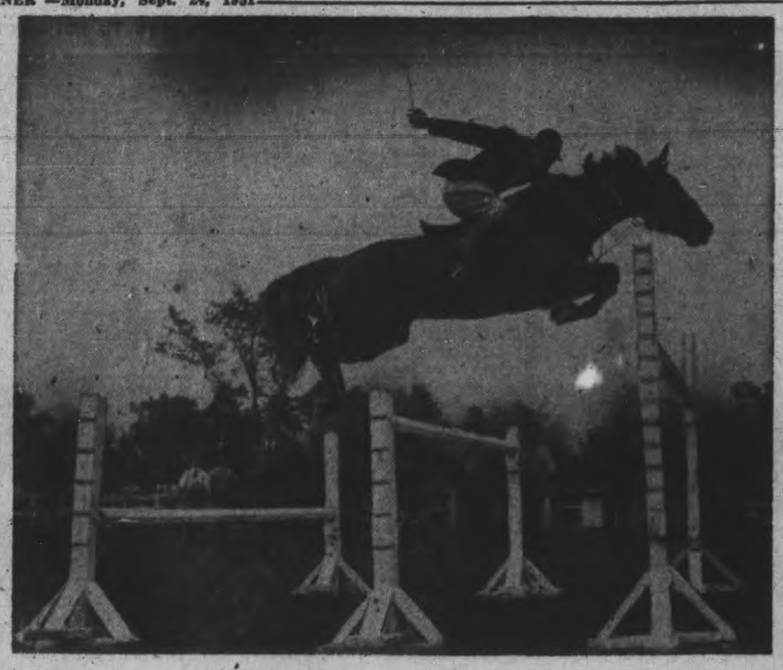
"Here's a club which hasn't show any speed, much less bunting ability all season, and they tap us crazy," said Lopez. "They were all perfect bunts, and there simply is no defence against a perfect bunt, although they may make you look silly."

It was sweet revenge for the Tigers who last year were knocked out of pennant contention as the Indians won five of the last six games played between the two teams.

Up until the brutal Tiger treatment of last week-end, the Indians had trimmed Detroit in 16 out of 17 starts this season.

SCHOOL SPORT

Until 1890 the game of squash racquets was played almost entirely at the historic public schools of England.



THIS IS THE TRIPLE BAR LEAP that won a first ribbon for the Lac des Loup at the recent Liesse Horse Show. The courageous little jumper, ridden by Percy Knott, also captured the Liesse Jumping Stake. The horse is owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. O'Connell. Loups finished this leap without a single touch.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press.

Batting: Roy Campanella, Dodgers—Out for nearly a week following a skulling, the sturdy catcher celebrated his second day of return to the line-up with a perfect day at bat—four for four—to lead Brooklyn to a 6-2 triumph over Philadelphia. Roy hammered his 32nd homer in the first inning with a mate aboard.

Pitching: Murry Dickson, Pirates—Shut out Cincinnati with five hits to become the first National League pitcher in 48 years to win 20 games for a last-place team.

Greenhorn Wins Fly Casting Trophy

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 24 — (CP).—A Toronto boy who received his first fly rod less than a week ago won the Walter Sagan Trophy and the Ontario junior flycasting championships Saturday.

Garry Hughes scored 94 to win the two championships in competitions sponsored by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

Doug Elliott of Welland scored a 98 to win the Welland Trophy and take the senior championship.

Forty-nine competitors, including six women, showed their skill in placing flys and plugs in the centre of a target from distances varying from a few yards to 80 feet.

2 Black Hawks Lent To St. Louis Flyers

NORTH BAY, Sept. 24 (CP) — Don Morrison and Steve Black, regulars with Chicago Black Hawks, in the National Hockey League last season, have been lent to St. Louis Flyers for the 1951-52 season.

Both Black, a 24-year-old left winger for Fort William, and Morrison, 27-year-old Saskatoon-born centre, have signed contracts. They are subject to recall.

Flyers of the American Hockey League are working out with the Black Hawks at pre-season training camp here. The teams play their first exhibition game at New Liskeard, Ont., Wednesday night.

The Hawks, who have been beaten twice in exhibition games with Detroit Red Wings, are already hit by injuries.

Mac McNab, a centre who comes from Watson, Sask., has a bad shoulder; Clare Martin, defenceman from Waterloo, Ont., is out with torn ligaments, and Bill Mosienko, veteran Winnipeg born right winger, suffered a 10-stitch cut in last night's 5-1 defeat by Detroit.

Moving Gate Used To Start Horse Races

SALEM, NH, Sept. 24—(AP)—A new moving starting gate — described at the biggest innovation in thoroughbred racing since the totalisator betting board — will be introduced today as Rockingham Park opens a 30-day fall meeting.

Executive director Lou Smith said the device, which will be used in the first race and probably several others on the nine-race card, works like this:

The horses are led into the compartments some 60 feet before the start and then are given a walk-up start as the gate moves forward—pulled by a tractor—at four miles an hour.

The gate, invented by Billy Mills, is expected to save wear and tear on the fragile legs of the thoroughbreds.

Hill Prince Returns After 1950 Injury

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(AP)—C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince, the turf's outstanding horse of 1950, seeks his first victory of the year today as the thoroughbreds return to Belmont Park for a 20-day meeting.

The Prince, sidelined by injuries since last December until he ran third in a recent six-furlong dash, goes in a $5,000 mile event against such speedsters as Sheilas Reward, One Hitter and How.

The $20,000 Fall Highweight Handicap at six furlongs headlines the card from a financial standpoint but much of the interest will be in the performance of Hill Prince as he preps for richer events.

The Highweight Handicap has attracted 22 sprinters including Greentree Stable's Guillotine, Bryan G., stablemate of Hill Prince, Brookmead Stable's Greek Ship, Mrs. N. A. Nickell's Repertoire and Arise from the Addison Stable of Toronto.

Line Drive Kills Young Jap Pitcher

TOKYO, Sept. 24—(AP)—A 15-year-old pitcher for a high school in Kyoto, fatally injured by a line drive, tossed out the batter before dying, Kyodo News Agency reported today.

Mkenichi Okubo put one across the plate in the second inning that the young batter—name and age withheld by authorities—smacked back to the pitcher's box.

The ball struck Okubo in the stomach, but he picked it up and tossed it to first base, beating the runner.

Then Okubo fell, dead.

Six Clubs Enter Sr. "A" Loop

STRATFORD, Sept. 24 (CP)—Six clubs—with a seventh possible—will have entries in this season's Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, it was announced yesterday.

The teams which will enter are Kitchener, Hamilton, Brantford, Sarnia and Stratford. Niagara Falls is the doubtful starter.

The announcement came from a meeting of club officials conducted by D. M. Pinkney, an executive member of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Clubs will play a 50-game schedule if there six clubs in the loop, a 48-game schedule if there are seven. Niagara Falls officials were granted a month to make a final decision.

Opening date of the Senior A series will be Oct. 26, when Kitchener will play at Stratford, Sarnia at Brantford and Owen Sound at Hamilton.

The schedule will be arranged to allow four weeks for the OHA group playoffs to decide the Ontario entry in Canadian Amateur Hockey Association playdowns for the Allan Cup.

Pulls Out Old Club Turnesa Wins $2,400

READING, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP)—Jim Turnesa tossed away a mallet-head putter for an ancient family blade held together by friction tape and the results paid off. He's $2,400 richer today.

Turnesa, one of six brothers of golf's most famous family, won the fifth annual $15,000 Reading open golf tournament yesterday with a 72-hole total of 280, four under par.

Asked how long the putter was in the family, he replied:

"I might as well admit it. It's my mother's. Gosh, I don't know how old it is, 70 years or more. It sure is older than I am."

How did the 37-year-old pro from Briarcliff, NY, come to be using it?

"Well, I guess that's Jack Burke's fault. I was playing a ballet putter out at Fort Wayne, Ind., when Jack told me 'You ought to use a straight blade putter. Throw that thing away. You couldn't do worse."

So the wiry little Italian went home and dug up the family relic, a broken shaft patched four times.

He brought it back to the Berkleight Country Club and it worked like a charm. He toured the 6,000-yard layout in sub-par for his first major tournament victory of the year.

The advice, incidentally, reckoned costly to young Burke, the blonde youngster from Houston, Texas. Jackie finished runner-up in the tournament, three strokes behind Turnesa and $600 poorer.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press.

Quarterback Don Griffin, who scored Queen's University's only touchdown in their 7-3 win over McMaster University in an exhibition game at Hamilton Saturday, suffered a fractured right wrist in the fourth quarter and likely will be out of action for the remainder of the season.

His injury is a serious blow to Queen's chances of coming up with a strong contender in the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union.

At Boston, Bobby Doerr, 33, veteran second baseman of the Boston Red Sox, announced on Saturday he will retire from baseball at the end of the season. The infielder, a regular with the Red Sox for 14 straight seasons, has been suffering from a spinal ailment. Doerr played more games for the Red Sox than any other player in the history of the club —a total of 1,865.

At Indianapolis it was announced that heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott and his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, have been fined $200 by the Indiana Boxing Commission Saturday for failure to appear for a scheduled boxing exhibition at Evansville, Int., Aug. 29. His manager telegraphed the promoter at the time that Walcott had a high temperature and could not appear.

At Berlin, Germany's Hein Ten Hoff captured the European heavyweight boxing championship with a clear-cut 15-round decision over Britain's Jack Gardner, who held the title only since last February.

It was the first time Germany held the European heavyweight title since Max Schmeling won it in 1939.

At Reading, Pa., Jim Turnesa, one of six golfing brothers, shot a three-over-par 74 yesterday to win the $15,000 Reading open golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 280 at the Berkleigh Country Club. Turnesa's total gave him a two stroke edge over Jack Burke, Jr., Houston, Tex., who finished with a 36-32—68.

At Ottawa, McMaster University of Hamilton Sunday successfully defended the P. D. Ross Memorial Trophy against the University of Ottawa in the second annual clash between the two eight-oared boat crews. McMaster's hard-battling crew finished the 3½ mile Ottawa river course 2½ boat lengths ahead of the Ottawa oarsmen with a winning time of 29:02.

Bouncing over the choppy Potomac river sometimes at speeds of more than 100 miles an hour, Miss Pepsi—long, twin-engined racing boat from Detroit yesterday repeated its last years victory in the 45-mile President's Cup race at Washington.

Driven by veteran Chuck Thompson, the 36-foot gold cup racer, roared away from its rivals in the first 15-mile heat of this feature event of the annual President's Cup Regatta. In a slower second heat, Horne from Detroit, finished only a few yards astern Miss Pepsi. The defending champion crossed the line in the final heat more than a quarter-mile ahead of Gale II of Detroit.

The United States Air Force Saturday defeated a combined RAF-RCAF team 12-4 in a challenge charity baseball game at London's White City Stadium. Five thousand fans—British, Canadian and American—watched the nine-inning contest.

There were four home runs, one by LAC. Lou Maracle of Point Anne, Ont.

At Dublin, Mayo defeated Meath, 14-9 yesterday before 70,000 fans at Croke Park to retain the all-Ireland football championship.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

The Brooklyn Americans vanished from the National Hockey League set-up nine years ago today following a meeting of the league governors at Toronto. The original New York Americans had played their last season 1941-1942, as the Brooklyn entry, winding up last, after the original Americans' franchise had been operated by the league for several years.

Varsity Blues Swamp Guelph

GUELPH, Sept. 24 (CP). — University of Toronto Blues swamped the Ontario Agricultural College intermediate team 26-0 Saturday in an exhibition football game on a rain-soaked field.

The Blues, senior intercollegiate entry were much too strong for the Aggies who couldn't match Varsity's blocking, attacking speed and vacious tackling.

Both clubs played close-to-the-vest football on the soggy field. The Blues in particular relied almost entirely on a ground attack. The Blues ripped down field regularly for big gains. Varsity tried only six forward passes, completing two.

Several times the Aggies threatened to score but Varsity's strong line pushed them off.

Varsity scored 15 points in the first quarter. Dale and Garside accounted for major scores, Bewley converted both of them and left foot tackler Al Haig booted a pair of singles. Bill McFarlane squirmed across the line for a touchdown in the second quarter and Oneschuk converted.

Aggies played their best football in the third quarter and Varsity picked up but a single point on another kick to the deadline by Haig.

An onside kick which Varsity recovered on the Aggies' five-yard line late in the fourth quarter paved the way for their final touchdown. Oneschuk carried it across. The convert attempt was wild.

BIG CATCH

"NO SQUIRREL," frowned Sammy, "would ever do what you've done today!"

"But all I did was buy five new moss pillows," retorted Sophie, his wife.

"Ummhmm," said Sammy. "Did we need to get new moss pillows?"

"No," answered Sophie, "but everybody knows there's a terrific shortage of moss — so moss pillows are getting scarcer and scarcer. Besides, the prices are bound to go higher."

"They certainly will if everybody follows your example," growled Sammy. "That sort of buying just sends prices up higher. But what worries me is — what's happening to our savings."

"Savings?" echoed Sophie. "How can we save when the cost of living is higher than a Douglas Fir? Take this tail brush, for instance. Ten years ago I could buy one for five measly beechnuts. Now they cost two horse-chestnuts. Or take . . ."

"I know, I know," cut in Sammy. "But we still need to save for the same reasons we always have. We've got to keep adding to our bank account, paying our life insurance and buying savings bonds. Or leave town."

"Leave town?" gasped Sophie. "For heaven's sake why?"

"Because," said Sammy, "everybody thinks squirrels are savers. So if people find out we're not saving, they'll say we're not squirrels! We'll be exiled. Banished."

"Oh, dear! exclaimed Sophie. "I never thought of that. I'm sorry, Sammy. From now on I'll really try to save every way I can. Oak?"

"Oak!" said Sammy.

MORAL: These days, it is vitally important for everyone to save money to help check inflation — and to provide for his own future needs.

NOTE TO FATHERS: Remember — life insurance is your most important form of saving because it provides financial security for your family. So pay your premiums regularly. Add new life insurance as you need it.

Princess' Lady-In-Waiting On Tour, Cousin By Marriage

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON—(CP)—Lucky lady-in-waiting who accompanies Princess Elizabeth on her Canadian tour is Mrs. Jean Elphinstone, a close personal friend of the Princess and a cousin by marriage.

In Canada it will be Mrs. Elphinstone's job, as private secretary and personal counsellor, to accompany the Princess on every engagement, and handle any difficulties that may escape the outer screen of officialdom.

In five years of office, Mrs. Elphinstone, a tall, slim, dark-haired woman, has accompanied Elizabeth on many state occasions, including glittering banquets at Buckingham Palace.

Elizabeth started with only one lady-in-waiting but her engagements became so numerous there now are four. Mrs. Elphinstone, the second to be engaged, is the senior in length of service, but no distinction is made among the four women.

Loves Her Work

In common with all who serve the young and charming heir to the British throne, Mrs. Elphinstone loves her work.

Ladies-in-waiting are among those closest to the Princess, but however long-standing and intimate their association it is a point of etiquette that they must at all times address her as "Princess." None of them had any special training for the job. The salary is several hundred pounds a year, plus a dress allowance.

Clothes Musn't Clash

Part of a lady-in-waiting's duties is to study the clothes the Princess will be wearing next day and see that her own choice in no way clashes.

"I usually wear dark colors," Mrs. Elphinstone said in one of her rare interviews with the British press. "They make a perfect background for the soft, pretty shades most popular with the Princess."

The Princess and her lady-in-waiting both have two children. Mrs. Elphinstone was first married to Capt. Vicary Gibbs, who was killed in the Second World War, and had one daughter by the marriage. Four years later she married the Hon. Andrew Elphinstone, nephew of the Queen. The wedding at St. Margaret's, Westminster, was attended by the King and Queen, and Princess Elizabeth was one of the bridesmaids.

In August, 1947, a daughter was born to whom the Duke of Edinburgh is Godfather. Both the Princess and the Duke attended the christening ceremony that took place so close to their own wedding the following November.

Under present practice, ladies-in-waiting spend a rota of two weeks on duty, which gives Mrs. Elphinstone plenty of time to spend with her husband and children. Mr. Elphinstone was ordained in Salisbury Cathedral last year and now is curate priest there. The Cathedral, recently restored, dates from the days of Edward the Confessor.

Used Animal Blood

TOKYO, Sept. 24 — (AP). — The newspaper Yomiuri reported Sunday a Japanese physician has successfully transfused treated animal blood into the veins of more than 60 human patients. Dr. Kunio Kawaishi of Hiroshima University Medical School told a meeting of epidemics researchers that he has used the blood of cows, horses, and pigs to give transfusions to humans—without any serious after-effects.

Movie Column

Hollywood Likes Unassuming Gregory Peck

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24—(AP)—You can't help liking Gregory Peck.

I kept thinking that as I watched him on the set of "World In His Arms." It was a hot September day and the lunch hour wasn't called until 2 o'clock. Instead of racing to the coolness of his dressing room, Peck agreed to pose in the broiling sun for publicity shots with a child actress.

After many minutes of posing, Peck told the little girl: "I'm glad to have met you; I hope we can work together in a picture very soon."

Later, a studio bigwig commented: "That guy Peck is certainly easy to get along with; unlike most a....., he seems to have no problems."

Well Off

"Maybe that's because he's one of the few actors who realizes how well off he is," someone added.

That seems to be true. Of all the actors who have risen in the past decade, Peck appears to have the best future. He is no longer tied to any studio and can draw as much money as the traffic will bear. The requests for his services are many.

Now that he is a free agent, how does he go about picking his roles?

"No particular system," he replied, "except that I try to make every third script an action picture. If there is enough action in the picture, that is insurace that it will do well at the box-office. There is just enough hack in me to want to be in successful pictures.

"I used to be the other way around. I thought I wanted to make pictures like "The Ox-Bow Incident!" "Pictures that would be embraced by thinking people even if they didn't make money at the box-office.

"But in recent years, I have changed my ideas. I began to look at things from the producer's viewpoint and I realized how important it was to have commercial success."

The Odd Flop

Peck exploded the notion that all his pictures have made money. "'The Macomber Affair' lost money," he said, "and 'The Paradine Case' dropped a bundle. Also 'The Great Sinner'."

But I looked up some of his other pictures, I found that on variety's list of film receipts for the United States and Canada alone, "Duel In The Sun" is listed as earning $10,000,000; "The Yearling" $5,250,000; "Spellbound" $4,975,000; "Valley Of Decision," $4,500,000.

In addition, Peck's current picture "David And Bathseba" is expected to earn around $5,000,000 in the US alone. And his "Captain Horatio Hornblower" is another one of the year's big money-makers.

25 Leave Korea

TOKYO, Sept. 24 (Reuters). — A group of 25 men from the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry left Korea September 22 on their way home, the Canadian Public Relations Office said today. The group, under the command of Major Pat Tighe, is the second to return to Canada for paratroop training. All are veterans of more than eight months' service with United Nations forces in Korea.

Europe Cutting Itself Free From US Gasoline Market

LONDON, Sept. 24—(AP)—Europe, once one of the United States best customers, is cutting itself free from the US gasoline market.

The trade used to be worth more than $500,000,000 a year as recently as 1948-49 but because of expanding demand at home, American oil companies are not worried about the loss of European customers. Instead they are investing their cash in refining mid-east crude in Western Europe.

At the end of the Second World War, Western Europe's fuel situation was critical. Many German, French and Italian refineries lay in ruins.

Gasoline was tightly rationed, and there was a general lack of dollars in Europe to pay for American imports.

Went Into Oil Business

So Europe decided to go into the oil business.

Europe's oilmen quickly realized the significance of the new supplies of Mid-East crude, and began planning a string of refineries to process it. American companies joined in.

The building program got under way so fast that much of Europe is already practically independent of American petroleum supplies. Marshall plan countries repaired the war-shattered refineries, built new ones and more than doubled pre-war refining capacity. By 1952-53 that capacity is due to reach nearly 60,000,000 tons a year.

Some of the biggest advances have been made in Britain, where Anglo-American Oil Company, subsidiary of Standard Oil Co., NJ, has opened a new $105,000,000 refinery at Fawley, in southern England, to process 5,500,000 tons of Mid-East crude a year, 25 per cent of Britain's gasoline.

Not Biggest

Although it is Britain's biggest plant, Anglo-American's plant is not the biggest refinery expansion project. It is dwarfed by the string of refineries being erected by Britain's Shell Petroleum Company.

Shell recently completed a big refinery at Shellhaven, near London, now processing 2,000,000 tons of oil a year. Another 1,500,000 tone passes through Shell's New Heysham, Lancashire, refinery; and the annual rate at the company's Stanlow, Cheshire, plant will be 3,000,000 tons when extensions are completed.

Socony-Vacuum's British subsidiary also plans a new British refinery, with a capacity of 850,000 tons.

As a result, Britain's refinery capacity, 3,500,000 tons in 1948, now is around 19,000,000 tons and still mounting.

France's output was down to around 200,000 tons a year after the war but today she has almost eliminated imports of refined petroleum.

Rising output is also evident in Germany, Belgium, Spain, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, and Italy, where industrialists are planning a substantial export trade in gasoline.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP)—Cooler weather and prospects of rain was welcomed last night by firefighters battling blazes in Pacific north-west forests. British Columbia foresters reported the situation "much more hopeful," with cool, damp weather helping to hold in check fires which already have charred 8,000 acres.

Fire To Disperse

BERLIN, Sept. 24 — (AP). — East Berlin People's Police fired at least six shots last night to disperse a crowd of 100 West German anti-Communist demonstrators on the border of the French and Russian sectors of the city. West German police said a passer-by was hit in the leg by one bullet.

Ambitious Singers Should Learn To Sing In The US

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN, Sept. 24—(AP)—In grandpa's time, ambitious young North Americans travelled to Europe to learn to sing and act in opera.

It's different now, says 30-year-old Astrid Varnay, first American to sing Bruennhilde at the Wagnerian Festival in Bayreuth. Born in Sweden, trained in the United States and now at the top of the operatic ladder, she topped off her smashing success at Bayreuth with an equally-enthusiastic reception in "Tristan" and "Walkuere" during the West Berlin cultural festival.

"If I had any advice to Europeans who have operatic ambitions, it would be to go west—to the US," Miss Varnay said.

"In the last generation, all the good teachers of the world, especially Europe, have come to the US."

Miss Varnay believes opera should be perpetuated in its original language.

Kept In Original

"Verdi thought in Italian; Wagner thought in German," she explains. "One can quickly hear how artificial it sounds when such music is sung in any other language."

With a giggle, she added:

"Only an American can pronounce 'jerk'. Anyone else saying it sounds phoney."

Miss Varnay is fluent in four languages and can get along in three or four more. Her present success, concentrated on Wagnerian roles, began 10 years ago and her frank explanation is typical of her fresh-blown outlook:

"It was a question of supply and demand," she said, recalling how she moved into the Wagnerian sphere at the Metropolitan in New York.

"Marjorie Lawrence became ill. Kirsten Flagstad went to Europe. That left only Helen Traubel, and I saw an opening for me."

Compared with most Wagnerian prima donnas of the past, Miss Varnay is slightly built. Of medium height, she has the strong, healthy frame the rigors of Wagner require, but none of the traditional bulk.

"They called me the seven-months Bruennhilde at Bayreuth," she said with a chuckle.

Tried In Murder

EDMONTON, Sept. 24 (CP).—Pte. Frederick J. Sabattis, of Kingsclear, NB, has been committed for trial on a charge of murdering a fellow soldier. Sabattis, just under 18 years old when the crime was committed, will be tried in Edmonton, probably in October. He is accused of the rifle slaying June 30 at Wainwright Military Camp of Pte. H. B. McEachran of Woodstock, NB.

UN Offers Resume Korea Peace Talks After Red Walkout

TOKYO, Sept. 25. (AP)—The United Nations command tonight offered to resume liaison talks with Communists at Kaesong tomorrow despite the Communist walkout from a session today. The offer of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, was contained in a message delivered to Col. Chang Chun-san, chief Red liaison officer, at Panmunjom, Korea. Ridgway's Tokyo headquarters said the Allied commander had instructed Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer:

"Desire you deliver this date to Communist liaison officer at Panmunjom the following message signed by you addressed to Colonel Chang, Communist liaison officer.

"Despite your unilateral action in recessing the meeting today and your abrupt departure therefrom, I am prepared to meet with you tomorrow 26 September 1951 at 1000 (10 a.m.) to discuss conditions mutually satisfactory for resumption of the armistice talks."

The Reds walked out when allied liaison officers insisted on discussing conditions under which the truce talks could be resumed. The allies earlier told the Reds that Kaesong was not a satisfactory site.

List of Charges

The Communists wanted to get the truce talks going right away. But they demanded that the first session be given over to plans for processing a string of charges that the allies had violated the neutrality of Kaesong.

Eight and one-half hours after the Reds stalked out of the Tuesday morning meeting, an allied officer left the advance camp at Munsan with the message for the Reds.

He made the extraordinary night flight to Panmunjom, near Kaesong, by helicopter.

The talks have been stalled 33 days.

That word "conditions" in Ridgway's message left the situation just where it was when the Reds walked out of Tuesday's meeting.

The tense, 50-minute session ended with explosive suddenness.

Air Force Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, had proposed that both sides discuss conditions which would guarantee uninterrupted talks by the negotiators.

Chinese Red Col. Chang Chun-san flatly rejected the suggestion, said the meeting was ended, and headed for the door.

The belief prevailed at Allied headquarters that the Communist walkout did not signal a complete breakdown of the stalled truce talks.

A source noted that a final breakoff could be called only by the highest levels of the Red or Allied commands—not by liaison officers.

US Cheese Ban Violates World Terms

GENEVA, Sept. 25—(AP)—The United States restrictions on import of cheese and other dairy products through an amendment to the Defence Production Act were flatly labelled yesterday a violation of American commitments under the general agreemen on tariffs and trade.

Representatives of two countries—Canada and the Netherlands—told the members of GATT their governments are considering retaliatory measures against the United States.

Johann Melander, chairman of the contracting parties now in session here, told the delegates that the US measure is "an infringement of the general agreement, but the executive branch is making effort to have it repealed. If these efforts are not successful, action will have to be considered under Article 23."

Article 23 provides for action against parties nullifying or impairing the benefits of the agreement.

May Lodge Complaint

The acting head of the Canadian delegation, C. M. Isbister, said that "depending upon events in the next week or two, Canada is prepared to lodge a complaint at this session and to proceed with the subsequent retaliation and other steps envisaged under Article 23."

Isbister said the US restrictions on imports of cheese and dairy products had "far-reaching effects on Canadian producers." He said it was "difficult to find any support for the contention that US cheese producers were in difficulty since the market price today is above the support price."

Willard Thorp, assistant US secretary of state and head of the US delegation said a bill to repeal the measure was before Congress and the administration hoped for early action.

Thorp said the US action must not be interpreted as a basic change in United States policy. The United States support for GATT, he said, was unchanged.

The contracting parties agreed to retain the item on the agenda hoping that action would be taken in Washington before the end of the session in about five weeks.

Snow Blankets Prairie Crops

EDMONTON, Sept. 25—(CP)—A curtain of snow moved eastward across the prairies today, keeping harvesting at a standstill.

All Alberta was white. The snow reached Regina this morning and was working its way northeastward in Saskatchewan. It will cover Manitoba by tonight.

Four inches of snow lay on the ground at Rocky Mountain House, Alta., three inches at Red Deer, two at Calgary, one at Lethbridge and a half-inch at Edmonton.

On the eastern prairies the snow was bringing some relief from bitter cold. Broadview, east of Regina, reported a low of 16. Neepawa, Man., had 19 and Winnipeg, with a chilly 23, reported the coldest Sept. 25 in weather records.

The severe frost will reduce the quality of some of the grain still standing but agriculturalists have said the bulk of the record crop is beyond serious damage.

But the snow will hold up the harvest for possibly a week or more and make difficult the use of machinery on wet fields.

US Sabre Jets Shoot Down 5 MIGs

WITH US FIFTH AIR FORCE, Korea, Sept. 25 (AP) — United States Sabre jets today shot down five Russian-built MIG-15s and damaged five in the longest jet battle in history—a 35-minute fight in MIG Alley over Northwest Korea.

All American planes returned safely, the Fifth Air Force said.

The fight, which roared from 35,000 feet to ground level, produced the biggest bag of MIGs since April 12 when F-86 Sabres destroyed four, probably destroyed two and damaged 14 Red jet fighters.

Iran Orders Technicians To Get Out

No Conditions Added Iran Considers Talks Broken Down

TEHRAN, Sept. 25. (Reuters) — The Iranian government today announced that all the remaining 350 British oil technicians in southern Iran will be expelled from the country.

The expulsion order is not conditional on reopening the oil talks since Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh now considers the talks have completely broken down.

After the Britons leave the country, presumably, the Iranians will try to operate the oil industry themselves.

Anglo-Iranian's production has been brought to a standstill by the dispute over the government's move to nationalize it. Talks between the two countries on the future of the industry have been fruitless.

Last Remaining

At one time several thousand Britons worked at the Abadan refinery and outlying oilfields. Now only 350 remain at the idle refinery.

They have refused invitations to join the new National Iranian Oil Company, set up to operate the nationalized industry. These invitations now will be withdrawn.

Mossadegh had threatened to expel the Britons unless the British government resumed oil talks. Today's expulsion order will be carried through even if the British do agree to enter new negotiations, government spokesmen said.

They said Mossadegh felt he could not try to get production restarted as long as the British remained in Iran.

Djamal Imami, opposition leader in the Majlis (House of Representatives), today urged Mossadegh to adopt a firm line with Britain but to beware of Communist strength.

He accused Britain of playing a cunning game in Iran—"promoting the interests of the Communist party to exclude America."

Arms Restrictions On Italy To Be Lifted

PARIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—Britain, the United States and France will publish a joint declaration tomorrow saying Italy "is no longer subject" to her peace treaty arms limitations.

Russia was the fourth major power involved in imposing the treaty terms on Italy.

Diplomatic informants in Paris said the three western powers would say in the declaration "changing circumstances" since the Italian treaty was written have made it no longer necessary to compel Italy to abide by certain treaty clauses.

These clauses mainly are those that restricted Italy to an army of 250,000, an air force of 350 planes and 25,000 men, and a navy of no more than 132 ships.

Seven Shot By Father After Son's Throat Slashed

CAIRO, Sept. 25—(AP)—Seven persons were reported shot to death in a strange Arabian Nights tale of Oriental revenge.

The trouble started, the news magazine Akhbar El Yom reported, when a village child in the Nile Delta area threw a stone at a passing camel.

The stone hit the camel in the eye and blinded that eye.

The son of the village mayor—who owned the camel and was riding it at the time—swore an oath to cut the child's throat.

Divorce Oath

The oath he took is called the "divorce oath". It's the most serius known in this part of the world. If a man does not fulfill a "divorce oath" he must put aside his wife.

The father of the child who threw the stone offered to buy the camel to make up for his son's mischief. The mayor's son refused.

The father then consulted the village sheikh or religi us leader.

The sheikh advised that the oath could be fulfiled if the mayor's son drew the dull edge of a knife over the child's throat. He also counselled that the father should then buy the camel.

Both parties accepted the solution. A village council was called and the child presented his throat to the mayor's son—who held the knife.

Reversed Blade

The mayor's son applied the dull edge of the knife to the child's throat—then—just as he drew it across he reversed the blade, severing the jugular vein.

But the child's father had been aroused by the suspicions of his wife. He had taken a pistol with him.

When he saw his son's blood spurting, he drew his gun and went amok. He shot the mayor's son, the sheikh and others present before order was restored.

King's Illness May Postpone Royal Tour Of Canada, US

OTTAWA, Sept. 25. (CP)—Today may tell the tale on whether Princess Eliazbeth and the Duke of Edinburgh come to Canada this fall. Original plans called for them to have sailed today from Liverpool in the Empress of France. Their passage was cancelled when it was learned that the King required a major lung operation.

Present plans call for them to fly to Canada to fulfill the program that has been arranged for them starting Oct. 2. However, the men who have planned the elaborate coast-to-coast schedule would not be surprised if the royal tour is postponed.

Many newspapers published editorials stressing that in view of the King's grave condition Princess Elizabeth should feel under no obligation to fulfill her Canadian tour. Others suggested the tour might be somewhat trimmed.

Called Attlee

Prime Minister St. Laurent yesterday had a transatlantic telephone conversation with Prime Minister Attlee concerning the King's illness and Mr. St. Laurent later said he would be in touch again today with Mr. Attlee. It is possible a decision on the royal tour may be arrived at.

Mr. St. Laurent said yesterday that the British leader gave a "very encouraging" report on the King's condition.

Mr. St. Laurent previously had cabled London to tell the Princess and her husband to feel under no obligation to come to Canada at this time. He stressed the Canadian people would understand if the visit had to be postponed.

Meanwhile tour officials are in a state of suspense. The RCAF has called back its big C5 transport from a trial run it was making of the route over which it was to have carried the royal pair.

The plane is in Ottawa ready to take off on short notice to bring them across the Atlantic in time to start the visit on schedule in Quebec City Tuesday morning.

Man Falls Off Freight In Path Of Second

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 25—(CP)—Falling off a freight train into the path of a westbound passenger train near Drumbo last night, Canadian Pacific Railway brakeman Richard G. Caroll, 40, of London, was killed.

The accident occurred in Blenheim township about half a mile west of Drumbo 13 miles northeast of here.

Old Friends

TORONTO, Sept. 25 (CP). — Wanted on a housebreaking charge, Kenneth Harman, 21, surrendered Monday to an old school chum, a rookie constable, and gave him the opportunity of making his first arrest.

3 Quarts Milk In 1-Qt. Bottle

OTTAWA, Sept. 25—(CP)—The National Research Council is working in a way to put three quarts of milk in a one-quart bottle.

It isn't done with mirrors. Scientists of the council's Division of Applied Biology hope to do it by evaporating milk at low temperatures—about 60 degrees.

"Concentration of liquid foods by low temperature evaporation is a relatively new approach to our food preservation and handling problems," the Research Council reported today in a statement on its dairy studies.

"The older technique of high-temperature drying often produces slightly-cooked or scalded flavors. The new technique minimizes these changes in flavor and will therefore find increasingly-wide application."

Another goal of the scientists is to preserve frozen concentrated milk for long periods, if possible the nine to 10 months between "flush" and "short" production.

At present whole milk can be frozen and stored at 10 degrees below zero for four months. Concentrated milk, however, although it can be frozen more economically, keeps for only about two months at 10 below. Even after a few weeks it tends to be chalky or even curded.

Canada Seaway Will Be Built Frost Reveals

TORONTO, Sept. 25. (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway, discussed for generations, is going to be built, says Premier Frost.

He told a Progressive Conservative party dinner last night:

"You are going to get the seaway, and get it shortly."

The premier's remark—which he did not amplify—was the strongest indication from any official source that Canada plans to go ahead on its own to build the great inland waterway which would open the Great Lakes to deep-sea shipping and provide power estimated at more than 2,000,000 horsepower annually.

Since a Congressional committee in Washington voted last July to shelve a bill which would have provided for United States participation with Canada in the project, estimated to cost more than $750,000,000 unofficial reports have said that the Dominion would build it on its own.

The premier last night gave no details of how Canada plans to undertake the seaway except to say that the cost to Ontario—vitally interested in the project's power aspects—would be about $200,000,000. "We can get it and we will do the job," he said.

Of the United States' frequent rejections of participation in the project, Mr. Frost said: "We like our friends to the south, but we are a great people ourselves and we can do the job and we will do it."

Hot Communist Propaganda Cooled Off In North; Eskimos Don't Know Of Korea

OTTAWA, Sept. 25. (CP)—A tip to the Russians: your propaganda machine isn't working in the north.

Canada's 8,000 Eskimos, absorbed in whale hunting and fox trapping, don't know about Russians or trouble-making Communists. They don't even know about Korea.

Like everyone else, they've been caught in the inflation whirl, but they laugh it off.

That's the way two National Film Board photographers sized up the northern situation after a 5,000-mile, 15-month film-making jaunt through Arctic wastelands.

Douglas Wilkinson, husky 31-year-old film-maker from Toronto, and his 30-year-old wife, Vivienne, came back to civilization in Ottawa and almost fainted—in 60-degree weather—with the heat.

They couldn't get used to the "warm spell" after battling the Arctic's 55-below-zero weather. But they were glad to be back and plunged into a big dishful of "greens," lettuce, celery, cucumbers—things they missed most in the Arctic.

Their northern jaunt to film Canada's first detailed documentary on the Eskimo's complete cycle, from a babe-in-arms to youth, marriage and old age, took the Toronto couple to Chesterfield Inlet and Southampton Island and points beyond that, more than 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg.

They battled a storm that sent their tent crashing on their heads and fought against death when their little gas range sprang a leak. Their Eskimo guide collapsed on the igloo floor and Douglas managed to cut a hole in the ice before he, too, slipped to the ground.

Living in the Arctic the pair acquired a taste for mucktuk, the skin on the white whale, and for murre, a duck-sized bird which inhabits the Arctic by the thousands.

Though some Eskimos had access to radios, they had "child-like" minds, said Douglas, and knew nothing about such things as Communism and Korea. Inflation had hit them, but apparently they did not care.

The price of tea had almost doubled to $1.25 a pound and another basic need—ammunition—had increased along with duffel cloth, a heavy blanket-like material which the Eskimo used for making parkas and socks. Two years ago it was selling at $6 a yard—now it costs $15 a yard.

"But the Eskimo doesn't grumble," said Douglas. "He's more interested in getting enough foxes to buy all he needs. He has no savings account. He spends all he makes."

Doctors' Fifth Bulletin Most Encouraging Yet Following Restful Night

1,000 Line Up At Palace To Read Report, End Of Crucial Phase Reached At Dawn Hazards Ahead Not As Great As Passed

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—A medical bulletin from Buckingham Palace this morning said the King "continues to gain strength" after a restful night. It was the fifth and most encouraging report from the King's doctors since they performed a major operation on one of his lungs Sunday morning. The bulletin, signed by four doctors who spent the night at the Palace and the surgeon who performed the operation, said: "After another restful night the King continues to gain strength."

As soon as they agreed on the bulletin, the doctors telephoned the good news to members of the Royal Family staying outside the Palace.

LONDON, Sept. 25—(AP)—Buckingham Palace in a medical bulletin tonight said the King "has had a comfortable day and has been able to take some nourishment."

Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, received it at Clarence House, their London residence.

The news also went to Marlborough House, home of Queen Mother Mary. With her were the Duke of Gloucester, youngest brother of the King, and Princess Mary, the Princess Royal, his sister.

The Duke of Windsor was reached at the home of a friend where he is staying while in London.

Bulletin No. 5 was posted on a board attached to the palace fence. A crowd of nearly 1,000 lined up to read it.

The Scots Guards, en route to St. James' Palace marched by a few minutes later with their pipes and drums silent.

The King reached the second stage today of his fight for life.

While well-wishers prayed and hoped for him beyond Buckingham Palace's walls, the haggard monarch fought his recovery battle through the night watched only by a few of the nurses and doctors who helped operate on his ailing lung Sunday.

Crucial Phase

Medical circles believe dawn today marked the end of the first—and most crucial—post-operative phase.

BBC Broadcasts Prayer For King

LONDON, Sept. 25—(AP)—The BBC broadcast the first of special prayers for the King after last night's 11 p.m. newscast. The Rev. Francis House led the prayer. It was:

"Almighty and immortal God, giver of life and health, we beseech Thee to hear our prayers for Thy servant, George, our King, so that, by Thy blessing upon him and upon those who minister to him, he may be restored to health of body and mind and give thanks to Thee in Thy holy church, through Jesus Christ Our Lord, Amen."

Two US Jets Crash In South Ontario

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Sept. 25 (CP)—Two fighter planes collided in mid-air five miles east of here, shortly after noon today.

Provincial police have tentatively identified the planes as F-86 Sabre jets belonging to the United States Air Force.

The planes collided over the home of Mrs. Edward Burm. One fell on the nearby barn of Alfred De Emeester, setting it on fire. The other, strewing wreckage behind it, buried itself in the earth 14 miles away.

Firemen from surrounding municipalities extinguished the barn fire and retrieved the body of one of the pilots.

The body of the other pilot was not found immediately.

The planes were believed based at Selfridge Field, near Detroit.

Mrs. Burm said she heard a series of loud explosions from ammunition burning in the plane that crashed north of her farm.

2 Die As Car Hits Gas Truck

GRAVENHURST, Sept. 25 (CP)—An automobile smashed into a gasoline truck near here yesterday, killing two persons and injuring five others, one severely.

Killed when the car spun around into the truck were W. Walger Leggett, 51, of Long Branch, Ont., and Ray Noel, 25, of Timmins. Noel's wife, Patricia, 23, is in critical condition with a fractured shoulder, head injuries and severe shock.

Leggett was earlier identified as a Peter Walsh of Timmins.

Also injured were: the Noel's daughter, Susan, 3, cuts; Mrs. Joan Ferguson, 28, head injuries and cuts; Bernard Leggett, 18, of Long Branch, head cuts; and Mrs. Winnifred Leggett, 51, shock.

The Leggett car was bound from Timmins to Long Branch, in suburban Toronto, when the accident occurred.

Police said they believe Mr. Leggett attempted to pass the truck when he slammed on the brakes and the vehicle spun into the truck. The car ended up in a ditch.

Two men in the truck, Ed Shufelt and James Benson, both of Toronto, were unhurt.

Man Trapped In Hood Trying To Reach Keys

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 25—(AP).—There isn't much room under an auto hood. Just ask Kenneth Causey who was trapped there for three hours yesterday.

Causey had parked his car in downtown Shrevcport and proceeded to lock the keys inside. Then he crawled under the hood to remove a plate from the dashboard and get the keys. At this point the hood snapped down on the 119-pound Causey.

His calls for help went unheeded.

Finally Causey squeezed his fingers out from the hood and continued to call. Two women passed by. They heard the yells, saw the fingers poking out of the car and ran away screaming.

A small boy came to Causey's rescue and freed him from his cramped quarters. Then the boy help up the hood while Causey reached through and got the keys.

"If it happens again," Causey commented, "I'll break the window."

Radio Manager Criticizes Massey Report

HALIFAX, Sept. 25 (CP) — A Halifax radio station manager said today that the Massey Commission on Arts and Sciences presented a report "completely out of sympathy with the idea of a democratic culture."

Speaking before the annual convention of the Canadian Women's Press Club, E. Finlay MacDonald, manager of station CJCH, said the report reflects neither a Canadian nor a North American viewpoint.

He said he believed the commission got off on the wrong foot by assuming that a Canadian "threatened with intellectual and moral annexation ought to spend freely on the attainment and the defence of a national culture."

Slightly Neurotic

The commission's warning that American influence was distorting Canadian culture contained "a touch of the neurotic."

"Let's stress variety as the nurturer of free development," Mr. MacDonald said. "Surely we are mature enough to borrow without guilt, to give without boast. Neither Canadian nor American culture has been, or is, monolithic in spite of the mass media of North America."

"We understand each other and misunderstand other Canadian areas and American areas with careless ease. If we will only be natural and stop going about in this eternal offensive fear of being ourselves, we shall discover that we are very like the Americans both in our good qualities and our bad."

Market Prices Weaken Slightly

TORONTO, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Stock Market prices weakened slightly today in early afternoon trading. Mixed irregular support carried industrials into the second day of trendless dealings.

Refining oils and liquors formed the strongest section. Papers, constructions, steels, banks, manufacturing companies, retail stores and miscellaneous industrials turned mixed. Agricultures, foods and textiles weakened. Utilities slipped steadily.

Western Oils dipped sharply in the mid-session.

Base Metals showed little trend. Steep Rock, United Keno Hill, Reeves and Cassiar edged higher while East Sullivan, Hudson Bay, Noranda, Quemont and United Asbestos weakened.

Senior Golds eased. Giant Yellowknife, Kerr Addison, McIntyre, Sigma and Wright-Hargreaves were down as much as $1.25. Juniors, Prospects and Holding Companies also weakened.

119 Freshmen Enrol At Guelph College

GUELPH, Sept. 25 — (CP) — One hundred and nineteen freshmen enrolled yesterday in the four-year degree course at the Ontario Agricultural College. It was the largest first year enrolment since Grade 13 standing was instituted as a requirement for admission three years ago.

A record number of seven girls enrolled at the Ontario Veterinary College as well as several students from the British West Indies, Thailand and England.

Use Mayor's Dais For Magistrate

The mayor's dais and desk is to be pressed into temporary use for the magistrate's court at the new city hall. Explanation for that continuance is found in a letter to the council from Marani and Morris, architects.

"Through a matter of circumstance, ordering of oak for the court room has involved delay, and we have been advised by the general contractor (Eastwood Construction Co.) that a shipment of oak now at the mill is below the standard that would be suitable for the magistrate's courtroom.

Until such time as a better quality of oak comes to hand, it is suggested that the dais and desk, in the present council chamber be temporarily installed in the court room."

To avoid cutting the old furnishings into several sections for removal by way of the stairwell, both desk and dais will probably have to be let down from a window of the council chamber.

Freed Czech Engineer To Settle In Canada

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—The engineer and 31 passengers of the Czech train that highballed through the Iron Curtain to freedom in Germany will be resettled in Canada, it was announced yesterday.

Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, chairman of the Iron Curtain Refugee Campaign, said members of the group are to be brought to a camp in Ludwigsburg, Germany, for final screening by Canadian immigration authorities.

The group that rode the rails in a dramatic escape from Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia is being sponsored by the international rescue committee, a private American organization.

Those in the escape plot stood guard over Communist officials on the train, ready to shoot it out if any interfered.

Passengers who wished to return to Czechoslovakia were permitted to do so by U.S. authorities.

Council Defers Buying Of Memorial Plaque

Purchase at $295 plus 10 per cent of a bronze tablet commemorating Peter Robinson and Adam Scott as founders of Peterborough was indefinitely deferred by the finance committee of the council Monday night. The plain design and cost was received from Pritchard Andrews Co., Ottawa.

The plaque had been considered as a mural record for the new city hall.

A motion by Ald. H. T. Rehill proposed that no action be taken at present, and that the correspondence be held in abeyance for discussion later when other details of the new building have been completed.

Killed Sweetheart

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — A lonely, troubled young man walked into a police station Monday and told of fatally plunging a knife into his sweetheart's chest as they lay in each other's arms. Police called it a "kiss of death" case. Charged with homicide was Teddy Nathan, 33. Dead was his new-found love in this country, Molly Nachman, pretty 25-year-old stenographer.

Duke Of Windsor Gets X-Ray In Routine Check

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor entered a hospital today for X-ray examinations described as routine.

A spokesman for the Duke said it was one of the regular checkups the Duke has from time to time.

"His Royal Highness is in the best of health," the spokesman said.

The Duke arrived in London yesterday from Paris about 24 hours after his brother, the King, underwent major lung surgery in Buckingham Palace.

The Duke arrived in London to speak at a book publisher's dinner, coinciding with the publication here of his memoirs.

His publishers, Cassell and Company, anounced today he had cancelled a press reception fixed for tomorrow. The statement said: "Owing to the illness of the King, the Duke of Windsor regrets that at this time of anxiety he does not feel that he can meet the press tomorrow."

The Duchess of Windsor remained in Paris.

Major W. Thorn Widely Mourned

After the past year's ill health, the death occurred of William James Thorn, of Omemee, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Percy H. (Vera) Sarginson, of Bethany.

The late William Thorn was born just south of Millbrook, Aug. 20, 1876, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thorn, Sr. He obtained his early education at Cork Public School, then Millbrook Continuation and Port Hope High School. Later, he graduated from Royal Military College, Kingston.

By faith, he was an Anglican. He joined the 45th Regiment of Victoria and Haliburton. He was a veteran of World War I in the 109th Battalion, a member of the Canadian Legion, a member of RBP No. 625, and Masonic Lorne Lodge No. 375. He joined the Masons in April, 1901, was Worshipful Master in 1905, district secretary 1927-28, Grand Steward 1928, and secretary of Lorne Lodge for over 40 years. He was presented with medals for long service in Military Field, Black Knights, and 50 years a Mason.

He and his wife, Sarah Ann Smith, of Garden Hill, celebrated their golden wedding March 30, 1948.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, a patient in Lindsay Private Hospital, two daughters, Mrs. Percy H. (Vera) Sarginson, Bethany; Mrs. Harold A. (Hazel) Sears, Dorset; two sons, Ivan at home and Norman of Delhi; five grandchildren, Keith, Ralph and Nancy Ann Sarginson, Bethany; Norma and Billie Sears, Dorset; two sisters, Mrs. Amos Strong and Mrs. John Lunn, Millbrook; five brothers, Joe, Austin, Arthur, Millbrook, Robert of Reaboro, and Reginald of Cleveland, Ohio.

Funeral services were held at the home of his daughter, at Bethany, and at Christ's Anglican Church, Omemee, by the Rev. Charles Richmond, rector, on Friday. A Masonic funeral was held at the graveside, conducted by Mr. C. R. Hart, a close friend and neighbor. The pallbearers were Masons Ken Thorn and Delbert Hickson, Reaboro; Percy Windrim, Peterborough; Ken Murray, Wesley Wilson and Walter Reeds, Omemee.

The large funeral and beautiful floral tributes from various organizations, relatives, friends and neighbors were silent reminders of the esteem in which he was held. Always of a kind and cheery disposition, he will be sadly missed by all who knew him.

Interment was at Emily cemetery.

Heraldic Costs Boosted $233

Peterborough's new coat of arms, approaching completion, will cost $858.96, as compared with the estimated $625.

The architects, Marani and Morris, reported to the council that the carving has been finished by Michael Safka, sculptor, Toronto, and the general design and production by A. Scott Carter, also of Toronto. The detail is in accordance with the impressionistic ideas embodied in the armorial design received by the city from the College of Heralds.

The gilding and painting of the coat of arms in the correct heraldic colors was recently mentioned in the progress report from Mr. Carter relayed through Marani and Morris.

National Anthem Played Against Orders

TORONTO, Sept. 25 — (CP).— Just before the service at Simpson Avenue United Church Sunday, Rev. Wesley Morris handed Frank Houston, organist, a note.

"Forget the National Anthem," it said. "I will pray instead."

The King had been operated on a few hours earlier in London, so, Organist Houston said yesterday, "I ignored the note... started 'God Save the King,' and the whole congregation stood up and sang."

Now he must explain his action to church officials. In his opinion, said he, it's "just a misunderstanding."

British Line Of Succession

LONDON, Sept. 25—(AP)—The line of succession to the throne is dominated by Princess Elizabeth's young family.

The 25-year-old Priness herself is first in line for the Crown on the death of her father.

Her son, Prince Charles, who will be three years old Nov. 14, is second, and is followed directly by his little sister, Princess Anne.

The Duke of Edinburgh, Elizabeth's husband, has no place in the line of succession. If she becomes queen his will be the role of Prince Consort.

The Princess is called heiress presumptive because it is presumed possible that her father might have a son before his death. By law, the Crown descends to sons before daughters.

Queen Elizabeth, if the King dies before her, will become Queen Mother, practically in royal retirement, as is the present Queen Mother Mary.

The Duke of Windsor, the former king who abdicated in favor of his brother, has no claim to the throne. He renounced it for himself and all his descendants.

First in the line of succession after Elizabeth's family, is Princess Margaret, the King's second daughter. After her is the King's brother, the Duke of Gloucester.

The complete line of succession.

1. Princess Elizabeth.
2. Prince Charles
3. Princess Anne.
4. Princess Margaret.
5. The Duke of Gloucester.
6. Prince William, 9, elder son of the Duke of Gloucester.
7. Prince Richard, 7, younger son of the Duke of Gloucester.
8. Prince Edward, the 15-year-old Duke of Kent, who succeeded to the title when his father, the King's youngest brother was killed in an air crash in 1942.
9. Prince Michael, 9, the Duke of Kent's brother.
10. Princess Alexandra, 14, the Duke of Kent's sister.
11. The Princess Royal, the 54-year-old Princess Mary, sister of George VI.
12. The Earl of Harewood, 28, elder son of the Princess Royal.
13. The Hon. Gerald David Lascelles, 27, younger son of the Princess Royal.

Fountain Work To Start Soon

The Examiner's recent "Fishing Boy" editorial, criticising delay in erecting the proposed fountain in Victoria Park, was mentioned by Ald. Herbert Young, chairman of the parks committee, last night.

The chairman said the bronze figure of the boy with a fishing rod representing a limb cut from a tree was delivered recently, and the construction of the fountain was about to be undertaken when the editorial stricture was published. Ald. Young told the committee the bronze was an attractive work, and would be a striking feature of the fountain.

The flow of the water was a detail that had to be considered, and the committee also intended to place on it a plaque in memory of the late Fred M. De la Fosse, for many years Peterborough's librarian, who had proposed the restoration of the fountain of other years' adornment of Victoria Park.

MORE ABOUT—

Doctors' Fifth

"There are hazards and anxieties still ahead," one doctor observed, "but they are not as great or as grave as those of the operation itself and the (first) 48 hours which have now passed."

In the first crisis after the surgeon's knife finishes its work, the great danger is post-operative collapse.

Last night's bulletin No. 4—saying "the King has gained strength during the day"—reduced fears of such a collapse.

But the 55-year-old King is not yet on the straight and smooth road. Medical experts claim the next danger periods start approximately next Saturday and will last a day or two.

Complications

At that period, the risk of late complications — especially infection and what is called "secondary haemorrhage"—will once again make the going critical for the King.

The guarded bulletins from the sickroom—they haven't yet indicated what disease attacked the Monarch's lung—shed little light on his ailment. But their progressively-encouraging tone has cut down the fears of the British people. For the first time since the operation, the palace yard was silent early today except for the tread of sentries.

The King's immediate relatives —including the Duke of Windsor —are nearby. The Duke arrived in London from Paris without his Duchess. The trip had been arranged earlier by the man who abdicated in favor of his brother in 1936. The Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, Md., has never been received by the Royal family. She stayed in Paris.

Visitors at the bedside last night included Queen Mother Mary and Princess Elizabeth, the 25-year-old heir presumptive, with her Duke of Edinburgh. The Queen is staying with the King.

Princess Elizabeth and her husband still plan to visit Canada and the United States next month. They decided to go by plane instead of by ship as originally intended, and are scheduled to reach Quebec City Oct. 2.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister St. Laurent said yesterday that arrangements for the tour "are being proceeded with." He also reported Britain's Prime Minister Attlee told him the King's condition is "very encouraging."

Junior Inflation

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. — (AP)—A toy manufacturer announced today her firm will turn out no more penny banks—just those that take nickels, dimes and quarters. Mrs. Ann Payson, head of a Hackensack, NJ, toy company, said the changeover is due to the copper shortage and the penny's lost appeal to children. Pennies buy very little today, she said, "and most children do not show much appreciation for anything less than a dime."

Driver Fined On Liquor Count

Russell Finlay, 50, Hunter St., was convicted Monday of driving on the night of August 18 while his ability was impaired by alcohol. He was ordered to pay the minimum fine of $50 and costs or go to jail.

Constable Sherman Keliele said that he and Constable Claire McGillen saw Finlay driving erratically up Reid St. from McDonnel St. Finlay was driving on the wrong side of the road.

Both constables said that Finlay smelled strongly of beer and he was in a belligerent mood.

"At first we were just going to take the keys of his car," said Constable Keliele. "But he said he'd rather be locked up, so we obliged."

Finlay said the zigzagging was caused by a defective steering wheel. Constable McGillen testified that the steering was defective but that wasn't the reason for the car going in such an erratic manner.

Three Wounded Korea Casualties

OTTAWA, Sept. 25. (CP)—The Army today issued its 53rd casualty list of the Korean war, reporting three men wounded in action.

The list brought to 251 the number of casualties suffered by Canadian troops in Korean action. These include 62 dead, 170 wounded, 18 injured in action and one missing.

The List:

Wounded In Action

Bauld, Charles William, Pte.; RCIC, Truro, NS; Mr. Walter Bauld (brother), Shelburne, Shelburne Co., NS.

McKenzie, Leonard, Pte; RCIC; Mrs. Elizabeth Jane McKenzie, (wife), The Pas, Man.

Stephens, Forrest Stewart, Pte.; RCIC; Mrs. R. Stephens (mother), Montreal, Que.

Six People Hurt

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 25 (CP) —Six persons were injured, two seriously, in a two-car crash today five miles north of Melrose. In a London hospital are Neil Campbell 56, of Denfield, Colin Campbell 20, a daughter Mary Campbell 19, and Velda McChesney, 16. All are suffering from shock.

First China Jeep

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25—(AP)—The Peiping radio yesterday heralded the production of the first jeep in Red China. The broadcast, heard here by the Associated Press, said the jeep was turned out at the Tientsin automobile assembly plant. The plan is to present Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung with two jeeps on Oct. 1, Red China's national day.

Woman, 73, Hurt

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 25 (CP)—Mrs. Josie Parson, 73, of Dorchester, is in hospital here with injuries suffered Monday in a car-truck collision six miles north of here. She is so badly shocked that X-ray examination for spinal injuries is thought unwise, but hospital authorities do not regard her condition as critical. She has both neck and back injuries.

Wounded Neckers

WIGAN, Lancashire, England, Sept. 25 (Reuters)—Tom Hurst, 38, yesterday was fined £15 and costs for wounding a couple necking in his cornfield. Hurst testified that he fired one barrel of his shotgun to scare them away because he thought they were grain thieves. Elsie Mulcrow and Roy Moore, both 19, were treated for slight buckshot wounds in the face.

City Housing Project Goes To Committee

The Dickson farm housing project in Ashburnham was transferred by the finance committee last night to the special housing committee of which Ald. Waddell is chairman. He said he would probably call a meeting this week.

Definition of the area with maps and other information represents the initial stage of the proposal which received stimulus by the announcement of Premier Frost at the convention of the Mayors Association at London this year outlining terms of provincial assistance.

The property includes the rising ground east of Little Lake. That location was proposed partly to obtain some balance in the expansion of the city. So far the plan has been merely in the preliminary discussion stage, and has not yet received committee attention.

Arrested As Drunk Driver Had Polio

OSHAWA, Sept. 25 — (CP).— Jack Bradfield, 46, Toronto, was arrested by police Monday night when found slumped on the back seat of his car.

He was lodged in a jail here for six hours before it was discovered that he was suffering from poliomyelitis. The jail doctor, Dr. H. MacDonald, ordered him to hospital.

Constable J. Smith, who found Bradfield slumped in his car, said: "He smelled strongly of liquor ...There was nothing to indicate he was sick at the time."

POWER SHOVEL BURNS

A backfire from a carburetor Monday afternoon started a flash fire that badly damaged a power shovel, the property of Curtis Bros., Engleburn Ave. When the fire department arrived the shovel was burning and a booster pump was needed to put the fire out.

UN Troops Take Commanding East Front Peak

By JOHN RANDOLPH

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 25—(AP) —United Nations troops today captured a commanding peak west of "Heartbreak Ridge" on the rugged eastern Korea front.

The mountain, like the ridge the Allies want so badly, looks down on a Communist supply and assembly base.

A UN unit battled to the mountain top, northwest of Yangu. It kicked an estimated two North Korean battalions off the peak in nearly three hours of fierce fighting.

There was a comparative lull Tuesday around "Heartbreak Ridge," twice lost to counter-attacking Reds in 14 days of bitter fighting. Communists drove US troops off the highest peak in the ridge Monday for the second time in 10 days.

Repulsed Attacks

Weary United States soldiers holed up on the steep slopes and repulsed three small Red probing attacks before dawn Tuesday. They reported that by Tuesday afternoon there had been no further contact with the Communists.

To the east, the 16-inch rifles of the battleship New Jersey pounded Reds in the hills north of Punchbowl, a one-time Communist assembly point.

The 1¼-ton shells arched miles through the air. Dozens hit the heart of the Communist defences on the northeastern front, the Navy said.

Ontario Compensation Board Pattern For Other Provinces

The Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board - - "recognized as one of the best labor rehabilitative administrations in the world" —was the topic of a twin-bill speakers' program at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday.

The speakers were E. Sparrow, chairman of the board and Dr. E. C. Steele, the board's chief medical officer.

The chief factor behind the Ontario boards' world-wide recognition as a leader in this field, Mr. Sparrow attributed to the particular kind of provincial compensation legislation.

"All 10 Canadian provinces now have a Workmen's Compensation Board and in every instance are patterned on the Ontario type," the chairman said. "In fact our board has been the prototype for labor rehabilitative programs in other countries as well."

Four Responsibilities.

Mr. Sparrow went on to explain the board's administration was motivated by four responsibilities (1) to use its indirect influence to prevent accidents through its supervision of the expenditure of grants made to various safety associations: (2) duty to workmen; (3) duty to employers; (4) duty to the medical profession.

"However, our chief aim," the chairman concluded," is to get injured workmen back to their work in the least possible time."

Medical Side.

The medical side of the board's work was presented by Dr. Steele.

"The board has laid down the rule that an injured workman should receive the best possible medical care available in Ontario," he explained. Cost means nothing."

Dr. Steele went on to outline the board's facilities that make this care possible.

The board has the entire second floor of the Toronto General hospital and also beds in Western hospital. However what might be considered the most important work is done at the board's rehabilitative centre near Malton airport, north west of Toronto.

This centre which has been used as a model for many other hospitals of its kind has a 450 patient capacity. The staff included seven doctors, 22 physiotherapists, 21 occupational therapists; 14 trained nurses.

No Better Medical Care.

The rehabilitative work carried on at the centre not only consists of therapy treatment but in the case of major amputee cases artificial limbs are provided, and patients are instructed how to use them.

"I firmly believe that in no other province, nor in the United States nor in any other country is there better medical care given to workmen who come under the board than in Ontario," Dr. Steele concluded.

The speakers were introduced by Dr. R. K. Magee and thanked by Col. J. A. Dewart.

The following guest Rotarians and guests weer introduced by Dr. R. A. Kelly; A. M. Cadman, Pittsburgh, Pa.; L. A. Richardson, Mimico; Bill Milne, North Bay; F. G. Mollard, sr., Windsor; F. G. Havelock Farmer Grows Large Vegetables One Carrot Weighs 4 Pounds, 10 Ounces

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 25 — (ENS).—When it comes to growing king sized vegetables, W. Chase, a Havelock district farmer really knows his business. In Campbellford this week, he exhibited a large carrot, complete with top, that weighed four pounds, 10 ounces. Mr. Chase explained that he had many more like it at home. He also grows large beets. His wife gave one monster to a neighbor, who boiled the beet, cut it up into pieces to preserve and got two quart sealers and one pint sealer from the one vegetable.

Mr. Chase says his secret is supercharged fertilizer which he gets from the US. It costs about $5 per gallon, but with the increased yield, it more than pays for itself. He uses it on grain, and practically everything else in his garden. When his wife decides to have carrots or beets for dinner, she doesn't go to the garden and pull a bunch, she just takes one.

Mrs. H. T. Bradburn

The Rev. A. A. Mathews, George St. United Church, officiated Monday at the funeral service for Mrs. Henry Thomas Bradburn at the Belleghem funeral home. She died in Toronto on Friday at her residence, following a short illness in her 82nd year.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Cora Mortimer, of Toronto; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Jordon, of Deep Cove, BC; Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald, of Birtle, Mann., and Mrs. Elizabeth Bell, of RR 3, Lakefield, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Everitt Hayes (Dorothy).

Pallbearers were: Everitt Hayes, Russell Mortimer, Merton Storey, A. C. Curtis, Reginald Bell and Herbert Bradburn. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Sea-Going House

KENNEBUNK, Me., Sept. 25—(AP)—A two-storey house safely made a nine-mile sea voyage last night. The 60-by-30-foot wooden building, riding on pontoons, was anchored for the night off Goose Rocks beach, where it will be landed on today's high tide.

Busy Season

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 25—(AP)—Maine's 1951 vacation season was the busiest ever—in spite of the most rain and the coldest average temperature in five years. The Maine publicity bureau yesterday reported reservations at key resorts up 10 per cent or better over 1950's record total.

Thief Steals $40 From House

COBOURG, Sept. 25—(ENS)—Ransacking the house late yesterday afternoon, a thief stole about $40 from the purse of Mrs. Alex Armstrong. Mrs. Armstrong was working out at the back and had left the screen door locked at the front.

The thief, apparently thinking that there was nobody around, slit the screen with a knife and opened the door. Mrs. Armstrong had occasion to go around to the front of the house and noticed the door open. She was just about to enter when a young, dark man with a yellow and black jacket ran down from upstairs and pushed past her and fled.

She tried to grab him but he jerked free and ran. Going after him she saw him get into a car with another man and they drove off. Police combed the town without success and it is thought that they headed out of town.

Cigarette Smuggling

ROME, Sept. 25 —(Reuters)—Police announced last night they had broken "one of the biggest cigarette smuggling rings operating in Italy" and arrested six Italians and a French subject. They said the ring bought American cigarettes at Tangiers, shipped them to Italy where they were unloaded at isolated places on the Coast of Calabria, and then moved them to distributing centres in Rome.

Recipe Saved

LUGO, Spain, Sept. 25—(AP)—The secret of the way Anisette—the licorice-tasting liquor—is made by the Augustinian monks have been saved from explosion and fire. The monks have been making it for centuries at San Julian de Samo in the village of Sarria, near here. A bottle of alcohol used in making the liquor exploded yesterday, killing a young student, injuring two monks and starting a fire. But many relics and ancient documents including the Anisette recipe, were saved.

Egyptian Cabinet

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Sept. 25 (AP)—Two new cabinet ministers have been named and two other posts exchanged, Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha announced last night after a conference with King Farouk. There was no statement on reports that the premier was to discuss with the King the strained relations between Egypt and Britain over British troops in the Suez area.

Committee Okays Milk Deliverer

Request of Earl Hetherington for permission to deliver milk in Peterborough was recommended for endorsation of the council by the finance committee Monday night.

C. M. Meek of the Ontario Milk Control Board informed the council of the Hetherington application.

"It is the understanding of the Board that the municipality of Peterborough is operating efficiently under a milk license bylaw, and has a splendid inspection of milk supply, and milk plants, under the supervision of Dr. Harold Worton."

For that reason Mr. Meek wrote that the Board wished to consult the city council regarding the request of Mr. Hetherington and also his qualifications.

Dr. Worton of the city's health department reported to the council that he had inspected the Hetherington place Sept. 5. "Mr. Hetherington has equipment which was formerly used, but which is in reasonably good condition. However, certain improvements such as painting and general housecleaning would be necessary before approval of a license could be granted."

No Separation For Twins

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Sept. 25—(AP)—Surgeons decided yesterday that it would be impossible to separate Rock Island's Siamese twins. The twins, both boys, were born Sept. 16 to Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie, parents of three other normal children. A doctor told reporters that the youngsters, joined at the tops of their heads, appear to have a common circulatory system.

Land Grants Promised

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sept. 25—(AP)—Without setting any target date, the Chinese Nationalists today gave troops an incentive to recapture the mainland from the Communists. They promised land grants in Red China for Nationalists soldiers. A defence ministry spokesman said "this is the first time in the whole long history of China that plans are being made to give land to soldiers."

Jury Accepts Minor Charge In Car Death

COBOURG, Sept. 25—(ENS)—No bill for manslaughter and true bill for dangerous driving were returned by the grand jury at the opening of the fall assizes Monday. Defendant is Edward Lawson of Toronto whose car was involved in an accident near Bowmanville last May. Dorothy Wilson of Kingston, passenger in the car, died after the accident.

Two jury actions and five non-jury cases were on the civil list before Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder, but three of them, including one jury case, were settled. Two on the list are divorce cases and it is exected that the docket will be cleaned up by Friday.

In his address to the grand jury Monday afternoon, Mr. Justice Schroeder warned against dropping any of those traditional institutions which made democracy what it is.

An impartial administration of justice was the foundation of good government, he declared. While six years had gone by since the cessation of World War Two, a gallant ally was now apparently intent on world domination and would try to force its way of life upon the free people of the world.

Threat To Freedom

"Because of this threat to our freedom, we are resolved to resist fully their treacherous aggressions. We know that slavery of old was slavery of the body but the slavery which now is increasing in the world is slavery of the spirit. It would render an individual soulless for its own ends.

No matter what form of despotism it takes, we will recognize it and take steps to rid ourselves of it," he declared.

"As a free people we respect the law. It is not static but adapts itself to fit the times and is the foundation of all things which form our democratic way of life. We will never see here a government which ignores the dignity of the individual and places the state above all.

"We will not see in our land a government under which nocturnal arrests are made and men whisked away never to return, condemned without trial. It should give us cause to pause and reflect that it is our good fortune that those things do not happen in our country.

"Now more than ever do we need integrity and staunchness. You who are chosen for jury duty are important parts in the administration of justice. It is a duty but it is also a high privilege," said His Lordship.

Police Right On Scene As Cars, Truck Crash

COBOURG, Sept. 25—(ENS)—The police could not have been at this accident any more quickly. Constables Homer Searle and E. Butler were on patrol at the east end of the town in the police cruiser last night when they noticed a car driven by Charles Shaw, of Cobourg, start to make a left turn off King on to D'Arcy.

A car driven by Harold Blow, of Cobourg, coming from behind, skidded on the wet pavement into the first car and then a light truck driven by Fred Purdy, of Grafton, skidded into the back of the second car. The police stepped out of the cruiser, walked over to the scene of the accident and took over.

Ont. Pensions Start Jan. 1 For 40,000 Needy Aged

TORONTO, Sept. 25 — (CP)—Pensions start Next Jan. 1 for Ontario's 40,000 needy persons aged 65 to 69 years and the payments of up to $90 a month will entail no increase in taxation.

Premier Frost yesterday told the special legislature session called to consider the government's pension legislation that provincial revenues are sufficiently buoyant to meet Ontario's share of the pension costs. To be shared 50-50 with the Federal government. The provinces's share has been estimated at $5,000,000 year.

At the same time, municipalities will save between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 a year altogether through removal of the burden of relief payments to elderly needy persons.

Federal Pensions.

The arrangement will go into effect on the same date $40-a-month Federal pensions without a means test become available to persons over 70. Legislation for this will go before the Federal house in October.

The session opened amid speculation about an autumn election. But the speech from the throne made no mention of election possibilites, nor did any member of the government.

The house adopted a motion expressing "profound sorrow" at the King's illness and hoping for his early recovery.

When the pension bill is passed— probaly this week, as no other business is scheduled for the session — Ontario will become the first province to implement the plan for the 65-to 69-year means test pensions worked out last December between the Federal government and the Provinces. It also was the first province to agree to the proposal.

Incomes of persons who receive the means test pensions may total $720 a year, including the pension and any amount over this will be deducted from the pension.

Help Blind.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow, who introduced the legislation, also brought in another bill providing a more generous means test for the $40-a-month pensions provided needy blind persons over 21. Blind pensioners would be permitted to earn $360 a year in addition to their pensions, as against the present $240.

Mr. Goodfellow said the means-test pension "will bring comfort and security to thousands of our citizens between 65 and 69 especially to widows who have lost their breadwinners and persons who have infirmities which make it impossible to earn a livelihood on their own."

He said the province intends to do away with claims, based on pensions paid, against estates of deceased pensioners.

It plans to continue free medical services to needy pensioners 65 years and over and to extend them to include dental care. In additon, the bill proposes continuance of the homes-for-the-aged program and offers the Federal government the services of the province's field workers to help counsel persons in the 70-and-above bracket who will be transferred to federal pension rolls.

The new pension cheque is to be exempt from provincial or municipal taxes. It will not be subject to attachment or seizure for any claim against the pensioner.

Mr. Pearson Too Big For Canada?

Canada has become the most important middle power among nations today but she is not in the front rank of great powers, although some of her cabinet ministers and senior civil servants are considered to be foremost statesmen and experts. These men, particularly in the departments of Finance, of External Affairs, of Trade and Commerce and in the Bank of Canada with its Foreign Exchange Control Board, speak with such knowledge and authority in international councils—and are so respected therein—that the first thing we know they will be pitching Canada into front rank. Now the front rank is a fine place to be, but it is also a dangerous place. And the front rank is a thin line unless it has a second, third and fourth rank to back it up. In the big time of international polity Canada has no secondary ranks; she simply is not strong enough, wealthy enough, populous enough. The very eminence of Mr. Pearson, Minister of External Affairs, may be a threat to our security and way of life as a secondary power. Is he pushing this country into the front rank for which it is unsuited, unprepared and without the necessary backing?

* * *

Mr. Pearson, appointed next year's chairman of NATO's Council by virtue of his ability and prominence, seems not to have raised a voice against the admission of Greece and Turkey into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Is he thinking larger than Canada can spread herself? With the admission of these two countries, Canada, a NATO member, pledges herself to defend the national integrity of Greece and Turkey if those two countries are attacked. (The Canadian parliament has to ratify the entrance of Greece and Turkey into NATO, but by reason of Canada's cabinet solidarity and responsible government, it undoubtedly will.) Since NATO was very much an inspiration of the Canadian Government—of Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Pearson—we are rather surprised that Mr. Pearson acquiesced in the admission of Turkey and Greece. Only a few months ago Mr. Pearson was saying:

"In recent months the limelight has tended to shift to the Far East, and more recently to the middle East as a result of the Iranian crisis and the problem of the relationship of Greece and Turkey to Western defence planning. Although the Soviet Union may have played some part in bringing to a head these Middle Eastern problems, the problems themselves are not of the Soviet Union's making. They do, however, lend themselves admirably to the Soviet practice of fishing in troubled waters and diverting attention from more vital areas. We should perhaps remind ourselves more frequently that the need to preserve the integrity of Western Europe and the United Kingdom, as the Eastern frontier of the Atlantic community, was what originally inspired the formation of NATO and remains today its principal objective."

We hope that Mr. Pearson will be able to explain convincingly to Parliament why he—a designer of NATO—thinks that Greece and Turkey at the far end of the eastern Mediterranean are North Atlantic countries and why Canada should contract a virtual military alliance with them—an alliance which, we confess to believe, Canadians have little power to implement and less desire to do so?

* * *

We do not argue from an isolationist's point of view. Isolation is neither splendid nor possible to Canada. Nor do we argue for any lessening of the present defence effort; we fully agree with General Eisenhower who a fortnight ago told the Norwegians that a free nation can secure peace only through strength. But strength can be so developed that it is bulging muscle on a weakened body. Canada should develop her strength evenly and not only militarily at the expense of the political, economic and social body. Let her take on no more than she has the capacity to bear. Mr. Pearson may be a world statesman but let him remember that Canada is not a world power.

The Swedish Example

Canada is often compared with Sweden. Both are northern countries; both are thinly populated; both have an abundance of natural resources; and both their economies must depend largely on exports. In their political situations too, Sweden and Canada are related. They are both deeply democratic in spirit and practice (domestically as well as in international spheres); they are not militaristic; and are both under the shadow of powerful, populous neighbours. Canada's neighbour is nearer—the United States; but Sweden has two powerful nations to keep on terms with: Germany and Russia. Because of the similarities of their situations, Canadians are intensely interested in the Swedish pattern of life and nationhood. Today in our Third Column we print an article by our London Observer correspondent in Stockholm which skilfully reflects the social, economic and political environment in Sweden today.

The writer says that Swedes still believe that their prosperity is the product of peace, and that collective action to preserve this prosperity through military alliances appears to them to be outside their spheres. Sweden is not feverishly war-minded although it has a common boundary with Russia and should therefore be in much greater trepidation than Canada about the "Russian menace". Sweden is keeping its powder dry and has built up in the last ten years the fourth largest air force in the world; but it is not pushing numerous divisions into the standing armies of Europe. From its much greater distance Canada may see the Russian danger more clearly. Or is its propinquity to the United States giving some Canadians a false sense of military grandeur. Is the American bulk in Canadian thought and commerce putting them off balance?

God Save The King

Since last Saturday the national anthem has been a heartfelt prayer of anxious subjects of His Majesty the world over. The King's ailment is indeed serious and its ravages are gravely revealed in recent photographs of the King. This dedicated man has been under severe nervous and physical strain since he mounted the throne in the distressing circumstance of the last months of 1936. The hard war years made constant demands on his energies and emotions. He has devoted his life sincerely and selflessly to the kingship and in securing the respect and admiration of his people, he has become so beloved that they now are personally distraught by his illness whose nature is alarming. May God save the King.

The Nickel Flared

On Saturday we had a few things to say about the Canadian nickel to commemorate the isolation of nickel two centuries ago. We said that the prize-winning design had been published and that that was the last we had heard of the new nickel. Now we have heard more, from numerous readers. The coin was minted. Ten thousand were struck late last year, only ten thousand for a population of fourteen millions. They were not put into general circulation, but some dozens have found their way into Peterborough hands.

We hasten to correct our statement and to note that the special nickel did see the light of day briefly. We presume that now each of the 10,000 is carefully stored away by collectors. Incidentally, if only 10,000 were struck, each one cost at least ten cents, for apart from the value of the metal in the coin and the cost of producing it, a thousand dollar prize was awarded for the design. Therefore each of the ten thousand coins bears a ten-cent share of the cost of prize-money.

Obscuring and Corrupting

The faculty of William and Mary College, at Williamsburg, Virginia, has published a statement in which it says that an ambitious sport program there has been "obscuring and corrupting" the real purpose of the university. There has recently been a scandal at William and Mary in which it has been shown that academic records were falsified in order that popular and capable athletes might stay at college and play games without doing any real university work.

William and Mary seems to be rather late in discovering what most universities learned during the past ten years. Twenty-five years ago it might have been supposed that the most important part of a university was its rugby team, and athletic success was more important in the minds of many people than academic standing. But the universities have recovered from this foolishness. Sport is important still, but it is decidedly secondary to the real purpose of a university, which is to provide training in the liberal arts and the professions.

The sport mania died with the depression of the 'thirties. It was possibly only in a society where there was a great deal of easy money, and where the future looked rosy. These are not days of easy money, and although the future looks promising for intelligent young men and women, they know that they must win the prizes by talent and work. It has also been seen during the past twenty-five years that the abilities which make a man an outstanding athlete may not fit him for that time of life when athletics have become impossible; the glory of an athlete is perhaps the most transitory that the world affords. It seems odd that William and Mary—the second oldest university in the U.S.A.—should have taken so long to find out what other universities mastered fifteen years ago.

Land Of The Olive Branch

By SHEVAWN LYNAM
(In Stockholm)

THE "United States of Europe" seem far from Stockholm. Travelling up from Paris on the Nord Express, your passport is stamped eight times, officials in divers uniforms asks if you have anything to declare, and they are replaced by others enquiring into your finances and your plans for your future. You pay for each meal in a different currency, adjust your thirst to the liquor restrictions according to the frontiers, and at the end of it all feel you have arrived somewhere that is rather outside Europe.

No atmosphere seems to emanate from Stockholm as from the roofs of Cologne or the backyards of battered Hamburg past which the train has trundled. Whatever strikes the visitor here is very palpable and solid, from the broad-beamed white pleasure steamers, like tough little cobs, down to the multitude of nude statutes, including a muscular, sinewy character with a tiny beard who turns out to be Strindberg.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE little island city of the Hansa League is still gracefully astride the gateway to Lake Malaren, but the old cannot hold its own against the new. A great battalion of blank-faced, slit-eyed skyscrapers stands sentinel above the interlaced canals to remind all comers that the Venice of the North is marching in the ranks of progress.

The march began long ago. Whoever said that the Swedes were simply the Prussians gone sleepy gave us good cause to lament that all Prussians had not followed the formula; for the Swedes turned their swords to ploughshares a century and a half ago, and it is hard to imagine that a Prussian, even drowsy, could acquire the flexibility which is the Swede's main characteristic.

✧ ✧ ✧

SWEET reasonableness has woven Swedish life into the harmonious pattern it is today. The social services do not merely provide for the halt, the blind or the aged. Provision is made for the needy at large, from the harrassed mother who for once cannot pay her electricity bill to the working man who cannot afford an overcoat this winter. Day-nursery fees are adjusted to the parents' means. Young people can obtain state loans to help them set up home. There is scarcely a material problem for which the elasticity of the Swedish mind cannot provide some solution.

It has done so in industry where management and workers have long abandoned the traditional mutual animosity. Each realized he could only have his bread buttered on the right side if the other was working with, rather than against him. For fifteen years the employers' and employees' federations have sat around an annual conference table and thrashed out their differences, taking compromise solutions as much for granted as an Englishman takes his week-end. Now they have all rolled their sleeves back, and got down together to making their factories produce more and better.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE result is that the Government rarely has to poke its nose into their affairs: they manage them smoothly themselves. Now, industrial output per head is about the highest in Europe. In fact, prosperity is the prevailing condition in Sweden. Wages are high, sometimes double those paid elsewhere. Not only is there full employment: there are more jobs than workers. There appear to be more restaurants per head than in any capital of comparable size—they are always packed; and about seventy-five per cent. more new cars are being put on the road each month than a couple of years ago.

To the average Swede, this prosperity is the product of peace—if it is to be preserved, peace must be preserved. He is a little reluctant to believe that the world in which he thrives is one created by collective action—the alliance to defeat Nazi aggression, and the Marshall Plan to restore the oppressed. Isolationism is nearer to his heart.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOWEVER, businessmen are worried that Marshall Aid has just ceased. It brought to Sweden a loan of $20,000,000 as well as a further $98,052,000 on condition Sweden supplied ships to Norway, pulp to Greece and other commodities to needy Europeans. Without these dollars Swedish economy would have suffered, but, more important still, without the customers the Marshall Plan brought it would have been producing goods for dumping. The English stepped into the shoes of Germany's dead trade and became Sweden's biggest buyers. Now, with German trade slowly coming to life, more customers are on the way.

Collective action to preserve this prosperity through military alliances appears to the practical Swedes, to be outside their sphere. In the eyes of a people wed to the ideas of human liberty and free enterprise, the dove of the Stockholm Peace Declaration had fouled its own nest before taking flight. But there is a certain covert sympathy with the Communist picture of the war-mongering Americans sharpening their knives for the holocaust into which, the Soviets say, they are driving the world.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE "Peace without Fear" slogan has here less appeal than the old-fashioned peace of the Municheers: the western lamb must lie down with the eastern bear. A modus vivendi with the Soviets is the price many Swedes feel all should be prepared to pay for peace. The only alternative they see is war provoked by western rearmament.

Sweden's contribution to the western stockpile is considerable — iron ore, pulp, ball-bearings, ships, machine parts, and other engineering products. This falls within the province of normal business relations to which the Russians cannot reasonably object. A military alignment against them would be a very different thing. People here feel it might incite the Russians to occupy Finland. Then they would be staring Sweden in the face from all frontiers except the western, and everybody agrees this should be avoided as long as possible and at all costs short of occupation.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE one contingency which people do not seem to have got around to considering with any persistence is that the Russians might turn out to be quite unreasonable and attack without provocation whoever suits them. But even in such circumstances the Swedes feel they would fare best standing independently on their own feet. The army has been built up steadily over ten years, the air force claims to be the fourth largest in the world, and confidence in SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe), is not high. All in all, they find it best to lie low, say nothing and work to maintain their material progress.

The undercurrent to this prosperous life is melancholy — less poetic than suicidal. I don't know whether it is due to the climate, with its preponderance of twilight or to the hectic illicit drinking induced by semi-prohibition, but Sweden's suicide rate is one of the highest in the world.

Letters To The Editor

MORE HOGS

Sir: A story in your news columns deals in an interesting way with the efforts of final consumers to use increasing quantities of "pork", by "ignoring the higher-priced cuts of beef". It is pointed out, for example, that: "A seasonal upsurge in hog marketings, and consumer resistance to high meat prices, have resulted in a dietary change, both here in Peterborough and the rest of Canada: more pork is being eaten". The question in my mind is, as to the effect on the hog price-structure?

I notice the following revealing figures in one of the farm papers, in which the Dominion Bureau of Statistics (Ottawa) lists the yearly per capita consumption of beef and pork in Canada, for the years shown. In one sense it certainly supports the above news story:

		Beef	Pork
Average	1935-39	54.7 lbs.	39.8 lbs.
"	1940	54.5 "	44.7 "
"	1941	58.3 "	46.3 "
"	1942	60.1 "	53.3 "
"	1943	69.3 "	61.0 "
"	1944	66.6 "	61.3 "
"	1945	64.6 "	50.2 "
"	1946	67.2 "	51.3 "
"	1947	67.2 "	51.9 "
"	1948	57.5 "	53.9 "
"	1949	56.5 "	59.2 "
"	1950	50.5 "	60.8 "

The trend, especially from 1947, is interesting and clear? On the other hand, these data do not take in the whole scene. As Professor Rex Beresford (Iowa) said at Guelph last summer: "More people who have a beef appetite now have a beef income". Certainly it has to be remembered that there are just 3,000,000 fewer hogs on Canadian farms today than in 1943, and 2,300,000 more people?

"FAIR DEAL".

AN ESTONIAN'S EXPERIENCE

Sir: Canada is a wonderful country because she is a free country. She may or may not be in a future danger of being overrun by Russians, it may not be necessary for her to be extremely prepared for war, but to see someone even playfully suggesting that she might almost as well exist under Russian hegenomy (yesterday's editorial "Conscription Drummer"), starts off sad reflections in anyone's mind who knows what it means.

I am an Estonian and know exactly what it means for a free people to suffer the complete loss of all freedom whatsoever.

I will never forget the factory worker I saw going home in his dirty clothes, face and hands old from a lifetime of hard work singing with all his heart an Estonian song of freedom, which could have been enough to get him imprisoned with the possible loss of life in a labour camp. I also remember that girl who was arrested in the street because she was wearing a blue blouse, black skirt and white shoes—blue, black and white being Estonian national colours. I will always think of those school boys who kept placing flowers on the Statue of Freedom which happened to stand in front of their school building, they kept doing it in spite of one of them dying after being shot at while doing it. I remember the family which was separated and taken to labour camps because their little boy happened to talk at school about them secretly having had a Christmas tree and celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ at home

No, for many people freedom is more precious than health or the very life. May God spare any country from the horrors of war but may God also help people know the worth of freedom of their mind.

Yours faithfully,
"LOVER OF FREEDOM".

A COMMENDER

Sir: I could never work up any appetite for membership in a club that would expect me to sit and enjoy a serving of half-baked balderdash on conscription such as Attorney Robb dished-up for the gang at the Sales and Ad Club meeting Tuesday night.

Your editorial "Conscription Drummer" in today's (Thursday) Examiner is commendable.

Yours truly,
W. H. ROSEBUSH.

Unconsidered Trifles

A policyholder had died, and an insurance inspector called on the widow with the cheque. He was a rather heavily-built man, and when he sat down on the chair indicated by her, he burst an air-cushion on it.

To his horror, the widow gave way to a terrible flood of tears. His offer to replace the cushion did nothing to lessen her grief.

"A new one will never be the same!" she sobbed. "My poor, dear husband blew that one up with practically his last breath."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold....And Lot also, which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents ...And there was a strife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle and the herdmen of Lot's cattle: and the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land.

And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be brethren. Is not the whole land before thee? separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left....

And the Lord said unto Abram, after that Lot was separated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place thou art northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward: for all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed for ever. (Gen. 13: 2, 5, 7-9, 14, 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him. (Isa. 64: 4.)

Phenomenon

(Washington Post)

It is no doubt a source of national pride, both commercially and esthetically, that toiletry sales increased nine per cent. last year over the year before, reaching $840,100,000, and that the industry's billion dollar goal is in sight for 1951. As this sales gain outdistanced population gain, it would seem that many of us are definitely more attractive than a year ago—about six per cent. more so. This includes men as well as women, for toiletries comprise shaving cream, shampoos, hair preparations, dentifrices, as well as the traditional lipstick (said to be used by 99 per cent. of American women), perfumes, face creams and powders. Moreover, toiletry figures do not include money spent on services at beauty shops.

While women have been concerned with cosmetics of some kind from the earliest civilization, it remained for twentieth century United States to put bottled beauty on a big business basis. This development has chiefly taken place in the last 30 years. Its growth has reflected a great era of social change, including the rise of urban man, and especially urban woman, of the glamour cult, the bathing beauty cult, the speak frankly cult (which changed names of perfumes from Forget-me-not and Lily of the Valley to Temptation and Secret Sin) and the complete disappearance of the parental injunction, "Handsome is as handsome does."

"Ah, bet yuh was relieved when yuh found it wasn't a spook followerin' yuh last night," said Sam.

"Ah was so relieved," replied Rastus, "that ah slowed down to a gallop."

NEW "LINE" FOR NEXT ELECTION

St. Louis Has New Spirit, Few More Wins

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25 (AP). — Bill Veeck has instilled a bit of spirit in the last-place St. Louis Browns since taking control in July, but the won-lost column has not begun to show it.

A check of the club's standing today as compared with July 5—the last day before Veeck bought the Browns from Bill and Charles Dewitt—shows the team has gone up just 033.

On July 5 the club had 21 victories and 98 defeats for a .333 rating. That gives Veeck 28 triumphs.

The .033 rise isn't what you could call energetic. But then no one looked for an overnight change. Even the vibrant Veeck tempers his optimism.

Veeck's purpose, naturally, is to cop a pennant. But he realizes it will not come easily or quickly. He states, however, that "we hope to be up there next year, fighting for the First Division."

That alone is quite a prediction for a team that has enjoyed First Division life only 12 times in a half-century.

Veeck didn't have much chance to resurrect the Browns this season. The ban against trading and outright purchase of players between clubs was in effect 21 days when Bill moved in.

During the winter he expects to make up lost ground—including the unveiling of a successor to Manager Zack Taylor.

As it is 15 players have joined the Browns under the Veeck regime, not counting recent returnees from the minors under option provisions.

Many of these are rookies still to prove their ability. Others are youngsters who won't try out until spring. And some are veterans called in for a short stay to bolster various positions.

Satch Paige, the old man of the mound, isn't included in this last group. He apparently is with the Browns to stay. Especially after the last road trip that saw him give up just three hits, walk one and fan 11 in 10⅓ innings of relief hurling.

Recreation Centre Wins Lindsay Crown

LINDSAY, Sept. 25 — Recreation Centre spotted Golden Stationers seven runs in the first inning, then came back to play shut-out ball and win 9-7, and take the Lindsay Ladies' Softball League championship in four games.

Mary Anderson led Recreation Centre in coming from behind and smashed out a triple and two singles. Catcher turned pitcher, Shirley Coppins hurled two-hit ball after the opening inning for Recreation Centre's third straight win.

Savoie Wins Crown, Crowd Backs Cantor

MONTREAL, Sept. 25 (CP). — Montreal's Armand Savoie is the new Canadian lightweight boxing champion after an unpopular split decision over defending champion Solly Cantor of Toronto.

The 12-round bout last night failed to please 5,238 hometowners who loudly booed the new titleholder.

At 135 pounds, Cantor had a ¼-pound advantage over the Montrealer.

This was the third time the battlers have met. Savoie previously won by an eight-round technical knockout and Cantor took a 10-round decision.

Montreal fans who usually support their own boys were definitely in favor of Cantor at the end of the bout. The unseated champion was effective with a steady jab and a straight-arm right that twice rocked Savoie.

Cantor was the crowd's favorite in all but the second, fourth, fifth and twelfth round.

Judges' Vote

However, two judges voted thus: Johnny Gow five-four-three for Savoie, Desse Green six-four-two for Savoie. Judge Rene Ouimet scored in favor of Cantor, giving him six rounds against Savoie's four, with two even.

Savoie was at his best in the second round when he scored with a hard right to Cantor's midriff, lifting the Toronto boy off the floor. In the fourth, Savoie cut Cantor's mouth with a right to the jaw.

Cantor was superior in infighting, landing body blows that slowed Savoie. He was reprimanded once in the third when referee Maurice O'Connell said he was holding in the clinches.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A proposed change in the Boston Bruins' ownership will be the main topic of discussion at Wednesday's meeting in New York of National Hockey League governors.

League president Clarence Campbell said last night at Montreal the Boston deal has been in the discussion stage for some time. Details of the scheme will most likely have been completed by Wednesday, he added.

Under the scheme, the Boston Garden would take over the reins of the Bruins from a syndicate that is present owner. No price has yet been disclosed.

Johnny McCormack, newest member of the Montreal Canadiens hockey team, yesterday at Toronto became the father of a baby boy. Sale of McCormack to Montreal was announced Saturday by Toronto Maple Leafs. The Leafs sent him to their Pittsburgh farm club last December for getting married without team officials' permission.

At Quebec, Very Rev. R. L. Seaborn, Anglican Dean of Quebec, said in a statement yesterday he supports protests against a negotiation list between the National Hockey League and the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Dean Seaborn said: "I am very glad to see that protests have been made against . . . the placing of young hockey players on the negotiation list of professional hockey clubs, without their prior knowledge or consent in many cases."

Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association's junior "A" circuit yesterday started preseason workouts at Galt. Seven goaltenders showed up in the squad of 43 prospects that performed under the direction of manager Al Murray and coach Red Hamill.

Maurice Richard—The Rocket—signed his 1951-52 contract with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. No announcement was made of the terms but it is believed the right-winger received a bonus arrangement similar to that of last season. Then he got $100 a goal after 35. He wound up the season with 42 goals and 24 assists for 66 scoring points.

Stan Musial is almost a sure thing to win his fifth National League batting championship with a .358 average and only four games to play. Leading runner-up Richie Ashburn, of Philadelphia Phillies by 17 points, Musial seems assured of another crown to go with his collection dating back to 1943. The St. Louis slugger won in '43, '46, '48 and '50.

Ashburn, .341, in second place has a seven-point edge on Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson, .334 with the Dodgers Roy Campanella fourth at .328.

Ferris Fain, of Philadelphia picked up six more points last week to boost his average to .347, far in the lead for the American League batting championship. Chicago's Minnie Minoso took over second place with .325, while Ted Williams of Boston was third with .324. George Kel, Detroit third sacker who was second last week, fell to fourth place when his average dipped from .322 to .316.

The 1952 world figure skating championships for men, women and pairs, as well as the ice-dancing championships, will take place at the Palais des Soorts in Paris Feb. 2 to March 2. The European championships will be decided in Vienna before the world events.

Lewicki Tried Out At Centre With Leafs

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 25 — (CP).—Danny Lewicki worked out yesterday at centre ice for Toronto Maple Leafs.

The 20-year-old Lewicki, who accounted for 34 goals from his customary wing spot last season, took over at centre between Flem Mackell and Ray Timgren as the 23 Leaf hopefuls officially opened the fall training season with a 90-minute practice.

Lewicki's line was the only one of four not scored on as the Whites beat the Blues 4-2 in a practice game.

Assistant manager Hap Day commented:

"He's playing better there than I've seen him play on the wing."

Said Danny himself:

"I get to handle the puck more at centre and that's what I like."

Pep Tries Again To Upset Saddler

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Willie Pep can become the first boxer to wear the same crown three times if he defeats featherweight champion Sandy Saddler in their fourth title bout tomorrow night at the Polo Grounds.

The crafty Hartford fighter held the championship from 1944 to Oct. 29, 1948 when Saddler scored a jolting upset by knocking Pep out in the fourth round at Madison Square Garden.

Pep bounced back on Feb. 11, 1949 and outpointed Saddler in a 15-round bout at the Garden to regain the title.

Yankee Stadium was the scene of their last match on Sept. 8, 1950 and Saddler again dethroned Wily Willie on an eight-round TKO. A shoulder injury forced Pep to quit, although he was ahead in rounds on most scoreboards.

The 25-year-old Saddler, who lost his last fight to Paddy Demarco on a split decision, will rule a 2 to 1 favorite tomorrow night to whip Pep, winner of 164 fights against only three defeats, in their 15-round bout.

But that's good news as far as the 29-year-old challenger is concerned because the favorite has lost in the three previous meetings.

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at druggists everywhere.

'DISPRIN' is available in Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

"Headache?..take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives relief without delay.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

PETERBOROUGH TAKES FIRST GAME OF MANN CUP FINALS 16 TO 9

Coming Through Last Half Petes Overcome Lead To Whip Western Champs

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, BC, Sept. 25.—Finding their legs in the last half of the Mann Cup opener in the Forum here last night, the Peterborough Timbermen turned in a championship brand of senior lacrosse to trim Vancouver Combines 16-9 before 3,000 disappointed fans. Second game of the best-of-seven Dominion finals will be played in Victoria Wednesday, and the third back in Vancouver on Friday, the series then resuming Monday.

It was tied at 1-1 in a cautious first frame. Combines looked superior throughout the second stanza but only outscored the visitors from the east by 3 to 2 for a 4-3 lead at the half. The Petes began clicking better in the third and had a 6-2 scoring edge, and they banged home seven more in the fourth quarter while the western champs could click for but three.

It was a long game with frequent stops. Combines went on a five-minute sitdown sulking strike early in the first quarter and Buchanan drew a penalty for delaying the game. The rhubarb was caused by a face-off procedure, the westerners objecting to the way the referee made the players crouch during the face-off. They finally gave up arguing and returned to their positions as Buchanan sat it out.

Two minutes before half time Jim Anderson's hard shot lodged in the eye crevise of Moon Wootton's mask, injuring the left eye. A slight rupture is possible. The game was held up and finally the period was called, the two minutes being tacked onto the third, while Wootton was doctored. He returned to star in the third and fourth chapters.

Tempers Flared

The CLA at a Monday meeting set up a compromise between East and West rules. The Petes were bothered for a time by being called on stiff checks and the possession given free throws. But they settled away and began using their extra weight hard but legally to slow up the Western crew. In the last half, the Timbermen were outrunning the speedy Combines, many of whom complained of bruises after the game. They did not relish the boisterous style of play, employed by the victors, and tempers flared at times in every inning. The winners drew six of the 11 minor penalties handed out in a spotty struggle fast at times and extra careful at others.

Two photographers who went out on the floor while Moon Wootton was writhing in the second chukker were pushed off roughly by Coach Don Crowe and some of his players. A Vancouver sports editor was threatened afterward when he angrily berated the players for shoving his men around, but no damage was done.

Topping the Timbermen's scoring list were Curly Mason with four goals and Harry Wipper with two counters and two assists. In on three each were Ross Powless, Don Crowe, Russ Slater and Nit O'Hearn. Two points apiece went to Denny Peterson and Bob Thorpe, while Dootch Vitarelli and Merv McKenzie each hit the twine once.

Harry Buchanan scored three for Vancouver, big Jim Kinna and Bert Ticehurst getting a pair apiece, with singles netted by Jim Anderson and Roy Cavallin. An assist each went to Jim Swanson and Gogie Stewart.

Wooton On Top

Of the two goalies, Wooton was the better. He gave away no easy ones, even after injuring his eye, and made the fans gasp at times as he blocked almost sure markers. Goalie Jack Green made many nifty saves, but a few long ones beat him, and he swung late on several sizzlers by Wipper and Slater.

After Mayor Hume of Vancouver welcomed the Peterborough club, the game opened at waltz-time pace the opponents feeling each other out, but not before Jim Kinna counted a quickie on a close angle shot loping around defence for the thrust. Creighton missed one and the argument over a faceoff started, Buchanan drawing a delaying penalty. He was back in action when Mason and Cavallin hit the trail for roughing. Dootch Vitarelli snagged a loose ball to fight in close and shot from an angle from his wrong side. The pellet hit true in the hemp to tie the score at 7:57. O'Hearn drew a slashing penalty later and Wipper ragged it till his return. Slater hit the post and they kept missing. Creighton and Leatherbarrow went off at the finish for roughing.

Kinna again opened a period with a score, shooting over his short check at close range. Slater counted but he was in the crease, and Jim Anderson made it 3-1 from Swanson in a close-in piece of combination. Vancouver pressed hard and Cavallin made it 4-1 on a rebound shot after Kinna had a free throw. With some fans booing the Petes, O'Hearn put them back in the hunt when he battled for a loose ball and then fought his way out of the corner to slip an angle one by Green. Shortly after, Mason underhanded home a lovely one after taking an underhanded pass from Powless that had their check baffled. O'Hearn was gated for slashing and Wootton was hurt, the period then being called.

Wipper and Byford roughed it up for penalties early in the third. Mason slapped in Powless' pass to tie the score but Ticehurst got that back on a breakaway up the floor. Ticehurst added one on a side shot in close after Dugan nearly tallied, and then Mason got a beauty on the run on a swell pass from Wipper. They tied it then when Wipper blazed the ball in on the run after getting Slater's flip pass. Mason and Smith climbed the wall for roughing and Don Crowe took a bouncing pass from Wipper and bulled inside to finally put Peterborough in front. They never looked back after that. McKenzie took Thorpe's free pass to hit the cord and O'Hearn's shot later trickled through the goalie's legs, the period ending at 9-6 for the visitors.

O'Hearn broke away for a fast one in the fourth and Slater's rifle shot was too hot for Green. Buchanan wove in neatly for Combines to pick a corner, and Slater took Peterson's running pass to blast another in. Thorpe took a bouncer from Crowe, Wipper also aiding, to tally and Mason' slap shot with Crowe's pass added it up. Peterson got another on Powless passout as Petes looked much stronger in the last quarter. Buchanan fought hard and got two, aided once by Stewart, but Wipper whistled one into the mesh just before the final tally.

St. Peter's Belt Lindsay 34-5 In Exhibition

Pre-season predictions placed St. Peter's Juniors as one of the contenders for either the Junior A or B COSSA championships. The Saints lived up to that prediction Monday when in an exhibition game they laced Lindsay Collegiate's A team 34-5.

Actually the score does not indicate the play, which was rough from the first whistle until the last. Throughout, players from both sides limped off the field, and both sides suffered yardage penalties.

To the Saints the yards lost were the most precious, usually either on touchdowns (four were not allowed) or on the verge of scoring plays.

Passing Display

But St. Peter's quarter, John Hickey, led his team with a thrilling, early season display of passing, something not seen last year on the team. On the receiving end was a newcomer, Ron Board, who was snagging the ball from practically impossible positions.

Dick Foley, Bob O'Rourke, Gord Snape, and Frank McGillen carried well as the Saints' line outmatched the lighter Lindsay lads. The line's blocking was exceptionally good.

Jack Graham and Art Truax tried to hold the determined but sorrowful Lindsay players together. But they need practice and more practice yet.

In the opening minutes, forced back by the kickoff, Lindsay tried to escape danger by kicking, but the snap was bad and the Saints recovered at the 20-yard line. O'Rourke went halfway on a plunge and then Foley carried over for a major. Hickey passed to Terry Fitzpatrick for the point.

Gord Snape later kicked from the Saints' 25 to the Lindsay 20 where the ball was fumbled and recovered by St. Peter's. Snape went through the inside for the second major which went unconverted.

Touchdown Disallowed

After being refused one touchdown on a violation, the Saints tore into the Lindsay team in the second quarter. At the midway point, the Saints' line broke through the Lindsay line and knocked the ball out of Art Truax's hands. Foley scooped up the ball and raced 25 yards for the major score. Hickey passed to Ron Board for the point and a 17-0 score.

Just before the half St. Peter's had another touchdown play called back on an offside.

Two fumbles early in the third gave Lindsay their points. First the Saints fumbled a kick at centre and the ball was recovered by Truax. Lindsay when forced to kick recovered a second miscue when Hickey dropped the ball behind the line. Packer dropped on it.

Immediately St. Peter's took over again after Foley dropped a kick on the three-yard line. Lindsay's Truax booted short to O'Rourke who brought the ball to the Lindsay 23. A roughing penalty moved the Saints in closer where Hickey passed to Murray Byrne for a major.

Minutes later an offside cost St. Peter's another major score when Board galloped across.

The old sleeper play, Hickey to O'Rourke, placed the ball on the Lindsay 10 in the fourth. Snape charged around the end for the touch. Hickey passed to Board for the point.

McGillen's kick after the touch pushed Lindsay back and a poor kick gave St. Peter's possession on the 20-yard line. McGillen cut through for 8 yards and then Murray Byrne went over. Hickey followed up with a point pass to Terry Fitzgerald to make the final score 34-5.

Holburn Pitches No-Hitter In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Sept. 25 — Young right-hander George Holburn pitched a six-inning no-hitter as Sutton Green Sox clipped Lindsay Walkwoods, 5-2, in a Tri-County Baseball League round-robin series game here Monday night. It was Holburn's seventh win in the postseason series and moved the Sox into a half-game lead over Stouffville Red Sox.

Mixing a sharp curve with a blazing fast ball, Holburn pitched a perfect game for four frames, but lost a shutout in the fifth on a walk, stolen base and a steal home. Lindsay duplicated the play for their second run in the sixth.

Sutton's ace heaver edged Walkwoods' youthful pitcher, Harold Williams, 11-10, in strike-outs and came through with a double and a single to bat in two runs. Keith Dunn and Tom Hare each poked a pair for the winners.

It was the third abbreviated no-hit game in TCL history. Cambray Cards' Lloyd Tamblyn threw one against Little Britain Bluebirds in 1948, and 16-year-old Rodger Junkin blanked Lindsay Walkwoods earlier this year.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, BC, Sept. 25.—Well, that's one peanut in the bag. Three more and the Petes' cup of joy will be filled, if you don't mind a mixed metaphor or two. Don Crowe's Timber-structured Petes showed Western lacrosse fans why they are the Eastern senior champions this year. Came from behind in the last half to win 16-9 in the first of the best-of-seven Mann Cup finals for the Canadian crown. The CLA held a meeting before the Monday game here and decided that the second one would be in Victoria on Wednesday, and the third back in this city Friday but not on the Forum floor. Fourth will be at the Forum on Oct. 1 and a fifth, if necessary, at New Westminster Oct. 3. Others at the Forum Oct. 5-6, if it goes that far.

* * * * * *

Yes, they all wanted a piece of this series, and the Petes agreed since the CLA will foot the bill to fly the two teams out to the island on the morrow. However, unless the Vancouver Combines click for a win in the Wednesday struggle, their crowd Friday might fall off a lot since the fans were disappointed at the initial loss and burned up at a stiff hike in the admission charge for the finals. Price jumped from a buck to two. The folks were inclined to jeer the visitors—arrayed in their red, black and white uniforms—when the Combines, decked out in blue, yellow and white, racked up an early lead. But the boos turned to groans in the last two quarters.

* * * * * *

Combines had several excuses afterward. Said the floor was too slippery—though the Petes had to play on the same boards. They also thought the Eastern club played too rough and had a number of bruises to show afterwards. And they thought they should have used their so-called superior speed to outrun the winners, instead of trying to trade bumps at times. But the Petes actually were outstepping them the last half. The CLA had worked out a compromise set of rules for the series, letting some of the more robust Eastern checking in, and that suited huskies like Merv McKenzie, Ross Powless, Don Crowe and several more. They didn't play it dirty, but they played hard.

* * * * * *

Vancouver objected to the compromise faceoff crouch ruled by the refs and walked over to the sidelines and declined to play for five minutes. One guy drew a delaying penalty and they were ordered back into action—reluctantly proceeding. Another delay occurred when Moon Wootton, who played his usual brilliant game in goal, was injured in left eye late in the second stanza. A hot shot lodged in the mask—a peculiar accident—and gave the eye a terrific bang. He wreathed around and had to be aided off. After doctoring he was able to resume but some of his mates feared a slight rupture. However, he insists he will be as good as ever for the next game. Certainly he was the best of the Monday melee after the mishap.

* * * * * *

It is difficult to select stars on the winners' lineup in this showing. But one would have to mention Wootton, Wipper, Mason, O'Hearn, Powless, Crowe and Slater for consistent fine work all through. The coach turned in his best effort of the season, Slater was a wizard out there and they couldn't take the ball away from him. Lanky Harry shook two and three checks at times to whip his shot in. Powless fought hard every minute and O'Hearn was battling for loose balls and getting them. But the whole crew clicked fine after a shaky start. They acted like champs in coming from behind in the third and rolling right along to pile up the count. They asked no mercy and gave none.

* * * * * *

In fact the Petes were quite touchy when Moon Wootton was felled a couple of photographers who tried to snap him were pushed around by Crowe and a few others. Don later nearly took a pass at Vancouver Sun sports editor Erwin Swangard, who denounced the Petes' coach (as he left the floor) for shoving his camera men. Neither would back up a bit, but officials got between them and saved bloodshed. Probably the sports editor's. The latter will no doubt give the matter due consideration in his next column. The Forum is a neat arena, seating 5,500, though rather small for the main one in a city of nearly half a million.

* * * * * *

"There will be no letup on our part," Coach Don said after the game, "we played lacrosse the last half in this game and earned the decision, but we'll have to hustle every game and not figure it's any cinch. They might take us the very next time out." He will keep his charges practicing between games and off the street late at night. This series is serious business to the club, and the players aren't taking it lightly. There will be no celebration by them until they've won the Mann Cup for the first time in Peterborough's history. If they do then, the Westerners will see an oldtime Eastern sports celebration. One that will be echoed in the Liftlock City.

After Workout Injury Battlefield Retired

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Battlefield, the 1950 two-year-old champion and a leading contender for this year's three-year-old racing title, was retired today for the season due to an injury.

The announcement was made by George D. Widener, owner of the chestnut son of War Relic-Dark Display, and his trainer, Burt Mulholland.

Battlefield was injured during a workout last Friday, but it was hoped the colt would be able to resume training shortly for the fall racing. Mulholland said another horse working out ahead of Battlefield came back and knocked him into the rail, wrenching a ligament in the pastern.

Parham Dumps Dixie 11-8 In OASA Final

Parham defeated Dixie 11-8 on Monday night at the East City bowl, in the final game of a best-of-three intermediate B OASA eastern Ontario softball play-off series before a large crowd of enthusiastic fans. Many folks from both towns journeyed to see their favorites in the finale.

Don Goodfellow twirled the route for the winners and was highly effective until the final two innings when the Dixie boys combed his offerings for six hits and as many runs to creep close. But a strong early lead by the visitors enabled Parham to triumph after a stiff struggle.

Dixie took a two-run lead in the first as Mickey Hamilton singled, scored on Stan Milne's hard triple to left and the latter scored on a wild peg. Parham took the lead with a five run barrage in the second as Gord Bertrim hit his first of two homers to open and added four on hits by George Simonett, Ken Peters and Bob Goodfellow aided by a walk, two errors and a pair of fielder's choices.

John Tanas relieved Pete Donkin in the second and pitched good ball for the last seven frames; but the Parham lads fielded well as a team and outhit the homesters, to deserve their margin.

Gord Bertrim led Parham with four runs batted in while George Simonett also homered.

Mickey Hamilton led Dixie with three safeties, Stan Milne tripled and drove in two runs while Don Cavan had two extra-base blows and Bob Trimble a double. Fielding features were supplied by Don Cavan and George Simonette. Parham will meet the western Ontario champs next—as yet undecided.

Quebec Players Sign Contracts

MONTREAL, Sept. 25 (CP). — A meeting of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association last night decided that henceforth all Quebec senior league players will play under contracts similar to those of professional clubs.

Previously, QSHL players were required to sign an amateur playing card.

The league now will bind its players by contracts which can be purchased by other leagues at the end of each season.

The QSHL said it would adopt a new bylaw at the end of the coming season, setting different prices on its players. Under the proposed clause, a player could be purchased by the National League for $10,000, by the American League for $7,000 and by the Pacific Coast League for $5,000.

General manager Frank Selke of the Montreal Canadiens of the NHL told meeting of an understanding between the National and Quebec senior leagues which will remain in effect despite recent protests. The agreement provides in one section that players on NHL negotiating list must sign an NHL contract before playing in the QSHL.

Queen Mary Boys Tie Queen Alexandra

With only a few minutes left to play, Queen Mary scored to make a one-all tie with Queen Alexandra in the senior public school soccer at Nichols Oval Monday.

Queen Alexandra dominated the play for most of the game but could only count once, in the first half when Gerry Ball put the ball between the posts. Cliff Morgan tied the game for Queen Mary in the final minutes.

Reid, Ireland and McNamee starred for the northenders while Brady stood out for the westenders.

Line-ups—Queen Alexandra — Macklin, McNamee, Ireland, Wannamaker, Ball, Jackson, Eadie, McClennan, Reid, Johnson, Nelson, Downer, Kilborn, Olmstead, Crofts, Mabee.

Queen Mary—Morgan, Atkinson, J. Dafoe, Finn, Harris, Plunkett, Brady, Lincoln, Mason, Stinson, Reynolds, Vincent, G. Dafoe.

FORD FRICK, with a dramatic assist from Warren Giles, today is baseball's new Commissioner. Giles recently threw his full support behind the National League president to break a deadlock of club owners and swing sport's biggest job to the greying 56-year-old Frick. Frick was given a seven-year contract at an annual salary of $65,000, about $25,000 more than he received as head of the senior circuit.

Mimico Wins Second 20-9, Batley Scores 5

BRAMPTON, Ont., Sept. 25 — (CP)—Mimico Mountaineers last night stretched their Minto Cup playoff lead to two games by beating Manitoba All-Stars 20-8 in the second encounter of their best-of-five Canadian junior lacrosse finals.

Mimico took the series opener 20-12 here Saturday night. The third game will be played here Wednesday and the fourth and fifth, if necessary, Thursday and Friday.

As in the first game, the Westerners, first Manitoba club ever to reach the Minto Cup finals, found the fast terazzo floor troublesome because of the fast bounce that made them misjudge shots and passes.

Early Lead

Mimico built an 8-2 first-period lead, stretched it to 12-5 at half-time and held the edge 15-7 at the three-quarters mark.

Bill Welligan, rover player, was top man for the Manitobans with three goals and an assist. Doug Smallwood, a forward, contributed two and Don Arklie, Lionel Merrick, Lorne Christianson and Jim Palmer each got singles.

Most of the Mimico goals were scored by a forward line led by forward Derry Davis, who hails from St. Catharines, Ont. Davies tallied six times while the other forward, Rock Batley, of Peterborough, Ont., fired five goals. Centre Fraser Rock got two and the others went to Bill Riley, Lou Nickel of Peterborough, Jim McNeil, Fred Sandford, Don Meeke, and Bill McLean.

The hard-checking Easterners, suburbs of Toronto, were at their best in a fast, wide-open game.

Revamped Orfuns Meet East York

A revised Orfuns football team under new coach Frank Gnup, formerly of Buffalo, Hamilton and Toronto Argos, will meet East York Wednesday night at the Exhibition Grounds.

Clamping down on the looseness at practices, Coach Gnup is making the players work out nightly until 10 and 10.30 in an effort to produce a top contender in the six-team league.

Wednesday night's game is the first of two this week. On Saturday the Orfuns tackle the Cobourg Galloping Ghosts in Cobourg.

Petes Juveniles Win Round 16-15 Step Up In Series

The Petes juveniles jumped a step further into the Ontario minor lacrosse playdowns Monday night by beating Dundas 9-4.

The five-point win gave Peterborough the round by one point, 16-15, in the two-game points-to-count series. Dundas last week won the first game 11-7. It is not known whom the Juveniles will meet next.

In winning Monday night at Miller Bowl, the Petes outscored Dundas, especially in the second half when the Petes held Dundas scoreless while scoring four goals.

The Petes took the jump on the game in the first quarter when Chapman, Daniels and Seabrooke scored with help from Jones and Scriver. Dundas' best was a single by Semple.

Even Battle

The best quarter was the second when both teams battled evenly in play, but Dundas rapped in three goals against the Petes' two. Semple again counted first for Dundas followed by two goals by Williams unassisted. Allan notched both of the Petes' goals with help from Scriver and Galley.

Allan kept up the pace in the third when helped by Brennan and Daniels, then Seabrooke scored his second, Galley assisting.

Going into the final quarter a goal down in the series, the Petes battled until Curtis, helped by Galley, tied the series at 15-all. Then in the final minutes Curtis rapped in his second marker to give the Petes the series.

Lineups:

Peterborough — Simmons, Galley, Holbrook, Johnson, Allan, Scriver, Jones, Curtis, Brennan, Seabrook, Chapman, Crough, Buott, Daniels, Hobart.

Dundas: Hambly, Kang, McKinnon, Fama, Amsden, Stout, Blankstein, Semple, Williams, Blanchard, Morden.

Draft Players Says Boucher

GUELPH, Sept. 25 (CP). — Frank Boucher, general manager of New York Rangers, said yesterday he favors the creation of a draft system to keep professional clubs staffed with players.

Boucher, emphasizing that he was expressing his own opinion, said he was doubtful whether the National Hockey League Rangers obtain any benefit from the thousands of dollars they spend on their sponsored clubs.

"I don't think it's paying off," he said. "We haven't got a Ranger in the past five years from any of our sponsored clubs. There's still a chance, but meanwhile, it's costing us an awful lot of money."

Boucher, who admitted that designing a draft program might be difficult, said "if we had a proper draft system we wouldn't need sponsored clubs."

The pro clubs would get together in order of seniority and pick their own players from the amateur ranks. No agreement would be necessary with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Bobby Jones climaxed his famous "grand slam" in golf 21 years ago today by winning the United States amateur title at Philadelphia. Previously that season he had won the British open, the British amateur and the American open. His victory in the US amateur that year was his fourth straight win in that competition.

New Face-off Circle To Improve Hockey

NORTH BAY, Sept. 25 (CP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, believes the new, 20-foot face-off circles directly in front of the goal nets will improve the game and enable fans to get a better view of face-offs.

He made a close study of the circles during a weekend visit here for the Chicago Black Hawks-Detroit Red Wings exhibition game.

He said he believed amateur leagues will adopt the circles by Oct. 9 and that fans, especially those in small arenas will be able to see the face-offs more clearly.

"Often, in small arenas, people cannot see a face-off in the corner," he said.

3 Teams Wait For Miracle To Climb Into Pennant Spot

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Three teams today are waiting for a miracle to take place — for only by such a phenomenon can New York Giants, Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox win the pennant.

Leo Durocher and his Giants apparently believe in miracles. They are staying stubbornly alive when they must know they should be dead.

Yesterday, while Brooklyn manager Charlie Dressen was announcing Preacher Roe as his pitcher in the world series opener, the relentless Giants chipped another half game off the Dodgers' National League lead with a 4-3 triumph over Boston Braves. All other teams were idle.

Brooklyn now leads New York by 2½ games, its smallest margin since the opening week of the campaign. Since the Giants started their frantic and seemingly hopeless chase Aug. 16, they chopped off 11 games from the Dodgers' once insurmountable lead. The Giants have won 33 of 40 since then for an amazing .825 gait.

To Play Phillies

The Giants' victory left the clinching combination for the Dodgers at four games. Brooklyn has seven more to play, four in Boston and three in Philadelphia. A twi-night twin bill in Boston is on tap for tonight. The Giants' four remaining games are divided between Philadelphia and Boston. They face Robin Roberts (21-12), the Philly ace, tonight.

New York Yankees can clinch their 18th flag Friday. Victory over the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon and a sweep of Friday's doubleheader with the Red Sox, all at Yankee Stadium will finish off the Indians and Red Sox.

New York's clinching number is three. That means all they have to do to capture their third straight pennant is play .500 ball in their remaining six games regardless of what the Indians do in their three games. Of course, that would sink the Red Sox, whom they play five of their six games.

Kuzava Starts

Casey Stengel, cagy Yankee pilot, has named Bob Kuzava to oppose the Athletics' Bobby Shantz today. This was to be Kuzava's first start in six weeks. He has been used exclusively in relief of late. Shantz (17-9), is the A's top pitcher. He has knocked off the Yankees three times.

Early Wynn, one of Cleveland's three 20-game winners, is slated to clash with Billy Pierce of the White Sox tonight in Chicago. Wynn has won his last four. In Washington, it will be Bob Porterfield of the Senators against rookie Leo Kiely of the Red Sox.

A two-out single by Eddie Stanky in the last of the ninth drove in Davey Williams with the run that gave the Giants their third victory over the Braves in as many days. It was the Giants' last home game of the season.

Dave Koslo, who came to the rescue of Sheldon Jones in the sixth, was credited with his 10th victory.

Belleville Wins, Series Now 3-1

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 25 (CP)—Belleville Redmen came from behind with a six-run rally in the third inning to trounce Brockville Memos 7-3 last night for their first win of the best-of-seven Central Ontario Baseball League final. The Memos now hold a 3-1 edge in the series, which will be resumed tonight in Brockville.

The Redmen's six-run outburst on four hits and an error wiped out a three-run lead the Memos had taken in the first inning. The Redmen added a single run in the the seventh as Bill Strahan held the Memos scoreless after the first inning.

Strahan gave up seven hits and struck out four men while walking one. Kaspechuk, the Brockville hurler, allowed only eight hits, struck out eight and gave up four walks.

British Network Of Jet Airliners Planned For Commonwealth

LONDON, Sept. 24 (Reuters)—Blueprints for a vast network of super-speed jet airlines throughout the British Commonwealth will be discussed in London this week.

Delegates from all Commonwealth Nations will meet today to study traffic-control and airfield arrangements for regular services for 44-seater 500-mile-an-hour aircraft.

DeHavilland Comets, powered by four Ghost jet engines, are already planned to fly on British commercial routes early next year.

A first passenger service of these Comets will link London, Rome and Cairo, and later run to South Africa. This will be followed by similar flights on the Pakistan, India and Singapore route and eventually higher-powered Comets will fly passengers to and from Britain, Australia, New Zealand, and Canada and the United States.

British Overseas Airways Corporation has already ordered a fleet of 14 Comets.

Rocket Boosters

The Comets will also be fitted with rocket bays to provide increased take-off power on shorter runways and high-altitude airfields, but the company does not propose to use the rocket mechanism.

The Comet has an economic cruising speed about twice as fast as that of the aircraft now commercially used by various world airlines. It is pressurized for flights at 40,000 feet.

The Commonwealth conference for examining problems arising from the introduction of turbo-prop and tubo-jet aircraft will last until Oct. 5.

J. R. Baldwin, chairman of the Canadian Air Transport Board will speak for Canada. Nominally the chief of the Canadian delegation is C. D. Howe, trade minister, who is here for a raw-materials conference.

Toronto Bank Building Symbolizes Canada Growth

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO, Sept. 25 (CP)—The Bank of Nova Scotia today officially opened its new 25-storey executive office building.

For the bank, the event symbolized a success story which started in Halifax 119 years ago, and which has made it one of the "Big Four" of Canadian banking, with 365 branches in Canada and 27 abroad.

For Canadians in general, it symbolized the growth of their country from one of precarious colonies and territories, to a great young nation wielding the power of a half-continent.

The Premiers of all 10 provinces were heard in words of congratulation, eight of them by transcription, and Premiers Angus L. Macdonald, of Nova Scotia, and Leslie Frost, of Ontario, in person.

Finance Minister

Also there were Finance Minister Douglas Abbott; Hon. J. A. B. McCurdy, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia; Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto; Graham F. Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada; Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, who was with the bank from 1916 to 1935; Hon. F. B. McCurdy and James Y. Murdoch, vice-presidents; H. D. Burns, chairman of the board; H. L. Enman, president; C. Sydney Frost, general manager; about 1,800 guests; and thousands of other citizens.

City traffic was diverted from the financial district for more than an hour during the outdoor ceremonies — until Mr. Burns turned the lock and declared the building open.

Guests already inside, the crowds on the streets out of sight of the ceremonial platform, saw the proceedings on television screens.

The new building, of modern classical architecture, raises its massive though graceful 25 storey of white limestone over one of the most valuable pieces of real estate in Canada—in the heart of Toronto's financial district, at King and Bay streets.

It stands 322 feet above street level, goes 42 feet underground, and was some 3½ years in building.

Its foundations cover nearly an acre of ground which in 1798 was a crown grant to Capt. Daniel Cozens, who sold it for £20. It sold for $3,000 a foot as far back as 1910, and the bank bought it in 1929 at an unnamed figure.

Its floor area is 11 acres, enough for 500 homes; its three-storey main banking room alone, where the general public does most of its business, would accommodate a dozen homes.

Atomic Proof

The two-storey vaults below ground have 55 ton doors and are described as the first atomic-proof vaults ever built. Anyone locked in them accidentally for the night would be comfortable—with ventilation, lighting and telephone.

The main banking room has the largest mural in Canada, 30 by 20 feet, a base relief design symbolizing Canada's industries, carved in Hauteville marble from France. Miss Jacobine Jones of York Mills, Toronto suburb, spent 14 months creating it, and Peter and Louis Temporale, of Port Credit, Ont., six months in carving it.

The bank occupies the first eight stories while the rest are rented; and bank and tenants have 2,500 employees.

The building's cafeteria serves 1,100 people in 100 minutes each week-day. Its refrigeration would be sufficient for 570 butcher shops or 19 ice rinks.

Though today was official opening day, the bank has actually operated from the building since June; so today's occasion was ceremonial and free of the upset of moving.

It commemorated not only the Bank of Nova Scotia's story, but those of other banks which joined with it during the years: The Union Bank of Prince Edward Island, 1883; Bank of New Brunswick, 1913; Metropolitan Bank, 1914; Bank of Ottawa, 1919.

Conservatives Urge TUC Leave Labor

LONDON, Sept. 25 (Reuters)—A group of six Conservative members of parliament urged yesterday that Britain's trade union movement should break loose from the Labor Party and be a free partner in national affairs.

They called for a new "higher productivity" approach to the problem of economic survival in a pamphlet backed by Sir David Maxwell Fyfe who is tipped as Minister of Labor if Winston Churchill wins the Oct. 25 election.

(Britain's trade union movement is officially affiliated with the Labor Party, representing about five-sixths of the party's membership of nearly 6,000,000.)

The members of parliament, headed by Ted Leather and Harold Watkinson, said trade unionism could not properly speak in the national interest until its political chains were broken.

It had won its battle for workers' rights. But the movement must make a new approach to higher productivity based on "partnership" of government, unions and employers.

Krawiec Found Not Guilty Of Knife Murder

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 25 (CP).—A jury has freed Wasyl Krawiec, 24, of a murder charge arising from a stabbing during a wine-drinking party last July 21 in a whistle-stop section house in the bush country 130 miles north of here.

Krawiec, a handsome Polish-Ukrainian immigrant, was accused of killing Jonas Norkus, a fellow worker on the Algoma Central Railway, with a 10-inch butcher knife. The jury in Ontario Supreme Court last night took less than three hours to acquit him.

The investigating officer, Provincial Constable Orville Waito, testified that both Krawiec and Mrs. Adele Vinslovas, hostess at the drinking party in the Agawa section house, told him the morning after Norkus' death that Norkus apparently took his own life.

No Eye Witness

There was no evidence that anyone saw Norkus suffer the Mrs. Vinslovas, pretty 25-year-old wife of a section foreman, said that after Norkus died, Krawiec threatened to kill her if she told police that Krawiec had slain Norkus.

Crown Attorney Ian Munro said in his address to the jury that evidence showed Krawiec was in a belligerent mood during the closing stages of the party and had a knife in his possession.

Krawiec's lawyer, P. S. Fitzgerald, argued that "at best" the jury could find the accused man guilty only of manslaughter.

"Unless you say the accused struck the fatal blow, you cannot reasonably convict him of murder," he said. "Mrs. Adele Vinslovas could easily have dealt the fatal blow."

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer said in his charge to the jury:

"The evidence showed that Krawiec had plenty of opportunity to get away from Norkus if he had wanted to leave peaceably."

He added:

"The defence counsel's argument that Mrs. Vinslovas dealt the fatal blow must be considered."

No Relief

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25 (AP)—Actor Errol Flynn yesterday lost out in his lengthy attempt to have his alimony to his first wife, Lili Damita, reduced. The actor asked superior court to give him some financial relief from his yearly payment of $23,200 for alimony and support of Miss Damita and their son, Sean, 10.

Pact Members Exempted From US Ban

WASHINGTON, Sept, 25—(AP)—The United States National Security Council today exempted all the Western European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization from a congressional ban against American aid to countries which send strategic materials to the Soviet bloc.

Western Germany also was exempted.

The council, headed by President Truman, held that in view of all considerations it was to the security interest of the United States that they be exempted.

The ban was approved by Congress as a "rider" to an appropriations bill. Senator D. Kem (Rep. Mo.) sponsored it.

This Kem amendment, as it is generally called, authorized the Security Council to make exemptions when it was in the interest of the United States.

Earlier this month the council announced that 20 other governments had certified that they are not exporting strategic materials to the Soviet bloc and are eligible for coninued foreign aid from the US.

In announcing the exemption, the council said not one of the countries in the NATO organization has been able to certify it has not exported to the Soviet bloc commodities included in the prohibited categories.

"The goods of strategic importance still moving from west to east are largely goods of secondary strategic importance exported to buy essential goods," the council report said.

Mrs. Delaire Committed; Bail $3,000

Detective, Doctor Only Witnesses Called By Bradshaw

Mrs. Jenny Delaire, 26, 467 Elm St. was committed for trial Monday afternoon on a charge of wounding her 28-year-old husband Sylvester. The incident is said to have occurred at the home of a neighbor, William Condon, on Sept. 1.

Bail was continued at $3,000.

Basis for the committal was a statement allegedly given by Mrs Delaire to Detective Sgt. W. A. (Bud) Clarke later that night The statement was copied into the court records but was not read so that Mrs. Delaire's case would not be prejudiced should she go on trial before a jury.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC, called only two witnesses: Detective Sgt. Clarke and Dr. Leslie J. Calvert who attended Mr. Delaire.

Argues On Statement

Defence counsel John Corkery argued at some length that the statement produced by the Crown was not admissible. He suggested that Mrs. Delaire didn't realize she was not compelled to make a statement.

Closely cross-examined on this point, Detective Sgt. Clarke said Mrs. Delaire was properly warned and he believed she knew she was not forced to make a statement. At first she insisted that he interview her husband before she would say anything at all.

He summed up her attitude after giving the statement: "she gave me the impression she felt that reason (in the statement) was good and sufficient." He did not elaborate.

There was no evidence at the preliminary trial to indicate what the weapon was that caused the wounding. Though at one point Detective Sgt. Clarke said that Mrs. Fred Delaire, sister-in-law of the accused, handed him a razor.

Dr. Calvert said the wound was seven inches long, extending along Mr. Delaire's neck from the tip of his chin. It was half an inch deep and required 17 stitches to close.

Dangerous Type

Questioned by Crown Attorney Bradshaw, the doctor said it was a "dangerous type" of wound but it would have to go much deeper before it did serious damage.

Dr. Calvert said he went to the Delaire house in answer to a phone call. He found Mr Delaire lying on a studio couch with a wet towel around his neck. The wound was not bleeding much.

Mr. Delaire was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and he was released next day.

"Did you see Mrs. Delaire?" Dr Calvert was asked.

He said he did see her and she was "upset" and "very nervous; her hands were trembling." Part of the couple's conversation dealt with the instrument that caused the wound. He was not asked to elaborate.

Dr. Calvert said the wound healed almost as fast as a surgical cut. He took the stitches out after 10 days.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw said he thought that was sufficient evidence to commit Mrs. Delaire on the charge and Magistrate W R. Philp, KC, agreed.

SIX PERSONS ARE HOMELESS as a result of a fire that destroyed the home of Fletcher Casselman, about one mile north of Campbellford Monday afternoon. House could easily have been saved if fire fighting equipment had been available. Seymour township has flatly refused to make any arrangements with Campbellford fire department regarding country fires, and the Campbellford pumper was not allowed to travel the short distance outside the corporation.—(W. Insurance Claim Refused, Council Pays $48

With insurance money shut off on the company's assertion of not being liable, Ald. J. E. Gillespie, Ald. Norman Graham and Ald. E. C. Braund offered to contribute $5 each with the other members to make up the $48 sought by Mr. and Mrs. James Gates.

Mrs. Gates fell to the sidewalk on Hunter Street after catching her foot in a shallow break in the concrete. The accident happened in August. Mrs. Gates told the finance committee last night that her glasses were broken and she suffered some bruises and other hurts. Bills were presented for the $48 the mishap had cost in payments.

Mayor Swanston quoted some one as measuring the depth of the break in the sidewalk at ⅞ of an inch. W. F. Huycke, KC, city solicitor, remarked that if there was half an inch depth in a foot trap the insurance company could sidestep liability.

"The insurance company looked into this accident and decided that the city was not liable," said Mr. Huycke. Of more general circumstances, he said: "Anybody can slip on the sidewalk, but it does not mean that the city is liable."

"I move that we pay the account of Mrs. Gates," said Ald. Burrows.

"Are you going to cancel the insurance policy," Ald. J. E. Gillespie asked.

Ald. Braund: "The insurance company were paid their premium."

Mayor Swanston and Ald. Burrows said this appeal by Mr. and Mrs. Gates for consideration was an instance of vexatious limitations imposed by the insurance authorities. The council had experienced difficulty in obtaining indemnity for people on the basis of small claims.

"It might be a matter of $75 or $48, or any other comparatively small sum," Mayor Swanston said. "But it was a very considerable item to the citizens affected.'

Taking such cases to court incurred a risk of costs which deterred people from such action. His Worship said. There was not much the council could do about the decision of the insurance company.

Ald. E. C. Braund: "In this case the company says there is no liability by the city; so they don't pay any insurance; then what we do is a straight donation."

"We have had precedents in cases like this," Ald. H. F. Waddell said.

The recommended grant of $48 was made "on compassionate grounds."

Fire Leaves Six Homeless, Bad Wiring Thought Cause

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 25. (ENS)—Fire which may have been caused by defective wiring destroyed a home and rendered six persons homeless on Monday afternoon when a structure that has required several years to build was destroyed by flames in less than an hour. Fourteen-year-old George Green, step-son of the owner, Fletcher Casselmen, was alone in the house at the time fire broke out. He heard the crackle of flames and saw smoke in the upper portion of the house.

George ran immediately to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Casselman about 200 yards up the road. Mrs. Casselman phoned the alarm in to Campbellford fire department, less than two miles away.

Township Refuses

The alarm was sounded but local officials refused to allow the pumper to respond to the call. Seymour township has refused to supply anything in the way of fire protection to property owners in the township.

It has also flatly refused to pay the Campbellford fire department for trips the local brigade has made to save homes from destruction by fire. A few years ago a bill was sent to the township by the town, but the township refused to pay it.

Campbellford council has asked Seymour to supply a small pumper that could be stationed in the town, but they have also refused to do this. If a pumper were stationed in the town, the local fire department could answer the call and in all probability the fire losses of the township would be greatly decreased, resulting in lower premiums on insurance, which are now high.

Can't Take Chance

The town can't afford at the present time to send its equipment outside the corporation. If a fire broke out inside the town, no equipment would be available. The town has taken a chance on this on a few occasions, but Seymour says "no" when the bill is presented, and Campbellford tax payers will not pay for fire protection for the township.

Neighbors assisted greatly by removing much of the furniture and electrical appliances from the downstairs of the house. The contents of the upstairs were completely destroyed. Fletcher Casselman, his wife and three other children, Becky, 9; Jimmy, 2, and Charlotte, aged 3 months, had been away at the time the fire broke out, and had just pulled into the driveway of Carl Casselman's home when George ran in to spread the alarm.

School Bylaw Approved By County

Havelock, Belmont Vote Against $390,000 Debentures

Peterborough County Council Monday night gave third and final reading to a $390,000 debenture by-law covering the cost of building a High School in the Norwood High School area.

But they did so in the face of opposition from two of the municipalities in the area—the Township of Belmont-Methuen and the village of Havelock.

W. E. Griffith, Reeve of Belmont-Methuen, has been against the county using its greater borrowing power to finance the school since the subject was first discussed. Monday night he was joined by Ernest W. Seeney, the Reeve of Havelock.

A letter was read to the County Council telling of a special meeting of the Havelock Council on Saturday. The letter said: "Havelock strongly disapproves of the debenture by-law."

Says Procedure Improper

Mr. Griffith also charged that proper legal procedure had not been followed in the first steps of drafting the by-law. And he hinted that he might try and have it quashed.

As the matter now stands, debentures will be issued by the county, acting on behalf of the municipalities in the Norwood High School area. The reason for this is that the county, with its greater borrowing power, can get the money cheaper than Norwood.

The county debentures will be dated December 20, the day the county rates become payable, and interim financing will be done by a city bank.

Havelock Objects

Mr. Seeney said Havelock ratepayers thought they would be paying too large a share of the cost. At present the village's local assessment is as great as its equalized assessment; but this is not so in other municipalities.

The levy for the debentures will be on the local assessment, not the equalized, he said.

"Our present rate is 75 mills, and apparently the county assessor thinks this is high enough. Our local assessment is now as high as our equalized."

He said that the rate is now so high that tax arrears are increasing and if another six or seven mills are added it would be beyond the means of 50 per cent of the ratepayers.

"As the levy is based on local assessment, it appears to me that Havelock will be hit harder than some of the other municipalities in the area," said Mr. Seeney. "Should this by-law receive third reading I feel in all fairness that the bill should be based on county equalized assessment."

Costs Would Go Up

"I can see the predicament in Havelock," said Mr. Griffith. "But I can't see how you can work it any other way than by local assessment."

Mr. Griffith warned that while the debenture bill to each of the municipalities would remain the same the maintenance costs would go in one direction only—up.

In Belmont the present rate is 64.9 mills and 33.3 mills of that is the present school rate.

Havelock, he pointed out, would lose more than $1,440 she now gets for rental in her high school. Moreover, said Mr. Griffith, the high school area board never made application to Belmont-Methuen or Havelock on this matter as they were required to do by law.

He had already received a legal advice on this, he said, and he hinted at possible action to quash the bylaw.

Like Dictatorship

"It looks like we're practicing dictatorship. The people don't want it. We're going to put an unbearable taxation on them. . . . In Belmont we'd like to get out of the area."

Mr. Griffith then produced tentative figures of costs to the individual municipalities (based on the requisitions for the present high school maintenance plus their share of debentures) Asphodel $6,738, Belmont-Methuen $3,256, Otonabee $2,744, Havelock $2,519, Norwood $2,211, Hastings $2,090, Dummer $733, Percy $539.

Mr. Griffith said these figures did not include possible maintenance costs for Dummer. Only part of the township is included in the area and that joined recently. Only part of Otonabee is included and one school section of Percy township.

"These figures are misleading,' countered Reeve Rork Ferguson, Norwood. "You'd think you weren't paying anything at all for high school education at the present time."

Reeve William Grant, Lakefield moved the third reading of the bylaw and he was seconded by Mr. Ferguson. The motion carried.

A similar bylaw is expected for Lakefield soon.

But Mr. Griffith, though defeated, had the last say. Before the meeting adjourned he rose solemnly and asked for a moment's silence. The council stirred uneasily, not knowing what was coming.

"I suggest a moment's silence for the poor overburdened ratepayers," he said. Then, as though washing his hands of his colleagues, he intoned: "Forgive them, they know not what they do."

Council's Nightmare

Washing On City Hall Roof

Prospect of a line of family washing on the roof of the new city hall flapped briefly but vividly in the vision of the finance committee of the council Monday night.

That is as near to reality as such evidence of domesticity within the precincts of the municipal administration building will ever come. The incongruity of homely blue Monday in the wind of that stately and official setting was not only comic, but almost shocking to the sense of dignity of all the planning that is now aproaching formal climax and occupation.

The janitor is to occupy the penthouse with his family: his wife and three children, and for all the surroundings of parks and public buildings some provision must be made for wash day.

Out of Question

Packing everything off to the laundry was out of the economic question. Apparently the problem received some consideration of tenancy of late. A letter on the committee's file was from some member of the staff of the architects, Marani and Morris . . . "regarding the advisability of erecting a clothes line for the use of the caretaker on the roof of the city hall, we have secured the following information to eliminate the clothes line and substitute a Bendix automatic dryer . . ."

The letter was to the effect that the machine could be installed for $319.95.

If any dampness remained after the dryer was through with the articles, of clothing and housekeeping, presumably there might be some hanging in the kitchen.

Such was the simple and essential problem of the average home, hoisted up onto the roof of the new city hall. It was so far out of the ordinary routine of business, that the committee hardly knew how to grapple with it. So, they picked on Ald. Hugh Waddell as chairman of the property committee "to look into it," that seemingly guileless phrase invoking practical inspiration.

Concert In Modern Idiom Distinguished, Ably Done

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The audience for the concert given by artists from Israel on Monday night was not so well attended as its merit deserved. It is not quite a year since some of these artists last appeared here (Oct. 26, 1950) and the excellence of their work could not have been forgotten in so short a time. It must be said, however, that the music which they play is predominantly in the modern idiom, and it makes difficult hearing for concert-goers whose musical enthusiasm is not extreme. It is a good thing, however, that Peterborough should have an opportunity to hear some contemporary music, ably performed.

Hanna Starer sang two groups of soprano songs, all of which were interesting in themselves. Even the liveliest of the Hebrew songs appeared to be essentially melancholy and introspective in nature, and for this reason it was a pleasure to hear her charming and well-trained voice in Handel's "O Had I Jubal's Lyre", and later in "Una voce poco fa", in which Rossini demonstrates so pleasantly what a soprano voice can do when used instrumentally Miss Starer has a pleasing presence, and her obvious pleasure in what she was doing added much to the enjoyment of the audience.

Robert Starer, the pianist of the evening, succeeded perhaps more fully than the other artists in conveying to his hearers what Israel stands for, and what it means in the hearts of Jewish people. Hebrew melancholy, suffering and sweetness reached us from violin, voice and dance in this program, but when Mr. Starer played we were given something of Hebrew strength and nobility, as well. The Prelude and Toccata of his own composition which he played were vigorous, masculine works, asserting a modern spirit through a classical form, deeply interesting as music and as the personal expression of a splendid talent. We should like to hear more of Mr. Starer's music than the three examples which this program provided, and undoubtedly in the future we shall do so.

Able Violinist

Zvi Zeitlin, who was a member of the Israel group which played here last October, is a violinist of great ability. His technique is admirable, his tone is warm and full and it cannot be said that he lacks passion. Nevertheless, we feel that in ten years he will arouse emotion in his hearers which he does not arouse now. Though by no means a cold player, there is a degree of intellectuality in his approach to music which robs it of some of its impact. Not for the world would we wish this intellectuality decreased, but we hope that Mr. Zeitlin will develop a depth of feeling to match it. He will then be a violinist with few rivals.

Zamira Gon danced in Peterborough when the last Israel concert was here and the audience gave her a warm welcome. She is a dancer with great dramatic power and the range of feeling between her "Dance of Greeting" and her "One of Many" is a vast one. It was a pleasure to see her again and to enjoy something which is too rarely seen in our city — the expression of great emotion through movement.

The local B'nai B'rith is to be congratulated on a presentation which was distinguished in every way, and an undoubted artistic success.

Fogging Job Rids Trees Of Starlings

Mist of Hydrocarbon Chases Pesky Birds; Better Than Shooting

Peterborough Department of Health appears to have stumbled on a solution for getting rid of starlings.

R. M. MacPherson, sanitary inspector, reported today that a successful fogging project had been completed in the south end of the city, ridding the district of the pesky birds.

During August Mr. MacPherson went down to the corner of Morrow and Sherbourne streets to investigate the starling menace. Complaints had been pouring into the department about the unsanitary conditions caused by the birds.

Thousands Of Birds

The sanitary inspector, found "thousands of starlings nesting in the tall trees in the area."

"We decided to experiment with chloradane—a chlorinated hydrocarbon," he said. "We fogged the trees three times during the month and the starlings haven't been seen since."

Perhaps Cobourg could profit by Peterborough's victory over the starlings. A few weeks ago Cobourg held an official shooting bee to eliminate starlings. It wasn't successful and the birds stayed on.

Prince Of Wales Addition Opened By Board Members

The Prince of Wales Public School modern six-room annex was officially opened Monday night.

The actual opening ceremony took place when G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the accommodation committee, Board of Education, verbally handed over the building to Dr. Ralph Honey, board chairman.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, told the capacity audience of parents, students and district people that they had had the best in school accommodation for the past generation and perhaps longer.

"You people and children in this district are in a very favorable position," he said. "Now we make an appeal to you for your support in providing the necessary school accommodation in other parts of the city."

Need Active Support

Mr. Wightman went on to say that this support should not be merely indifference, but an active support for the board in further building projects.

Mr. Craw explained that the site for the school had been chosen following a tour of city schools in 1947.

"We also wanted our plans to provide a school building that would readily be converted into the new system of education," he said. "This present building could be used for a senior school to serve the west section of the city."

The satisfaction and appreciation of the teachers and students in the new building was expressed by the school principal, R. J. Bolton.

Best Wishes

The best wishes for the school's future were brought from the Home and School Council by Mrs. C. G. Collins, president; and from the Prince of Wales Home and School Association by its president Mrs. W. Beggs. Walter Mortlock, Peterborough contractor, who built the school and J. B. Parkin, architect, Toronto, also expressed best wishes.

Special music for the program was provided by the PCVI band under the direction of Albert Croasdale and a choir from Prince of Wales Grade 8 class. The choir was directed by Harvey Wilson and accompanied by Miss Musa Cox.

Following the program a tour of the new annex building was made.

At present the annex is being used for two classes of kindergarten and grades 1 and 2. It has a capacity for about 225 students.

Bancroft Student Awarded Watch For Best Recruit.

BANCROFT, Sept. 25 (ENS)—Private Fred Ayers of "A" Company, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, won a gold watch presented by Major-General Graham of Central Command, Canadian Army, for being judged the best private in the six weeks' recruit course that was recently completed at Petawawa Military Camp. Besides this he was presented with a personal letter of commendation from Lieut.-Col. Max Porritt, OC of The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ayers of Paudash, Private Ayers is a Grade 11 student at North Hastings High School. In his school Fred is the Cadet Major of The Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps. As a member of the reserve force he was chosen by Major C. H. Broad, OC of "A" Company to take the six weeks' summer course.

On Thursday night's parade the letter of commendation was read to the unit by Captain S. R. Walker. Lieutenant-Colonel Porritt also sent his congratulations to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of "A" Company for the high standard of training achieved.

THIS WAS THE SCENE outside Buckingham Palace in London just after the second medical bulletin was posted on the main gate to explain the condition of King George following a two-hour lung operation. An eight-man medical team attending the 55-year-old ailing monarch, posted the second bulletin nine hours after the operation. It said simply The King's condition continues to be "as satisfactory as can be expected." The surgery was performed in a specially-equipped theatre on the second floor of the 200-room Palace. More than 5,000 anxious Londoners kept an all-night vigil despite the rain, awaiting word of the condition of the King.

Member Favors Higher Pension For War Veterans

BANCROFT, Sept. 25—(ENS)—On account of the high cost of living, pensions for veterans should be increased, said George S. White, MP for Hastings-Peterborough, at a meeting of Branch 181, Canadian Legion, BESL, in Bancroft on Friday night. He also reiterated his opposition to the personal financial quiz that is necessary for a veteran to complete before an application for a pension is considered.

"Veterans should not have to answer questions of this type," he stated. "These are the men who fought to defend our country and if it were not for the veterans we would not have a country today. I definitely oppose a means test for veterans' disability pensions."

Mr. White spoke both as the member of the Canadian parliament for this constituency and as a member of the Madoc branch of the Canadian Legion.

Other speakers were zone commander Percy Gray, of Madoc; president J. Bedore, of Marmora, and past-president Arnold Gabel, of Madoc.

The visitors were lavish in their praise of the efforts of the local members in obtaining a fine new hall for themselves. They praised all for their magnificent feat of pyramiding a nest egg of less than $500 into a $10,000 debtless building in three and a half years. The present hall is completely furnished, equipped to handle banquets of 150 and has a lounge that was remodelled and furnished with chesterfields and easy chairs in the past 12 months.

Mr. Gray stressed the importance of larger delegations to zone meetings and the need of the Legion playing a more important role in the sporting events of the community.

During the business session, five veterans were received as new members. Arrangements were made to have a local delegation attend the drumhead church service in Trenton on Sunday, and Henry Phillips and D. T. Russell were appointed chairmen of the Poppy Day Remembrance Day committee respectively.

WMS Groups Basis Of Missionary Work

COLDSPRINGS, Sept. 25 —(ENS).—"Canada Tree" was the highlight of the address given by Mrs. R. D. P. Davidson, at the regular meeting of the WMS held at the home of Mrs. Sidney Wallace. There were 33 present.

Mrs. Davidson had a "Canada Tree" on display, which she had decorated with flowers, leaflets, and the study book for different age groups in our missionary work. In a poem Mrs. Davidson read, she explained the meaning of the tree, "the trunk," representing our WMS; "the branches" reaching out to different places; "the flowers," the younger groups coming along to take their places in the Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. James Ritchie read from the study book on the work in rural churches. Mrs. David Dines gave a temperance reading; Mrs. A. Jamieson, president of the society, presided, and led in responsive reading, followed with prayer by Mrs. P. Davidson. Mrs. P. C. Brown spoke on the Home Mission Circle Book and the life of the Rev. Peter Kelly. Mrs. Herb Davidson read an account of CGIT work in Newfoundland. Mrs. P. Davidson gave a report from the school for leaders recently held at Whitby.

Mrs. Jamieson pronounced the benediction. Mrs. David Buttars group had charge of the lunch.

Night Classes In Typewriting

MILLBROOK, Sept. 25 (ENS)—In response to popular demand, night classes in typewriting are being commenced in Millbrook High School.

Miss Helen M. Black, principal of the school, who is a commercial specialist, will be in charge. Registration will be held, and the first lesson given on Monday, October 1.

Classes will be held on Monday and Wednesday evening in the typewriting room of the school from 7.15 to 9.15.

At the meeting of the Durham area High School Board held in Bowmanville on Friday evening, members of the board expressed themselves as being pleased with the work being done in the Millbrook school, and with the prospect of night classes being held there.

More than a Story of Steel and Stone

On September 25, 1951, The Bank of Nova Scotia officially opened the new home of the Bank's General Office and Main Toronto Branch in the Bank of Nova Scotia Building, King and Bay Streets, Toronto.

Thus another chapter is written in the life and growth of a nation. More than a story of steel and stone, the new building is part of the vigorous life of the nation. It came into being through the ever-expanding demand for increased banking service by Canadians and through a busy city's need for many thousands of additional square feet of modern office space. It tells a story in form and substance, of confidence in Canada's future.

Materially, the building is the third highest bank building in the British Empire and the most modern structure of its kind in Canada. Its 25 floors enclose 320,000 square feet of floor space, providing everything that is new in modern banking and commercial office accommodation. It is veritably a city within a city . . . a city that thousands of men and women will enter daily in the course of business.

The new Bank of Nova Scotia Building means more than modern banking services and office accommodation. It is a magnificent symbol of Canada's progress. It is a building we invite you to visit when you are next in Toronto.

The new Bank of Nova Scotia Building in Toronto, opened September 25, 1951.

MAIN BANKING ROOM—Functional perfection and architectural excellence combine to provide swift and efficient banking service.

US Leaders Less Hopeful Of Successful Cease-Fire

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) —Top-level United States military and diplomatic leaders are watching the new Kaesong truce moves today with far less hope of a cease-fire agreement than they held two months ago.

A cold appraisal of the Communists' stalling tactics in past weeks has just about smothered the optimism that crept into high places after Russia's Jakob Malik proposed the truce talks.

Early today, the Reds walked out on a meeting of UN and Communist liaison officers when the top UN officer suggested his Red counterpart lacked sufficient authority. The meeting was aimed at getting truce talks going again.

Hope for a settlement hasn't been snuffed out entirely. Some think there is still a chance. But this hope is only a flickering flame in both military headquarters and the State Department.

This estimate is based on talks with persons close to the situation in both departments who are in a position to gauge the reactions to the Communists' moves in Korea.

Believed Sincere

When the peace talks began at Kaesong, there was considerable belief in high quarters the Chinese were sincere in wanting to call a halt to the shooting. Both Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, were reported to be optimistic.

As late as Aug. 20, Bradley said in a radio talk, "We Americans are anticipating an armistice in Korea."

But the Reds broke off the conferences 30 days ago and followed with a series of bitter charges that the United Nations Allies had violated the Kaesong neutral zone.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Tokyo headquarters admitted after an exchange of heated notes that one B-26 plane had accidentally strafed the neutral zone.

Peace Offensive

During the last month, the initial optimism appears to have been replaced by a more cautious wait-and-see attitude. No one is certain just what the Reds are trying to do.

One general officer put it this way:

"It looks like the word has come from Moscow to keep the talks going possibly as part of a new 'peace offensive' to throw us off guard."

Bradley is said to believe now that while the Chinese would like to reach a settlement and avoid a costly winter campaign the only course to follow is to hope for the best while preparing for the worst.

And so the army is going ahead with its planning for a winter campaign just as though the cease-fire talks had collapsed entirely.

COUNTER-ATTACK — Members of a fire-fighting crew fighting a forestry blaze near Nanaimo, B.C., which threatened the suburb of Extension—are seen here building a back-fire to halt the onrush of the flames. Nine hundred men and 26 bulldozers are fighting the big blaze.

US Relations Still Good Says Pearson

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP).—While Canadian-United States relations have changed in recent years they remain good, L. B. Pearson said last night.

Canada's External Affairs Minister said that formerly relations between Canada and the US were on a bi-lateral basis—discussion of problems "between the two countries "over the garden fence."

Now Canada is part of a coalition of which the US is the leader whose power can determine war or peace, he added.

Pearson was answering questions put by members of the United Nations Correspondents Association on the television and radio program "United or Not." The program was rebroadcast over the CBC.

The Minister's comment on Canadian-US relations came up when a reporter asked for a statement concerning a speech Pearson made last spring in Toronto which caused widespread comment in the US and Canada.

Not Critical

Any interpretation of the speech as critical of the US was "incorrect," Pearson said. It was to be expected that Canada would speak frankly on international problems.

Last spring, Pearson said, Canada was worried about the possibility of extension of war in the Far East.

"Now we are not so worried about it."

He said that any smaller, weaker country is preoccupied with power. Canada, therefore, was preoccupied with US power.

"But our relations are good, have been good and will remain good."

"Peace with freedom" might be the tag to give the UN General Assembly which opens in Paris Nov. 6 Pearson said in reply to a question. The reporter asking the question noted that the 1949 assembly was called the "Peace Assembly" and the one in 1950 was "The Assembly of Collective Security."

Pearson said the western powers have tried all types of approaches to heal east-west relations. What is needed now is a new attitude on the part of the Soviet bloc, Pearson indicated.

Soldier Convicts Arrive In B.C.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 25 (CP)—Six soldiers under arrest on criminal charges, including the three involved in manslaughter and attempted rape charges before an army court-martial, arrived Sunday in Vancouver by air from Tokyo. They were to leave today for an eastern prison.

In the group was Pte. Alan Roy Montgomery Davis, 24, of Vancouver. He, like the other two jointly charged following the death of a Korean civilian, had a charge of murder reduced by the army court, and was sentenced to 18 months in prison.

Life In Prison

Pte. Glen Roland Blank, 27, Winnipeg, was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Pte. Donald Michael Gibson, 21, Ottawa, was convicted of attempted rape and being in an affray, and sentenced to two years less one day.

Arrival of the plane was at first cloaked in close military secrecy.

At Ottawa, a spokesman at army headquarters said details of the charges against the other three soldiers were not immediately available.

However, he added that they were involved in serious charges unconnected with the manslaughter and rape charges.

Garbutt Successor

TORONTO, Sept. 25 (CP)—The appointment of Very Rev. Dr. Roland Hill, Dean of Athabasca, as rector of St. Barnabas Anglican Church in east-central Toronto, was announced yesterday by Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto. Dr. Hill succeeds Rev. Harry W. Garbutt, who was dismissed from his incumbency July 9, following the recommendation of a four-man diocesan commission.

Air Officer Appointed

OTTAWA, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Group Capt. Henry G. Colpitts, 40, of Sussex, NB, a member of the directing staff of the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston, has been appointed Commandant of the Canadian Joint Staff Air Training Centre in Rivers, Man.

He will assume his new duties November 5, replacing Group Capt. Peter Alexander Gilchrist, 41, DFC, of Weyburn, Sask.

Group Capt. Colpitts' successor at Kingston has not been named.

Class Promotions Made On Rally Day

OMEMEE, Sept. 25—(ENS)—Trinity United church's morning worship hour was given over Sunday to the Sunday School rally. Superintendent G. Pogue had charge of the service. He was assisted by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt who told the story of Frederic Colombo Mussili of Angola. Don Raffan read the scripture. Class promotions were made and prizes awarded to 11 pupils who attended 50 Sundays in the year. Mr. F. Johnson, superintendent emeritus, presented the prizes. They went to Douglas Weir, Homer Brooks, Lauraine Hyland, Ann Pelling, Jean Hyland, Myrna Lee, Verna Zufelt, Marilyn Hart, Eileen Zufelt, Don Raffan and John Pogue. John has had record attendance for 10 years.

Shot At Legs

WINDSOR, Sept. 25 (CP)—The defence rested its case yesterday in the George Liska murder trial after the defendant admitted he shot Mike Lesko on June 7 and then turned the gun on himself. He said the shot fired at Lesko was intended to strike him in the legs.

To Face Charge

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 25 (CP)—A grand jury yesterday returned a true bill against Charles Alexander Metcalfe, 27, of Ingersoll for the baseball bat slaying of Wm Wills, also of Ingersoll, last Feb. 23. Metcalfe pleaded not guilty to the charge of manslaughter.

Fewer Houses Started In July

OTTAWA, Sept. 25 (CP)—The Bureau of Statistics yesterday reported that both starts and completions of new housing units were down sharply in July compared with July last year.

Starts fell 40 per cent and completions 28 per cent. It was the third successive month that fewer homes were started, the July drop following reductions of 21 per cent in June and 14 per cent in May. The decrease in completions was the first since March.

Starts in the first seven months of the year were 15 per cent lower than in the corresponding period of last year, while completions up to the end of July were moderately higher than a year earlier.

Starts in the month numbered 6,123 compared with 10,245 a year ago, bringing the seven-month total to 44,588 against 52,394. July completions totalled 4,926 against 6,853, and in the seven months numbered 43,620 against 42,821. Dwellings under construction at the end of the month totalled 59,766 as against 67,097 last year.

Starts in Ontario in July fell to 2,342 from 2,936 a year ago. Completions in Ontario in July were lower at 1,622 against 2,687.

Samuel H. Faulkner Marks 90th Birthday

OMEMEE, Sept. 25 (ENS) — Samuel H. Faulkner, who has been an invalid for the past four years, is today celebrating quietly his 90th birthday.

Mr. Faulkner is a life-long resident of Emily township and Omemee, having come to the village in 1913.

Mr. and Mrs .D. Deyell visited Mr. and Mrs. Magee in Toronto on Sunday.

A former Omemee resident, Mr. Ernest Balfour of Vancouver, is visiting his sisters, Mrs. O. Rehill and Mrs. C. B. Perkins in Lindsay, friends in Owen Sound and is renewing old acquaintances in Omemee. It is only his second visit in 40 years. While here he is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. MacPherson.

Mrs. L. Fallis of Hastings was a weekend visitor at her son's home, Mr. and Mrs. I. Fallis.

Mr. R. H. Williamson spent last week in Toronto a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williamson.

Mr. Charlie Stephenson is still confined to bed as the result of an unfortunate accident Tuesday evening when he stepped into a hole occasioned by construction work on the verandah of his home and sustained a bad ankle fracture.

Mr. Howard Bent is in Ross Memorial Hospital, having taken suddenly ill at Lindsay Exhibition.

Mrs. James Nichols visited Omemee friends last week.

Miss Isabel Hyland of Toronto was home for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Blewett and son Terry of Peterborough were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brooks.

Standard Time

DRESDEN, Ont., Sept. 25 (CP) —Daylight saving time ends here tonight at midnight in accordance with town bylaws which call for a time change on Sept. 25 regardless of the day of the week. Nearby Thamesville went over to standard time during the weekend following receipt of a petition from district farmers who threatened to boycott local stores if the change were not made.

STAR GAZER — Rev. Leon Rivard, who claims the man in the moon is a woman, stands on the steps of his home-made observatory at St. Adolphe, Man. The observatory, complete with revolving dome and 65-inch telescope, was modelled after one at Victoria, BC. The 67-year-old amateur astrologist says observations of the moon have convinced him that the figure outlined in it is strictly feminine.

TOUR MATRON — FO Ella Mannix, of Meota, Sask., senior matron at RCAF Hospital Rockcliffe Airport, near Ottawa, has been given the most important assignment of her career. Chosen to accompany Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on their Canadian and United States tour next month, she claims it is "the most wonderful job" a nurse could dream of having.

DOROTHY DIX

Woman, 41, Would Leave Husband For Youth of 21

DEAR MISS DIX: For sixteen years I have been married, and have a son 14. My husband is a good provider and I have almost everything I want. But about seven months ago, I met a young man who is twenty years my junior. I am now 41. We have been meeting each other quite frequently. He says he loves me, and I love him. He wants to marry me. Since I met this young man, my feelings toward my husband have changed considerably. I am willing to give up everything for this fellow. Do you think our marriage could be happy? My son would stay with his father if I should leave to marry the other man.

ELEANOR

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: What I really think would probably blister the paper you are reading, but in mild, printable language—I think you must be crazy. I hope you have just enough sense left to give a little heed to advice, hard as it may be to face.

Give up the notion that you are a romantic schoolgirl, which is the delusion under which you are laboring. You're a grown woman, a wife and a mother.

Take a good look in the mirror! No matter how well preserved you are, 41 is 41 and not 21! It's a mighty nice age, too, if one lives up to it. With a good husband and a fine son, you have plenty to live for without resorting to sentimental day-dreaming to fill in your time.

You Want Last Fling

It's not uncommon for women of middle age, or approaching midle age, to decide that life has been devoid of romance. With this sense of futility comes an urge for one last fling at the moonlight and roses. You follow this pattern closely, even to the extent of seizing on a much younger boy as the object of your frustrated yearnings. I hope you follow it to the logical end and awaken from your dreams as readily as you slipped into them. Adopting the course you suggest, of surrendering husband, home and son for your foolish Romeo, would end in tragedy for all of you.

We are all accustomed to the discussions of the pernicious effect of movies, television, etc., on the very young. Some of this thought should be diverted to the effect these media have on the middle-aged. Too many women with time hanging heavy on their hands set up a mental and emotional stupor with an overindulgence in sentimental stories, movies, soap operas and the like. At least some, if not all, of this time could be much better employed in activities benefiting not only the worker, but the community and church as well.

Get yourself into something of this sort! Your small household eveidently isn't enough to keep you busy. Put more effort into making a good home for your husband and son; and stop daydreaming.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been engaged since my eighteenth birthday last February to a very nice boy of 22. He is now in the Army and we are considering marriage on his first leave, which will be this fall. I feel confident that I have the qualifications for a soldier's wife, and while my father doesn't object to our marriage, my mother does. She thinks I'm too young. While we would like to marry soon, I don't want to hurt my mother and I do feel that our love for each other won't fade over a few more months' separation.

JANE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Delaying your marriage in consideration for your mother's concern is your best course. You are both very young, and postponing matrimony for a few months or a year will give you better preparation. Too many young people get carried away by the glamor of a quick wedding-on-leave with a serviceman, ignoring the resultant responsibilities. The young bride thereafter spends long, dateless evenings alone, under the added cloud of parental disapproval. The young husband has the added worry of a wife—and possibly a child—while already under the stress of service duties. Upon the return to civilian life he faces the problem of starting from scratch, in all probability with no job, to support a family. All these facts should be duly considered. Where both sets of parents aprove the marriage, weddings of servicemen do not have so many complications, but under the unsatisfactory conditions you outline, postponement is the better course.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My trouble is a little different from the routine problems. I can't make my uncle stay away from me. I've tried ignoring him, telling him not to pester me and even quarreling with him, but he comes over almost every evening, trying to run my affairs. I've told my mother how annoying he is, but she is very fond of him and can't see that his behavoir is wrong. I've even told his wife, but she insists I'm making a mountain out of a molehill. I'm 19, nice looking, have finished high school and have had one year of commercial art. How can I convince my parents that I find his attentions obnoxious?

KIT

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If your problem is just as you outline, your parents are being very blind not to see your distress and take every means at hand to restore your peace of mind. Are you sure, however, that a vivid imagination isn't giving an avuncular affection the status it does not deserve? Then, too, he may be the bully-teasoing type who just loves to pester youngsters—and to him, you are still a child. In this case, too, your parents should have the situation corrected before you fret yourself into a nervous state over it. Why can't you get yourself out of the house on evenings he visits, thus avoiding him? You must have plenty of friends and you certainly should not take dictation from your uncle on your choice of acquaintances—male or female. If you are sincerely anxious to avoid this pestering relative, it seems to me it could be accomplished.

What's Right?

A friend's daughter goes away to college and you are asking how she is getting along.

WRONG: Ask if she pledged a sorority.

RIGHT: Wait to be told whether or not she joined a sorority.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

How Seasiders Handle Broiled Live Lobster

You think that I am slaving over a hot stove working out delicious tasting dishes that I can write about in this column, don't you?

Nothing could be farther from the facts. There's food present where I am alright—too much—but the chef in the Nova Scotian Hotel in Halifax is cooking it for my dinner and I'm in the critic's seat . .

Strange to say there is nothing to criticize. This hotel is meeting the demands of the Canadian Women's Press Club biennial conference with well-oiled efficiency and charming hospitality.

I have one feeble bleat: every day should have forty-eight hours in which to consume all of the delicious food offered to us; this week should have fourteen days; the nights should be twice as long because with this heavily packed convention schedule you are so tired you need twice as much sleep.

Every lunch-time, every tea time, every dinner time we are guest of the Province or of the Radios or the Newspapers or of the Navy or the Harbour Commission or huge department stores, or the City of Halifax or the Railways. So of course since breakfasts are our only free-time, the gals who do not see one another from one convention time to the next—they have breafast parties!

My sister and I worked in one side trip before the convention started, to Glace Bay (pronounced glass bay down here), to visit relatives of friends of ours at home, and we had typical Maritimers company dinner.

We both ate a whole broiled Live Lobster and Baked stuffed Lobster! This is not designed to make you hungry or jealous but since this is a cooking column, even if most of us are inlanders, we should know how this delectable crustacean is handled by seasiders.

Broiled Live Lobster

Plunge live lobster into boiling water for 5 minutes. (Are you still with me?) Split open from head to tail with strong pointed knife. Remove black vein, small sac back of head, and spongy lungs. Crack the claws. Serve as is with melted butter. OR place split side up on broiler rack 4 inches from heat. Cut tail crosswise twice to help prevent curling. Brush with melted butted and broil 6 to 8 minutes; turn over, brush with melted butter and broil 4 to 6 minutes. (Meat and shell are now pink.) Serve with side dish of melted butter and lemon.

Baked Stuffed Lobster

To prepare the stuffing saute the red roe and green liver in butter. Add finely crushed crackers. Season with onion juice, salt, pepper, minced parsley, and a bit of basil, marjoram, tarragon and thyme if you have them. Stuff cavity of cleaned lobster lightly. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes. Serve at once. Much too good for plain mortals.

Our hostess had a whole salmon in her refrigerator. Like we would use from a cold roast they cut from the cold boiled salmon, for cold snacks and lunches and for sandwich fillings. It was delicious and convenient. If we could have stayed she was going to make a dish of scalloped salmon which is one of her specialties, and I have the recipe for you. Watch for it later on.

Canadian Girls Guests Of London Dress Designer

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP). — A charming green velvet dress that would add glamor to the wardrobe of any Canadian teen-ager has been designed by Angele Delanghe as a tribute, to the 50 Canadian girls who visited her salon during their August tour of Britain.

Miss Delanghe, who has a salon in one of London's best-known department stores, (Fortnum & Mason) designed 35 outfits in about three weeks — including elaborate and glittering ball-gowns of grande-dame magnificence — to give a special show for the young Canadians.

And the delight of these girls, some of whom live miles from the nearest store in Canada, gave the designer inspiration to create a special teen-age dress that would commemorate their visit. The girls' trip was sponsored by Garfield Weston, wealthy Canadian business man.

The dress, made after the girls returned to Canada, has French influence and is called Versailles. Actually a blouse and skirt with tight detachable cummerbund, it can be separated, the blouse used with a suit and the skirt worn with contrast blouse.

With slit Napoleonic neckline, its Magyar sleeves given yoke interest by a line of Burgundy hemstitching, the blouse is buttoned with tiny burgundy ball buttons that have green hemstitching. Buttons emphasize the vertical line of the drum pockets on the skirt with its softly-gathered back.

Slim and dark, Miss Delanghe at 51 is one of London's best-known designers. For many years a member of the "Big Ten," she resigned in 1948 to accept a 10-year contract with the store where she now has her own salon and five workrooms.

Two Ball-Gowns

Among her winter collection this Belgian-born designer has included two ball-gowns that would delight any woman planning a special gown for the Canadian visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. Called "Balmoral" and "Royal Visit" they would be suitable for a state ball in Buckingham Palace itself.

The first is a glamor gown of period style in folds of black Lyon velvet that form a full-skirted, slim-hipped dress with strapless shoulderline. The bra-shaped top is outlined in old-gold brocade embroidery of petal design, which also encircles the skirt to give an apron effect.

Scottish interest is added by an attached train lined with gleaming blue-and-green checked taffeta that shows at every move. The train is detachable and can be used to form a cape while a tight-waisted, long-sleeved jacket with fluted peplum and deep-cut neckline may be added to form a dinner gown.

"Royal Tour," created in green brocade starred in gold, has skirt fullness falling from a low hipline and a deep cuff-top is designed to emphasize the bustling. Shoulder straps are wide and a tiny peplum at the back waist gives the effect of a full train skirt escaping from the confines of jacket tails.

Springville YPU Hold Outing

SPRINGVILLE, Sept. 25 (ENS) — Springville Young People's Union got off to a good start on their fall program Friday evening when they entertained the young people of the communities of Springville, Fairmount and Mount Pleasant at a weiner roast in the basement of the church.

Myrtle Seymour arranged the short opening program at which the Rev. A. E. Larke led the group in community singing and Mrs. Larke sang a solo. The Sargent brothers and Jim Elliott contributed two musical numbers.

The worship service was in charge of Margaret and Catharine Earle.

Game and contests for this evening were arranged by Eleanore and Marilyn Bowles.

Hazel McIntosh, assisted by Mrs. Larke, Myrna and Lila Seymour served the food.

Doreen Bowles and Myrna Seymour were the committee in charge of sending out invitations for this opening meeting and about 60 young people were present.

Arrangements were made to hold the next meeting on Sunday evening, Sept. 30, at the home of the president, Hazel McIntosh, when Myrna Seymour and Margaret Earle will be in charge of the program.

At the close of the meeting, the president on behalf of the group thanked Mr. and Mrs. Larke for their assistance and hospitality.

Plainville Church Marks 48th Birthday

PLAINVILLE, Sept. 25 (ENS). —Sunday marked the 48th anniversary of the Plainville United Church. A capacity audience with others who could not be accommodated attended the morning service, and again in the evening the church was well filled. Baskets of autumn flowers adorned the altar.

Guest speaker for the day was the Rev. W. A. Aldridge of Starke, Florida. His sermons were "Building Your Temple," in the morning, and "Jesus, Master and Lord," evening topic. Music was supplied in the morning by the home choir, and in the evening by the choir of Baltimore United Church. By a showing of hands in the morning service about six members of the large audience had attended the first service in the new church 48 years ago. Six hundred and twenty-nine dollars was received in the offering.

A call has been extended the Rev. Mr. Robertson, from the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church to be the minister of the Gore's Landing charge.

ROONEY DIVORCED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25 (AP) —Actor Mickey Rooney was pictured as a man of terrible temper and tantrums Monday by his third wife, Martha Vickers, who won an uncontested divorce. Miss Vickers was awarded $2,000 a month alimony, graduating down to $300 a month in 1959 and thereafter until her death or marriage.

One of the thousand or more Canadian manufacturers of aluminum articles reports that he's making violin strings of aluminum to replace the traditional catgut.

We are always being surpised by the discovery of new uses for this modern metal, though we're always conscious of the ever-increasing demand. That is why we're building huge new dams, powerhouses and smelters in British Columbia and Quebec. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Franchot Tone Leaves Hospital

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25 (AP)—Franchot Tone emerged briefly from the hospital yesterday to confirm his engagement to blonde Barbara Payton and to ask official investigation of the beating he took from actor Tom Neal in a fight over her affections. Before Tone returned to the hospital, District Attorney Ernest Roll said that "all facts involving the case will be covered."

NOW CONQUER CONSTIPATION

When normal regularity is restored and maintained by the revolutionary medical discovery, Melcalose!

Here's a constipation corrective (not a laxative), that gives real assurance of positive relief! No laxative in medical history can offer proof of such action and results!

Actual medical records prove that Melcalose can restore normal regularity in as little as 7 days—even in chronic constipation cases of 20 or 30 years' duration!

Easy-to-take Melcalose tablets give gentle, corrective relief without violent purging, stomach upset or digestive disturbances of any kind . . . without the inconvenience of messy seeds or granules, slippery oils or bitter salts.

Melcalose forms a mild non-purging gel that passes unchanged through the digestive system . . . mixes with the contents of the colon, where constipation actually takes place . . . the result . . . light, smooth, normal bowel movements.

Once this rhythmic activity is restored and maintained, constipation no longer exists!

Ordinary "laxatives" often upset entire digestive tract . . . Melcalose tablets go to work where constipation actually takes place . . . have remarkable soothing colon-action.

Melcalose tablets do not lose their effectiveness with use. No increase in dosage will ever be necessary!

Get Melcalose tablets from your druggist today!

6—In Memoriam

INNES—In memory of my mother, Mrs. Gordon Innes, who passed away Sept. 24, 1925.
My thoughts wander as daylight fades
To the land of long ago,
And memory paints the scenes of old
In the gold of the twilight glow.
I seem to see in the soft, dim light
A face I loved the best;
I think of her when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west.
—Ever remembered by her daughter, Mrs. and Mr. George Ellis and grandchildren.

Alderman Sad As Budget 'Shot'

Ald. Norman Graham's sanitary department budget is "all shot" Repairs to the incinerator this year exceeded estimates by about $5,000, necessary work of maintenance plus new precautions for safety of the employees.

He was all set to absorb that item, and then the Sanivan truck of his department bogged down into a hot spot at the city's dump in North Monaghan, and was a total loss by fire.

Board of works last night accepted the tender of Woods Truck and Equipment Co., Aylmer St. for a complete new machine at $10,441.70. Five bids were received by the board.

Acceptance of the Woods tender was moved by Aldermen Waddell and Rehill. Ald. J. E. Gillespie presided.

A few weeks ago a department employee drove the big Sanivan to the dump with a load of refuse for burning, backed onto some loose material, caught fire and was destroyed.

"You can't figure on things like that," Ald. Graham said as he lamented the outlook of finishing the year in departmental red.

"We'll have to look to the board of works for some help," he suggested.

Russia To Turn Siberia Into Garden Of Eden

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW, Sept. 25 (AP) — A Russian scientist says plans now are being drawn for a huge hydro-electric-irrigation project in Siberia to make a Garden of Eden out of Central Asiatic deserts.

The project was first revealed in a popular scientific magazine for youth early in 1949, but yesterday was the first time any member of the Soviet academy of sciences had put his stamp on it.

Academician A. V. Vinter, writing in the publication Science and Life, said completion of the big Stalingrad and Kuibyshev dams and the Turkmen canal during the next five or six years will set the stage for the still greater power and irrigation undertaking.

Vinter made other predictions of triumphs for Soviet science. He said that atomic energy, "the secret production of which was discovered by Soviet scientists will mean a revolution in energetics" (the science dealing with energy).

Divert 3 Rivers

The hydro-electric-irrigation program calls for turning the flow of three Siberian rivers—the Ob, the Yenisei, and the Lena—from northward to southward. A vast lake would be created in central Siberia nearly as large as the Caspian Sea. A large canal system would divert the waters from this inland sea into the northern Kazakh Steppes to irrigate that rich but desert area. Eventually, the waters from the three rivers, which now flow into the Arctic Ocean, would pour into the Aral and Caspian Seas in southern Russia.

If carried out, the program will mean the construction of dams, power stations and canals of sizes thus far never achieved in the world.

In his reference to atomic power, Vinter said it "will be widely used for the construction of canals, tunnels, dams, and also for the production of cheap power at new atomic electric stations."

Resort Owner Fined $50, Costs

Charles A. Pruner, RR 1, Peterborough, was today fined $50 and costs in police court after pleading guilty to having assorted fishing tackle on which duty had not been paid.

The tackle included plugs, lines, hooks and an outboard motor, valued in all at less than $200. Pruner is a resort owner.

The charge was laid by RCMP Constable George Pickering, Cobourg.

Pleading guilty to first offence drunk charges the following were fined $10 and costs: E. Nolan Monks, 45 Mill St.; William Patrick Kiarns, 55, Lindsay; Harry Horsfield, 37, Port Hope; Max Martin, 26, Oshawa; and Victor Van Dusen, 37, George St.

Harry Yeotes, 30, Gordon Ave., was found guilty of second offence drunkenness and fined $50 and costs by Magistrate Philp. Constable Dennis Traynor said Yeotes told him he had drunk nine pints of beer and he had tried to pawn his wrist watch to get more money.

"Yeotes staggered, his speech was thick, his eyes were bleary and his clothes were disarranged as though he had been in a scuffle," said Constable Traynor.

Yeotes said he had two drinks of wine and felt a "spell" coming on.

Patrick Brick, 22, RR 1, Ennismore, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance near George St. and was fined $10 and costs. Albert Pacey, 28, Edgewater Ave., pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor and was fined $15 and costs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hewett

The funeral for Mrs. Elizabeth Hewett, Buffalo, New York, and formerly of Peterborough, who died Friday, was held Monday from the Kaye funeral home.

The Rev. H. D. McCormack of St. James' United church conducted the service.

Pall-bearers were: Walter Wheeler, Edwin Wheeler, Robert McKinley, William McKinley, Victor Smith, William Laws. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Centenary Church Marks Anniversary

ROSENEATH, Sept. 25 (ENS) —Capacity congregations filled Centenary United Church, three miles west of Roseneath, on Sunday where they marked their 85th anniversary with morning and evening services special speakers and visiting choirs.

Brigadier J. T. Gillingham, an outstanding worker in the Salvation Army, now residing in Vancouver B. C., was the guest speaker.

The pastor Rev. R. C. White Conducted both services and was assisted by Mrs. Brigadier Gillingham.

At the morning service Brigadier J. T. Gillingham chose as his subject "The Vision We Need" and said in part "They who would have a knowledge of Jesus, must seek Him and when we live like Jesus, men and women will catch the Vision."

Fenella mixed choir of twenty voices were in charge of the service of song with Mrs. Laurie Hope at the organ. The Junior Choir sang "Under His Wings" and the full choir sang, "It is well with my Soul"; Mr. William Kemp contributed a vocal solo "He Smiled on me". Brigadier J. T. and Mrs. Gillingham sang a duet "When we walk with the Lord" with Brigadier Gillingham playing concertina accompaniment.

The evening service began with a song service led by Brigadier Gillingham again playing concertina accompaniment Mrs. R. C. White sang "Living for Jesus."

Bethesda North choir were in charge of the music at the evening service with Mrs. Garnet Isaac at the organ. The full choir contributed an anthem "In My Soul, there is Joy". A mixed quartette, Miss Dorothy Lean, Mrs. Garnet Isaac, Messrs. Ken Symons and Glenn Hogg sang "God so loved the World."

The church was tastefully decorated with baskets of late summer flowers, dahlias, asters, gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Friends were present from Gores Landing, Dartford, Fenella, Harwood, Port Hope, Orono, Cobourg and Roseneath.

Mrs. M. Walker Dies In Toronto In 101st Year

In her 101st year, Mrs. Margaret Jane Walker, 14 Grinville Avenue, Toronto, died Monday in Western Hospital.

Mother of Fred Walker, 426 Wolsley Street, Mrs. Walker slipped a month ago, cracking her hip bone. Since then her health has been failing rapidly.

Born in Ireland, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Welch, she would have celebrated her 101st birthday on January 17 next. Her husband, John Walker, predeceased her almost 20 years ago.

Mrs. Walker has lived in Toronto for 60 years, living previously in Bowmanville and near Blackstock. In Toronto she was a member of the Disciples of Christ Church.

Besides Mr. Walker, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Marian Heron and Mrs. Nellie Morshead, both of Toronto.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 1 pm from the Matthews Funeral Home, Bloor and Spadina Streets. Burial will be in Mount Pleasant.

Women's Strike

LONDON, Sept. 25—(Reuters) —Tailoring workers and employers said yesterday there will be serious unemployment in the industry unless women call off a current "buyers' strike." Textile manufacturers complain that sales have fallen off since Hugh Dalton, minister of local government, told women not to buy new clothes until prices came down.

Stolen Bonds Sold

MONTREAL, Sept. 25 (CP)— Registered bonds valued at $10,000 stolen in a bank hold-up in Ontario more than a year ago, are believed to have been sold in Montreal, police said last night. Inspector Ernest Francoeur said the bonds were part of the loot taken from the Beaverton branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in August, 1950.

ASBESTOS CAN BE BEAUTIFUL
FIREPROOF Cedargrain ASBESTOS SIDING will make your home more attractive ...cut upkeep expense
Cedargrain asbestos siding shingles are well worth investigating if you plan to build or remodel, because they add such charm and distinction to any home. Their attractive grained appearance . . . their wavy butts, and their wonderful, eye-appealing colours offer a host of decorative possibilities for exterior walls. You can use Cedargrains in two different shades, for example, or combine them with other materials. Whatever you do you will be sure of beauty plus protection. For Cedargrains can't burn, rot or wear out and they never need paint to preserve them! See these attractive, economical shingles for yourself at your J-M dealer's or write for free, full-colour folder to Canadian Johns-Manville, Dept. N-10, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

ASBESTOS in action
When H. W. Johns, co-founder of Johns-Manville, began to experiment with asbestos — he probably never dreamed of the vital part it would play in our daily life. Almost everyone uses and benefits by asbestos. When the housewife toasts a slice of bread, or irons a shirt, her safety is guarded by the asbestos insulation in the electric cord. When the motorist slams on his brakes, in an emergency, he depends on asbestos linings for a safe, quick stop. Even the water you drink may be carried in Transite asbestos-cement pipe. And so it goes . . . asbestos serves us in many seen and unseen ways!

Women Would Dominate Council Of State If Created

By ALVIN J. STEIKOFF

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Women would dominate a council of state if one is created to perform the royal functions while the King recovers from his lung operation.

There is no set precedent but such councils usually have been composed of the Monarch's closest relatives, including those who stand in immediate succession to the throne.

Government circles generally assumed today that a council formed in the present circumstances would consist of five members. Probably they would be the Queen, Princess Elizabeth and Margaret, the King's sister, Princess Mary who is Princess Royal—and a lone man, the King's brother, the Duke of Gloucester.

Served Twice

Princess Elizabeth already has served twice on such councils. Both occasions were during the Second World War when the King visited troops in Africa and France.

Britons scarcely knew about it because the existence of the councils was made known only after they had ceased to function. In war time the movements of the King were kept secret.

Membership on a new council would place additional duties on Princess Elizabeth and there was some speculation whether she would carry out her visit to Canada and the United States next month if the council is set up.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said there would be no constitutional bar to her leaving England if she becomes a council member. But unforeseen practical considerations might persuade Elizabeth she has greater responsibilities at home.

A council of state performs almost all the functions of the King. But there are a few limitations—a council could not dissolve parliament nor could it create peers or confer certain other titles.

The present parliament is to be dissolved Oct. 4, before the Oct. 25 election. There has been no announcement but it was suggested the King may have taken care of dissolution formalities before his operation Sunday.

Tar Sands Study Started In 1913 By Noted Expert

EDMONTON—(CP)—Dr. Sidney Clarke Ells, of Ottawa, has probably done more than any other to bring the Athabaska oil sands into prominence—but now he's content to take a back seat.

Passing through Edmonton on his way to the west coast, he sat in on the Alberta oil sands conference recently. The 100-odd experts attending asked him to speak but he declined.

The sands straddle the Athabaska River in Northern Alberta. They are vast deposits of a heavy, thick oil mixed with gravel, clay and sand, and are considered by many the world's largest known reserve of oil.

Yet untapped, the sands have been experimented with for years to find an economical method of separating the oil and sand mixture.

S. M. Blair, Toronto petroleum engineer, presented a report in January of this year which served to back up claims Dr. Ells made years ago that commercial development was possible.

Dr. Ells' interest in the oil sands dates back to 1913. Then he was assistant to the director of the Federal Mines Branch.

An Alberta real-estate boom started it all. Slick operators were selling subdivided parts of Alberta as far north as the Muskeg around for McMurray.

Suggested Survey

Ells was instructed to read up on the tar sands. But there was nothing to read. Ells suggested a personal survey. When the department decided against the survey, Dr. Ells handed in his resignation.

Officials reconsidered, and in May, 1913, he began his survey with an allotment of $1,900.

Dr. Ells, a crew of four men, a leaky scow, and a canoe shot rapids, traversed Athabaska River tributaries to the east and west, and explored the total extent of the oil sands.

Get First Specimens

In the fall, they returned upriver to Athabasca landing with a 10-ton load of samples—the first important specimens ever taken from the field.

As far back as 1914, Dr. Ells was beginning to plan core drilling and mining, and was thinking of hot water flotation as a method of separating oil from the sands.

With the passing years, he began to make headway. Interested parties in the United States and Britain started eyeing the oil sands.

In 1943-45 Dr. Ells initiated and supervised the first large-scale drilling program and was the first to interest foreign capital in the deposits.

Now over 70, Dr. Ells has been retired six years and devotes his time to writing and gardening. But he says the 30 years he spent in the oil sand country probably "advanced the production date 10 years."

Strike Ends

MONTREAL, Sept. 25 (CP) — Full production will begin immediately in the Imperial Tobacco Company Limited's plants here at Grandby, Que., and Hamilton, Ont., a company spokesman said following settlement of the six-weeks old strike yesterday. Members of the Tobacco Workers International Union Local 234 accepted the company's terms which granted them pay boosts and other benefits.

Tobacco Harvest 95% Completed

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 25 (CP) — This year's tobacco harvest in the Southwestern Ontario flue-cured belt is about 95 per cent complete and growers say frost damage of two weeks ago was below a million dollars.

Early reports of damage by a ground frost ran up to $5,000,000. The estimates were later lowered to $3,000,000. Now the growers say both figures were much too high.

On some tobacco belt farms, plants stand stripped bare with the last of the kilns to be emptied this week. But in the Bayham, Houghton and Walsingham sections and other areas stretching up into Brant, Oxford, and Middlesex counties, most growers still have a few kilns to be primed.

With 90 per cent of the crop harvested, growers generally figure they have cleared expenses and turned a fair profit on their year's operations.

This year's crop is described as containing a large proportion of cigaret type tobacco. The growing season was such that leaf was generally thinner, meaning good quality leaf, but less poundage per acre.

Music Provided By Church School

MILLBROOK, Sept. 25 (ENS) —The children of St. Andrew's United Church Sunday school marched in a body for their annual rally day service in the church auditorium Sunday morning. Herbert Patton, Sunday school superintendent, conducted the service. A group of teen-age girls filled the choir loft and sang a chorus under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Spicer. A second chorus was sung by younger children, members of the mission band, who were directed by their leader, Mrs. Arnold Fallis. The Sunday school orchestra accompanied the hymns with Vilda Brown and Farnces Dawson, pianists; Beverley Patton, Gerald Hubbard and Mac Ingham, violins; and George Ingham, 'cello.

The reading of the scripture lesson was led by Fred Weatherl't. Mac Ingham offered the prayer for the King.

Rev. A. M. Buttar told the life story of Frederica, a little boy from Angola to the children, and gave a talk on the aims of Sunday school work and on methods of making it more effective.

The offertory was played by Miss Estella Hetherington, organist.

William Loukes Buried At Alderville

ROSENEATH, Sept. 25 (ENS)—The funeral of William Loukes was held on Monday, at 2.30, at Alderville United Church. A former pastor, Mr. H. Lander, of Coldsprings, was in charge of the service, assisted by the Rev. J. N. Lovelace, pastor of Alderville Church, the Rev. R. C. White, pastor of Roseneath United Church, and Brigadier J. T. Gillingham, of the Salvation Army. The mixed choir of Alderville Church, with Mrs. James Bigwin, Jr., at the organ, was in charge of the music, and contributed an anthem, "The Eastern Gate." A favorite hymn of the deceased was also sung, "The Lord Is My Shepherd."

Mr. Loukes' death occurred on Friday in Cobourg General Hospital in his 79th year, after being admitted a few hours earlier for treatment. He was a member of the United Church and was highly respected by all with whom he came in contact.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Clifford Smoke, Norman Marsden, Henry Comego, Daniel Simpson, Moses Smoke, and Louis Gray.

Those carrying floral tributes were John Smoke, R. A. Nichol, James Webb, Douglas Coyle, Moses Marsden, James Timlin, Arthur Murphy, Fred Murphy, C. W. Varcoe, Daniel Musgrave, Moses Marsden, Ross McCracken, Cephis Robins, Earl Braithwaite, Oscar Adams and Alfred Simpson.

The members of the Roseneath LOL assisted with the committal service at the graveside, with W. M. Douglas Coyle in charge, assisted by C. W. Varcoe.

Interment was in Alderville cemetery.

Friends and relatives were present from Toronto, Sutton, Port Hope, Peterborough, Hiawatha, Cobourg, Fenella and Roseneath, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

Newspapers Urge Princess Needn't Keep Canadian Date

By The Canadian Press

Many Canadian newspapers stressed today that in view of the grave illness of the King Princess Elizabeth should feel under no obligation to fulfil her Canadian tour, scheduled to open Oct. 2.

Prime Minister St. Laurent sent a message saying that the Canadian people would understand if it became necessary to cancel the visit. In a similar message, Mayor Arthur Reaube of Windsor, Ont., advised the Princess Sunday many Canadians feel that her place now is beside her father.

Press Agreed

The press of Canada agreed.

Following is editorial comment of representative newspapers across the country:

Ottawa Journal: "She should be released from any sense of obligation to maintain her plans . . . Much as we all regret the necessity, there are other things more important at the moment."

Toronto Telegram: "Each member of a family will understand the anxiety anv daughter would be undergoing at this minute. This worry for Princess Elizabeth should not be increased by the pressure of a tour of Canada, undertaken under the most difficult conditions."

Montreal Gazette: "No obligation for the Royal tour must allow a conflict with the deeper, more solemn desire to be near the King and Queen at this time of undoubted crisis . . ."

Montreal Star: "In this country there is no thought but the warm and human feeling that a tour postponed or cancelled would be a tiny price to pay if the continued presence of the daughter would help the father back to health and strength."

Toronto Globe and Mail: "The gesture (Mr. St. Laurent's telegram) we are use, will be appreciated in London. But the way in which it is worded still leaves the onus of making the decision with the Princess and the Royal family. This is not right. Under the circumstances, she should be relieved of the necessity of making that decision by a postponement of the tour."

Halifax Chronicle-Herald: "No member of the Royal Family coud be expected to enjoy such a tour while His Majesty lies ill and with no assurance that his life is not in the balance. To expect Princess Elizabeth and her consort to come to this country at this time . . . would be thoughtless and heartless."

Vancouver Daily Province: "It would be a fine and thoughtful gesture on the part of Canadians if our government were to suggest to London immediately that the Royal tour be postponed so that the Princess would remain in London to comfort her father during this worrisome time."

Winnipeg Free Press: "Such a visit, if it now proves possible, will unquestionably demonstrate the admiration and affection which Canadians generally feel for the Royal Family . . ."

Victoria Colonist: "It can be taken for granted that only the gravest developments will be allowed to deter Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip from making the trip. Members of the British Royal Family are meticulous in observance of their public duties . . . Some thought might well be given, however, to reducing the engagements facing the Princess and her husband on this side . . . It would be a considerate gesture to show the nation's sympathy by easing the strain as much as possible."

New Cancer Machine

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) —A new weapon designed to fight cancer with atomic energy material equivalent in power to the world's entire supply of radiu was unveiled Monday by the General Electric Company. Its developers said the apparatus is designed to utilize radioactive cobalt against deep-seated cancers in the same way that extremely powerful X-ray machines are now employed in a limited number of hospitals.

Not Fields' Widow

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25 (AP) A woman of 71 who contended she once was married to W. C. Fields yesterday lost her claim for a wife's share of the comedian's $771,000 estate. Mrs. Edith Williams, who is blind, is not Fields' widow and is not entitled to a "family allowance," a superior court ruled.

Blind Inspectors

TORONTO, Sept. 25 (CP) — Braille precision instruments for use by the blind were displayed yesterday at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. They enable a sightless person to become an inspector on a parts production line.

Voluble Cooper Tells All In Word "Yep"

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25 (AP).—An afternoon in the life of a Hollywood reporter, or, why columnists get grey:

The press agent on the Gary Cooper picture calls up and says he's got a hot story of Coop. "Hot story on Coop?" I reply, sticking the tongue almost through the cheek.

"Yeah, sure," said this zippy character. "Coop thinks the cowboy hero is being outmoded by the hero of science fiction. How can a guy on a pinto compete with a space-ship jockey?"

"You're sure he'll talk about this?" I inquire, recalling previous encounters with the laconic Coop.

"Absolutely," answers the flack. "Coop's a changed man. He talks!"

Yup

Ridden with doubts, I agree to risk the venture and trek to the San Fernando Valley.

"How about it Coop?" begins the press agent. "Don't you think the guy with the six-shooter is being run out of business by men with ray guns?"

"Yep, I guess you're right," comments Coop.

"Because the kids won't go for heroes who can only plug three or four villains at a time; they want whole armies struck down by rockets," prods the agent.

"Yep, I wouldn't be surprised," the actor agrees.

"And it looks as though the cowboy hero will become something of a historical figure, like Robin Hood or something," the press agent continues, reminding me of a salmon struggling upstream against all odds.

"Yep," is the reply.

As I am leaving, the legman for a female columnist is introduced to Coop. "Well," says he jauntily, "have you got any scoops that you didn't give to Thomas?"

"Nope," says Coop, with a grin, "I just spilled everything to Thomas."

New Postage Stamps Mark 100th Birthday

TORONTO, Sept. 25 (CP). — Canada's four new postage stamps go on sale here today at the Canadian International Stamp Exhibition, postal officials said today.

The stamps, which commemorate the 100th anniversary of postal administration in Canada, are of four, five, seven and 15 cents denomination. The four, five and seven-cent stamps will display contrasts in the means of transportation used to carry the mails in 1851 and those used today.

The new 15-cent stamps will bear a miniature reproduction of the original "three penny beaver," Canada's first postage stamp.

Highway Section Done

TORONTO, Sept. 25 (CP)—The Toronto-Maple section of the new Barrie highway now is complete, Highways Minister Doucett announced yesterday. It is fully open to vehicle traffic.

Army Doctors Believe New Drug May Provide Cure For Malaria

By FRANK CASSEY

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States army doctors believe that at last they may have an effective weapon against the relapsing form of malaria.

Relapsing malaria, while rarely fatal, is most prevalent throughout the world. It can occur in temperate as well as tropical zones. It is highly frequent in Korea. The army says "numerous cases" may be expected among returning troops.

For years it has been possible to control periodic bouts of relapsing malaria, but doctors couldn't cure it. They could only let it burn itself out—usually in about three years—although they could do a lot to cut down the number and severity of relapses.

The reason they could not cure it is this:

Parasites transmitted to man by the bite of the Anopheles mosquito, live in both the blood stream, where they cause active trouble, and in the liver (and perhaps other organs of the body) where they do not cause any evident symptoms. However, periodically they get into the blood stream from the liver and cause relapses.

Use Number of Drugs

Doctors have a number of drugs which can eliminate parasites from the blood stream and thus overcome an actual attack. Such chemicals include the war-developed atabrine and the more recent and more satisfactory Chloroquine.

But they have had no drug which could attack the parasites harbored in the liver.

Now, the army thinks it may have one. Still under test, it is called primaquine.

It's a man-made drug distantly related to atabrine and is an outgrowth of research during the war by army, navy and civilian scientists.

Penitentiary Tests

In co-operation with the University of Chicago, the army tested it on prisoner volunteers at the Statesville Penitentiary, Joliet, Ill. A report on the experiment says there was "a high percentage of cures among malaria cases with no subsequent relapses." The prisoners were inoculated with experimental strains of malaria.

Even if present high hopes for primaquine hold out, it will not replace chloroquine. Instead, service doctors envision a double-barreled attack with Chloroquine to suppresss actual attacks and primaquine to prevent relapses.

"It may be possible," the army says, "to cure malaria which has been suppressed by chloroquine without the individual concerned being aware that he had contracted the disease."

There is still no drug that can prevent the disease once an individual has been infected by anophele — nicknamed "bloody" Anne" by soldiers of the Second World War.

Can Fight It

But war-developed insecticides, like DDT, can fight it, and improved mosquito repellents have been developed in recent years.

The most malignant form of malaria is called Falciparum. It is restricted to tropic and sub-tropic zones. While it is frequently fatal, it can actually be cured by a number of drugs and is seldom relapsing.

There is a third type, less common than the others, called malariae. Both it and vivax can be suppressed by drugs but not cured.

The new drug, Primaquine, has not yet been tried against malariae.

F. Pearson Buried In Waite Cemetery

WARKWORTH, Sept. 25 (ENS). —Frederick William Pearson, 73, was buried Saturday in the Waite cemetery, Warkworth. A onetime caretaker of Sharon church and school, he had died Wednesday in Kingston hospital.

Born in London, England, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pearson, and in England married the former Una Cooper, who survives him. He was a veteran of World War One, having served in the 139th Battalion. Forty-five years ago, he and his wife came to Canada and settled in the Warkworth district. Two years ago he moved to Norham from Edville, north of Colborne. He was a cheesemaker for a number of years.

Surviving are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. William Doreen (Una), of Smithfield; Mrs. Gordon Peters (Edyth) of Salem; and seven sons, William of Oshawa, Charles and Walter of Warkworth, Edward of Norham, Stanley of Dundonald, Ernest and Sidney of Sharon. There is one brother, Ernest of London, England, and one sister, Mrs. Bert Daniels, also of London.

The Rev. H. G. Lester of Warkworth United Church conducted the funeral service at Mr. Pearson's home. Pallbearers were Roland Edwards, Eric Peterson, Archie and Frank Chapman, George Gummer and John Cochrane.

POLIO SUFFERER

Roy West, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer West of Plainville, was taken to Toronto Isolation hospital Sunday with poliomyelitis. Doctors report there is no paralysis.

Allied Troops Hold War Games In W. Germany

HANOVER, Germany, Sept. 24 — (AP). — Allied troops have wound up operation "Counterthrust" and began preparations today for operations "Cirrus" and "Jupiter" in the continuing drive to be ready for any Russian attack.

About 150,00 troops of seven Atlantic Pact countries took part.

Air Vice-Marshal Sir Harry Broadhurst praised the Air Forces of six countries which supported "Counterthrust" for functioning together without any difficulties. English was used as the operating language.

The jubilant mood of commanding officers over the success of "Counterthrust" was in striking contrast to the pessimism of a year ago.

In that time the North Atlantic Pact has really begun to function and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has begun creation of the united army.

Commanders at all levels commented on the larger number of units available, improved technical efficiency, and the cocky morale of the troops.

Operation "Cirrus," which starts September 28, will be the largest air manoeuvre ever staged in Western Europe and will merge with "Jupiter," in which American and French troops will engage in mock battle along the Rhine.

Must Repay $620,577

OTTAWA, Sept. 25 (CP) — Three Toronto men have been ordered by the exchequer court to repay to the federal government $620,577 of the $912,963 they received under supply contracts during the Second World War. The men are F. H. Mulholland, J. L. Spratt and S. L. Holland. They sold tools on a commission basis for the Union Twist Drill Company, Butterfield Division, Rock Island, Que.

Lone Yachtsman Sails Pacific In Forty-Three Ft. Schooner

VICTORIA, BC. (CP)—Jacques Markwalder sailed his slim schooner Te Hongi into the inner harbor here recently after a lone voyage from New Zealand—and he doesn't know if Canada will let him stay.

The Swiss yachtman, brown from the tropic sun, moored the 43-foot Te Hongi at the government street seawall after 29 days at sea on the latest tack of his trip. His last port of call was San Diego.

Told by a British consular official in Honolulu that he would not need a visa to enter Canada, he did not pick up any papers on leaving the United States, other than his port clearance. Immigration officials here appeared doubtful that the genial sailor would be allowed to remain, although he would like to winter here.

Jacques does not know where he will point Te Hongi's bow if he must leave. He has visited almost every country in the world, speaks many languages and feels that a real wanderer never knows for sure where he will sail next.

Leaves It To Chance

"I sail where my heart leads me," he said. "There is always another place, another port.

Reaching Victoria was not easy, the veteran yatchsman asserted. He visited Tahiti first and headed north to Honolulu where he spent five months repairing the schooner.

Headwinds made sailing difficult all the way and a heavy gale outside the Strait of Juan De Fuca kept him awake for more than two days and a night.

Sleeping at sea, alone on a small schobner, calls for a special peace of mind, Jacques said. He lashes the tiller, sets his sails for the kind of weather that is brewing and goes below to sleep the night through serenely.

"Storms at sea?" asks the soft-spoken Swiss sailor. "There is nothing to them, really. You just keep the water outside the boat and you have no worries."

UK Warns Ousting 300 Technicians Have 'Grave Effect'

LONDON, Sept. 26. (CP)—Britain today warned Iran that expulsion from Iran of 300 British oil technicians would have a "grave effect" on Anglo-Iranian relations. A foreign office statement on representations made to Iran by Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd in Tehran said: "His Majesty's government expressed astonishment that the Persian (Iranian) government should have decided to take these drastic measures against British nationals residing in Persia (Iran) without any communications whatever to His Majesty's government."

The statement said Shepherd left Baqir Kazemi, Iranian foreign minister, with full awareness that Iran will be responsible for "consequences of this decision which must have a grave effect on Anglo-Iranian relations."

Shepherd was told last night to convey the British protest after a cabinet meeting here.

Asking Help

Informed sources said Prime Minister Attlee is asking President Truman personally for help. The sources said Attlee, in a personal message to Truman, will make it clear that Britain is determined to stay on in Abadan.

British government leaders have hinted they might order the use of force to keep technicians at Abadan.

The foreign office spokesman declined to amplify on what Shepherd meant about, possible "consequences" of the expulsion order.

If Britain takes a most forceful line toward Iran it would pose grave international problems for all the North Atlantic Pact allies.

Mutual Treaty

Iran has a mutual defence treaty with Russia, signed in 1921, that entitles Russia to send troops into Iran if Iran is invaded. This must be taken into account in the reckoning on whether force should be used at Abadan.

Britain contends Iran's oil nationalization amounts to expropriation of British property and that the expulsion of personnel would violate a recent ruling by the International Court of Justice at The Hague.

Britain hoped to have some sort of reaction from the White House in Washington in time for discussion at a full cabinet meeting in London tomorrow.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh has ordered about 300 British officials and technicians remaining in the oil areas of southern Iran to leave the country by Oct. 4.

The Iranian move was the latest in the bitter conflict over Iran's nationalization of the rich oil concessions held by the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The British protest followed reports here that Britain is determined to keep its oil men at the world's biggest refinery on Abadan Island in the Shatt-El-Arab river.

Hold Conference

Prime Minister Attlee met with his top advisers last night at an emergency session attended by the service chiefs, including Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the Imperial general staff.

Greatest Duel Fought By 200 Jets

By JOHN RANDOLPH

UN COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 26 (AP)—Nearly 200 planes fought a swirling, 30-minute battle over North Korea today in history's greatest all-jet duel.

The United States Fifth Air Force reported one Russian-type MIG-15 probably destroyed and four damaged.

It said no Allied planes were lost in the furious encounter that roared from 30,000 to 15,000 feet over Northwest Korea's MIG Alley.

Seventy-seven American and Australian jets tangled with 120 MIGs which roared out of their Manchurian sanctuary in a bold try to block an Allied smash at Communist rail lines.

Allied fighter-bombers swept in on the rail complex near Sinanju, 40 miles north of Pyongyang, the Red Korean capital.

Twenty-eight F-84 Thunderjets were making the sweep.

Flying Cover

Flying cover were 37 F-86 Sabre jets, swifter than the Thunderjet, and 12 Australian Meteors, a somewhat slower British twin-engined jet.

As the jet armada neared its target, a horde of MIGs flashed out of the north.

The Sabres tangled first with 60 MIGs.

At almost the same time, the Aussies chewed into a group of 40 MIGs.

That left only 20 of the Russian-type jets for the 23 Thunderjets. The Fifth Air Force gave this box score:

Sabres—One MIG probably destroyed.

Meteors—One MIG damaged.

Thunderjets—Three MIGs damaged.

19 People Killed In Train Crash

VIENNA, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Austrian Press Agency said today 19 persons were killed and at least 40 injured shortly before midnight when the Vienna-to-Rome express crashed into a freight train near Graz.

Rescue workers feared the death toll would go higher. Most of those killed were in the first passenger car.

Reports from the scene said the crowded express was travelling at about 30 miles an hour in foggy weather through the yards at Langenwang when it hit the standing freight. The engine of the express was thrown 300 feet. The service car behind it was shoved backward onto the roof of the death car.

Langenwang is in the Austrian Alps, 10 miles beyond Semmering Pass.

Wreckage littered the track 11 hours after the wreck and mainline trains were being detoured.

The news agency reported that the Langenwang station master and the express train engineer were being held for questioning.

German Mayor Flees To West After Protest

BERLIN, Sept. 26—(AP)—The American-sponsored Neue Zeitung reported today that the Mayor of Weimar has fled to West Germany in fear of arrest because he protested against a wave of rape-killings said to have been committed by Russian occupation troops.

The Zeitung said Mayor Heinrich Niedergall got away with his family. His present residence was not disclosed.

The paper said Russian authorities became angry at Niedergall when he requested they replace their present garrison in Weimar, which is allaged to contain many undisciplined elements.

Purple Heart Thief

TORONTO, Sept. 26 —(CP)—Police arrested Lawrence Pilcer, 37, early today as he limped along with a radio under one arm and an electric record player under the other.

They said he slashed his leg while kicking out a window in the Heintzman building, had the wound treated in a hospital and returned to break into the building again.

He faces two shopbreaking charges.

May Start Tour In October

American Program May Be Cut, No New Date Set

LONDON, Sept. 26. (AP) — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh today postponed their Canadian visit for a week or two, because of the King's serious illness. Britain's heiress presumptive and her handsome husband originally had planned to go by ship. Then because of the King's lung operation last Sunday they decided to wait here to fly instead, to reach Quebec by next Tuesday.

Indicating that the postponement may cut down their American program, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said the Royal couple still hoped to go to Washington as guests of President Truman.

A statement on the postponement issued from Clarence House, residence of the couple, and made public at Buckingham Palace said:

"Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have accepted with deep gratitude the suggestion made to them by the Prime Minister of Canada that the start of their tour be postponed one or two weeks.

"The new date of arrival and other details will be announced as soon as they are known.

"Their Royal Highnesses hope very much that arrangements will be able to be made for a visit to Washington."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister St. Laurent confirmed news of the tour's postponement and said a joint statement will be issued both in London and in Ottawa at 3:45 p.m. EDT today.

MOON WOOTTON INJURED—Assistant Manager Red Creighton (at left) is shown aiding Goalie Moon Wootton off late in the second quarter of the opening Mann Cup game Monday in Vancouver, after Wootton suffered an eye injury. However, he returned later to star. Harry Wipper is also helping his teammate; Emmett Creighton may be partly seen. In the background is Manager Bob Curtin. The Petes took the game 16-9.

Czechs Discourage Learning English

LONDON, Sept. 26 (Reuters)—Czech Communist authorities are trying to discourage citizens from learning English. A Vienna dispatch quotes the Czech government weekly Hospodar as saying that in the future only "politically mature" citizens will be allowed to learn the lanugages of "capitalist" countries.

In discouraging the learning of English, the Czech Communists are a little off the Moscow line.

In Russia English is the first language taught in most of the schools, with French second.

Reduce Consumption

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP). — Hydro chairman Robert Saunders said yesterday Ontario home owners may be asked to reduce their consumption of electricity next week.

Anticipating increased use of power after the ending of daylight time next weekend, Mr. Saunders said that "to meet the needs of essential industries" householders may be called upon to use less electricity.

Last year Toronto, Hamilton and Oshawa remained on daylight saving time for two months longer than the remainder of the province but this year they will not be required to do so.

Not A Cent

POTTSTOWN, PA., Sept. 26. (AP) — Lester L. Zern, who said he hadn't spent a cent since he left high school 15 years ago, came to town today. He had heard the banks were running short of pennies. Filling 48 quart jars with the copper coins he had saved, Zern drove to the Security Bank. More than an hour was needed to count the 52,682 pennies.

Avoid Help To Enemy

Truman Puts Curbs On News From Government Bureaux

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Disclaiming any intent to keep legitimate news from the public, President Truman has extended a system of government curbs designed to deny information of military value to potential enemies.

Some newspaper executives protested that the effect will be some suppression of 'news. But Truman said the sole intent of his executive order is to guard against disclosure "harmful to the security of the United States."

Extend Security

The president's order, issued last night, extended to all agencies of the government which handle military information the same tight security already in effect in the defence and state departments.

The order makes no attempt to restrict what may be published or broadcast by newspapers and radio. It applies only to officials and employees of the government and carries no penalties if they violate its terms.

Civilian agencies which handle matters affecting the defence program must classify certain materials as "security information" and give it one of four addition labels: top secret, secret, confidential, or restricted.

Newsmen Protest

Alexander F. Jones, executive editor of the Syracuse (NY) Herald-Journal and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, commented:

"Any time you give a government department head authority to classify material as top secret on a security basis you are placing a potent weapon in his hands. The results, inevitably, is further supression of the news."

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, called the order "ill advised and poorly executed."

All Parties Support Bill To Give Pensions To Needy

TORONTO, Sept. 26. (CP)—Premier Frost can fear no defeat of his government's new pension bill when it comes to a final vote in the legislature this week. Speakers of all three opposition groups yesterday said their parties will support the bill, but took the opportunity to call for pensions higher than the $40 a month which the government will pay to needy persons aged 65 to 69. All speakers agreed that $50 would be more in line with the needs of pensioners faced with rising living costs.

Agnes Macphail (CCF, York East) sounded the official opposition's platform with a demand for a $10 monthly cost-of-living bonus to pensioners, relaxation of the means test provision to allow pensioners to receive a total of $1,000 a year in pensions and outside income instead of $720, and improved medical services for them.

Urge $50

She also called on the government to seek federal agreement to $50 pensions in place of the $40 which Ottawa plans to give next year to all persons above 70, regardless of their means.

Farquhar Oliver, floor leader of the Liberals who reprsents Grey South, agreed that Ontario should pay $50 pensions although he felt the agreement reached with the federal government was the "greatest single move forward in old-age pension legislature" since the first Federal Pension Bill was passed in 1927.

Mr. Oliver credited the federal government for removing the means test from pensions to those over 70.

He was happy, however, that the Ontario government was adopting pensions for needy persons from 65 to 69, and his party would vote for it.

"There isn't any greater thing that a government can do than move along the path of improved social legislation," he said.

Mr. Oliver joined the CCF party in urging that a supplementary payment be given above the $40 monthly.

Britain, US To Help Italy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) —Britain, the United States and France today declared their readiness to lift the "permanent restrictions and discriminations" imposed on Italy by its Second World War peace treaty.

One big result would be to remove treaty limitations on Italian rearming.

The three governments also jointly confirmed their determination "to make every effort to secure Italy's membership in the United Nations," something which has been blocked in the past by Russia's veto.

Today's declaration followed talks among the Three Big powers and conferences here with Italian Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi.

The Allied powers called on other nations which signed the Italian peace treaty five years ago to act in concert with the Big Three.

Today's declaration said Italy had "loyally co-operated with the Allies during the latter part of the war as a co-belligerent."

Heat Wave Kills 700

CAIRO, Sept. 26 (AP) — An Arab news agency dispatch says temperatures reaching 129 degrees in the shade have caused the deaths of 700 Moslem pilgrims at Mecca. The heat wave comes at the peak of the yearly pilgrimage season.

Sweeping Taxes To Buy Defence Hit Australia

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 26 (Reuters) — Sweeping new taxes to meet Australia's expanding defence program and arrest inflation were announced today in a "more-sacrifice" budget.

The budget, which plans to raise a record £1,041,500,000 ($2,332,960,000) including £957,300,000 in taxation, provides for total defence expediture of £181,700,000 —an increase of £33,600,000 over last year.

Expenditure on the army, navy and air force is raised by £52,000,000, and £32,500,000 is going on the stockpiling of strategic raw materials.

New taxes include a special levy on private incomes equal to 10 per cent of assessed tax, higher sales taxes and fresh taxes on primary producers and public and private companies.

Treasurer Sir Arthur Fadden, introducing the budget, said: "We make no apology for giving you a budget that will entail sacrifice."

Australia, he said, must master the problem of inflation if its defence effort and development plans are to be carried through and standards of living preserved.

He said the national income in the last financial year had increased by 35 per cent.

"This deluge of additional spending power threatens to overwhelm us," he said. "What the government proposes to do is to draw at least a part of it off and put it for the time being where it can do the least harm."

Pope Prays For King

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 26 — (AP)—The Pope sent a telegram today to Queen Elizabeth, assuring her of his prayers for the complete recovery of the King.

General Condition Good Doctors Report, Danger For Week Yet

Infection Or Secondary Haemorrhage May Still Complicate Recovery
Two Doctors Beside King At All Times

LONDON, Sept. 26. (Reuters)—A medical bulletin said today there would "inevitably be a period of anxiety for the next week or 10 days" about the health of the King. The bulletin however said the King's progress has been uninterrupted and no complications have arisen. This formal statement was issued after doctors reported the moharch spent a less restful night, although he continued gaining strength after his dangerous lung operation Sunday. The doctors said his general condition was good.

The condition of the King, however, caused postponement of the plans of Princess Elizabeth to visit Canada. She originally had been scheduled to arrive in Canada next Tuesday, but now apparently will not leave for at least two weeks after that.

The Buckingham Palace statement said:

"In connection with medical bulletins issued periodically from Buckingham Palace it should be remembered that while the King's gradual progress toward recovery has been uninterrupted and although no complications have arisen so far, there will inevitably be a period of some anxiety for the next week or 10 days."

The phrasing of the medical bulletin caused some confusion. Some people in the crowd in front of the Palace asked whether it was a good report or a bad one.

Tonight the Palace issued a statement apparently intended both to clear up the confusion and explain why Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh had postponed their North American tour.

Dr. Clement Price-Thomas, the man who operated on the King, says the important thing after such operations "is the presence or absence of infection."

His opinion was scheduled for reading today at the 14th Congress of the International Society of Surgeons, meeting at the Sorbonne in Paris. Price-Thomas wrote the paper before he was called to operate on the King.

Meanwhile, a Buckingham Palace spokesman disclosed the four doctors who have attended the King 24 hours a day now are able "to come and go."

But at least two have stayed at the palace all the time along with eight nurses.

Thousands Call Bet Of UK Conservative

LONDON, Sept. 26 (Reuters)—When Conservative Col. Alan Gomme-Duncan told voters Saturday he would bet £1 to a trouser button his party will win the election Oct. 25, he never thought anybody would take him up on it.

Today the member for East Perth has more buttons, from people all over Britain, than he knows what to do with.

But the game politician said he will pay up if the Labor government gets a majority of one or more. If both major parties finish even he's going to return the buttons.

Board Refuses Bell Request For Higher Rates

OTAWA, Sept. 26 — (CP) — The Board of Transport commissioners today turned down an application from Bell Telephone Company for an immediate temporary increase in Ontario-Quebec phone rates but set down Oct. 24 for a quick hearing on the application.

The Oct. 24 hearing—expected to last only a day—will be followed by a decision on the board on the question of a temporary increase. Later—perhaps in November—there will be a fuller inquiry into a more permanent boost.

The increases sought by the company were applied for Aug. 31, and at that time the company asked they be made effective Oct. 1. The company renewed its request today at a hearing at which a group of municipalities sought an extension of the time for filing their formal objections to the higher rates.

The proposed new rates would affect local service on about 1,700,000 phones in the two central provinces, sending up residential charges between 35 and 75 cents a month and business-phone charges between $1 and $3 a month. The five-cent-pay-phone call would go to 10 cents.

The new schedule is aimed at giving the company an over-all increase of 10 per cent in its revenues to meet higher wages, new taxation and additional charges for pensions, materials, purchases and services.

Cities seeking the postponement in time for filing their formal answers today were Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton, and St. Thomas, Ont.

Bridge Collapse Inquiry Ends

THREE RIVERS, Que., Sept. 26 (CP).—Judge Rene Lippe declared the inquiry into the collapse of the Duplessis Bridge closed at noon today. The inquiry opened Aug. 28.

Shortly before the inquiry was ended by the two-man commission chairman, counsel for the Quebec government opposition asked that a "more thorough investigation be made into the cause of the bridge collapse."

L. P. Pigeon representing George C. Marler, Liberal Opposition leader told the two-man commission investigating the fail of the $3,500,000 structure that more extensive tests on the steel used in the span should be made. The collapse last Jan. 31 took four lives and a fifth man was drowned when the tractor he was using to salvage a submerged automobile plunged through ice on the St. Maurice River.

Air Time To Europe Cut In Half By 1956

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26 — (AP)—The halving of today's 12-hour flying time between the United States and Europe—by use of jet or prop-jet aircraft—is seen in five years time by Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan American World Airways.

Trippe told delegates at the 20th annual meeting of the Foreign Traders Association of Philadelphia yesterday that design and manufacturing progress will soon put the jet into a competitive position with conventional aircraft.

US Atomic Weapons Ready Soon Won't Replace Foot Soldiers, Bullets

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) —Americans had the word of top congressional and military authorities today that atomic wonder-weapons are nearer the hands of United States fighting men, but that foot soldiers and bullets won't fade away.

There were expressions from chairman Brien McMahon (Dem. Con.) of the Senate-House of Representatives atomic energy committee, Defence Secretary Robert Lovett and Army Secretary Frank Pace.

They all agreed swift progress has been made. But there was a polite differing of emphasis.

Will Want Quantity

Pace cautiously let it be known that when the stuff is ready, the army will want it in quantity.

McMahon, who in a Senate speech last week urged that the U.S. get started on all-out atomic weapons production to reduce the cost of conventional armament, renewed his plea last night in an address to the Federal Bar Association.

Among other things, McMahon said the atomic energy commission has in being or in development "literally dozens" of different types and kinds of special-purpose atomic weapons.

He said "the so-called wonder weapons" he was talking about weren't just a gleam in the eye of scientists but "down-to-earth" hardware, proven, demonstrated and confirmed," or proof-tested or about to be.

McMahon had prepared his speech before Lovett issued, at a Pentagon press conference, a statement which the secretary explained was to answer misinterpretations of what McMahon had meant in his Senate speech last week.

Exaggerated Reports

"Recent publicity about new weapons, new developments in warfare, and optimistic statements on the military application of atomic energy have given the exaggerated impression that a quick, easy and inexpensive security might now be at hand," Lovett said.

Over a seven-year period, he added, considerable progress has been made toward a "variety of new weapons, "airborne and otherwise," to these developments.

"Many future weapons may be dramatically different from our present armaments," Lovett stated. "Meanwhile, however, we must rely on the proved, tested, and available models to win today's battles with men presently trained to use them...

"Even in view of these new developments, there is no new, inexpensive, or magic way to win wars in the near future."

$500,000 Fire Destroys Sawmill

CACHE BAY, Ont., Sept. 26,—(CP)—Fire early today destroyed the International Nickel Company's huge George Gordon sawmill here, robbing this lumbering community about 50 miles east of Sudbury of its only large industry. Loss was estimated at almost $500,000.

At the height of the blaze, a crowd of nearly 2,000, including hundreds who flocked here from nearby Sturgeon Falls, watched as flames leaped more than 200 feet into the air.

A night watchman spotted the fire shortly after midnight near the mill boiler room, but by the time Cache Bay's volunteer fire brigade and mill firemen arrived, the mill was a mass of flames.

The fire burned out of control for nearly five hours and would have threatened the whole town had not a north wind blown the flames toward bordering Lake Nipissing.

Proposal Rejected For Resumption Of Full-Dress Talks

By DON HUTH

TOKYO, Sept. 26. (AP)—The United Nations' command today rejected another Communist suggestion that full-dress Korean truce talks be resumed immediately. The Allies insisted that arrangements first be made to prevent further interruptions when meetings are resumed. The Reds made their repeat proposal at a meeting of Allied and Communist liaison officers in Kaesong, site of the stalled cease-fire talks. It was the third and longest session held by the liaison teams in an effort to get the talks rolling again.

The Wednesday meeting lasted one hour and 20 minutes. The first liaison session, on Monday, lasted an hour. The second, held Tuesday, ran only 50 minutes.

Communist officers stalked out angrily at the climax of an argument over just what ground the liaison talks should cover, the allied command said.

Communique

An allied release Wednesday night said:

"The UN command liaison officers met with the Communist officers at Kaesong at 10 a.m. today, Sept. 26, (9 p.m. EDT, Tuesday).

"The Communist liaison officers proposed a meeting of the delegates at 10 a.m., Sept. 27, which proposal was answered by the UN command liaison officers that their instructions were to meet with the Communist liaison officers to discuss conditions mutually satisfactory prior to the resumption of conference discussion by the delegations.

"The meeting of the liaison officers was recessed by mutual agreement at 11:20 a.m."

Thus the Communist and allies were right back where they started when the liaison talks began.

The Reds still were demanding immediate resumption of the truce talks by the full delegations. The UN command was insisting that the liaison officers agree on conditions which will prevent further interruptions of main armistice talks.

The Reds broke off the Kaesong talks Aug. 23 after charging that an allied plane bombed the conference site in an attempt to murder the Red delegation. The UN command denied the charge.

When the Reds stalked out of the liaison meeting Tuesday they left no indication that they would come back.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, asked them Tuesday night to continue the liaison meetings. A Red note delivered Wednesday said they would, and UN command liaison officers immediately flew from their advance camp at Munsan to Kaesong for the third meeting.

Red Claim

Peiping radio said the Communist officers had not walked out of Tuesday's meeting. The Chinese Red radio said the meeting ended by mutual agreement.

The difficulty at that meeting developed over the scope of the liaison talks.

The Reds said they came prepared to discuss only the date for resumption of full-dress armistice talks. The allied officers said they wanted to discuss also "conditions mutually satisfactory for resumption of the armistice talks."

The Communists want the first order of business to be a review of their charges that the allies violated Kaesong's neutrality zone.

The allies want the talks removed from Kaesong. They say it is too close to the main Red supply line which is under allied air attack, that ground troops of both sides are manoeuvering in the area, and that partisan groups opposed to a Korean armistice are operating nearby.

Prices Irregular In Stock Market

TORONTO, Sept. 26 — (CP) — Mixed support continued to hold stock market prices irregular and trendless today in early afternoon dealings.

Activity picked up slightly as base metals and western oils met selective buying and profit-taking. Volume for the first three hours was 1,822,000 shares.

Refining oils took the lead as industrials' strongest section. Papers held firm while utilities, agricultures, liquors, banks, textiles, retail stores and miscellaneous industrials turned mixed.

Base metals held about even on slight morning gains. Most key issues and leading penny stocks edged upward while the greater part of the list dipped slightly. Trading was heavy in Head of Lake, Sherritt-Gordon, United Asbestos and Yukeno.

Western oils weakened. Anglo-Canadian, Central-Leduc, Okalta, Scurry and Vulcan eased. Devon-Leduc, National Petroleum, Pacific Petroleum, Redwater-Piccadilly and Selburn posted gains up to 30 cents.

Senior golds were firm. Dome, Giant Yellowknife, Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves edged upward while Kerr Addison and Lake Shore declined. Secondary issues showed little trend.

Canadian Warships First Italian Visit

NAPLES, Italy, Sept. 26 (Reuters).—The first Canadian warships to visit Italy in peacetime, the light aircraft carrier Magnificent and the destroyer Micmac, arrived today for a one-week stay.

Italian shore batteries and the guns of the "Adirondack," United States flagship here, saluted them as they steamed into port.

About 300 officers and men from the ships will go to Rome on a pilgrimage to St. Peter's Basilica and will be received by the Pope at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo.

The two ships will leave Naples Oct. 2 to take part in exercises in the Mediterranean with units of the Atlantic Pact navies.

Bombay Faces Famine

BOMBAY, Sept. 26 (Reuters)—The State of Bombay, plagued by drought, faces one of the worst famines in history, a government spokesman said last night. Thousands of square miles of the State were affected and several areas reported a scarcity of drinking water. In 15 or 30 districts crops were withering.

Oldest Building Presented To History Group

OTTAWA, Sept. 26 — (CP) — The lease for what is said to be the oldest building in Canada's Capital was turned over today by Transport Minister Chevrier to the City of Ottawa for the Women's Canadian Historical Society.

Built in the 1820s, the stone building is at the foot of the Ottawa Locks of the Rideau Canal. It consists of a main floor, a basement and a loft.

Inside the old building is an old stone vault wherein Colonel By—the canal-building pioneer, who gave the city its earlier name of Bytown—is said to have stored the silver coins he paid workers who built the Rideau Canal.

In presenting the lease to Acting Mayor Charlotte Whitton, Mr. Chevrier said "any community, any city, any country that is dead to the greatness of its past is ill-equipped to enhance that greatness in the future."

The building is to become a museum of the society, to contain relics of Ottawa's past.

Committee Fails To Secure Quorum

The vocational committee of the board of education failed to get a quorum for its scheduled meeting on Tuesday night. Composed of six members of the board and six appointed members a quorum requires seven and only six members could be secured, three from the board, chairman of the committee Stanley Adamson and Mrs. Ann Rowell and W. B. Gordon while the appointed members who attended were N. R. Hamilton, Paul Irwin and C. Porter. Several important matters prior to the opening of night school were scheduled but could not be dealt with

Industrial Exhibition Opens In Kitchener

KITCHENER, Sept. 26. (CP)—The fifth annual Industrial Exhibition opened last night, signalled by thunder-flash bambs bursting on the twin cities of Kitchener and Waterloo.

Finlay Sim, Ottawa, secretary comptroller of the Department of Trade and Commerce, and a former Kitchener man, declared the big show officially open.

Over 100 booths, a cooking school and fashion show, and displays by the army and the Waterloo-Wellington Flying Club highlight the five-day exhibition.

"Behind all these interesting booths," Mr. Sim said, "stand the great factories of our city—producing goods which will carry the name of this city to the ends of the earth."

Also speaking were the mayors of the twin cities, S. F. Leavine and Vernon Bauman, and L. O. Breithaupt, Liberal MP for Waterloo North.

The show is sponsored by the Kitchener-Waterloo junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mutual Pact Meets Possible Militarism

WELLINGTON, NZ, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Opening the new session of the New Zealand parliament, the speech from the throne said today that fears over a resurgence of Japanese militarism have been met to a great extent by the Mutual Security Pact concluded by Australia and New Zealand with the United States.

The speech, read by the Governor General, Lord Freyberg, said there would be a more immediate danger to peace in the Pacific if Japan were left entirely defenceless. It added:

"It is the earnest hope of my government that the generosity of the terms and the absence of the spirit of vengeance in the Japanese peace settlement will convince the Japanese people their true interest lies in matching friendship with friendship and in meeting co-operation with a like spirit."

Hospital Releases Recovered Actor

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26—(AP)—Franchot Tone, who did the catching when actor Tom Neal was pitching punches in Barbara Payton's back yard Sept. 14, left California hospital today and saw Miss Payton off for Duluth, Minn.

Apparently recovered from the beating Neal gave him over the affections of Miss Payton, Tone, accompanied her to Los Angeles international airport.

Tone and Miss Payton declined to discuss their plans but there was speculation that Tone may follow her for a wedding soon.

Michael Lucano

Requiem mass for Michael Lucano, 66, of 616 Aylmer St., was celebrated Tuesday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral by the Rev. G. Weiss. Mr. Lucano died Saturday in hospital, and the body has been resting in the Anglesey funeral home.

Pallbearers were Frank Thompson, John Sabatino, Patrick White, Lewis Thompson, Frank Asta and Albert Marangoni. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery, where graveside prayers were said by the Rt. Rev. P. P. Butler. In the sanctuary at the cathedral was the Rev. F. Mihelic.

NORWOOD SCHOOL

The Norwood Home and School Association met in the public school Monday evening, with a large attendance.

The president, Mrs. Gerald LaBrash was in the chair and welcomed the new members. Mrs. John Cronin was elected to fill the vacancy on the executive committee. The treasurer reported a balance of $20.03 from last term.

The Norwood association will attend the Home and School conference to be held on Oct. 27 in Peterborough.

The association is sponsoring a field day to be held Oct. 12 if the weather permits, if not on Oct. 15.

The program convener, Mrs. Gordon Stackhouse, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Quirt McKinney, music instructor of Peterborough Normal School, who talked on the present trend in recreational facilities.

He declared there must be a definite aim rather than just providing entertainment, something to help young people help themselves in a rereational ways they grow older. While formerly recreation was regarded chiefly as a sports program, now its meaning has broadened includes, art, music handcrafts, reading, debating etc.

Mr. Trumpour moved a vote of thanks to Mr. McKenney.

Escaped Czechs Release News Balloons

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 26—(AP)—The engineer and dispatcher of the "freedom train" that brought 31 Czech political refugees into West Germany released huge balloons today carrying messages to their Communist-controlled homeland.

The balloons were released by Jaroslav Konvalinka and Karl Truks carrying messages to tell the people of Czechoslovakia the true story of the dash across the border Sept. 11.

"Dear countrymen," say the messages, "don't believe that any American agents had anything to do with our escape."

The messages said that Czechoslovakia government charges US agents aided in the plot were "more in a series of lies spread by the Communist government."

Thirty-one Czechoslovaks on the train declared themselves political refugees and were permitted to remain. Seventy-seven unwitting participants were returned to Czechoslovakia.

The Czechoslovak government demanded US occupation authorities extradite the 31 refugees, charging them with kidnapping and threatening to kill the others.

The "Crusade for Freedom," an anti-communist organization in the US said it had found haven for the 31 in Canada.

Truck On Road Brings Charges

A Peterborough trucker, Ross Lennan, 18, was convicted in police court Tuesday afternoon of not having his vehicle properly lighted when it was left on the highway. He was fined a total of $13. He pleaded not guilty.

The truck was left sitting on the Warsaw road, two miles east of Peterborough, just before dark, on August 31. It had broken down about 7.30 p.m. and Lennan hitchhiked into the city to get a company truck that would tow him home.

In the meantime it became dark and rain fell, reducing visibility. A westbound car driven by Leo O'Brien, RR 10, Peterborough, nearly crashed into the truck. O'Brien applied his brakes just in time but a few seconds later his car was struck from behind by a second car, driven by Fergus O'Brien, 20, Douro (no relation).

A charge of careless driving was laid against Fergus O'Brien but it was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC.

O'Brien said he was driving along the Warsaw road and was temporarily blinded by the headlights of two oncoming cars. Just after the second one passed he crashed into the first car that had narrowly avoided striking the truck.

He said he saw no tail-light on the car of his namesake. At the last moment he cut his wheels sharp to try and go around the parked car but he was unsuccessful. In the subsequent collision he was thrown out of his car and injured and the first car was bunted further west up the road.

The rear end of Leo O'Brien's car was badly damaged but he and his three passengers were not hurt.

Defence Counsel J. C. N. Currelly argued that his client had even less chance than Leo O'Brien of avoiding a collision. Magistrate Philp agreed there were not sufficient grounds for a conviction and dismissed the charge.

On "Easy Job" Soldier Injured

CANADIAN 25TH BRIGADE, Korea, Sept. 26— (Reuters). — Lieut. John Philip MacLean, 24, former Toronto newspaper man, thought he had a soft touch when he transferred from a press relations job to take command of an infantry platoon.

"At least I've got an easy job," he told correspondents. "See you soon."

Today he passed through Seoul on his way to Japan. Embedded in his arm were 18 fragments from a Chinese hand grenade.

MacLean told this story:

He was leading a group of Canadians attacking a Chinese patrol base. They had crawled into enemy positions and occupied a trench within talking distance of the Chinese.

They spotted a Chinese soldier coming towards them and took him prisoner when he entered the trench. But a few seconds later he made a break for it and all hell broke loose.

The prisoner was cut down by Canadian Bren guns and the enemy troops, apparently bewildered by the sudden firing, walked directly towards the trench.

"Brilliant moonlight bathed everything," recalled MacLean, "and the Chinese were unlucky. We poured it into them."

During the fight he felt something hit his neck and arm, but he did not have time to think much about it.

"We took five prisoners before withdrawing, but three died before we reached our lines," he said.

British Envoy Sees Acheson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 — (Reuters)—The British Ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks, today asked for an immediate appointment with State Secretary Dean Acheson.

Sir Oliver was instructed by the foreign office to discuss the latest Anglo-Iranian oil crisis with the U.S. government.

Diplomatic authorities today forecast important new moves here in connection with Iran's order expelling 300 British oil technicians by Oct. 3.

It was believed that Sir Oliver at his meeting with Acheson would discuss at length the new situation, described here in both British and American circles as having entered a new and critical stage.

Meanwhile, the White House said it knew nothing at the moment to confirm a report from London which quoted "informed sources" as saying that Prime Minister Attlee was asking President Truman personally for help

400 BC Boilermakers Strike At Shipyards

VICTORIA, BC, Sept. 26 (CP) —Four hundred boilermakers employed in Victoria shipyards went on strike today.

Failure to settle a wages dispute brought a strike call last night with orders for a picket line around Yarrows Limited, Victoria Machinery Depot, and the Dominion Government Dry Dock.

The yards are working on naval defence contracts valued at around $10,000,000.

The union demands a 50-cent hourly pay boost. The management has offered 25 cents. The workers are members of the Victoria Shipyard Federal Union (TLC).

Weather Cancels Trip

STORNAWAY, Scotland, Sept. 26 (AP) — Twenty-four United States Air Force sabre-jet fighter planes, en route to duty in England, today struggled through bad flying weather from Iceland to Stornaway airport.

Another 26 which took off from Iceland at the same time were forced to turn back.

Backyard Geyser

ROTORUA, NZ —(CP)—Residents of this thermal region are used to unexpected phenomena, but were mildly surprised when a geyser appeared in the backyard of a suburban home. Grey mud was hurled into the air for 30 minutes and then the geyser subsided into a boiling pool four feet in dismeter.

US Completes Defence Strip Around Borders

By JACK ADAMS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) —The Civil Aeronautics Administration said yesterday it will complete the setting up of a strongly-policed air defence strip across the border between Canada and the United States this weekend.

As of Sunday, Sept. 30, four new "air defence identification zones" will be established in the area. Centred at Great Falls Mont. Minneapolis, Minn., Traverse City, Mich., and Bangor, Me., they will be linked up with similar previously-established zones on the east and west coasts.

The new zones will complete a broad belt of close air observation extending from southern California up the Pacific coast, across the US-Canadian border to the Atlantic coast and down that coast to South Carolina. The only gap in the US watch along that line is for a short distance along the eastern border of Michigan, and the northern borders of Ohio and New York State, where Canadian authorities have set up a similar protective area on Canadian soil.

The idea is to prevent the surprise approach of any unfriendly plane, either from the oceans or by way of the trans-polar route. Radar is being employed in the watch on air traffic.

Designation of the zones requires that all craft flying the area supply CAA with detailed flight plans. Exception will be made only for small craft flying lower than 4,000 feet when visibility is a mile or more.

Girl Pinned By Truck

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26 —(AP)—A runaway truck crashed into a parked bus and a gas station last night, pinning 20-year-old Lorraine Popies under a heavy load of metal for an agonizing hour and 12 minutes. Four other persons were injured. Two tow trucks and 25 men were needed to lift the tractor trailer and free the girl. She was reported in serious condition in hospital.

Baking And Farm Produce Judged Campbellford Fair

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 26—(ENS)—While there was little activity at the Campbellford Fair Grounds on Tuesday, the opening day, judging of many of the home baking, farm and school exhibits got under way and in most cases were completed.

Honors in most of the baking and farm exhibits went to a few exhibitors, with a handful of contestants carrying off most of the honors in all entries. Entries were not as heavy as in previous years, but the quality of the entries that were on hand were considered very good.

Judges of the various entries were as follows: fruit — Ralph Banbury; home baking—Mrs. J. W. Hulia, Madoc; preserves—Mrs. J. W. Hulia, and produce—W. P. Moore.

Fair officials hope to see a record attendance today.

STOPS NEURITIC-NEURALGIC PAIN! ASPIRIN

TOWERING TWENTY-FIVE STOREYS above Toronto's Bay and King streets intersection, this new Bank of Nova Scotia building is the third highest bank building in the British Empire and the most modern structure of its kind in Canada.

OLD TRACKS

The first railway tracks, wooden planks on the ground, were laid down at an English colliery early in the 17th century.

Apple Pickers Given Freedom

COBOURG, Sept. 26—(ENS)—Two Nova Scotian orchard workers were found not guilty of theft of a car when Magistrate R. B. Baxter accepted their story that Alan Bowen, Trenton apple picker had loaned them the car at the farm of Mr. Dobkins where all three had been picking apples.

The two Nova Scotia residents, Austin and Cecil Atwell, were jointly charged with car theft and in addition Austin Atwell was charged with careless driving and having no operator's license. He pleaded guilty to the charges and was fined $15 and $10, with costs, respectviely.

Bowen testified that he had left his car in the barnyard with the keys in it and didn't know it was gone until another worker asked him if he had lent his car to the Atwell's.

"Now that's not right at all," the elderly Austin Atwell protested from the prisoner's dock. "We are in enough trouble as it is without any more. Now tell the truth. You told us we could borrow your car to go into Trenton and you gave us the keys and told us that the starter was a button on the dash." The complainant still denied giving them permission to take his car.

Provincial Constable H. Cooke said that Atwell got into an accident on the way back from Trenton, colliding with another car and going into the ditch himself.

"The sergeant had reported that Mr. Dobkins said the car had been loaned and not returned. After the accident I saw Mr. Bowen and told him what had happened and he said where did that leave him and I replied that if he had loaned the car he was responsible for the damages. Then he said that he had not loaned the car but that it had been stolen," testified Constable Cooke.

Both the accused declared that Bowen let them take the car into Trenton but that they got some beer there and had an accident coming back. Austin said that if they had intended keeping the car they would not have left all their belongings and money at the Dobkin farm where they were staying during the apple picking season.

"Under the circumstances," said Crown Attorney Harry Deyman, "I don't think that there should be a conviction."

Marmora Boy Gets Trial With Bruins

MARMORA, Sept. 26—(ENS)—The fine showing made last winter by Wayne Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of Deloro with the St. Catharines Teepees, a team sponsored by the Boston Bruins of the NHL has won him a trial at the Boston training camp at Hershey, Penn. He reported for training Sept. 17.

Edward Lawson Wins Acquittal

COBOURG, Sept. 26. (ENS)—A jury after a brief hearing in assize court Tuesday found Edward Lawson of Toronto not guilty of dangerous driving. He had been charged on two counts, one of motor manslaughter and the other of dangerous driving but the grand jury brought in no bill for the first charge and a true bill for dangerous driving.

Lawson was driving near Bowmanville on May 11 of this year when his car went out of control and struck the guard rails. The impact threw Miss Dorothy Wilson out of the car and she died of injuries.

Brockville Wins District Cup

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 26 (CP)—The Hugh M. Campbell Trophy, emblematic of Central Ontario senior baseball league supremacy, was won by the Brockville Memos here last night when they downed Belleville Redmen 4-1 to win the best-of-seven series with only one loss.

Smokey Smith, Brockville's veteran southpaw pitcher, chalked up his second win of the series with a brilliant seven-hitter. It was the only errorless game of the playoffs.

Two Boys Held For Theft $40

COBOURG, Sept. 26—(ENS)—Picking up two escaped training school boys from Bowmanville yesterday, police satisfied themselves that one of them was responsible for the theft of $40 the day before from Mrs. Alex Armstrong of Cobourg. Monday a youth cut the screen door of the Armstrong dwelling and was just coming out with the $40 when Mrs. Armstrong was returning to the house. She grabbed hold of his yellow and black windbreaker momentarily, but he got away.

Yesterday police showed her the windbreaker, taken from one of the arrested juveniles, and she identified it. There was also a tear in it where she had grasped it as he darted past her.

Took Clothing

The two escapees confessed that they had broken into the summer home here of Brigadier James Mess where they took clothing, bed clothes and dishes and after putting them in a box hid them in a woods nearby. Yesterday afternoon a canoe owned by H. Cooey was found floating in the Factory Creek and it is believed that it had been stolen by the pair as Mr. Cooey lives not far from the home of Brigadier Mess.

The boys were returned to the training school. So far, police have not recovered the money stolen from the Armstrong house.

Catch More Whales

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—While the northern whaling season does not end until middle of October, one firm which operates six vessels out of Hawkes Harbor, Labrador, reports a total catch of 270 whales up to the end of August. The same firm caught 237 in the same period a year ago.

Fleming Denies Housing Story

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 — (CP) — Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Toronto Eglinton, denies saying 500 families were unable to obtain promised housing in neighboring Fraserview because the Federal government "was building a costly home for the Prime Minister."

Mr. Fleming said he was misquoted in published reports, repeated by The Canadian Press, of his speech last Friday. He added:

"What I said was that this is the same government, whose policy was to stop projected construction of 500 houses at Fraserview for veterans and their families on the grounds that such expenditure was inflationary, that spent $613,000 on construction and furinshing an official residence for the Prime Minister without letting any tenders or obtaining cost estimates.

Mr. Fleming corrected another part of the report which quoted him as saying the government's surplus of $409,000,000 was $1,000,000 a month more than the government is entitled to take from the Canadian taxpayer.

"What I did say was that the government surplus was more than $100,000,000 per month."

Britain's Electoral Problems

The problem which Britain faces in the General Election which has been called for October 25 is simply this: neither Labour nor Conservatives can honestly promise a rapid improvement in conditions. Lightening of Britain's heavy load can only be achieved by greater industrial production, and that, in its turn, can only be brought about by working harder and working longer hours, without any increase in wages. This is an unpalatable program, and although both parties will have to make some reference to it, they will undoubtedly try to dress it up as prettily as possible.

* * *

There is widespread dissatisfaction in Britain with the Labour government, and this is not confined to Conservatives, but is to be found abundantly among Labour supporters. Any Government which has been in power for a considerable length of time builds up a body of grievance; it cannot be helped. But in addition to this inevitable resentment, there is a feeling that Labour has failed to deliver the goods; that the comfort and especially the food of the people have been sacrificed to socialist theory; that the Labour leaders have been having too good a time while ordinary people have suffered cold hearths, bad food, and disappointing holidays.

* * *

It must not be assumed, however, that this annoyance among Labour supporters will change their political colour. Labour has done a good deal for them, and they will be reminded of those benefits before the election. And it is a vital point in the contest that the Conservative Party is being led by Winston Churchill, whose grip on political reality grows weaker with every passing month. The dissatisfaction of his party with his leadership is very well known, and although it has some excellent young blood—David McAdam Eccles, for instance—the young men are not given much chance to prove themselves. Regretfully it must be said that Churchill, the great war leader, is now his party's principal handicap. The election, so far as it is possible to form an opinion at present, will be touch and go.

* * *

The victory will depend to a great extent upon the line taken by the Liberals. Will they side with the Labour or Tory forces? Although they have only nine men in the Commons, they polled 2,680,000 votes at the election in 1950, and those votes, distributed among the various constituencies, could change the face of the present Parliament unrecognizably. If the Liberals put very few candidates in the field—which lack of money and political discretion may dictate—to whom will those floating votes go?

* * *

It is hard to believe that many of them will go to the Tories, for the Tories have consistently insulted and belittled the Liberals for years, urging them to abandon their old allegiance and to join the forces of all that was good and holy—meaning themselves. The Labour government, on the other hand, has not treated the Liberals too badly. And it goes against the Liberal grain to vote for a Tory government.

* * *

Nevertheless, the Liberals as well as the other people of Britain have eaten bitter bread under a Labour administration. They have watched France eat well while they have eaten beef which tasted like horse, and horse which tasted like dog. They have watched such grandiose plans as the Ground Nut Scheme come to nothing. They have seen nationalized coal grow scarcer, and nationalized railways grow slower and dirtier. And the people of Britain may feel that, with things as bad as they are under Labour, the Tories could do no worse and might do a little better. It will be a closely contested election, but if the Liberals decide not to enter many candidates in the field, the results will be a very decided swing toward either side. At present it appears that the Tories have a fighting chance of a decisive victory.

Mr. Robb Relies On The General

Mr. Malcolm Robb whose fiery address in Peterborough last week called for immediate conscription and putting "everything we've got" into re-armament and national defence, has written us a letter about it. The letter is published elsewhere on this page today. Mr. Robb's chief point is that the views expressed were substantially those of General Crerar and not his own. He seems to think therefore that they have a special authority.

General Crerar is a great soldier and patriot but his opinions outside purely military matters do not therefore have a special validity. The military mind sees history in a military perspective and martial considerations bulk disproportionately large in its general thinking. Its judgements on international relations—which are, let us remind Mr. Robb, the sphere of diplomacy and governments, not of generalship and Army—are inevitably biased. No one denies that the international situation is unstable. The democratic West properly views Russia as a threat to its ways and to world peace. Canada's plan for meeting the situation is through growing collective strength, military, economic and moral, of the free world. Military strength is only one facet of the plan.

Mr. Robb (and General Crerar) believe that Canada's defence plans are inadequate to the need and that re-armament is lagging in pace. From their point of view that is so, but it must be a deliberate lag, for the Government certainly has the money to spend. Perhaps the Government, advised by a host of experts and responsible to all the people of Canada, has a more balanced view of the international crisis and of Canada's responsibilities and capacities than Mr. Robb has.

We note from Mr. Robb's letter that General Crerar said that we might not have even three months (let alone three years) available to meet (with "massive mobilization of military strength") the "tragic fact" of the Third World War. But since General Crerar sounded his note of alarm we have had more than six months; his speech was made on March 8th. So Canada has managed to worry along. We do not believe that this is a reason for smug complacency; on the other hand it does suggest that the situation is not as desperate as conscription-drummers would have us believe. Re-armament is a means of attaining strength, but negotiation is the means of achieving peace, and peace is the objective of the Canadian people.

The menace is Russia. Recalling our earlier comparison with the Russian menace in 1876, Mr. Robb reminds us that militant Communism did not exist in Russia then. That is beside the point. In both eras it is Russian imperialism that had to be curbed, not the form of government. The distinction was implicit in Mr. Pearson's statement on government policy given in the House of Commons on May 7th last: "When communism, or indeed fascism, results in acts of military aggression, that aggression should be met by any form of collective action, including military collective action, which can be made effective. But the purpose of such action is to defeat aggression. Communism itself, as a reactionary and debasing doctrine, must be fought on other planes and in different ways: by the use of economic, social, political and moral weapons."

Coincidence In The Comics

A certain amount of stealing among writers and artists is to be expected; original ideas are scarce and when one—or what looks like one—appears, there will be plenty of copy-cats. But we were somewhat depressed by the appearance of the "Blondie" comic strip which appeared on our comic page last Saturday, September 22; in it Dagwood's neighbour, Mr. Woodley, was shown washing his dishes in the back yard with the garden hose; he explained that this was because his wife was still away visiting her mother.

We were depressed because the first joke in the Summer Number of Punch, July 2, 1951, showed a man washing his dishes in the back yard with a hose; a neighbour across the fence was saying, "Your wife still on holiday, old man?"

The arm of coincidence is admittedly long, but we do not like to see it pulled right out of joint. Comic artists should remember that quite a few people read several papers, and from more than one country.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In a remarkable operation doctors in Naples removed 79 nails from an eight-year-old boy. Of course they might have made him mad enough to spit them, and saved blunting their instruments.

A scientist asserts that if it were not for the advances of chemistry the world would be dominated by bugs. This statement, of course, provokes a sharp retort from those pessimists who believe that the world is dominated by bugs.

The county council of Cheshire, England, has passed a bylaw forbidding pigeons to perch on housetops or loiter in gardens. Cheshire, having made its mark with some of the best cheese in the world, is now moving into the pigeon-pie business.

The London Spectator draws attention to a curious fact: in 1948, at Scarborough on May 16, Mr. Aneurin Bevan referred to the press of Britain as "the most prostituted in the world"; on August 31, 1951 the Evening Standard announced the publication of a series of articles by Mr. Bevan. Query: is this an attempt by Mr. Bevan to reform the press or simply his decision to augment his income with a little light prostitution?

Who Will Win U.K. Elections?

By H. G. NICHOLAS

(Ed. Note: H. G. Nicholas is the author of the Nuffield College study "The British General Election of 1950.")

THERE is no parallel in British history for a government appealing to the electorate with a majority of only 17 over its only serious rival and only five over all other parties (with one Labour and two Conservative seats vacant). But equally, of course, there is no precedent for Mr. Attlee's tenacious retention of office for eighteen months longer than all the post-election prophets of February 1950 allowed him. The silence of history and the volubility of prophecy combine to enjoin caution upon any political augur who seeks to read in advance the riddle of October 25. However in one respect, this should be an easier election to forecast than the last; one may reasonably have a greater confidence in the public opinion polls.

The clouds of suspicion they trailed in 1950, after their inglorious performance in the U.S.A. in 1948, have largely been dispelled. They proved surprisingly accurate last time and their greater experience may reasonably be expected to reflect itself in a refinement of their techniques. The latest figures of the two leading regular polling organizations, the News Chronicle's B.I.P.O. and the Daily Express Poll of Public Opinion, collected on the eve of Mr. Attlee announcement, both agree in giving the Conservatives a handsome lead—49% to Labour's 39% in the News Chronicle, 51½% to 38% in the Daily Express. At no time in the two months preceding the 1950 election was the gap between the parties anything like this. Polls taken at the outset of the 1950 campaign revealed a Conservative lead of only about 3% (News Chronicle) and 6% (Express). In other words Labour's election campaign in 1950 only pulled the Tory lead down by about 5%-8%. No doubt this campaign will repeat the pattern of the last in rallying pro-government waverers and whipping the 'Don't knows' back into line. But will it do it so efficaciously as to pull down the 10% lead the polls now give the Conservatives?

❖ ❖ ❖

MOREOVER it will not be enough for Labour to draw level in popular esteem. As was conclusively demonstrated by Mr. David Butler in his appendix to my study of the last election, there exists a statistical bias in the electoral system as a result of which Labour will normally require approximately 2% more of the popular vote than the Conservatives in order to win an equivalent number of seats. This is simply the result of the electorally 'wasteful' concentration of much of the Labour vote in "over-safe" constituencies like those of County Durham.

❖ ❖ ❖

IN 1950 the "swing" produced by the election, i.e. the average of the Conservative gain and the Labour loss, won 3.3% over the country as a whole. In terms of seats this was reflected in a loss to Labour of 82 and a gain to the Tories of 85—though from those figures a generous discount must be made to allow for the effects of redistribution. If on October 25 a further swing of only 2% should occur it would give the Conservatives a majority of about 50 over Labour—by current standards a perfectly adequate working figure, even allowing for a dozen or so unharnessable Liberals, Independents etc. If the swing of 1950 is maintained Mr. Churchill should find himself impregnable in command of a bastion of over 350 Tories.

There are some areas which will certainly contribute nothing to that further "heave" which is needed to get the Conservatives into the Promised Land. Durham and Tyneside, South Wales and London's East End—nothing is to be looked for here. Equally there are the unimprovable areas of Southern England where no amount of fertilizing could possibly increase the yield of Conservative seats—Surrey, Sussex, Wessex and Devon (excluding the great seaport towns). It is in the marginal areas that the Tories will, no doubt, concentrate their heaviest fire. In 1950 Labour's heaviest losses were in the dormitory belts of the big towns—e.g. Middlesex, where they fell by 8½%. Probably, despite the gains already made, some of the Conservatives' brightest hopes will be here. It was reasonably surmised in 1950 that in those areas it was the relapse of the black-coated worker—the trahison des clercs—that cost Labour so dear. The chances of further gains for the Conservatives may well hinge on their ability to go one step further and attract the white-coated worker, the foreman and his equivalent in the light industries of Metroland.

❖ ❖ ❖

IN the adjacent London Borough there are 11 Labour seats which may fairly be described as marginal (i.e. held by less than 10% of the total vote cast). In Liverpool there are two, in Birmingham two more (surely the inheritors of the Chamberlain machine can win control of six constituencies in a city where their writ once ran into 12?). The resentment which Dr. Dalton's recent exhortations have aroused amongst the clothing workers might encourage Tory optimism in Leeds and Bradford, but a glance at their massive Labour majorities should deflate it. More promising perhaps is Edinburgh where two Labour seats are held by majorities smaller than the 1950 Liberal vote (though in Glasgow the same holds true for two Conservatives). But it may be that it is in some of the smaller cities that the prospects of Tory gains are brightest, such as Nottingham, Reading or Southampton in all of which a couple of Labour seats could be detached by the drift of a few hundred votes.

❖ ❖ ❖

OF the great electoral regions of England it it is, however, surely Lancashire, the Palatinate of phenomenal turnouts, that must excite the greatest endeavour. There 17 Labour seats fall within my definition of marginal, and 10 of those are held by majorities smaller than the last Liberal vote. After 1950 the Conservatives tended to exaggerate the damage they sustained through Liberal intervention. Since then, however, Liberal opinion has, I suspect, taken on an increasingly anti-Labour tinge and with their intervention scaled down from 475 to perhaps about 150 candidates there will be a lot of seats in which the Liberal vote will almost certainly swell the Tory total. The distribution of those 150 candidates may reasonably be a matter of vital concern to Abbey House.

❖ ❖ ❖

IN 1950 there was much speculation about the rural vote, coupled with quite extraordinary over-estimates of the number of voters, even in the counties, who live by or on the land. But there is one region of England where agriculture is electorally significant, namely East Anglia. There Labour was proud in 1950 of sustaining a mere 1.7% swing and retaining 7 out of 17 seats. Will its good fortune continue, when every one of the seven is marginal?

To conquer or defend these and similar territories does either side possess weapons that are at all an improvement on those employed in 1950? The Conservative organization then put up, in the main, as competent a performance as anyone could reasonably wish for; at its best it compelled the admiration of connoisseurs. Labour, though good, was probably inferior. Transport House readily admits, for example, that it failed on the organization of the postal vote and thinks this may have lost them 10 seats. An increased agency staff might also help Labour in some marginal constituencies. The political broadcasts of the party leaders will almost certainly count for more than printed manifestoes or constituency meetings. If an election fought on issues similar to those of the last produces a smaller poll, the Conservatives will probably profit. But 1950's 84% turnout strongly suggests that neither rain, nor lack of thrills nor surfeit of oratory can keep the British voter from his appointed polling station.

Letters To The Editor

DEFENCE IN A DESPERATE SITUATION

Sir: An acquaintance of mine in Peterborough has been kind enough to send me a copy of your editorial of September 20th, 1951, based on the address which I made to the Advertising and Sales Club of Peterborough.

I am not of a nature to get into heated controversy with you merely because you disagree with my views. Assuming, however, that you meant your editorial to be taken seriously, I am puzzled that both the editorial and the news report scrupulously refrained from referring to that part of my address which mentioned the views of General Crerar. I had previously carefully studied General Crerar's views from the full text of his speech in Ottawa. Since my address relied so substantially on the views expressed by this highly qualified and completely impartial officer, I set out here a gist of his views precisely as I gave them to the Advertising and Sales Club:

(a) The Third World War is not a prospective event. It is a tragic fact.

(b) It now demands massive mobilization of military strength.

(c) Reserve organizations which are supposed to muster 180,000 on outbreak—have a paper strength of 40,000 — and an actual strength of those in training of 10,000 and that proper term to be applied to this "very alarming".

(d) Dealing with the three-year preparation plan, there is no justification to assume that we have got three months, let alone three years available to us.

(e) The voluntary system of recruiting cannot possibly provide adequate troops.

(f) Canada is the only North Atlantic Treaty power without compulsory military training.

(g) The reserve force of Canada is quite incapable of assuming any duties until some months after the need arises.

(h) It is a desperate situation, and we have no right to continue it for a moment.

Now that address was made in Ottawa on March 8th, 1951, yet the "desperate situation" which he describes continues not only for the moment but for days, weeks, and months.

Now I ask you in all seriousness:

(a) Does General Crerar "talk a lot of bally-hoo"?

(b) Is General Crerar "a tub-thumper"?

(c) Is General Crerar wrong because "he lacks historical perspective"?

(d) Does General Crerar "lack a sense of proportion"?

(e) Has General Crerar "A disproportionate sense of Canada's obligation to arm against Russia"?

(f) Is General Crerar "a Jingo" or does he speak like one?

You speak of the position of England with respect to Russia in 1876. With some hesitation may I point out to you that the calendar reveals this to be the 20th Century and not the 19th Century, and that militant Communism did not exist in Russia and throughout the world in its present form until after 1917.

Your editorial reminds one greatly of the two-inch headline which streamed across the front page of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express on the day before war started between England and Germany in 1939. It read "THERE WILL BE NO WAR".

Yours faithfully,
MALCOLM ROBB.

OLD WOMEN AVOID THE THRILL

Sir: I wish here to correct a wilful misstatement in your editorial concerning the Local Council of Women. I was myself at the meeting of the 19th September and would here say no such words of barring all men from court sittings was ever said. We all know there must be all kinds of people at a court session; what was spoken of was loiterers, of which we all know there is a large number. Especially senile old men who seem to be trying to get one more thrill out of other folk's misery. But seldom if ever is seen any old women spectators.

One wonders at such a high class paper as our Peterborough Examiner is in price at any rate would make its self so mean as to openly insult women who are only trying to clean up a few bad spots in our city. A to there being no men's local council in my opinion there are far too many for all the good they are doing.

One cannot help but feel that the justice of our city is surely getting slack. I beg to remain sincely one who believes in fair play and justice to men and women alike.

MRS. WM. DORRINGTON.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, and sent messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a village of the Samaritans, to make ready for him. And they did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem.

And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did? But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of. For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. And they went to another village. (Luke 9:51-56.)

❖ ❖ ❖

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (Rom. 12: 1, 2.)

Gelett Burgess

(New York Times)

"Humour is the most serious subject in the world and it's almost impossible to discuss it without being solemn," Gelett Burgess, author of "The Purple Cow" verse, once told an interviewer. Yet he spent sixty of his eighty-five years putting onto paper ideas and words that were to make several generations much happier because he had decided to undertake a career as a humourist. Words new for his time—such as "goop" and "blurb"—drew smiles to many faces. His rhymed manuals of manners for children were classics for the nursery; his "Are You a Bromide?" helped to decrease the smug self-satisfaction of the stodgy.

Perhaps his personality and philosophy are best explained by one of his own quatrains:

Not the quarry but the chase;
Not the laurel but the race;
Not the hazard but the play;
Make me, Lord, enjoy alway.

Mr. Burgess turned to humour by chance. He was an instructor in topographical drawing at the University of California when one night he decided to "eliminate" a statue that had been presented to the city of San Francisco. The result was that the graduating class elected him an honorary member, but the faculty decided he had better look elsewhere for a job. That was fortunate for the Americans who loved humour, for Mr. Burgess soon satisfied their yearning. "Humour," he said, "is a flight from dull reality and an escape from the doggone rules of reason." Few authors have made the flight as pleasant as Mr. Burgess.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26 (AP)—How would you, Mr. Jones, like to have the little lady accompany you to the office every day?

And you, Mrs. Smith—would you like to sell brushes door-to-door with your hubby?

Here are a husband and wife who have worked together for a year and they like it, But, they quickly add, they don't want to make it a habit.

Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer scored on Broadway last season in the frothy "Bell, Book and Candle". At present they are embarking on a most-unusual film project, "The Four-Poster." About their professional association, Harrison commented:

Stimulating Work

"It's stimulating to work together. We can spend much more time besides our working hours in developing the characters. I think it's ideal for roles in which you play married people. You get a much greater intimacy, which would take weeks to achieve if you were working with a strange actress."

"Oh, yes, it's much easier," agreed his wife. "But I don't think we shall do it often. Too much association can be wearing, even with one's own husband or wife. I'm sure a bank clerk wouldn't want to work side-by-side with his wife every working day."

"It's too difficult to find the proper vehicles, anyway," added Harrison. "The only ones who have been able to make a success of it have been Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, and they are quite the exception."

In "The Four-Poster" Mr. and Mrs. Harrison co-star with a bed.

There is no one else in the cast. All hands hope it comes off.

One House

"The entire story takes place in one house—in fact, in two bedrooms," Harrison explained. "It covers the important points in a couple's life from 1897 almost to the present. Included are their wedding night, the birth of their son, the husband's infidelity, the wife's infidelity, the beginning of her illness and her death.

Harrison admitted that such a subject and location might sound highly censorable. But, he claimed, it's entirely harmless.

"It's merely a story of the basic elements of any marriage."

Woman Miser Dies

JERSEY CITY, NJ, Sept. 26 (AP)—The second of the elderly Wafflock sisters, who secreted $9,000 around their house and didn't get enough to eat, died last night in hospital. Police found the sisters Aug. 9 in their house in a once-fashionable part of the city. Clara, 78, had been dead five days. Marie, 76, was unconscious, kneeling by the bed where her sister's body lay.

Helped Hide Body

VICTORIA, BC, Sept. 26 (CP)—Evidence that 60-year-old Leroy Sanger sought help of a friend to dispose of the body of a girl who had died in his apartment was given in police court here yesterday. Sanger is charged with the murder of 24-year-old Mrs. Gwendolyn Casswell, mother of a 2½-year-old daughter. Medical testimony indicated that the girl had died during an attempted abortion.

Lumbermen Work

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Hundreds of men returned to work Tuesday in the rain-dampened woods of British Columbia where a forest closure halted operations last week. Several camps re-opened on Vancouver Island where 1,500 men returned to their jobs, working under ranger permits which prohibit operations in the woods after 2 p.m. each day to avoid fire hazards.

Northern Lights

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP) — Northern lights of spectacular beauty flared over Toronto last night. Weather bureau officials said extremely clear weather helped to bring out the brilliance of the display.

Car Demolished

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. (CP)—A shunting locomotive demolished an automobile last night in the freight yards here at William Jones, 42, of Beamsville, driver of the car, escaped injury. Jones told police a standing boxcar kept him from seeing the backing engine.

Blonde Evidence

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26 (AP)—District Attorney Ernest Roll wound up his inquiry into the Granchot Tone-Tom Neal battle over Barbara Payton yesterday, but there was no decision on prosecuting Neal. Roll said he will study the evidence before deciding whether to issue a complaint.

Wm. Green Re-Elected

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26 (AP)—William Green, 78-year-old president of the American Federation of Labor, was re-elected unanimously Tuesday to his 28th term at the closing session of the annual convention. There were no other nominations.

Fitz Flies West To Bolster Petes' Defence

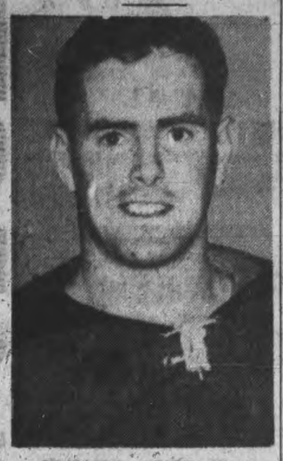
Vancouver Combines are looking for possible holes in Peterborough Timbermen's defence. but there is no use looking further.

The Timbermen received about the best news possible today when the announcement was made from London, Ont., that burly defenceman Gerry Fitzgerald is on his way west to join the Eastern Canada champions.

Believed by lacrosse experts as one of the best lacrosse players today in Canada, the star player was given permission Tuesday. The Peterborough club was notified officially today before 8 am.

There For Five

Although he will not arrive in Vancouver for tonight's game in Victoria, Fitzgerald will be on hand for the remaining possible five games. He will leave London for Toronto Thursday, and leave Toronto then for the west, arriving in Vancouver Thursday at 6 pm.



GO WEST, YOUNG MAN—Johnny Metras, coach of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, gave Gerry Fitzgerald permission Tuesday to fly west to join his teammates, the Timbermen, in the Dominion finals. The husky Mustang backfielder, one of the best lacrosse players in Canada, will add both to the defensive and offensive power of the Timbermen.

This will give Fitzgerald, who has had more than a week away from lacrosse, time to become accustomed to the wooden floors.

Besides being a veteran lacrosse player, in senior play since he was 16 (he's now 22), Fitzgerald is a seasoned championship series player. For in his athletic career, basketball, football, and lacrosse, he has been on Dominion championship teams four times.

This season, a regular backfielder with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, Fitzgerald was the main groundgainer against Windsor last Saturday.

CALGARY STAMPEDE — Four Calgary tacklers race to cut off fast-moving Howard Hansen of Edmonton Eskimos in a Western Football Union game at Edmonton Saturday, Sept. 22. Hansen went on for a thrilling 33-yard run which put Eskies in a nice position for their next play—a touchdown. Eskimos won 30-11. In the picture the four Stampeders abreast, are, left to right, Roy Jensen, Ken Keir, Jim Seymour and Bob Agler. Behind Hansen is Dave Berry (33) of Calgary.

Bantam Boxla Outcome In OLA Hands

The outcome of Peterborough's bantam lacrossers series with Toronto Lions is in the hands of the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

Walter Murphy, secretary of Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association, said today that everything is in favor of Peterborough.

A week ago the strong, power-packed bantams blasted Toronto Lions 18-2 in the first of their home and home series. Saturday night the boys travelled to Toronto for the second game but only the referees were there. The Lions didn't show.

The Peterborough club officials tried to locate the Ontario secretary but he was at the airport and could not be reached. One of the referees told the team that the Lions had said the game was called off, that Peterborough and the OLA had been notified.

Walter Murphy said that no word of any cancellation was received by either the OLA or the Petes.

The bantams now await a decision by the Ontario association.

Other teams still in the playdowns, the midgets and the juveniles, are waiting for new opponents.

Welcome Inquiry Into Boxing

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP). — The International Boxing Club stoutly defended its practices today amid reports that US federal agents are investigating charges the IBC is operating as a monopoly.

"We know the government has had representatives around for quite a while talking to managers, fighters and others connected with the sport," Harry Markson, managing director of the IBC, said.

"We welcome such an investigation. We know our operations are perfectly okay. We can stand it."

Markson said the investigators had not talked with Jim Norris, president of the IBC, or any other member of the organization.

Three senators introduced resolutions last month urging an investigation of big time boxing and particularly the IBC.

Senator Magnuson (Dem.-Wash.) introduced a bill asking that a Senate committee probe whether there is a monopoly and whether there are any connections between promoters and "any persons connected with rackets or any illegal enterprises."

A joint resolution by Republican Senators Cain of Washington and Welker of Idaho declared the boxing profession will disappear "unless certain monopolistic practices are exposed and eliminated."

"It appears," said Senator Cain "that the International Boxing Club is a closed society that has what amounts to a monopoly of some 90 per cent of the boxers in the country."

May's School Boys Defeat Grove 2-0

May's school soccer team won the opening game on their home lot of the Junior Public School League Tuesday with a convincing 2-0 win over Grove. R. Marshall and C. Clark sank the goals for May's. Lineups:

May's—goal, G. Park; fullbacks W. Hamilton, T. Grant; halfbacks, R Buckton, R. Marshall, G. Meredith; centre, C. Clark; insides, J. Corp, J. Armour; wings, G. Marchen, D. Allen; alternates, G. Johnston, G. Northey.

Grove—goal, T. Higgins; fullbacks, F. Simmons, G. Henry; halfbacks, T. Beauchamp, T. Clarke, G. Black; forwards, G. Whitehill, D. Hewie, T. Wood, D. Cummings, H. O'Dell; alternate, R. Armstrong.

17-Year-Old Goalie Practises With Leafs

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 26 — (CP). — Donnie Campbell, 17-year-old goalie from Saskatoon, is working out with Toronto Maple Leafs at their pre-season hockey training camp here. And he says he loves it.

"I've learned more here in two days than I did all the four years I've been playing hockey," said the six-footer who netminded for Saskatoon Wesleys, western Canada juvenile finalists last season. "Two years ago I was at the Detroit Red Wings' hockey school in Saskatoon but nobody paid me any attention the way they do here."

Best of all, he has as his roommate a standout player he has always idolized from afar, fellow-goalie Turk Broda.

Bill Nicholls To Play Goal For Manitoba

BRAMPTON, Ont., Sept. 26 — (CP).—Manitoba's All-Stars, two games down in their best-of-five series with Ontario All-Stars for the Canadian junior lacrosse championship, suffered another blow today. Goalkeeper Clark Hicks will be out of Wednesday's third game.

Hicks, who suffered a torn knee cartilage in the series' opener, played last night, but will be replaced by Bill Nicholls, Peterborough.

Nicholls had been appointed sub-goalkeeper for either team in the event of injury.

Shore Picks New Line At Lindsay Practices

LINDSAY, Ont., Sept. 26 (CP). —Bill Hartsburg of Vancouver, Bronco Horvath and Ken Hayden will make up one of the three lines that Eddie Shore's new Syracuse team of the American Hockey League will put into action against Sherbrooke Saints of the Quebec Senior Hockey League in Sherbrooke Thursday night.

After the Sherbrooke tilt, Syracuse moves to Montreal for a Saturday night game with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and then winds up its three-game exhibition tour of Quebec with a Sunday game against Valleyfield Braves of the QSHL.

The Syracuse team has been engaged in pre-season workouts here.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

The famous pacing horse Adios established a record for pacing two heats at Lexington, Kentucky, seven years ago today. Adios covered the mile in 1 minute 58¼ seconds in both heats. Billy Direct set the mile record for one heat at 1.55 flat in 1938, also at Lexington.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26.—Lacrosse fans here were quite impressed by the Petes' showing in the first Mann Cup final playoff Monday. So were the opposing players and officials. Definitely the press was as Tuesday's sports pages showed. Don Carlson headed his Daily Province column with "Mann Cup Blues" and, while he gave credit to the Timbermen for their victory, he panned the CLA plenty for upping prices, for giving some concessions to the East on rules, and for taking the playoffs on a series of one-night stands like a carnival. He also criticized the arena for a slippery floor. He was just mad about everything, it seemed.

* * * * * *

Al Hartin of the same sheet wrote: "They keep insisting that Peterborough is the best team to come out of the East in search of a Dominion lacrosse championship. And, though playing-coach Don Crowe wasn't quite ready to go along with that statement on Monday night's showing, that city's Timbermen gave loud hints that there may be more than a modicum of truth to the rumor as the Mann Cup follies inaugurated a series of one-night stands at the Forum."

* * * * * *

Here and now it might be explained that the Western faceoff rule calls for the left shoulder of each facing-off player to point toward the enemy's goal. The East claims the shoulders can point any old way. CLA officials agreed on this before the game, among other rule interpretations, and the refs went by the CLA directive. Nine times out of ten the Petes beat Vancouver Combines to the draw in the faceoffs. Also, the Combines kicked at stiff checking and bodying by the husky and scrappy Petes. As they apparently play a sort of basketball-lacrosse variety on the coast, with little body contact. But CLA officials had ruled on a compromise set of checking rules between East and West codes ere the series opened.

* * * * * *

The Province continued: "Showing unexpected speed for their bulk, the invaders came on in the second half to control play as the befuddled locals began to crumble. Harry Wipper, Curly Mason, Nit O'Hearn and Russ Slater starred, and of course Moon Wootton was brilliant in goal all night. Said Crowe after the game, and without a trace of tongue-in-cheek: "You didn't see our boys at their best tonight. They'll play better on that big floor in Victoria." Retorted a frustrated Johnny Cavallin: "Indeed. Well, so will we." The series is getting a big play in the Vancouver press. Pictures and all.

* * * * * *

Erwin Swangard, Sun sports editor, says the CLA has an $18,000 to raise this year and that it looks like the association will go broke ere the Mann Cup and Minto Cup finals are over. It cost $5,300 to bring the Petes west by plane. "Unless the Combines can dream up new strategy to deal with the powerful Petes," he remarks, "the series can be expected to be over in the minimum of four games." A humour columnist on that paper commented: "Elegant Elsie, my favorite waitress was amazed and dismayed at the size of the Peterborough lacrosse players. Wailed her distraught elegance: "The bigger they were the harder they fell—on our boys."

* * * * * *

Scribe Dick Beddoes of the Sun, who covered the game, said in his story: "Combines caught themselves some healthy and hefty combatants in Peterborough Timbermen, and were laid out colder than Penquin's shins, especially in the second half. Combines led 4-3 at half time but began to unravel in the third period when the big, fast team from the East opened wide the jets. Petes struck for 13 goals in the last half, roughing and rocking their way to paydirt with more hustle than the locals could match. The Timbermen came streaming through on Goalie Green with an unending assortment of shots, and Vancouver's attack petered out as the Easterners covered their men like a coat of paint. Combines can still win this thing but only if they revert to the hard running, free-wheeling style and not try to outbump the Petes."

* * * * * *

The small contingent of Peterborough and former Peterborough folks on deck that night whooped it up plenty. Fred Ash, out from the Quaker Oats Co. on a business trip, was grinning from ear to ear after the go. Like this writer he missed the late Fred Collins, who died a year ago in Vancouver. Fred, Petes' ball pilot in the late 30's, would have had the red carpet out for the gang. The Petes were elated but not counting it over yet. Combines might click better and the refs might get tougher as the series proceeds. Wootton's eye appears to be coming along okay. CLA arranged for club planes by TCA to fly the teams to Victoria tonight, the rest of the series then being on the mainland. This scribe suggests that the Petes' hustle Monday was a result of the B.C. ban (with a $2.50 pedestrian fine) on crossing streets against a red light. It slows one down, but you live longer.

Smythe Approves Drafting Players

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP). — Approval of Frank Boucher's recommendation that sponsorship of amateur hockey clubs be dropped by National Hockey League clubs in favor of a player-draft system was voiced yesterday by Conn Smythe, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Smythe revealed he had submitted a five-point program to a meeting of the NHL governors last August "in an effort to get hockey back on its firm base again."

He gave no indication how the governors reacted but there is another meeting of the group in New York tomorrow and undoubtedly a draft system will be discussed. Smythe, confined to bed with a recurrence of a war injury, will be unable to attend.

Boucher, general manager of New York Rangers, said Monday at Guelph that despite the fact his club spent thousands of dollars annually on sponsored clubs it had not been able to develop players capable of making the Rangers.

Smythe would terminate the agreement between the NHL and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that calls for the NHL to pay amateur teams for developing players. The Leafs' general manager maintained that friendly competition between the two organizations would be better than a partnership "which is entirely in favor of the amateur authorities."

Dewey Demands Boxing Clean Own House

ALBANY, NY, Sept. 26 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey yesterday appointed a new boxing czar for New York State and demanded that the fight game clean house.

Dewey announced the resignation of former amateur boxer Eddie Eagan, and appointed Robert J. Christenberry, New York City hotel keeper, as chairman of the State Athletic Commission.

Reporters asked the Governor's secretary, James C. Hagerty, whether Dewey had forced out Eagan in view of mounting criticism against the one-time Olympic champ.

Hagerty replied tersely: "He resigned. The announcement speaks for itself."

Christenberry, 52, is president of the Hotel Astor. He formerly was a sports writer and a United States consular official.

Eagan said he was quitting because of the pressure of his private law practice.

The three-member athletic commission and especially Eagan, has been under heavy fire by sportswriters and state legislators because of its handling of boxing. Democratic legislators have charged that the commission did nothing to keep underworld influences out of the sport.

Jean Castle Tops Ladies' Bowling

Outboard Marines' Jean Castle swept both of the Ladies City Bowling League's high three and single on the opening night Monday.

She flipped the pins for a high single of 367 which was almost a 100 points more than her nearest rival, D. McArthur, of Curtins, who scored a 285. Miss Castle rolled a 181 and a 198 in her other games for the high three of 746.

M. Timm's 234, 267 and 232 for a total of 733, for the second high three, combined with Miss Castle's 746, helped the Marines to the high team pinnage honors with 3,144. Collis' entry rolled a second high pinnage of 3,029.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

More testimony was requested by the court yesterday in the suit of New York Yankees football team to restrain quarterback George Ratterman from playing with Montreal Alouettes.

Superior Court Judge John Grimshaw, after hearing at Hackensack, NJ, testimony from both sides, adjourned the hearing until Oct. 15, when depositions will be taken from National-American Football League Commissioner Bert Bell in Philadelphia.

Ted Collins, owner of the football Yankees, seeks an injunction to restrain Ratterman, who led the league in touchdown passes last year, from playing football for the Alouettes.

Collins claimed he held a three-year contract from Ratterman for the 1950-51-52 seasons, calling for a salary of from $12,500 in 1950 to $14,500 in 1952.

Ratterman signed a contract this summer with Montreal for $17,000 and claimed the Yankees failed to send him a written announcement that they were picking up his option for 1951.

Montreal Canadiens yesterday announced the signing of Dick Gamble, a left-winger, to a two-year contract. Gamble, native of Moncton, NB, was a high scorer for the last two seasons with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Gamble played two years of junior hockey in Moncton before he went to Oshawa where he played three seasons with the Oshawa Generals. Last season at Quebec in 58 games he scored 46 goals, topping the league, and had 34 assists for a total of 80 points.

New York Rangers of the Nation Hockey League in training at Guelph, today sent four forwards to Saskatoon of the reorganized Pacific Coast League. The four are Vic Howe, Bill Kyle, Cy Rouse and Alex Kuzma. The Saskatoon team is coached by Bill Cook, former Ranger star.

They played a soccer game at night at London recently and the critics were amazed to discover that almost everybody liked the idea. The game, between Arsenal of London and the Hapoel Amateur Club of Tel Aviv, attracted 45,000 fans and was one of the first major soccer contests ever played entirely under the lights in England. Soccer at night is still not sanctioned by the Soccer Association for league matches. As yet, it's exhibition only.

Penzance and Newlyn beat Rosslyn Park 16-0 in a Rugby Union match last night. In the second round of the Yorkshire Cup in the rugby league Keighley defeated Halifax 18-4.

St. John Beavers of the Maritime Major Hockey League will do their pre-league training on an Ontario rink—perhaps in western Ontario—starting early next week, it was learned last night at Saint John, NB.

Detroit Breaks Soo Puck Camp

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 26 (CP).—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League broke camp today after 16 days of intensive pre-season training. They will undergo two more weeks' training in Detroit.

"Without a doubt, this camp has been our most successful," manager Jack Adams told reporters.

He said his mind is pretty well made up about Detroit's line-up for the start of the 1951-52 season.

Terry Sawchuk is back in goal Leo Reise, Len Kelly, Bob Goldham, Marcel Pronovost and Benny Wolt will comprise the defence. Syd Abel will centre Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay on our top line, with Glenn Skovy spelling off Abel in addition to taking over a penalty-killing role with Marty Pavelich.

"Pavelich will work with Metro Prystai and Freddy Glover on our new second line and veteran Tony Leswick will play alongside the Wilson brothers on the third line."

Edge Mount Pleasant

Mutuals edged Mount Pleasant 4-3 in the third game of the Industrial Fastball League Tuesday night at the Bowl. Mount Pleasant still leads the championship series 2-1 in games and need only one more to win.

Donated Hockey Allan Cup, Financier Dies

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP). — Sir Hugh Montagu Allan, wealthy Canadian financier and sportsman who gave his name to one of Canada's best known sports trophies, hockey's Allan Cup, died today. He was 91.

Sir Hugh Montagu, who donated the cup for the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship, died at 4:10 a.m. EDT in the Ross Memorial Pavilion of Royal Victoria Hospital. He had been admitted suffering from a heart condition.

He was born in Montreal Oct. 13, 1860, the son of Sir Hugh Allan Canadian shipping magnate. He was created a Knight Bachelor in 1904.

Born Hugh Andrew Allan, he changed his name to Hugh Montague shortly after joining his fathere's shipping firm, H. A. Allan. He was educated at Bishop's College, in Lennoxville, Que., and Paris.

Sir Hugh Montagu served in the First World War with Canadian forces. He lost two daughters, Gwendolyn Evelyn and Anna Marjorie, in the sinking of the Lusitania. He also lost a son, Hugh, in the Royal Air Force.

He held various high posts in a number of Canadian companies until his retirement some time ago.

McFater Decisions Dukes In 10 Rounds

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP). — Alan McFater of Toronto last night pounded out a 10-round unanimous decision over Freddie Dukes of Philadelphia in a professional boxing bout. Both weighed 140.

It was Dukes' first defeat in 17 professional scraps.

Royals To Play Milwaukee In Little Series

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP). — Montreal Royals of the International League, who wind up in baseball's little world series with surprising regularity, play host to Milwaukee Brewers, American Association champions, tonight in the first game of a best-of-seven series.

For Royals, No. 1 farm team of Brooklyn Dodgers, it is the sixth appearance in the little world series in 10 years, a fact which gives them some of the status in the International League that the New York Yankees hold in the American League.

In their five appearances the Royals have won the little world series three times. This is their first meeting with Milwaukee who have been successful both times they played in the minor league classic.

There are only a few things on which to compare the two teams. Milwaukee has five players with better than .300 averages. One of them is rookie first baseman George Crowe who led the American Association with .339.

In comparison, Montreal has only two better-than-.300 hitters —outfielder George (Shotgun) Shuba with .308 and second baseman Hector Rodriguez with .303.

Edge in Pitchers

The Brewers also appear to have a slight edge in pitchers. They plan to use righthander Murray Wall (15-5) in tonight's opener against Chris Van Cuyk (11-4).

Dick Donovan (7-5) of Milwaukee may face Montreal's Mal Mallette (10-2) in the second game; and Ernie Johnson (15-4) will probably hurl the third for Milwaukee against Tom Lasorda (12-8).

Despite the apparent edge, Royals have been installed as 9-to-5 favorites.

The first three games are scheduled for Montreal's Delormier Stadium tonight, Thursday and Friday. The series then moves to Milwaukee.

Football coach Lew Hayman of Montreal Alouettes is among the persons hoping the weather stays good so that the three games will be cleared away by Friday, or Saturday at the latest.

Reason is that Hayman's Alouettes are scheduled to meet Toronto Argonauts in a Sunday afternoon football game at Delormier Stadium.

Since the baseball Royals are landlords at the Stadium, they will take precedence if Sunday is required for a baseball date.

Bob Moran, Argonaut president, has said his team will probably refuse to play a Sunday night game in Montreal. In Toronto he was quoted as saying last night that if the Sunday afternoon game isn't played, he will ask that Argonauts be given the game by default.

Should persons of different faiths marry?

Why is intermarriage between Catholics, Protestants, Jews opposed by leaders of all these religions? In October Reader's Digest, human relations expert Dr. David Mace discusses the hazards of mixed marriage.

Dr. Mace points out where friction may arise—in raising children, in day to day points of view. Read how parents can help their children avoid the pitfalls of mixed marriage; how a couple involved in one can best deal with problems they must face.

Miracle Happening? Brooks Blasted; Lead By One Game

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Is the miracle about to come to pass?

Will the given-up-for-dead New York Giants actually overhaul the runaway Brooklyn Dodgers?

Are the Dodgers panic-stricken?

These are some of the questions asked today by an astonished baseball world, dazed by yesterday's sudden turn of events that left the Dodgers reeling.

Manager Charlie Dressen and his Brooklyn crew saw their once-huge 13½-game bulge over the Giants melt to a single game last night when the Braves pummelled them in a nightmarish flood-lighted double-header, 6-3 and 14-2. At the same time the relentless Giants were polishing off Philadelphia Phils 5-1 for their 34th triumph in their last 41 games.

American Scramble

The big doings in the National League far overshadowed the American League scramble that saw the front-running New York Yankees move a step nearer the flag when both Cleveland and Boston Red Sox were beaten. The Chicago White Sox shoved the Indians three gams behind the Yanks with a 4-2 triumph while Washington dropped the Red Sox 5½ games off the pace with a 2-0 victory.

The Dodgers were depressed, but there was no hint of surrender despite their double debacle.

"We're still in front. That's all I know," said Captain Pee Wee Reese.

"We got all the bad baseball out of our system," said Dressen. "The boys aren't panicky. There is nothing we can do but go out and win four of our remaining five."

The Dodgers still have five to go—two in Boston and three in Philadelphia. The Giants have three left— one in Philadelphia and two in Boston. Any combination of four Dodger wins and/or Giant defeats would clinch the flag for Brooklyn.

Cannot Lose

The Giants still face a herculean task and Manager Leo Durocher is well aware of it. His charges cannot afford to lose another game. They are certain to face Warren Spahn, ace Boston lefthander, in one of them. Spahn yesterday whipped the Dodgers for his 22nd victory.

"I'd be foolish to predict a pennant," said Durocher. "Nobody realizes what a task we are confronted with better than I. We still have to have help to win it."

"But let me tell you this," he added. "This is the fightingest ball club I ever managed. Everybody else gave up on us but the players themselves. They don't know what it is to quit."

Durocher yesterday made a smart managerial move that helped the Giants to victory. Starter-winner Jim Hearn lost his shutout in the seventh with a home-run pitch to Willie Jones. When two singles followed with only one out, Leo derricked Hearn and summoned Sal Maglie, his ace righthander.

Maglie threw a double-play ball to pinch-hitter Del Ennis and breezed through the eighth and ninth innings to ensure Hearn's 16th win. Alvin Dark paved the way for Robin Roberts' 13th defeat, banging a triple and home run.

No Doubts

The Braves decided each game early. They tallied six runs in the first inning of the opener and scored another sixer in the second inning of the nightcap. A two-run homer by Sam Jethroe and Buddy Kerr's bases-loaded double sent Ralph Branca down to defeat in the first game.

Three Dodger errors and a long single by Earl Torgeson that scored three runners highlighted the second-game outburst at the expense of loser Carl Erskine. Jim Wilson hurled a three-hitter for the Braves.

Billy Pierce pitched a nine-hitter to register his fifth victory in six starts against the Indians. He started a game-ending double play after the Tribe had loaded the bases in the ninth. Orestes Minoso homered and singled for the White Sox.

Bob Porterfield handcuffed the Red Sox with two singles as the Senators got eight off loser Leo Kiely.

The Yankees, rained out of their scheduled game with Philadelphia Athletics, need to win only two of their remaining six to clinch the flag. They play the A's today and follow with five against the Red Sox.

HARNESS HORSES, drivers and sulkies are tangled over the track at the Allentown, Pa. track, following a collision. Six horses suffered minor cuts and bruises, five sulkies were wrecked and one driver, Olin Davis, was hospitalized. Another driver was thrown 20 feet in the unusual accident, but landed on his feet and walked away unhurt.

US May Wangle Oatis' Release

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP) — Communist Czechoslovakia's new envoy said Tuesday William N. Oatis, imprisoned Associated Press correspondent, is quite well, and held open the possibility that his release might be negotiated.

But first Ambassador Vladimir Prochazka said "it would be necessary to clean the atmosphere" of relations between the United States and Czechoslovakia. He added there were no signs of improvement at this time.

Prochazka's reassurance that Oatis is alive and well was given at a press conference at which the envoy defended Oatis' conviction and assailed the United States for exerting pressure on Czechoslovakia by means of export controls and a current move to cut off tariff concessions.

Oatis sentenced to 10 years on charges that his news reporting made him guilty of spying, is in jail, Prochazka said. This information was received recently from Prague but added no details, he said.

NEW BRIGADE FLASHES—These are new shoulder flashes to be worn by the three major battalions of Canada's new 27th Infantry Brigade when serving overseas. Left to right are flashes for 1st Canadian Highland Battalion; 1st Canadian Infantry Battalion; and 1st Canadian Rifle Battalion. Miscellaneous units of the Brigade will wear the same French grey shield without any insignia beneath "Canada" lettering.

Varsity Paper Has Girl Editor

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP) —The Varsity, University of Toronto undergraduate daily newspaper, this year has a woman managing editor—for the first time in its 71 years' history. She is Barbara Browne, attractive 20-year-old blonde from Toronto.

Her position on the eight-page morning paper, whose circulation of 11,000 each week-day makes it the largest student publication in the Commonwealth, calls for co-ordinating the work of the news departments, writing one editorial a week and, as she puts it, "seeing that we get out a decent paper every day."

As befits a third-year modern history student, she is interested in politics but has no desire to go into politics herself. She hopes to combine a career of university lecturing and free-lance writing.

Top Policemen Linked 10 Years With Gamblers

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—A boiling mad Brooklyn grand jury charged Tuesday that New York's top policemen have been in league with gamblers for 10 years.

It put the finger on nearly every inspector of the past decade, labelling them a "hierarchy of corrupt officials."

Even those who never took a penny, the grand jury said, were in on the scheme to rake in bribes.

The grand jury demanded a wholesale housecleaning of top members of the 19,000-man police department. It said those who can't be fire should be demoted.

The grand jury's bitter arraignment of the department came in the form of a presentment, a statement that does not require criminal prosecuion as an indictment does.

Police Commissioner George Monaghan—a recent appointee, who was not blamed by the grand jury—had nothing to say about the presentment.

Wrecked Case

The rackets-probing grand jury's presentment came a week after balky bookie Harry Gross wrecked its big bribe case against 18 New York policemen. Gross refused to testify against them.

The cops allegedly took $1,000,000 a year in bribes to protect Gross' $20,000,000-a-year gambling ring. The grand jury suggested that the five district attorneys of New York city maintain squads of well-trained investigators to keep a constant check on the police.

If a known gambler was arrested by a district attorney's squad, the grand jury said, the inspector in that division should be held "incompetent or derelict in his duty."

If this happened in more than one division of a borough, the grand jury said the borough police commander should be fired.

Baseball Bat Death

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 26 (CP)—The trial of Charles Alexander Metcalfe of Ingersoll, charged with manslaughter in the baseball bat slaying last Feb. 23 of William Wells, 67, is expected to go to the jury today. The 28-year-old father of four children took the witness stand on his own behalf at yesterday's hearing.

Doctors Refused Aid

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 26 (AP) —A 39-year-old man died of a heart attack between 4 and 5 a.m. yesterday, and a neighbor told reporters four doctors she called refused to come to the man's aid because of the hour.

UK Bomb "Alley" of 1940 Sees Civil Defence Project

LONDON, Sept. 26 — (AP)— Camberwell — nicknamed London's "bomb alley" for its hard blitzing in the last war—provides a realistic setting for the first big civil-defence exercise in this blitzed capital since the last bomb crashed nearly seven years ago.

Camberwell's practice run is aimed not only at giving practice to its slim forces of rescuers, first-aid workers and welfare people but to stir up interest in joining the volunteer civil defence corps.

This first big London exercise will take place Sept. 29 and will last two or three hours.

A bombed site, with wrecked buildings still standing on it, will be its locale. Additional rubble will be added to the gaunt wrecks to make it look as though a bomb has just hit. A few cans containing radioactive substances likely will be scattered through the wreckage to give detection experts a trial run in marking out danger areas.

Actual radiation will not be enough to endanger anyone.

Aged Play Part

Old people from council old-age homes will play the parts of people made homeless by an atom blast which, in the imagination, takes place at 3.05 a.m. on the morning of Sept. 29, 1953.

The victims made up to look seriously injured, will be strewn through the wreckage to provide practice for rescuers and first-aid workers.

The drive for civil-defence recruits began in November, 1950. So far only 152,000 have stepped forward for training in civil-defence work and another 30,000 have joined the auxiliary fire service and the special constabulary.

Londoners are more laggard than people in most other parts of the country about joining the civil defence corps. London's population is about 20 per cent of the total in England and Wales, but its 20,000 civil-defence volunteers make up only about 15 per cent of the total who have joined the corps.

Basket Factory Closed By Wildcat Strike

HAMILTON, Sept. 26—(CP)—Merritt Brothers basket factory at Grimsby, operated by Canadian Wood Products Limited, was closed today and employees were refused admittance following a wildcat sitdown strike yesterday in protest over the company's refusal to re-open wage negotiations.

Yesterday morning, employees sat down and refused to work. In the afternoon, they were notified by the company that unless they returned to work immediately they would be considered dismissed and their pay cheques would be mailed.

Social Evening Held By Oak Heights School

WARKWORTH, Sept. 26 (ENS) —A social evening was held for the Sunday School of the Oak Heights United Church on Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Lawrence.

During the early part of the evening the children enjoyed playing crockinole.

The Rev. H. G. Lester was chairman for the programme which was presented by the Sunday School pupils.

Port Arthur To Build 370 Homes With Help

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 26 (CP) —City council last night approved—in principle the construction of 370 homes here under two dominion - provincial housing schemes.

Three hundred of the homes would be built and financed entirely by a dominion-provincial partnership and would sell for a monthly payment of approximately $58. The other 70 would be built entirely for rental purposes, with rent set at about $60.

Construction may start next spring if questions of site and costs to the city can be cleared up by then.

Awards Given Women Writers At Convention

HALIFAX, Sept. 26 — (CP)— Chairman Isabel Dingman, London, Ont., of the Canadian Women's Press Club Memorial Awards Committee, yesterday announced the names of this year's winners.

They are Miss Iris Power, St. John's, Nfld., Mrs. Vinia Hoogstraten, Winnipeg, and Mrs. Betty Marsh, Vancouver.

The announcement came during the opening business session of the club's biennial convention.

Miss Power was given her award for a story appearing in her St. John's Evening Telegram column, "Odds and Ends."

An article on the Winipeg floods, "Heartbreak of Coming Home," published in Chatelaine, won the magazine award for Mrs. Hoogstraten.

Mrs. Marsh's award was for a radio script, "Two Korean Stowaways."

Honorable mention for newspaper classification went to: Evelyn Caldwell, of The Vancouver Sun, Bobbie Turcette, Ottawa Journal and Isabel Plant, London Free Press.

Frances Shelly Wees and Svetlana Gouzenko, of Toronto, Armande Marc, Montreal, and Aedelaide Leitch, St. John's, won honorable mention in the magazine division.

Honorable mention in the radio script competition went to Anne Francis, Ottawa, Ellen Harris, Vancouver, and Sada Sanddusky, West Vancouver.

ASK TAX CUTS—This is the delegation representing 4,000 Ontario tobacco growers which met Finance Minister Abbott and David Sim, Deputy Minister of National Revenue, to ask cigarette tax reduction. The growers said big drop in cigarette sales had been caused by the tax and asked for reduction which would permit price for package of 20 to be reduced to 35 cents from 40. Shown left to right: J. E Perrett of Simcoe, Ont.; delegation chairman, Francis R. Gregory, Leamington, Ont.; Mr. Sim; Raymond Anderson, Liberal Member of Parliament for Norfolk; Grant Mitchell, Straffordshire, Ont. Some Exemption On Investment Income Allowed OTTAWA, Sept. 26—(CP)—A Revenue Department official said yesterday that under the existing Income Tax Act personal exemptions can be deducted for the purpose of computing the amount of tax investment income.

Under the act, a person can apply a flat deduction of $2,400 or the total of his personal exemptions — those for marital status and dependents — against his investment income. Against the remainder a four-per-cent surtax, is applied.

(The Canadian Press erroneously reported Monday the Exchequer Court had ruled that personal exemptions could no longer be deducted from investment income.)

The official said that prior to 1949 personal exemptions could not be deducted from investment income in computing the amount of tax. Only an exemption of $1,800 was allowed. The court judgment applied in a case where an appeal was launched against a 1947 income tax assessment.

Appeal Board

The Income Tax Appeal Board had ruled that a taxpayer could apply both the statutory deduction and personal exemptions against his investment income in computing his tax. The Exchequer Court reversed that decision.

The official said that the changes made to the Income Tax Act in 1949 make it clear that either the flat statutory deduction of $2,400 or the total of personal exemptions is to apply against investment income.

A person, he said, would pay the regular income tax on earned income. On unearned or investment income he would pay an additional four-per-cent tax on any amount over $2,400 or the total of his personal exemptions.

Clear Bottlenecks

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said last night he is confident that Great Lakes transportation problems can be satisfactorily worked out, and that the best possible use will be made of bulk-carrying transportation facilities. Addressing the Toronto Junior Board of Trade, he said the problem of the moment is primarily one of bottlenecks, "and the main concern of the newly-appointed transport controller will be to try to prevent them from arising."

Gasoline Price Down

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 26 (CP)— A drop from 42 to 39 cents per gallon in the retail price of its gasoline sold here was confirmed last night by one major oil company in London. A company official said the move was "to meet competition of other companies." The slash in price does not constitute the opening of a price war, the official stressed.

John Scott Buried

TORONTO, Sept. 26(CP) — Funeral services were held yesterday for John Scott, noted Canadian newspaper man. Leaders in the newspaper profession and prominent members of Toronto's business life attended the simple Anglican service in a funeral home for the man who rose from a newsboy to become managing director of the old Toronto Mail and Empire. He died Sunday at the age of 77.

Wood-Burning Train

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP) — A wood-burning locomotive carried the mail yesterday as part of the celebration of the centenary of postal service in Canada. Old Grand Trunk engine No. 40 puffed the 12 miles or so into Toronto from suburban Richmond Hill and pulled up at a siding near the stamp show site on the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds.

Officer Promoted

OTTAWA, Sept. 26 (CP)—Maj. Joseph G. Lamb, 45, one-time National Hockey League player, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel, the army announced yesterday. Officer commanding an Army Service Corps company at Fredericton since December, 1949, he now becomes area supply and transport officer for the Eastern Ontario area with headquarters at Kingston.

Would Advertise Beer

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP) — Permission to broadcast advertising of beer and liquor in Ontario is to be sought by the Central Canada Broadcasters Association. The organization of private radio station operators decided Tuesday at its first annual meeting to petition provincial authorities to lift present restrictions on such advertising.

Veto Price Increase

WINDSOR, Sept. 26 (CP) — A boost of one cent a gallon on the retail price of gasoline was vetoed yesterday by a majority of delegates attending the 11th annual convention of the Ontario Retail Gasoline Dealers' Association.

TV Aerial Removed

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP) — Civic officials yesterday declared Toronto's battle over the Regent Park television aerial at an end. They said the aerial erected by Alfred Bluett, a resident of the subsidized housing project, has been removed. The city has dropped a threat to evict Bluett for breaking a rule of the project.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CIII. No. 72 — WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1951 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

AUTUMN ARRIVED LAST NIGHT. Cool air drove the temperature down to 34 degrees and this weekend will probably be the last for hardy cottagers. As the family busy themselves at a hundred and one small jobs they will take time out to linger at the waterfront by the upturned canoes. They will not loiter long in the thin shade of the golden poplars, just long enough to recall the past summer's fishing and pleasure trips. More practical father will run his hand over the canvas and estimate the repair cost of scuffs and lack of paint. The ruffled water is covered with a pattern of bright leaves. Bluejays flash to and fro. Poison ivy is bright underfoot. It is Fall.—(Examiner Staff Photo taken on the Indian River north of Highway 7)

Gamblers Make Petes 8-5 Favorites To Capture Mann Cup

By C. J. PERDUE

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26.—Before the first game here Monday of the best-of-seven Mann Cup finals, the Petes were favored by Vancouver gamblers to take the series. They quoted even money on Peterborough to win the first game and offered 8-5 odds on the easterners to capture the Canadian senior lacrosse crown, according to a story in the Vancouver Sun. The story was headed: "Locals Underdogs for Petes' Sake!"

What the present odds are now is hard to determine. Interest was quite high as this city of nearly half a million is a good lacrosse centre. Various arenas wanted some of the games, and the Vancouver Combines calmly hoisted the price per game for fans from one dollar to two. It caused plenty of screaming from the payees.

Ald. Doug Miller, here with the club—but paying his own expenses like other executive members—presented a letter of regards to Vancouver's Mayor Hume from Mayor Max Swanston of Peterborough. This was done just before the series opened. Andy Purdon, DeLaval Co. treasurer in Peterborough, here on a business trip, took in his first lacrosse match and is now an ardent fan. Former Peterburians, including Irish Williams and Cec. Brown, were noted on deck, too.

Go Sightseeing

When not playing or practising, the Petes' players spend their time sight-seeing. A number of them went bicycling through huge Stanley Park. The exercise didn't hurt the players any, but assistant manager Red Creighton, trainer Gunner Lynch and official Harry Tudhope were strangely stiff the next day. Coach Don Crowe insists that they retire in good time each night, and some of the boys settle for a show near their hotel.

Vancouver at this time of year is rather damp, with alternate sunny days and drizzly ones. There are sailors on all sides, a few cowboys mince about on high heels, a large and wealthy English colony abides here, dozens of California cars are seen, prices are high, parking meters are almost identical to those in Peterborough, jay walking is absolutely forbidden and this is enforced. No white bread—only brown—is served in the restaurants. Papers and people talk continually of the King's illness and of the royal visit.

The first few days for the Petes proved interesting, but they were restless and under a strain. They will relax more the last half of the week and both play better in the series and enjoy themselves more when off duty.

Car Rolls Twice Passenger Gets Concussion

Walter Hagerman, 46, Norwood is in Civic Hospital with slight concussion and head injuries sustained Tuesday night when a car in which he was riding rolled over on an Asphodel township road.

His condition today is good, hospital authorities say.

OPP Constable Don Erskine, investigating the accident, is checking to find out who was driving the car when it went out of control on the Asphodel base line, five miles north of Hastings. It is owned by Joseph Kelly, Norwood, but he has not been identified as the driver.

"The car broke over the brow of a hill on the township road and then struck a gravel patch and went out of control. It travelled for 75 feet up the right shoulder of the road, rolled over a couple of times and came to a stop facing in the opposite direction.

Heavy damage was caused to the car, a 1950 model. The top and one side were crushed in and the front end was also extensively damaged.

Hagerman was treated by a Norwood doctor and then taken to hospital in Peterborough.

Nine New District Schools To Cost Nearly $2,500,000

New Peterborough schools, city and county, in various stages of completion, building and planning, will amount to a total investment of approximately $2,500,000.

They include the Monaghan Road Collegiate Institute and the Norwood-Havelock area high school, both in course of construction.

This tabulation of new educational properties may begin with the Prince of Wales annex costing $147,000 which has been finished, formally opened and is now in use, for the accommodation of public school pupils. It was built by Walter Mortlock.

Eastwood Construction Company, contractors for the new collegiate institute in the southwest section of the city, are already working on the footings which will be completed in October. By the end of the year, the building will be ready for structural steel. Contractor's tender was accepted at $650,000.

St. Peter's School annex is estimated at $585,000. This new building is on Reid St.

$65,000 Addition

An addition to Grove Public School on Erskine Ave., at the ex- in the extreme southwest corner of the city, requires the expenditure of $65,000. Mr. Mortlock, contractor, will have the roof on some time in October.

Eastwood Construction Co. has the contract for the Norwood area high school at $390,000, and in the list of prospects is a similar school which is proposed for the Lakefield section of the county.

Board of Education is faced with the actual necessity of providing more school rooms in Ashburnham, and has purchased ground on McFarlane St. for a primary school that will cost around $200,000.

Separate School No. 17, Otonabee, east of the canal, is estimated at $59,500.

Junior School

Reverting to the prospects, a four-room junior school is contemplated by the Board of Education for a St. Catherine St. site. That street extends south from Braidwood Ave., paralleling Park St. and Monaghan Rd.

It is altogether likely that the total cost of these school buildings, primary and secondary, will exceed $2,500,000.

The McFarlane St. Public School will probably have to be undertaken next year.

Pressure of school needs in this growing area, with the provision of improved facilities in the two sections of the county, has forced the hands of official economy.

Two Canadians Decorated By Netherlands

OTTAWA, Sept. 26 (CP). — Two Canadians have been awarded gallantry decorations by the Netherlands government for their daring in cross-channel raids and work with the Dutch underground during the Second World War.

The awards were presented by A.H.J. Lovink, Netherlands' Ambassador to Canada, in an investiture yesterday. They went to craftsman Peter A. Vissier of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers' school at Kingston, Ont., and Capt. Robert Welland Paterson who now lives at Syracuse, NY.

Vissier, 27, who left his father's farm near Lethbridge in 1942 to enlist, received The Netherlands' bronze cross for gallantry in cross-channel raiding as a commando. He did air drops into Arnheim, Nijmegen and Walcheren Island and was wounded in the latter action.

Capt. Paterson received the bronze lion, another gallantry award, for service with the Dutch underground. During the war as an artillery officer, he saw service in Italy, Holland, France and Germany.

Postmaster Foils Thieves Drilling PO Safe

Kinmount residents are still congratulating their postmaster, Cecil Shultz, on foiling an attempt by two men to open the postoffice safe.

Shultz heard the sound of an electric drill coming from within as he walked by his office early Tuesday morning. He walked in and found two men busily drilling holes in the safe.

With the help of several others Shultz almost succeeded in capturing the men, but after a brief game of hide-and-seek their quarry got away in the darkness. In their haste the men left behind an electric drill that had previously been stolen from Simpson's garage, Kinmount.

The would-be safe crackers entered both the garage and the postoffice by prying open the door locks.

Two Men Brush With Death As Car Hits Freight Train

Two Peterborough men had a close brush with death today when their car ran into a freight train at the CNR tracks on Monaghan Rd. Both were shaken up and received head bruises but they were otherwise uninjured. The pair, returning home from the early night shift at CGE, were Jack Haslett, 19, 745 Payne Ave., and William G. Begley, 29, 464 Rose Ave.

Haslett, the driver, told police he saw the train too late to brake properly and the 1938-model car plowed into the eighth box-car on the CNR freight.

The box-car caught the front end of the vehicle and jerked it parallel to the tracks, facing in a westerly direction. The windshield was smashed, front end badly damaged and the left side crumpled and torn. The car is almost a complete wreck.

Just Riding Home

Haslett and Begley both work in the wire department of the CGE. They had just finished their shift and Haslett was giving his workmate a ride home when the accident occurred.

Both were thrown forward by the impact. Haslett received a small bump and Begley a scrape on the head. Neither required medical attention.

Police measured one tire mark leading back for 85 feet. The accident was investigated by Constables Claire McGillen and Harold Mesley.

There is a flasher light and a bell at the intersection.

J. ALEX EDMISON, KC, assistant to the principal at Queen's University, Kingston, who will speak to the PCVS Home and School Association Thursday night at the collegiate auditorium.

Chamber Survey Follows Schedule Switch

A new CPR timetable schedule to go into effect Sept. 30 has resulted in the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce making a survey to see if members are satisfied with the change.

Sept. 15 and 17, the CPR ran an advertisement in this paper announcing the change and asking that anyone suffering inconveniences by the new schedule notify the general passenger agent, Toronto.

The CPR also signified that the desire of the majority will govern the schedule.

The changes in which the Chamber is interested are as follows (standard time): The morning train to Toronto will leave here at 8, arriving at 10:05. In the past this train left at 7:10 and arrived at 9:05. The evening train from Toronto will leave at 7:15, instead of 6:30 and arrive here at 9:25 instead of 8:40. The afternoon train to Toronto will leave at 5:30, formerly 5:10 and arrive at 7:50.

Questionnaire Sent

Monday the Chamber sent out letters and questionnaires to its members asking for their opinion on the new schedule. The purpose is to find out whether the changes will inconvenience local businessmen.

The change in the morning schedule is causing the most interest to the Chamber, with the idea that many industrialists have been using the former early train to attend meetings in Toronto scheduled at 9:30 a.m. or 9:45 a.m.

Chamber board of directors will study the results of the questionnaires and make a decision, probably at the end of the week, what action will be taken.

Melville Jamieson, uptown CPR ticket agent said today that for the past six years he has been receiving complaints about the early leaving time of the Peterborough-Toronto train during the winter.

Born In Peterborough Advertising Man Dies

MacDonald Donnelly, Blightwood Ave., Toronto, and formerly of Peterborough died Tuesday following a lingering illness.

He was born and educated in Peterborough, South Central School and PCVS, son of Mrs. W. H. Donnelly and the late Mr. Donnelly. From Peterborough he went to St. Augustine, Florida for two years and then to Toronto where he was advertising executive.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Donnelly, Toronto; one sister Isabelle Donnelly, Toronto; and one brother, Alex, Kansas City, Missouri.

Funeral service will be held in Toronto, Saturday and the body brought to Peterborough by train for burial in Little Lake cemetery.

Truck, Two Cars In Road Tangle

Three motor vehicles were damaged Tuesday but there were no injuries when a truck and two cars collided on Highway 7, six-and-a-half miles east of the city.

The tangle began when Thomas Hall, 64, Campbellford, was halted by a flagman guarding a construction job on the highway. He was driving west toward Peterborough.

A westbound truck, driven by Jacob Katz, 44, Aylmer St., slowed as it came up behind Hall and then began to edge by to the south. As it did so a second car, driven by Roger Watkins, 40, Kapuskasing, crashed into the rear of Hall's car.

Hall's car was bunted across to the southwest lane of the high way. As it did so it came in collision with the right front end of the truck.

Apart from a dented fender the truck was undamaged, but Hall's car received $300 damage and Watkins' $500.

OPP Constable Wallace Mohns investigated.

French Classes

MONTREAL—(CP)— Evening classes in French conversation for English-speaking adults will reopen Oct. 1 under direction of J. E. Cloutier. Organized by the provincial secretary, lessons are given in six schools by special French teachers.

Two Canadians Decorated By Netherlands

OTTAWA, Sept. 26 (CP). — Two Canadians have been awarded gallantry decorations by the Netherlands government for their daring in cross-channel raids and work with the Dutch underground during the Second World War.

The awards were presented by A.H.J. Lovink, Netherlands' Ambassador to Canada, in an investiture yesterday. They went to craftsman Peter A. Vissier of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers' school at Kingston, Ont., and Capt. Robert Welland Paterson who now lives at Syracuse, NY.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

NORTHERN LIGHTS.

An allover display of northern lights Tuesday night herald autumn's first really chilly night. The temperature dropped officially to 34 degrees (31 is freezing), and left layers of frost on not a few car tops.

EAST AND WEST.

Examiner editors are spread thinly across the country this week. On the west coast, sports editor Cec Perdue is covering the Mann Cup lacrosse finals. In Halifax, Jean E. Stenton, telegraph editor, is attending a conference of the Canadian Women's Press Club. Their reports are seen daily in this paper.

APPOINTED MEMBER

Dr. L. J. Calvert, was appointed an associate member of the North Eastern Section of the American Urological Association recently. Dr. Calvert attended a meeting of the association, which was held at Lake Placid, New York, last week.

HILDEBRAND SIGNS

Jim Hendy, manager of the Cleveland Barons, announced Tuesday night that Ike Hildebrand has signed his AHL contract for this season. Hildebrand was one of a few of the members of the Peterborough Timbermen who did not go to Vancouver for the Mann Cup finals.

"GLAD IT WASN'T ANY WORSE," was the verdict of 19-year-old Jack Haslett, Payne Ave., after his car crashed into a freight train shortly after 1:00 a.m. today. Haslett and his passenger, William Begley, 29, Rose Ave., received bruises and scrapes after their car was knocked sideways by a box-car. The 1938-model car, badly damaged, is shown above.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Be Yourself Is Advice If Talking With Princess

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP)—How does one behave in the presence of a Princess? What does one say to the prospective consort of a Queen?

These are questions many Canadians, and not a few Americans, are asking as Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, head for Canada and the United States, on a state visit.

There are no hard and fast rules, but advice in the more sensible sectors of court circles is: "be yourself."

Should the ladies curtsy to the Royal pair? Canadians on formal occasions curtsy to the Governor-General. So there are sure to be curtsies in Canada to the young lady who almost certainly will one day be the sovereign.

But on the street—if by the most unusual chance you should meet her there—skip it. She will smile and bow and the Duke probably will wave cheerfully. You can do the same.

Conversation

Now, what to talk about? No politics, please. The Royal family knows all there is to know about British politics, but traditionally and constitutionally is above it and doesn't talk about it. Especially now, with an election campaign going on.

Talk about babies. They've got two. Talk about music, dogs, horses, gardens. Don't be dry, both of them like a joke.

To the Duke, talk about ships, he's a sailor man. Talk about polo, that's his dish. Talk about motors, he likes speed. He'll chatter about baseball, perhaps, but even better would be cricket and football, the soccer and rugby type.

Best thing to remember is that they're young parents coming on a visit to be friendly.

"Eye Doctors" Fleece Farmer

GUELPH, Sept. 26 (CP)—Provincial police here are conducting an investigation into the activities of two nattily-dressed "eye doctors" who turned out to be nothing more than confidence men.

Their suave approach to prospective victims appears to be similar to that of two men who swindled two Stouffville farmers out of $1,248 about a week ago, Provincial Constable Walter Tarry said today.

Constable Tarry said the two men fleeced a Wellington county farmer and his wife out of $600 about a month ago by passing themselves off as eye specialists. The incident was disclosed to police this week.

The money was obtained after the two phoney "specialists" agreed to perform a relatively simple operation on the eyes of the farmer's wife in her home.

The farmer later signed a cheque and was driven to a bank in a nearby town where the cheque was cashed and the money paid over to the two men.

Broadcasts Allowed In Public Hearings

ASBURY PARK, NJ, Sept. 26 —(AP). — This city's ban on broadcasting a public hearing on a proposed new tax was upset by the courts yesterday as violating freedom of the press.

Judge C. Thomas Schettino ordered Mayor George A. Smock II and City Manager J. Oliver Armstrong to permit radio station WJLK, owned and operated by the Asbury Park Press, to set up microphones at today's hearing.

Smock had ruled out the broadcast on the ground that persons appearing at the session might make objectionable statements.

Schettino ruled that news broadcasts come within Federal and State constitutions' guarantee of freedom of the press.

He said the case was unprecedented in the United States as far as he knew.

Sailor Falls Into Canal Treated For Shock

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 26 — (CP)—Jim Tamborine, a lake seaman from Hamilton Beach, was treated for shock early today after he fell overboard from a barge as it passed through the Welland Canal at lock No. 2.

The barge was being towed by the tug Helena when he slipped and fell into the water.

He told police he went under the barge in the canal and swam to the shore on the ohter side.

Irishman Sailed Around World 3 Times Has Ridden On Trains for 30 Years

By JEAN E. STENTON
Examiner Telegraph Editor

HALIFAX—For more than 30 years, S. O'Neill (Peggy to his intimates on the Montreal to Toronto CPR parlor car day run) has been working on passenger trains. And what does he do for a holiday? He goes for a train ride—preferably some place he hasn't been before.

And that's quite a chore. For Mr. O'Neill has seen more in his lifetime than any dozen average people.

At 13, "Peggy" left home in Queenstown, Southern Ireland, on a sailing schooner. His first trip took him to Brazil and South America and he's never been home since.

In those days schooners had no auxiliary engines and the length of trips was always a matter of speculation. Frequently they were becalmed and waited patiently or impatiently for a breath of wind.

Tough Spot

Some of his toughest trips were around "The Horn" and he has fascinating tales to tell. He sailed around the world three times in different ships and in different capacities. He was in the army and the navy in the First World War, for a while he plied the waters off Nova Scotia on small passenger steamers; he served in different parts of Canada. Name it and chances are, he's been there.

The parlor car on this particular train (Monday, Wednesday and Friday to Toronto, and Tuesday Thursday and Saturday to Montreal) has a special atmosphere for veteran Peterborough travellers. It is a "family car."

The two who make it something out of the ordinary are like a singing and dance team. They compliment each other. Tall, lanky Frank Gower with 38 years service is in charge of the parlor car and "Peggy" O'Neill is chief cook and bottlewasher.

Just Friends

To the regulars who take the 5.10 train to Toronto or the noon train to Montreal, they are "Frank" and "Peggy".

"Our regular travellers are friends, not passengers, and we think that's an achievement," Gower said.

Mr. O'Neill's kitchen would drive a housewife crazy. He can stand in the middle of his cubbyhole and reach everything from refrigerator to dishwasher.

At the end of the small cubicle is a narrow floor-to-ceiling ice box which is provisioned with enough food to feed between 75 and 100 people. Pies and chicken pies are taken on all prepared, but everything else is fresh and cooked on order.

One-Man Chef

This chef cooks for all the passengers. In spite of the small space, he produces meals in record time. His recipe— system speed and everything in its place.

Mr. Gower who is due to retire in May, says Peterborough and Perth are the two nicest places on his run. He knows all the regulars and remembers their specialties.

Flower Hobby

How to grow old gracefully was demonstrated by Mrs. Burroughs of Montreal West who believes in hobbies. Her hobby is flower growing, and after an enthusiastic description of the glories of Christmas Cactus, I have almost been converted into trying my hand.

Truly they are a fascinating hobby. They don't resemble an ordinary cactus at all. The plant in its early stages has a thin stem with thin satin-like leaves. The buds begin to appear in November and are at their peak by Christmas. Sometimes they will last into February, Mrs. Burroughs said.

Her pride and joy was one plant that sported 500 red bell-like blossoms. It was so big she had to keep it in a bu' et.

Older The Better

The older the plant, th e blossoms. The first year si 10; the second 50 and she c it has a fascinating reward.

After her husband died six years ago, Mrs. Burroughs turned to flowers as a new interest. In addition to cactus, she has made a specialty of growing African Violets. A neighbor up the street has 18. They are going to pool their efforts and try some horticultural shows.

"Life is never dull," she said. "I haven't time."

A painting which draws visitors from all over the world and for which the owner turned down $400,000 is the feature at Mother Martin's in Montreal.

Although it is noted for good food and drink, the picture is as big an attraction. Unless forewarned, the average visitor will find it a rather dull piece of work.

Titled "When Day Is Done" it portrays an elderly man reading a paper. The thing that makes it unique is a second painting of a woman superimposed on his forehead and part of the face. So cleverly has it been done that unless you look closely you would never realize the second picture was there. Part of the face represents part of the woman's body.

Lovely Sight

In two weeks' time, this trip on the CNR from Montreal to Halifax will be absolutely beautiful. The trees are just beginning to turn. In New Brunswick particularly, small groups of these trees dressed in vivid scarlet and reflected in small streams are a sparkling appetizer for the autumn delights to come.

Another pleasant view is the country around Sayabec, Quebec. Here are miniature mountains (miniature when compared with the Rockies) and lovely lakes and rivers. The Laurentians, tree-covered and bathed in a soft blue haze, are a charming sight.

From there all through the Matapedia Valley there are continuous picturesque mountain-and-water scenes. At Causapscal, the entrance gate is similar to the Great Divide between Alberta and BC.

Plaque Erected To Ontario Nurse

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 26—(CP)—A bronze plaque will be unveiled soon in the Panama Canal Zone in memory of a St. Cathtarines nurse who organized nursing services in Panama in 1904.

Eugenie Hibbard, an early graduate of the 77-year-old Mack Training School here, served as nursing sister in the South African War then in Cuba where she set up a training school for nurses.

In 1904 she was appointed nead nurse at Ancon Hill hospital in the Panama Canal Zone, during the construction of the canal. She died in Jamaica in 1949 at the age of 90.

After two years as nursing superintendent here, she organized the Harper Hospital Nursing School in Detroit in 1889.

A picture of the bronze tablet has been presented to the Mack Training School by Jessie Murdock of Jersey City, N.J., a former associate of Miss Hibbard.

High Costs Force Married Women To Hunt Work

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP). — Surveys showing that larger numbers of married women are entering the employment field because of the increased cost of living were presented today to the National Council of Women.

The surveys, by local committees, were embodied in a report by Mrs. Roy Campbell of Regina, national convener of the council's trades and professions committee.

During the last year the councils concentrated on "the older woman in employment" as one phase of the national theme, "The Canadian Family." Results indicate that on the whole, the labor picture across Canada appears "quite bright," although certain seasonal layoffs were noted.

Establishment by the Ontario Government of the principle of equal pay for men and women doing the same work was regarded as a "tremendous step forward" although some disappointment was voiced over the wording of the act. The hope was expressed that other provinces would not be far behind Ontario.

Vancouver reported that married women accounted for much of the increase in the number of women entering employment in British Columbia. Employers were beginning to realize women must be employed for the work they can do, and not according to marital status or age. Nurses were in good supply but teachers were needed. A slight demand was reported for laboratory technicians and air stewardesses. The United Church is seeking 125 young women annually for work in Christian education and other fields both in Canada and in foreign countries.

Must Be Qualified

Victoria reported an increasing number of women seeking employment largely because of the higher cost of living or the seasonal unemployment of the husband. The committee found that positions are always available for trained, qualified women, even the older women with special skill and experience.

In Medicine Hat the committee chairman served on the advisory committee of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. Substantial assistance is given there to work for the disabled and the blind.

Regina studied contributory pension schemes, particularly from the viewpoint of older women not gainfully employed.

Fort William reported good opportunities in business for single girls with the necessary qualifications. Little demand existed for women in the higher professional groups, except in hospitals. Because of good pay, some women were seeking jobs on boats and as cooks and helpers in bush work.

The Toronto committee reported that if older women are trained in their profession, are alert and have attractive personalities, there is no difficulty in placing them.

The Kingston, Ont., committee found that women over 45 were not as acceptable as the younger ones in the general labor market except where training, experience and personality were deciding factors. Age was a less important consideration in the professions.

Ottawa reported that while some employers felt the married woman with home responsibilities was an "uncertain quantity," they still wanted experienced workers. It was stated that if all married women whose husbands are working withdrew their services and pay cheques, "a depression would develop overnight." If all married nurses quit their jobs, one third of the hospitals in Ontario would have to close.

More Interest Shown In Culture

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP). — Increasing interest in cultural activities in many parts of Canada was reported today to the National Council of Women by Miss E. Florence Blackwood of Halifax.

Miss Blackwood, chairman of the council's arts and letters committee, said more talent is coming to the fore in art. High schools in many places possess excellent equipment. Drama is found in church, colleges and adult education movements.

She said greater opportunities have been given for demonstration of work already undertaken, such as in the increased number of contestants and the greater length of time for the Halifax Musical Festival.

The report said also that an appreciation of history calls for the interest of many people, particularly the history of each province.

Link School Home Life For Children

MONTRAL, Sept. 26—(AP)—Emergence of a new concept in education, relating school studies to the child's every-day-life, was noted in a report today to the National Council of Women.

The report was prepared by Mrs. L. G. Ferguson of Westville, NS, chairman of the council's education committee.

It told of a new course in the British Columbia school curriculum, aimed at imparting to the pupil an understanding of himself, his needs and behaviour, combined with the ability to act intelligiently, to understand others and live harmoniously in the family and community.

Mrs. Ferguson said the important factor in education is the teacher. In this connection, aptitude tests for students entering normal colleges in Saskatchewan resulted in 65 students being dropped from teacher training last year.

Mrs. Ferguson suggested that local chairmen of education take steps to have such tests given in their provinces, where they are not already in effect.

The report said still too many top-ranking teachers "are being lured away by better salaries in other fields." Council members were urged to support efforts of teacher groups to obtain higher salary levels.

Reports from local committees agreed that the principle of equal pay for men and women teachers doing the same work is becoming more general in primary grades, but noted a difference of $100 to $300 continues in secondary grades.

As pensions are based on salaries, there is still some discrimination, Mrs. Fergusan said, but women teachers retire on full pension at the age of 60 while the retiring age for men is 65.

New Home and School associations are being formed steadily the report said, and many council committees are assisting in educating the deaf, the blind and other handicapped persons.

Among matters touched upon by Mrs. Ferguson were the teaching of safety rules to children, alcohol education and an investigation into the authorship of school texts. Information from each province showed that "a very large percentage" of textbooks used in Canada are of Canadian authorship and are published in Canada.

Wage Controls Necessary If Price Controls Imposed

MONTREAL Sept. 26 (CP). — Mrs. T. D. Clark Hamilton of Ottawa, said today that it is seeking the impossible to ask the government for price control without wage control.

The opinion was expressed in her report to the National Council of Women as chairman of the council's committee on economics and taxation.

The attempt to halt inflation by taxation is a negative approach, and by increasing taxes, the government is adding to living costs, said Mrs. Clark Hamilton.

She questioned the right of the government "to take from the people more than is necessary to meet its cost and obligations, unless taken temporarily to meet an emergency in the form of compulsory savings which will later be returned."

Labor is demanding price controls, although labor costs are primarily responsible for high prices, the report stated.

Dr. Edna Guest of Toronto, chairman of the public health committee, expressed the belief in her report that the council is still agreed that "in this vigorous, individualistic young country, health insurance should be contributory.'

Contributory health insurance, said the report, "should carry assurance that our people will continue to have in it a freedom of choice of their doctor, and thus be able to retain the present intimate doctor-patient relationship."

The increased number of reports received by Dr. Guest in protest against the present alcohol situation was "quite amazing."

They showed an "all too apparent devastating effect of alcohol on the welfare and health of our country, and in particular the young adult generation on whom Canada must so soon depend for her future destiny." One report advocated control of alcohol sale by the Narcotic Drug Act.

Broadening of Canada's immigration policy was approved in a report prepared by Mrs. T. W. MacDowell of Montreal, chairman of the council's migration committee.

The "R" that appears on all prescriptions has two accepted explanations. One holds that it's from the Latin recipe, meaning "you take" (the physician tells the pharmacist to take certain quantities of drugs to compound the prescription). The secondary theory is that R originated from the sign of Jupiter, a lucky planet supposed to bring good fortune and prevent harm.

Mrs. S. J. Williamson Elected Head Ladies' Golf Section

A two-year term as president during which the ladies' section of Peterborough Golf Club became financially independent was concluded Tuesday by Mrs. C. G. Graham. Her successor in the office is Mrs. S. J. Williamson, an ardent golfer who is this year's winner of the Strickland trophy and other prizes.

Mrs. Graham put the section in an independent position this year by institution of a cent-a-day payment system by golfers. In previous years the women have received a donation of $100. from the men to assist them with prizes, etc, but in the 1951 season this sum will be accounted as a donation from the nine-hole and 18-hole women players.

Appreciation was shown Mrs. Graham in the gift of a travel alarm clock presented on behalf of members by Mrs. C. B. Westbrook. Their feelings were voiced by Mrs. R. G. Maniece who also expressed thanks to other retiring officers. She explained that each executive member is elected for two years and the list so arranged that some are retired each year.

Mrs. Graham has been a member of the Peterborough Club for 37 years and has held almost all positions on the executive. She will continue to serve in 1952 as golf hostess, a position that has been created because Mrs. Williamson will be playing in certain tournaments to be held at the Club next year when out-of-towners will be present.

Vice-presidents on the new executive are Mrs. R. G. Maniece and Mrs. H. Bletcher. Captain is Mrs. F. Hollowell and vice-captain Mrs. W. J. Vanstone. Mrs. Joe Watson will serve a second year as secretary, Mrs. G. Sheedy will be treasurer with Mrs. C. Selkirk assisting.

The field day convener will be Mrs. H. Baptie with Mrs. A. Hill assisting. Sports and trophies convener are Mrs. V. A. Selkirk and Mrs. M. Holt; powder rooms and lockers, Mrs. S. Pearson and Mrs. R. Tanner. Special house committee convener is Mrs. F. L. Roy and the special entertainment convener Mrs. L. Lawrence. The bridge hostesses are Mrs. G. H. Cutmore and Mrs. G. Howson.

Ringer scores will be looked after by Mrs. S. McBride and handicaps by Mrs. R. G. Maniece.

Officers of the nine-hole group were re-elected.

The secretary's report of the year, prepared and read by Mrs. J. Watson, included the Business Girls' section from which a donation of $100, out of proceeds of a spring fashion show, was given to the club toward installing new showers. The treasurer's report, prepared and read by Mrs. C. B. Westbrook, showed a balance on hand in both nine-hole and 18-hole sections.

At an executive meeting called by new president Mrs. Williamson, it was decided to continue the cent-a-day system in the coming year.

What's Right?

You often take your children to eat in restaurants.

WRONG: Make no effort to see that they are quiet and well-behaved and that they stay at the table all during the meal.

RIGHT: Make sure that your children do not annoy the other diners or those who serve them. They won't if you insist on their having quiet, good manners.

Nov. 10, 11 Plans And Vets' Pay Head 452 Agenda

An outline of plans proposed for November 10 and 11 and a decision to support the Canadian Legion's earnest appeal to the Government for an increase in war veterans' allowances and pensions, were the main items on the agenda of the ex-servicewomen's branch of the Legion's first monthly meeting of the '51-'52 season on Monday.

Miss B. Waters, who represented branch 452 at the poppy fund meeting, gave a brief account of the plans drawn up for the annual tag day, Saturday, November 10, and the service at the cenotaph on Sunday, November 11.

Mrs. P. Vaisey reported on the arrangements made for the branch's first Remembrance Day dinner to be held in the green room of the YWCA, November 10, with the Legion's padre, the Rev. Walter Gilling, as guest speaker.

Following the reading of the Legion circular, "Pensions and War Veterans' Allowance Information," it was unanimously decided to add branch 452's support to that of Legion branches from coast to coast, in an endeavor to secure an increase in veterans' disability pensions and allowances more in keeping with the rising cost of living.

President Irma Allen outlined plans that were in the making for a trip to Trenton on the occasion of the royal visit, October 5. Many members signified their intention of attending.

Before the reading of reports by the various committees, the president extended a most sincere welcome to Mrs. Alice Morin, who had been very ill during the summer months.

Miss Edna Rule reported on work done during the summer months; knitting and collecting articles for the various Christmas boxes sent each year to the children in orphanages at home and in England.

Following the business meeting, Miss Grace Simpson delighted members with her illustrated talk on a recent trip to Mexico. Lunch was served by the refreshment committee.

YWCA Directors Hear Reports On All Activities

YWCA board of directors met Monday afternoon in the blue room, Mrs. Harold Rehill presided in the absence of Mrs. T. J. Carley, president. Mrs. J. Cook gave the devotional.

The resignation of Mrs. Ben Myers from the board was accepted. Mrs. Myers is moving to Toronto. Mrs. Doug. McGregor gave a report on membership and the plans being made for new activities in the association that will be of interest to a wide section of the community. Mrs. Clare Collins reported on the very successful camp directed by Mrs. Irene Campbell.

Mrs. W. G. Ovens reported on fall activities in the gym and ballet classes. A gym rally is being held Thursday night for young women in the city and will act as an introduction to the gym and the many facilities available to young people. A junior gym rally will be held Saturday morning and a basketball reunion Friday night. Movies of the gym pageant will be shown at the rallies.

Miss Phyllis Alexander, swimming instructor, was introduced. Various swim classes were described and a report given on special classes being given for young people who have suffered from polio.

Oil painting classes, current events, Supper Club, a Citizen forum study group, puppet classes Drama Club for seniors and juniors were included in the program report presented by Mrs. C. K. Hurst. An "Open House" to all these activities will be presented by the Members' Council, Wednesday evening, October 3rd.

Of special interest was the plan discussed for a nursery school for the south section of the city.

Street Names Are Missing Travel Difficult In Halifax

By JEAN E. STENTON,
Examiner Telegraph Editor.

HALIFAX, Sept. 26 — Visitors to Halifax are apparently expected to be mind readers, for strange to relate, the city has hidden, with the greatest care, the names of nearly all streets. A pedestrian has a slight advantage over a driver—he can bend down over a corner of the sidewalk and perhaps be fortunate enough to decipher the name in the cement. Not so the poor driver. There are no names on the sides of buildings or in prominent positions. Not only does this occur in the city, but out in the villages. You can drive through hamlet after hamlet, and unless you pass a railway station, you haven't the faintest idea where you are.

Either the Maritimes get a dour enjoyment out of watching a visitor struggle or they are not too fond of strangers and want to discourage them.

Representatives from 24 cities across Canada are attending the Canadian Women's Press Club conference. The club has 440 active members. Dr. A. Stanley Walker, president of King's College was guest speaker at a dinner given the newspaperwomen by the Halifax Herald. He stressed that one of the greatest problems in the world today is lack of analytical thinkers. Dr. Walker declared too many people are content to take a short cut and allow the state or others to do their thinking for them. With his facility for making history live, Dr. Walker recieved the effect of analytical thinkers or lack of them upon Greek history, through the Roman era, the Middle Ages, the industrial revolution, and the modern age.

One of the features of this dinner was the presentation to each writer of a highly polished wooden napkin ring from the New Brunswick Government and a piece of Nova Scotian pottery.

Following their opening business session Tuesday when the reports were read the Press Club were guests of the two radio stations for luncheon. Guest speaker was Finlay Macdonald, station director of CJCH. He discussed the Massey Commission report, and scathingly denounced what he considered the prejudiced opinions of the writers of the report.

Author Kenneth Haig of Winnipeg was chairman for Wednesday's sessions when Byrne Hope Saunders discussed women in the news. A round table discussion was held with the women's editor taken by Margaret Cragg of the Toronto Globe and Mail, the club editor by Winnifred Lee of the Vancouver Daily Province, the news dash by Dorothy Grant of the Winnipeg Free Press, and the columnist by Helen Murphy of the Montreal Herald.

Other social events included afternoon tea as guests of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railroads and a dinner given by the city of Halifax, at which the author, Dr. Will R. Bird, was guest speaker.

Mary Moore, who writes the cooking column for the Examiner, was hostess at a breakfast party on Wednesday for a number of the newspaperwomen.

Hodgin-Perks

In Knox United Church Saturday the Rev. H. G. Douglas performed the marriage of Ethel Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Perks, to John Hodgin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hodgin, all of Peterborough.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a dress of powder blue pebble crepe and a headdress of orange blossoms, previously worn by her mother, held her shoulder veil of white net. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Miss Dorothy Bastien, bridesmaid, was dressed in navy taffeta and her shoulder veil was caught with yellow flowers. She carried white gladioli with red roses. Flower girl Patsy Dupuis, niece of the bride, wore a dress of fuschia taffeta and a white shoulder veil caught with fusehia flowers. Her nosegay was of pink carnations.

Mr. John Perks attended the groom and ushers were Patrick Dupuis and Vincent Ross.

The reception was held at the bride's home, 39 George St., her mother receiving in a rose crepe dress with navy hat and red rose corsage. The groom's mother, assisting, was wearing black figured jersey with brown accessories and corsage of pink roses. In the evening there was a shower of gifts and dancing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Dupuis, RR 4 Peterborough.

Leaving to spend a honeymoon at Kearney, Ontario, the bride wore a flowered jersey, green coat and black accessories.

The couple will live in Peterborough.

Closing Tea On Field Day

Afternoon tea was served at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club Tuesday to mark the end of the weekly field days this year. Golfers had played the course during the morning, then enjoyed a buffet luncheon, and in the afternoon took part in competitions. Social members attending had an afternoon of bridge. Kawartha Club president Mrs. J. F. Reed and Mrs. Adam Sands and Mrs. O. M. Steer of that club were guests.

The tea arrangements were made by retiring president Mrs. C. G. Graham and past president Mrs. R. H. Turner.

Presentation of trophies and prizes for the day and the annual meeting took place after tea.

The steward offered a draw prize for the ladies which was won by Mrs. Lawrence. Four golf balls were given by the instructor as consolation prizes to non-prize winners.

Should Girl Tell Fiance Of Her Past Mistakes?

DEAR MISS DIX: About a ear ago I thought I was in love ith a not-too-nice young man. fy moral conduct with him, I am fraid, was not what it should ave been. Since then I have eally fallen in love with a much icer man. We intend to be mar- ied but I have never told him f my former affair. I have never told anyone, and am trying to erase its memory from my life. I am sure my fiance would never by guilty of a similar offense, and I know my confession would not terfere with his marriage inten- ons. However, I am afraid to atter his illusions about me. hat can I do?

GERTRUDE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Keep your secret to ourself! The only good your con- ession will do is to give you a oral purging and make you feel ery self-righteous.

e'll Have Permanent Doubts

The young man, on the other nd, will always have the nowledge of your wrong-doing ith him and it is bound not only shatter his illusions about you, t to leave a permanent doubt in his mind about your future trustworthiness. No matter how much he may claim this is not so, once the seed for such thoughts is sown, nothing can eradicate it.

If you are sincerely sorry for your past conduct, and convinced that it was a mistake that will not happen again, you should be able to take up your marital obligations as a good wife.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: About six months ago my sister was writing to a boy who doesn't have a very good reputation. When my parents found out, they didn't approve of him at all. When they see us talking to this boy, or to his friends, they call us in the house and give us a lecture. We think he is a nice boy, but they won't believe us. How can we convince them we are right?

TRUDY.

ANSWER: From your letter, I assume that you are of a very tender age, Trudy, and cannot be the judge of character you believe you are. Your parents are much more qualified to estimate the calibre of this—or any other—friend than you. Abide by their judgment!

Very occasionally, it is true, parents make a harsh decision on the reputation of their youngsters' playmates, but in the vast majority of cases there is a definite reason for them to demand that you avoid some companions. The damage than can be done to your own reputation by associating with boys or girls of questionable repute can be irreparable and a girl can suffer no greater loss than that of her character.

Choose your friends carefully: be proud to bring them home to meet your parents. Conscientious parents, fully aware of the problems confronting teen-agers, should exercise every precaution in the guidance of their young, and careful supervision of their children's associates is a most important part of their job. So, even though you feel they are unjust at times, and their restrictions irk you, remember it is your future that is at stake. Don't gamble with it!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: When my husband and I plan to go for a ride on Sunday, visit the park etc., we always include my parents. Now my husband is starting to rebel. He says he would like to spend some Sundays with just his wife and children. Then, too, he feels we ahe neglecting his parents because there is not enough room for all. I am inclined to agree with my husband, but if we don't take my parents on each trip they complain of being lonesome. They make me feel so guilty.

S.L.

ANSWER: Though you are to be highly commended for the great consideration shown your parents, your husband is entirely right. He is entitled to some Sundays alone with his own family. Breaking a long-established custom is always hard, but it must be done. Your parents are a little selfish to monopolize all your husband's free time like this, and since they have each other, surely they can't be too lonely.

Plan a special excursion next Sunday. Tell your parents that on this occasion your husband prefers to have just you and the youngsters in the car, and you will at least have an entering wedge in breaking tradition. If your mother is at all an understanding person, tell her frankly that your husband is tired by Sunday, and would like a smaller group in the car. A satisfactory compromise might be reached by alternating Sundays, one with your family, one alone, with a third possibly devoted to his family.

Women's Council Report Work In Citizenship

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP).—Widespread work by local committees in furthering good citizenship were reported today to the National Council of Women's 58th annual meeting.

The report was prepared by Mrs. Eunice B. Wishart, alderman from Port Arthur, Ont., who is chairman of the council's citizenship committee.

Many councils reported extensive work among new Canadians. Some committees attend ceremonies where citizenship is granted.

Portage la Prairie, Man., helps new Canadians in their homes and those in hospital. English classes are well attended.

Moose Jaw give individual help to new Canadian girls. Medicine Hat council works with the Junior Chamber of Commerce there to make citizens "more citizenship-conscious."

In Halifax citizenship is taught to children in the schools. New Glasgow, N.S., stresses the spiritual significance of good citizenship. Truro, N.S., teaches English and good citizenship and provides social welcome and entertainment. The Truro city council awards $25 annually to a Grade 12 student for citizenship.

The Truro Local Council of the NCW reported it is strongly opposed to deletion of "Dominion" from Dominion of Canada, to the renaming of Dominion Day, to the changing of the National Anthem and the flag and to the appointment of a Canadian as Governor-General, considering all would tend to weaken the links with Great Britain.

Montreal sponsors a popular series of lectures on aspects of Canadian democracy and through canvasses urges women to use their franchise in municipal elections.

Kingston, Ont., stresses the need of higher citizenship standards. Windsor, Ont., supported a clean-up of alleged gambling and vice spots.

Port Arthur, Ont., advocated a blending of the best customs and traditions of all nationalities represented in Canada into "one grand Canadian culture."

Several local councils reported they were successful in sponsoring women candidates for municipal office.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Barbecued Veal Roast On Special-Purpose Menu

Oven Dinner

A menu that could be baked in the electric roaster oven which is portable, was ideal to carry with us when we were calling on some friends in a distant city. With luck we hoped they would join us for dinner outside. They did and the dinner was so good you will want to try it in your stove oven at home. It was not expensive I hasten to add.

Barbecued Veal Roast (see notes)
Steamed Rice
Scalloped Cabbage and Cauliflower
Dessert Pears
Chocolate Cake with Chocolate Walnut Frosting
Coffee and Milk

Directions

The reason I bought veal was because I was hungry for it. None of it is cheap, but this cut—the rolled boned shoulder—was comparatively reasonable, since I wanted something that would slice like a roast.

Barbecued Veal Roast

Four lbs. rolled shoulder of veal, ½ to ¾ cup catsup, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1½ teaspoons dry mustard, shake of cayenne. Rub the other surfaces of the roast with salt and pepper. Put in roasting pan. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over the roast. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 3 hours, basting frequently. Pour the liquid in pan over meat when it is served on the platter, and spoon some of this liquid over each slice of meat and on the steamed rice when serving.

Steamed Rice (cooked in oven)

In a square ovenware dish place 1 cup well-washed brown or long grain white rice. Add 2½ cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt. Stir. Bake 1½ hours during last half of baking time for the veal.

Scalloped Cabbage and Cauliflower

This is new and I hope you like the cabbage-y vegetables as well as our family. Shred enough cabbage to fill 2½ cups well-packed on coarsest shredder. Put this in buttered baking dish. Now with your long sharp knife begin cutting a small cauliflower, across the top so that the flowerets are cut into pieces about the size of the shredded cabbage — not larger than ¾-inch wide and ⅛ inch thick. You must have a sharp knife and patience to do this. Mix 2½ or 3 cups of shredded cauliflower down into the shredded cabbage. Add 2 cups thin white sauce made by melting 4 tablespoons butter or margarine and stirring in 2½ tablespoons flour, and when blended, stir in 2 cups whole milk and 1 teaspoon salt. Stir until thickened. Sprinkle cheese or buttered crumbs over top of mixture, cover tightly and bake 1 hour during the last hour the veal roast is in the oven.

The chocolate cake we had was baked in the roaster oven but much earlier in the day. You can bake this same cake in your stove oven.

New Chocolate Cake

Sift together 1¾ cups sifted cake flour, 1½ cups sugar, ¾ teaspoon soda, ¾ teaspoon salt; add ½ cup soft shortening and ½ cup buttermilk (there is another ½ cup buttermilk to add, too) and now beat for 2 minutes either by hand or electric beater turned on low; add another ½ cup butter milk and 2 eggs, and 2 squares melted chocolate; beat hard for 2 minutes. Bake in paper-lined greased oblong shallow pan, at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes. Frost with chocolate butter frosting and sprinkle with chopped walnuts.

Appetite Of US For Can. Meat Boosts Prices

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP).—A report to the National Council of Women today attributed increases in meat prices to the "almost insatiable desire" of the United States for Canadian meat, and the apparent willingness of Canadians to buy meat "at almost any price."

The report was prepared by Mrs. W. R. Lang of Toronto, liaison officer between the council and the Canadian Association of Consumers.

The report said provincial organizations of the council are continuing the fight for the consumer "in the matter of ever-rising prices for milk, meat and bread, though not always with success."

The Manitoba and Ontario provincial association won the right to have a consumer representative on their milk boards. In addition Manitoba obtained the right to have full particulars of all facts obtained by the board released to the Canadian Association of Consumers.

The report noted distributors' claims that cost of door-to-door delivery is largely responsible for higher prices of milk, and suggested it is only reasonable to ask for a greater differential between delivered and cash-and-carry prices.

A switch to skim milk and powdered skim milk was noted. Unfortunately, said Mrs. Lang's report, increased demand for these products had brought a rise in their prices, working a hardship on lower income groups and large families.

Suggested Remedies

The high cost of living had brought about a demand for re-institution of all-over price control, said the report, while practically the only possible permanent ways of curing the situation were to produce more goods or to demand fewer goods. At the moment the people of Canada are doing neither, said Mrs. Lang.

She suggested it might be necessary, in view of the priority of labor for defence projects, for labor to consent temporarily to working slightly longer hours. This would again result in making more money available to demand more goods. Thus it might be necessary to pay the extra wages in some form of deferred purchasing power which would act as a cushion against a possible future deflation.

Mrs. Lang suggested "each of us realize our responsibility to check the spending spree which is the vogue of the moment."

New Baby Tablet Fills Long Felt Need

TORONTO—In these days of advancement with so many improvements in fashion, style, and manufacture it is difficult to keep abreast of them; but there is one improvement recently developed by a leading pharmaceutical manufacturer that is proving a real boon to mothers.

It is an Acetylsalicylic Acid (A.S.A.) tablet made especially in Baby Dose Size, exactly ¼ adult tablet, orange flavored and sweetened, saving lots of time, fuss and bother. No longer is it necessary to cut or divide Adult tablets for baby use. It eliminates guesswork and assures accuracy.

Acetylsalicylic Acid (A.S.A.) is one of the most widely used pain relief medicines, and this new baby size tablet is called Baby's Own Espirets. It's made by the makers of Baby's Own Tablets, and you can get it at your neighborhood drug store. Be sure to ask for Baby's Own Espirets.

Trashy Books Cause Of Crime

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP).—The National Council of Women was told today that a sharp increase in the number of "highly dramatic crimes" in recent years is largely attributable to "the sad plight of the modern, so-called literature."

Mrs. C. L. Pearson of Toronto, in her report as chairman of the councils committee on cinema and printed matter, said such crimes usually follow "one or the other of the threadbare patterns of trashy books."

Unless there is greater care in encouraging good books and discouraging the bad, "we shall be faced with an impossible situation."

"One rapid glance at the cheap bookstalls of any modern city reveals an appalling number of filthy magazines, morbid picture and comic books and smutty novels. These are quite capable of directing their victims into paths of crime and vice."

Reports from local committees indicated active work in promoting the use of library facilities, enlisting the co-operation of theatre managers, endeavoring to have undesirable films and literature eliminated, and encouraging the showing of good films.

Reporting for the committee on moral standards, Mrs. A. W. Martin of Burwash, Ont., told of the work of local committees acting on circulars dealing with such subjects as alcoholism, gambling, beauty contests, the unmarried mother and the Christian Sunday.

Local Efforts

A report from Victoria severely criticized lurid comics while commending teachers who endeavored to supplant these with good reading material from the public library. The Victoria committee had also insisted strongly that hoodlumism be curbed at Hallowe'en.

In Montreal, the local committee launched a crusade for improved jail conditions. A resolution by this committee, seeking further implementation of the Archambault report on penal reform, was accompanied by a similar resolution from the Winnipeg local council and after obtaining approval of the national council was sent on to the Prime Minister.

The report also showed that the local committee in Kingston, Ont., had made plans for efforts on behalf of unmarried mothers and alcohilics, as well as in curbing gambling. Intensive work had been done in police court and the federal penitentiary there. Peterborough reported an a year-round plan for healthful recreation.

HAMILTON HOME

The first home in the City of Hamilton was built by Robert Land, a United Empire Loyalist, in 1791.

6—In Memoriam

PANTER—In loving memory of Mrs. Alice Panter, who passed away Sept. 26, 1948.
Upright and just in all her ways,
Faithful and true to the end of her days,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by son Fred, and daughter-in-law Elsie.

PANTER—In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Alice Panter, who passed away September 26, 1948.
Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
—Ever remembered by daughter Hazel and family.

DIVING TOWER AND BOARD
Used only 2 days by professional divers at a small exhibition. Tower is 9' to top of board, built very, very strong and heavy. Has hand rail on both sides, ladders, complete with 6 cable guy wires and 6 very large turnbuckles and metal bars for lag screws and expansion shields. Board is 16' long, 18" wide tapered from 3" to 1¼", made of elm, bolted and battened, covered with coco matting. Has rubber shock cord to hold board and 2" pipe hinge pin. Cost over $500 to build and used 2 afternoon by 3 divers only. Will sell for best offer subject to reserve bid, F.O.B. Write Box 752, Examiner.

WATER SKI JUMP
Regulation size, 24' 6" long by 8' wide, phenolic bonded marine deck, heavy B.C. cedar, 3" x 10" sills, 8 steel barrels. Large worm for raising and lowering deck from 4' to 7'. This jump is probably the best one in Canada of this size. It has 6" steel channel all around welded and bolted corners, outside heavy large anchor eyes on all sides. Complete with 2 heavy anchor chains, 90' lone each. Chain alone cost $169.00. This jump cost well over $2,000.00 and could not be duplicated for $3,000.00 in perfect condition. There is no jump anywhere built so strongly. The two floating buoys for markers cost $38.00 each. Also, Water Ski Starting and Landing Dock which floats on six barrels, hinged for transporting very strong, has slanted end for skier to ride up on, cost $300.00 to build. Ski Jump Sights—3 sights on folding board in special case which makes a large table, complete with legs, cost $60.00 to build. All of above to be sold together. Make us your best cash offer. F.O.B. Obituary

MRS. BENJAMIN BUCHANAN

WARKWORTH, Sept. 26 (ENS). —The funeral for Mrs. Benjamin Buchanan, 70, Warkworth, who died Sunday, was held Tuesday at her late home.

The Rev. H. G. Lester of St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth, conducted the service.

Mrs. Buchanan, the former Clara May Curtis, was born in the Warkworth district, daughter of the late Ransome Curtis and Elizabeth Townsend, and has lived there all her life.

A former school teacher and member of St. Paul's United Church, she was active in women's work in the church while health permitted.

She leaves her husband, Benjamin Buchanan; three sons: Kemp of England, Jack of Belleville and Allan of Warkworth; three sisters: Mrs. Minnie Langford of Toronto, Mrs. Wesley Van Blaricomb (Lulu) of Picton, Mrs. Louis Glover (Lillian) of Campbellford; one brother, C. H. Curtis of Warkworth, and five grandchildren.

Pallbearers were: A. M. Smale, J. H. Buttars, William Mowat, William Bowen, Grant Allen, W. B. Baker. Flower-bearers were: C. O. Dudley, D. H. Evans, Ivan Denike, Arthur McKee, Roy McNally, Oscar Phillips, Gerald Greenly, Clarence Boyce.

Burial was in Warkworth Cemetery with funeral arrangements by the Bennett funeral home, Hastings.

MRS. WILLIAM BATTEN

After a short illness Mrs. William Batten, the former Maria M. (Ida) Grant, died Tuesday in hospital after a short illness. For the last four years Mrs. Batten lived at the home of her niece, Mrs. Lyle Quackenbush, RR 2, Lakefield. She was in her 82nd year.

Mrs. Batten resided most of her married life in Dummer township where her late husband was a farmer. Then she moved to Blackstock and for the last four years she lived at her niece's home in Dummer.

Mrs. Quackenbush is her nearest relative. Her husband William died in 1941. They had no children.

Mrs. Batten was a member of Hall's Glen United Church and she was a member of the Orange Order, Warsaw.

The funeral will be at the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield, 2 p.m. Thursday, the Rev. Arnold Mathews of George Street United Church officiating. Burial will be in Warsaw cemetery.

195 Boys, Girls Take Part In Field Meet

Ten teams, comprising 195 boys and girls, took part Tuesday in the Queen Alexandra school tabloid sports meet held on the school grounds.

The school pupils were divided into four basic school groups: junior girls, Grades 4 and 5 two teams; junior boys, Grades 4 and 5, two teams; senior girls, Grades 6, 7 and 8, three teams; senior boys, Grades 6, 7 and 8, three teams.

Teams competed against teams rather than individual against individual, the keynote of the meet, team co-operation and competition. The teams rotated from event to event on five field stations.

The double standard method of scoring points was used, a competitor reaching "A" standard receiving three points for his team and reaching "B" standard two points. All who tried and failed received one point.

The meet was climaxed by a shuttle relay race and an over and under relay race, eight runners chosen by the team captains.

The officials were: (1) underhand softball pitching for accuracy, Miss J. M. Arnold; (2) volleyball serve, Miss B. Hart; (3) soccer kick for accuracy, D. S. Lawless; (4) standing broad jump R. K. McKee; (5) running broad jump, N. J. Gainer.

Peterborough Normal School students who assisted were: W. Hayes, B. Wright, J. McFadden, J. Lynch, G. Stevenson, D. Paul, M. McMartin, A. LaJoie and D. Smith.

The meet concluded with individual events for the contestants who excelled in the softball pitch, standing and running broad jumps, the running high jump and the running races. The top athletes in the five events, 60 boys and girls took part, could earn a possible 15 points.

The champions were:

Junior girl—Nancy Norris; second, Rosiland Ross; third, Catherine Nott and Vickie Weir.

Junior boy—Robert Carter; second, Calvin Nicholls and Gordon Hiscox; third, Warren Dunfield and Gale Olmstead.

Intermediate girl — Sharon Shaw; second Clara Hayward; third, Susan Simmers.

The funeral was at the Hendren funeral home with the Rev. W. H. Tonge, Lakefield United Church, officiating. Burial was in Ray's cemetery.

Frank C. Paterson Reports On West Canada's Wealth

Western Canada has produced a great deal of new wealth this year, Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative in this county, remarked today as he looked back over his holiday travel to the Pacific Coast, and up and down it.

"They have an abundance of fruit in British Columbia, and of that excess they will not harvest and market great quantities of apples and plums. A lot of the famous apples of the Okanagan Valley will not be picked. It is a problem of distribution, and the costs of picking, packaging and generally getting the fruit to market.

"The only drab spot on the economic map of the west this year was a most unusual drought in British Columbia. However, we have a great diversity of resources in this country.

"Edmonton is the centre of the new oil wealth of the west, and it is the aerial crossroads of all that country to the north, and also south of the U. S. border.

"I thing there are more planes flying in and out of Edmonton every day, than out of any other place in Canada. Much of that activity leads up through the Peace River country all the way to the Yukon and Alaska.

"It is the centre of a rich agricultural district, and with the new volume of oil that city is really booming.

Beef At 32c

"Two hundred miles away, and a milder city, Calgary is prosperous. I was down to the stockyards to see the cattle auction. They will sell them singly or in carload lots. I met four Ontario men who had already bought three cars of freeders cattle, most of it at 32c.

"Both Calgary and Edmonton are heated by natural gas. They have an abundant supply of it, estimated as sufficient for many years.

"After you go through the mountains, leaving the prairies behind, you are in another world of logging, fruit growing, fishing, canning, lumbering and considerable mining.

"They have started on that big aluminum town project up the coast, and from all accounts they will develop there a city of up to 50,000 people.

Need Irrigation

"Even in the Okanagan country they depend on irrigation for water supply. I think that eventually we'll have more of that practice here in the east."

Mr. Paterson recommended a trip to the west not only to see and appreciate the vastness of Canada, but also to get acquainted with those Canadians west of the Great Lakes.

One of the types is the rancher of the foothills, another the grain farmer of the prairies, the fruit farmers beyond the mountain, the farmers in the Fraser Valley.

Mr. Paterson was accompanied by Mrs. Paterson. They visited their daughter at Chiliwack, B.C., and also Mr. and Mrs. Vern Stanley-Jones, formerly of Otonabee.

Driver Blameless In Death Of Child

KITCHENER, Sept. 26 (CP)—No blame was attached by a coroner's jury last night in the death of Patsy Hachbart, 3, of Heidelberg, who died of injuries received when struck by a car in the village on Sept. 12. Evidence showed the girl darted into the path of a car driven by Lorne R. Eadie, of Toronto.

Chief Export Of Maritimes Appears Bankers

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

One of the chief products of the Maritime Province is bankers.

This was demonstrated yesterday at the official opening in Toronto of the Bank of Nova Scotia's new 25-storey executive office building.

For, despite the fact that the bank long ago spread over the rest of Canada, all the permanent officials on the ceremonial platform were Maritimers by birth.

They were:

H. D. Burns, chairman of the board, born at Digby, NS, and a graduate of Moncton, NB, and Kentville, NS, branches.

H. L. Enman, president, born at Moncton, and a graduate of Moncton and Saint John, NB, branches.

C. Sydney Frost, vice-president and general manager, born at Argyle, NS, and a graduate of Yarmouth, NS, and Fogo, Nfld., branches.

Two other vice-presidents, not of the bank's permanent staff, split between Nova Scotia and Ontario. They were:

Hon. F. B. McCurdy, Halifax financier and former Canadian Minister of Public Works, born at Clifton, NS; and James Y. Murdoch, president of Noranda Mines, Ltd., born in Toronto.

Others From NS

Other Nova Scotians on the platform were:

Hon. J. A. D. McCurdy, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, native of Baddeck, who made there in 1909 the first airplane flight in the British Empire; and Premier Angus L. Macdonald, native of Dunvegan, and former Minister of National Defence for Naval Services.

Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, qualified for at least honorary membership, as a native of "Auld" Scotia, and a member of the bank staff from 1916 to 1935.

Into this company, the following "outsiders," in addition to Mr. Murdoch, found their way:

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, born Lennoxville, Que.; Premier Leslie Frost, of Ontario, born Orillia, Ont.; Mayor Hiram McCallum, of Toronto, born East Caledon, Ont.; Graham F. Towers, Governor, the Bank of Canada, born Montreal; A. S. Mathers, born Aberfoyle, Ont., and Brig. Eric W. Haldenby, born Toronto, the architects of the building.

Though not on the platform, two more Maritimers are found among the assistant general managers, who are (with their birthplaces):

E. S. Crawford and Reid Smith, both Saint John; D. A. Y. Merrick, Merrickville, Ont.; G. F. Hinchcliffe, Waterloo, Ont.; R. L. Dales, Dumbarton, Ont. F. J. Findlay, the bank's secretary, was born in London, England.

The bank itself, of course, was founded in 1832 in Halifax, where its head office still is, though its executive office was moved to Toronto in 1900 as the result of Canadian expansion westward.

STRIKE IS OVER—Imperial Tobacco Company workers shoulder Leopold Barrette, president of Montreal Local 234 of the Tobacco Workers' International Union, in celebration of the end of their six-week strike. More than 3,700 workers in Montreal, Granby, Que., and Hamilton were involved in the walk-out for higher wages and shorter hours.

Police Indict Best Burglar

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—Two men, one of whom boasted he was the "best burglar in North America," were indicted yesterday in the daring daylight theft of $64,000 in jewellery from a showcase in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel's crowded lobby.

Joseph Ireland, 31, Vancouver-born admitted drug addict, who bragged of his prowess as a burglar, was accused of three counts of grand larceny, one of them involving the week-old Waldorf theft. The other counts related to smaller gem robberies.

Joseph Lovello, 35, accus fence and alleged supplier of narcotics for Ireland, was named in an indictment containing three counts of criminally receiving the stolen goods and on three more counts of witholding them.

Ireland, police said, admitted taking the jewels from their display case after fashioning a key to fit it.

Both men were to be arraigned today.

Embarrassed PM Loses Red Vote

CANBERRA, Sept. 26. (AP) — Embarrassed by the number of negative votes in last Saturday's referendum on communism, the government of Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies meets parliament tomorrow in a tense atmosphere.
